TURKS BACK IN EUROPE AT ALLIED INVITATION

Fear of Another Bloody War Brings Events to Focus and Message is Sent to Leader

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Sept. 23.—The return of Turkey to Europe was assured tonight when Great Britain, France and Italy, at the final session of the Allied conference, unanimously agreed to concede all the Nationalist peace terms.

The Turkish claims to Eastern Thrace to the Maritza River, and including the ancient Turkish capital of Adrianople, were approved as peace terms that can be supported by France, Great Britain and Italy in a joint invitation sent to Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Nationalist leader, to a peace conference to be held at Venice at the earliest possible date.

The Kemalists must agree in return not to enter the present neutral zone along the straits, nor make any crossing elsewhere, and must accept complete freedom of the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosporus, preferably under the League of Nations.

INVITATION CABLED

The invitation, which was cabled tonight by M. Poincare to Kemal in personality, urges an immediate meeting of the Allies and Turkish and Greek generals at Mudania to formulate terms of an armistice pending the conference. It is regarded as virtually certain that Kemal will accept the conditions. A reply is expected from him in a day or two.

In addition to other concessions, Turkey is promised the support of the three Allies for admission to the League of Nations, and also withdrawal of the Allied troops from Constantinople as soon as peace becomes effective.

The Allied decision came as a surprise, for as late as noon British officials declared that Great Britain would not approve any of the Turkish claims in advance of the peace conference. The change in policy came in the afternoon after many messages between Lord Curzon and Premier Lloyd George, and several long telephone conversations which delayed the final session from 2 p.m.

Thrust Against Constantinople is New Threat

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ROME, Sept. 23.—A Kemalist insurrection is being organized in Thrace, according to the Messagero, to attack the Allies in Constantinople in the rear, while the Kemalist army from Asia Minor is advancing, thus taking the Allies between two fires.

Fears are expressed, says the newspaper, that Smyrna's fate will also be Constantinople's.

INJUNCTION GRANTED

Strikers Sustain Terrific Blow

Daugherty's Every Request Granted by Federal Judge in Decision

Use of Union Funds, Picketing, Interference, Visiting Workers Prohibited

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—In one of the most drastic and sweeping decisions ever handed down by a Federal Court in the history of the United States, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today granted a preliminary injunction restraining officials of the federated shopcrafts from doing any acts, lawful or otherwise, which would tend to promote the obstruction of interstate commerce.

The decision grants every request made by Atty.-Gen. Harry M. Daugherty and step by step nullifies each of the contentions made by the counsel for the defendants.

The injunction order restricts the activities of 270 officers and 400,000 members of the six shopcrafts belonging to the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor.

Attorneys for the defendants were given until 10 a.m. Monday morning to study the decision and prepare to argue the text of the injunction order, the draft of which was presented by Atty.-Gen. Daugherty Thursday.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Treachery under the guise of Progressive Republicanism dominated the organization meeting of the Republican State Central Committee in the Palace Hotel here today. JAIL RAID FOR BANDIT SUCCEEDS

Twelve Armed Men Take Noted Gunman from Cell to Freedom

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Sept. 23.—Twelve armed men raided the Ramsey County Jail tonight, overpowered two jailers, beating and kicking them until they unlocked four barred doors, and released John C. Ryan, leader of the notorious shotgun bandit gang, who hobbled downstairs on crutches and raced to freedom in a touring car.

Two men wearing Federal officers' badges entered the jailer's office with two other men who they declared were prisoners. The two Federal agents and their "prisoners" were admitted to the jail. They drew guns, brought in eight more confederates, seized the keys to all jail cells and forced the jailers into the cells.

A general jail delivery was frustrated because the raiders could not find keys to a main room where sixty prisoners were detained. The gunmen made a desperate attempt to free Eddie Green, one of Ryan's lieutenants but made no effort to reach Roy Freeman, another member of the gang, who lost favor with his pals because he permitted himself to be captured without a struggle in the trap at the Park Theater, July 16, when Ryan and another gunman named O'Laughlin were wounded and the gang smashed.

The two jailers, bleeding and torn, who were locked up as the gunmen fled, managed to release themselves and gave the alarm by sending in a fire alarm.

Firemen were unable to unlock the doors, but spread a general alarm when the jailers called to them from a window to tell what had happened.

EIGHT ARMY MEN KILLED IN TWO AIR ACCIDENTS

Six Occupants of Giant Bombing Plane Lose Lives at Mineola, and Two at Baltimore

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MINEOLA (N. Y.) Sept. 23.—Six occupants of a Martin bombing plane were killed tonight at Mitchell Field when the machine fell in a nose dive following war maneuvers for the instruction of reserve and Regular Army officers.

The plane, piloted by First Lieut. Raymond E. Davis, U.S.A., burst into flames on striking the ground. It was a twin-motor bomber, the heaviest machine at the field, and had participated in an aerial attack on theoretical fortifications.

"FLYING CIRCUS"

After the war maneuvers, and the judges had decided the raiders had won, the airmen engaged in a "flying circus" illuminated by huge searchlights and cheered by thousands of persons who had gathered from all parts of Long Island and New York City to watch the military spectacle.

After the circus, a number of the aviators took up passengers, selected principally from among the 300 reserve officers from the second corps area, for whose benefit the mimic warfare had been waged.

All of those who died with Lieut. Davis were enlisted men. They were: First Sergt. Thomas Benfield, Corp. David H. E. Stiven and Privates Edward H. Kane, Henry Ray Nichols and Irving M. Whitney, all stationed at Mitchell Field.

Lieut. Davis's home was in Danville, Ill. He entered the Army air service on July 21, 1917, and after the war was stationed at Langley Field, Hampton, Va.

A report of the accident, as given out several hours later by the adjutant's office at the field, said that the plane had been inspected shortly before leaving the field, and that the cause of the fatal accident "probably never would be known."

MARINES KILLED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23.—Before a crowd of 10,000 persons, Lieut. Herbert V. Hansen and John M. Patton, Jr., of the Quantico aviation station, Marine Corps, today plunged to death in an airplane at Logan field, Dundalk.

The accident came a few minutes before the schedule conclusion of a balloon sniping contest, which brought to a close the largest exhibition of aircraft ever held in Maryland.

The victims of the crash had been taken off only about two minutes earlier, had brought down one balloon and were starting to circle for another.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

The cause of the accident probably never will be known. Most of the flyers attributed it to a stalled engine. The machine was about 100 feet in the air, but fell with terrific speed.

Both men had seen war service in the Marine Corps. Lieut. Patton, who was 30 years old, lived at Pasadena. Lieut. Hansen's home was at Church's Ferry, N. D. He was 28 years old.

The contest in which the aviators were engaged was the last event of the program given in connection with the third district aeronautical convention, which opened in Baltimore Friday.

TWO BLAMED FOR WRECK

Board Declares Engineer and Conductor of No. 38 Responsible for Espee Crash

Responsibility for the head-on crash between the Shore Line Limited No. 78 and No. 38, Southern Pacific passenger trains, which cost the lives of an engineer and a fireman Friday night at Montalvo, near Ventura, was found to rest equally between Engineer F. H. Barto and Conductor Simmons, both of train No. 38, by the investigation of a board of inquiry under the direction of Assistant General Manager T. H. Williams late yesterday.

The board of inquiry, composed of several witnesses to the wreck, a few passengers, four disinterested business men of Montalvo, and a part of the crews from both trains, convened at 10 a.m. yesterday at Montalvo.

After an all-day's investigation during which time all of the causes leading up to the wreck were reviewed, the placing of the blame for the accident on the engineer and conductor, was announced late last night by Southern Pacific officials here.

TWO ARE SUSPENDED

Engineer Barto and Conductor Simmons were temporarily suspended, pending further investigation, according to word at the local offices.

Engineer Barto was held responsible for the accident because

HOW WILHELM SAYS SEEDS OF CONFLICT WERE SOWN

In First Chapter of His Memoirs, Former Emperor Reveals Secret of Bismarck's Overthrow

[Because of their historical interest and because they throw new light upon the secret diplomacy preceding the World War, The Times will publish, beginning today, the Memoirs of the former Emperor of Germany. These Memoirs are being given simultaneous publication in about fifty of the leading newspapers of America and Europe. Realizing that, through a variety of specious excuses, the ex-Kaiser will attempt in his book to make others than himself appear responsible for the World War, The Times has arranged to accompany each installment of the Memoirs with an analysis thereof by a competent expert. Where the Kaiser departs from the facts, or suppresses or colors them to make out a better case for himself, such an effort will be promptly exposed. In point of fact, the Kaiser convicts himself out of his own mouth of having directly brought about the great conflict. Following the Memoirs, The Times will publish the answer thereto on behalf of the Allies by Viviani, the great war premier of France.—Ed.]

Installment I—BISMARCK

Prince Bismarck's greatness as a statesman and his imperishable services to Prussia and Germany are historical facts of such tremendous significance that there is doubtless no man in existence, whatever his party affiliations, who would dare to place them in question. For this very reason alone it is stupid to accuse me of not having recognized the greatness of Prince Bismarck. The opposite is the truth. I revered and idolized him. Nor could it be otherwise. It should be borne in mind with what generation I grew up—the generation of the devotees of Bismarck. He was the creator of the German Empire, the paladin of my grandfather, and all of us considered him the greatest statesman of his day and were proud that he was a German. Bismarck was the idol in my temple, whom I worshiped.

But monarchs also are human beings of flesh and blood, hence they, too, are exposed to the influences emanating from the conduct of others; therefore, looking at the matter from a human point of view, one will understand how Prince Bismarck, by his fight against me, himself destroyed, with heavy blows, the idol of which I have spoken. But my reverence for Bismarck, the great statesman, remained unaltered.

While I was still Prince of Prussia I often thought to myself: "I hope that the great Chancellor will live for many years yet, since I should be safe if I could govern with him." But my reverence for the great statesman was not such as to make me take upon my own shoulders, when I became Emperor, political plans or actions of the Prince which I considered mistakes. Even the Congress of Berlin in 1878 was, to my way of thinking, a mistake, likewise the "Kulturkampf." Moreover, the constitution of the empire was drawn up so as to fit in with Bismarck's extraordinary preponderance as a statesman; the big cuirassier boots did not fit every man.

Then came the labor protective legislation. I most deeply deplored the dispute which grew out of this, but, at that time, it was necessary for me to take the road to compromise, which has generally been my road both in domestic and foreign politics. For this reason I could not wage the open warfare against the Social Democrats which the Prince desired. Nevertheless, this quarrel about political measures cannot lessen my admiration for the greatness of Bismarck as a statesman; he remains the creator of the German Empire, and surely no one man need have done more for his country than that.

Owing to the fact that the great matter of unifying the empire was always before my eyes, I did not allow myself to be influenced by the agitations which were the commonplaces of those days. In like manner, the fact that Bismarck was called the majordomo of the Hohenzollerns could not shake my trust in the Prince, although he perhaps, had thoughts of a political tradition for his family. As evidence of this, he felt unhappy, for instance, that his son Bill felt no interest in politics and wished to pass on his power to Herbert.

GRANDFATHER'S SUCCESSOR

The tragic element for me, in the Bismarck case, lay in the fact that I became the successor of my grandfather—in other words, that I skipped one generation, to a certain extent. And that is a serious thing. In such a case one is forced to deal constantly with old deserving men, who live more in the past than in the present, and cannot grow into the future. When the grandson succeeds his grandfather and finds a revered but old statesman of the stature of Bismarck, it is not a piece of good luck for him, as one might suppose, and I, in fact, supposed. Bismarck himself points that out in the third volume of his memoirs (page 40,) when he speaks, in the chapter about Boetticher, of the oldish caution of the Chancellor, and of the young Emperor.

And when Ballin had the Prince cast a glance over the new harbor of Hamburg, Mismarck himself felt that a new era had begun, which he no longer thoroughly understood. On that occasion the Prince remarked, in astonishment: "Another world, a new world!"

This point of view also showed itself on the occasion of the visit of Admiral Von Tirpitz at Friedrichsruh, at the time when he wished to win the old imperial Chancellor over to favoring the first navy bill.

As for me personally, I have the satisfaction of recalling that Bismarck intrusted to me in 1886 the very delicate Brest mission,

MEMOIRS ANALYZED

First Revelations of Ex-Kaiser Written in Vein of Artful Sophistry

BY S. FRED HOGUE

[Mr. Hogue, who has recently returned from making an extended study of political conditions in Europe, is exceptionally qualified for the task of analyzing the memoirs of the former Emperor of Germany in which the latter seeks to shift to other shoulders the burden of guilt for the World War. Mr. Hogue is thoroughly familiar with the history of modern international relations and has made a special study of the official records covering the period of which the Ex-Kaiser writes. His analyses will accompany each installment of the Memoirs.—Ed.]

"Bismarck was the idol in my temple, whom I worshiped."

For the first time the world knows the Kaiser's version of why he overturned that idol and set himself up on the pedestal.

Bismarck presented his case against the Kaiser in the third volume of his memoirs, written more than thirty years ago but suppressed by the Kaiser by royal decree, and published in this country only three years ago

What is the Kaiser's defense? That Bismarck was a hopeless reactionary; that he arrogantly opposed all humanitarian legislation for shortening the hours and ameliorating the condition of the laboring classes in Germany; that he sought to establish a government of the aristocracy, keeping the workers in a condition of involuntary servitude.

The Kaiser, according to his version, sought to be a popular ruler, to take the part of the workers against the landed aristocracy and the captains of industry. He desired that the hours of labor should be shortened and the pay increased. Bismarck held to the old tradition that this was economically impossible, that the cost of production would be so great that German goods would be driven from the foreign markets.

When the Iron Chancellor refused to bend, the young Emperor broke him. Better that the idol should be shattered than the German workingman enslaved.

CALCULATED POSE

Was the young Emperor sincere in championing the cause of the laboring classes against the employers and the landed aristocracy? When one reviews his reign as a whole he is apt to reach the conclusion that this was a calculated pose rather than a sincere conviction. The press of Europe continued to regard Bismarck as the real ruler and the young Kaiser only as a mural decoration.

Count Waldersee, a political enemy of Bismarck, once craftily observed in the Kaiser's hearing: "If Frederick the Great had had such a Chancellor he would not have been Frederick the Great." This shaft rankled. It struck the Kaiser in his weakest part, his vanity. A poison-tipped phrase is a deadly weapon. The Emperor could not be a second Frederick if Bismarck remained. There was not room in Germany for both. So Bismarck was doomed; and the dispute over the humanitarian legislation proposed by the Social Democrats afforded a pretext for his dismissal.

That the break came over the proposed working class legislation is confirmed by Bismarck himself in the volume of suppressed memoirs. He opposed a Federal statute prohibiting Sunday labor. He opposed extending the franchise to the workers on a basis of equality with the employing classes and the aristocracy. He wanted to call out the military to force the workers to return to their mines and factories during the great strike of 1889.

Bismarck, according to his own and said to me: "Some day that man will be his own Chancellor." This shows that Bismarck must have had some belief in me.

I feel no grudge against him for the third volume of his reminiscences. I released this volume after I had sought and obtained my rights. To withhold the volume any longer would have been pointless, since the main contents had become known already through indiscretions; were this not true, there might have been varying opinions as to the advisability in the choice of the time of publication. Bismarck would turn over in his grave if he could know at what time the third volume appeared, and what consequences it had. I should be honestly grieved if the third volume had damaged the memory of the great Chancellor, because Bismarck is one of the heroic figures whom the German people need for their regeneration. My gratitude and reverence for the great Chancellor cannot be impaired or extinguished by the third volume nor by anything else whatever.

In the first half of the eighties I had been summoned to the Foreign Office at the behest of Prince Bismarck; it was then presided over by Count Herbert Bismarck. Upon reporting myself to the Prince he gave me a short sketch of the personages employed at the Foreign Office, and when he named Herr Von Holstein, who was then one of the most prominent collaborators of the Prince, it seemed to me that a slight warning against this man ran through the Prince's words.

I got a room all to myself, and all the documents concerning the preliminary history, origin and conclusion of the alliance with Austria (Andrassy) were laid before me in order that I might study them. I went often to the home of the Prince and that of Count Herbert.

MAN WITH HYENA'S EYES

When I had thus become more intimate in the Bismarck circle I heard more open talk about Herr Von Holstein, I heard that he was very clever, a good worker, inodinatey proud, an odd sort of man, who never showed himself anywhere, and had no social relations, full of distrust, much influenced by whims, and, besides all this, a good hater, and, therefore, dangeous. Prnice Bicmarck called him "The Man With the Hyena's Eyes," and told me that it would be well fo me to keep away from him. It was quite apparent that the bitter attitude which the Prince showed later toward Holstein, his former collaborator, was forming even at that time.

The Foreign Office was conducted with the strictest discipline by Count Herbert, whose rudeness toward his employees particularly struck me. The gentlemen there simply flew when they were summoned or dismissed by the Count, so much so that a joking saying arose at the time that "their coat-tails stood straight out behind them." The foreign policy was conducted and dictated by Prince Bismarck alone, after consultation with Count Herbert, who passed on the commands of the Chancellor and had them transformed into instructions. Hence the Foreign Office was nothing but an office of the great Chancellor, where work was done according to his directions. Able men, with independent ideas, were not schooled and trained there.

This was in contrast to the General Staff under Moltke. There new officers were carefully developed and trained to independent thinking and action, in accordance with approved principles, and by dint of preserving old traditions and taking into account all that modern times had taught. At the Foreign Office there were only executive instruments of a will, who were not informed as to the important inter-relationship of the questions turned over to them for treatment, and could not, therefore, collaborate independently. The Prince loomed up like a huge block of granite in a meadow; were he to be dragged away, what would be found beneath would be mostly worms and dead roots.

I won the confidence of the Prince, who consulted me about many things. For instance, when the Prince brought about the first German colonial acquisitions (Gross and Klein Popo, Togo, etc.,) I informed him, at his wish, concerning the state of mind created in the public and the navy by this move, and described to him the enthusiasm with which the German people had hailed the new road. The Prince remarked that the matter hardly deserved this.

Later on I spoke often with the Prince about the colonial question and always found in him the intention to utilize the colonies as commercial objects, or objects for swapping purposes, other than to make them useful in the fatherland or utilize them as sources of raw materials. As was my duty I called the Prince's attention to the fact that merchants and capitalists were beginning energetically to develop the colonies and that, therefore—as I had learned from Hanseatic circles—they counted upon protection from a navy. For this reason, I pointed out that steps must be taken for getting a fleet constructed in time, in order that German assets in foreign lands should not be without protection; that, since the Prince had unfurled the German flag in foreign parts, and the people stood behind it, there must also be a navy behind it.

BISMARCK'S PREPOSSESSION

But the Prince turned a deaf ear to my statements and made use of his pet motton: "If the English should land on our soil I should have them arrested." His idea was that the colonies would be defended by us at home. The Prince attached no importance to the fact that the very assumption that the English could land without opposition in Germany—since Heligoland was English—was unbearable for Germany, and that we, in order to make a landing impossible from the start, needed a sufficiently strong navy, and likewise, Heligoland.

The political interest of the Prince was, in fast, concentrated essentially upon continental Europe; England lay somewhat to one side among the cares that burdened him daily, all the more so since Salisbury stood well with him and had, in the name of England, hailed with satisfaction the Double (i. e., Triple) Alliance, at the time of its formation. The Prince worked primarily with Russia, Austria, Italy and Rumania, whose relations toward Germany and each other he constantly watched over. As to the prudence and skill with which he acted, Emperor William the Great once made a pointed remark to Von Albedyll, his Chief of Cabinet.

The general found His Majesty much excited after a talk with Bismarck, to such an extent that he feared for the health of the old Emperor. He remarked, therefore, that His Majesty should avoid similar worry in future; that, if Bismarck was unwilling to do as His Majesty wished, His Majesty should dismiss him. Whereupon the Emperor replied that, despite his admiration and gratitude toward the great Chancellor, he had already thought of dismissing him, since the self-conscious attitude of the Prince became at times too oppressive. But both he and the country needed Bismarck too badly. Bismarck was the one man who could juggle five balls of which at least two were always in the air. That trick, added the Emperor, was beyond his own powers.

Prince Bismarck did not realize that, through the acquisition of colonies for Germany, he would be obliged to look beyond Europe and be automatically forced to act, politically, on a large scale—with England especially. England, to be sure, was one of the five balls in his diplomatic-statesmanly game, but she was merely one of the five, and he did not grant her the special importance which was her due.

For this reason it was that the Foreign Office likewise was involved entire in the continental interplay of politics, had not the requisite interest in colonies, navy or England, and possessed no experience in world politics. The English psychology and mentality, as shown in the pursuit—constant, though concealed by all sorts of little cloaks—of world hegemony, was to the German Foreign Office a book sealed with seven seals.

SOURCE OF RUSSIAN ENMITY

Once Prince Bismarck remarked to me that his main object was not to let Russia and England come to an understanding. I took the liberty of observing that the opportunity to postpone such an understanding for a long time lay ready to land in 1877-1878, when the Russians might have been allowed to occupy Constantinople—had this been done, the English fleet would have sailed in without further ado to defend Constantinople and the Russo-English conflict would have been on. Instead, I continued, the treaty of San Stefano was forced upon the Russians and they were compelled to turn about at the very gates of the city which they had reached and saw before them, after frightful battles and hardships.

This, I went on, had created an inextinguishable hatred in the Russian army against us (as had been reported by Prussian officers who had accompanied the Russian army on the Turkish campaign, especially Count Pfeil;) moreover, the above-mentioned treaty had been cast aside and the Berlin Treaty substituted for it, which had burdened us even more with the hostility of the Russians, who looked upon us as the enemy of their "just interests in the East." Thus the conflict between Russia and England, which the Prince desired, had been relegated far into the future.

Prince Bismarck did not agree with this judgment of "his" Congress, concerning the results of which he, as the "honest broker," was so proud; he remarked earnestly that he had wished to prevent a general conflagration and had been compelled to offer his services as a mediator. When I, later on, told a gentleman at the Foreign Office about this conversation, he replied that he had been present when the Prince, after signing the Berlin Treaty, came into the Foreign Office and received the congratulations of the officials assembled there. After he had listened to them the Prince stood up and replied: "Now I am driving Europe four-in-hand!" In the opinion of the said gentleman the Prince was mistakn in this, since, even at that time, there was the threat of a Rasso-French friendship in place of the Russo-Prussian—in other words, two horses were already to be counted out of the four-in-hand. As Russia saw it, Disraeli's statecraft had turned Bismarck's work as "honest broker" into the negotiation of an Anglo-Austrian victory over Russia.

Despite considerable differences in our opinions, Prince Bismarck remained friendly and kindly disposed to me, and, despite the great difference in our age, a pleasant relationship grew up between us, since I, in common with all those of my generation, was an ardent admirer of the Prince and had won his trust by my zeal and frankness—nor have I ever betrayed that trust.

During the time of my assignment at the Foreign Office Privy Councilor Raschdau, among others, discoursed with me on commercial policy, colonies, etc. In these matters, even at that early date, my attention was called to our dependence upon England, due to the fact that we had no navy and that Heligoland was in English hands. To be sure, there was a project to extend our colonial prossessions under the pressure of necessity, but all this could happen only with England's permission. This was a serious matter, and certainly an unworthy position for Germany.

INTERCOURT POLITICS

My assignment at the Foreign Office brought a very unpleasant happening in its wake. My parents were not very friendly toward Prince Bismarck and looked with disfavor upon the fact that their son had entered into the Prince's circle. There was fear of my becoming influenced against my parents, of superconservatism, of all sorts of perils, which all sorts of tale-bearers from England and "liberal circles," who rallied around my father, imputed against me. I never bothered my head with all this nonsense, but my position in the house of my parents was rendered much more difficult for me and, at times, painful. Through my work under Prince Bismarck and the confidence reposed in me—often subjected to the severest tests—I have had to suffer much in silence for the sake of the Chancellor; he, however, apparently took this quite as a matter of course.

I was on good terms with Count Herbert Bismarck. He could be a very gay companion and knew how to assemble interesting men around his table, partly from the Foreign Office, partly from other circles. However, true friendship never ripened between us two. This was shown particularly when the Count asked to go at the same time that his father retired. My request that he stay by me and help me to maintain tradition in our political policy elicited the sharp reply that he had become accustomed to report to his father and serve him; wherefore it was out of the question to demand that he come, with his dispatch case under his arm, to report to anybody else than his father.

When Czar Nicholas II, he who has been murdered, came of age, I was assigned at the instigation of Prince Bismarck to confer upon the heir-apparent at St. Petersburg the Order of the Black Eagle. Both the Emperor and Prince Bismarck instructed me concerning the relationship of the two countries and the two reigning dynasties with each other, as well as concerning customs, personages, etc. The Emperor remarked in conclusion that he would give his grandson the same piece of advice that was given him, on the occasion of his first visit as a young man to Russia, by Count Adlerberg, viz: "In general, there as well as elsewhere, people prefer praise to criticism." Prince Bismarck closed his remarks with these words: "In the East, all those who wear their shirts outside their trousers are decent people, but as soon as they tuck their shirts inside their trousers and hang a medal around their necks, they become pig-dogs."

From St. Petersburg I repeatedly reported to my grandfather and to Prince Bismarck. Naturally, I described, to the best of my knowledge, the impressions which I got. I noticed especially that the old Russo-Prussian relations and sentiments had cooled to a marked extent and were no longer such as the Emperor and Prince Bismarck in their talks with me had assumed. After my return, both my grandfather and the Prince praised me for my plain, clear report, which was all the pleasanter for me since I was oppressed by the feeling that, in a number of things, I had been forced to disillusion these high personages.

OFFER RUSSIA DARDANELLES

In 1886, at the end of August and beginning of September, after the last meeting at Gastein of Emperor William the Great and Prince Bismarck with Emperor Franz Josef, where I also was present at the command of my grandfather, I was commissioned to report personally to Czar Alexander III concerning the decisions made there and to take up with him the questions relating to the Mediterranean and Turkey. Prince Bismarck gave me his instructions, sanctioned by Emperor William; they dealt most especially with Russia's desire to reach Constantinople, to which the Prince meant to raise no obstacles. On the contrary I received direct instructions to offer Russia Constantinople and the Dardanelles—(in other words, San Stefano and the Berlin Treaty had been dropped!) There was a plan to persuade Turkey in a friendly way that an understanding with Russia was desirable for her also.

The Czar received me cordially at Brest-Litovsk and I was present there at reviews of troops and fortress and defensive maneuvers, which, even then, unquestionably bore an anti-German look.

To sum up my conversations with the Czar, the following remark by him is of importance: "If I wish to have Constantinople, I shall take it whenever I feel like it, without need of permission or approval from Prince Bismarck." After this rude refusal of the Bismarck offer of Constantinople, I looked upon my mission as a failure and made my report to the Prince accordingly.

When the Prince decided to make his offer to the Czar, he must have altered his political conceptions, which had led to San Stefano and the Congress of Berlin; or else, on account of the development of the general political situation in Europe, he considered that the moment had come for shuffling the political cards in another way or, as my grandfather had put it, to "juggle" differently. Only a man of the world importance and diplomatic ability of Prince Bismarck could embark on such a course. Whether the Prince had planned his big political game with Russia in such a way that he might, first, by means of the Congress of Berlin, prevent a general war and cajole England, and then, after having thus hindered Russia's eastern aspirations, cater to these aspirations later, by a stroke of genius, in an even more striking manner, it is impossible for me to say—Prince Bismarck never told anyone about his great political projects.

If the above is true, Bismarck, trusting absolutely to his statesmanlike skill, must have reckoned upon bringing Germany all the more into Russian favor, because Russian aspirations were brought to fulfillment by Germany alone—and that at a moment when the general European political situation was less strained than in 1877-1878. In this case, nobody except Prince Bismarck could have played the tremendous game to a successful end. And therein lies the weakness in the superiority of great men. Had he also informed England of his offer to the Czar? England must have been opposed to it, as in 1878.

In any event, the Prince now adopted the policy which I had already noted when I realized the disillusion of the Russians at having stood before the gates of Constantinople without being allowed to enter.

DOWNFALL OF RUSSIA SEEN

At Brest-Litovsk, in the course of the constant military preparations of all kinds, I could easily see that the conduct of the Russian officers toward me was essentially cooler and haughtier than on the occasion of my first visit to St. Petersburg. Only the small group of old generals, especially those at the Russian court, who dated from the days of Alexander II, and who knew and esteemed Emperor William the Great, still showed their reverence for him and their friendly feeling toward Germany. In the course of a talk with one of them concerning the relations between the two courts, armies and countries, which I had found undergoing a change in comparison with former times, the old general said:

"It is that confounded Congress of Berlin. A serious mistake on the part of the Chancellor. He has destroyed the old friendship between us, sown distrust in the hearts of the court and the government, and engendered the idea of a great injustice done the Russian army after its bloody 1877 campaign, for which it wishes revenge. And here we are by the side of that damned French Republic, full of hate for you and of subversive ideas, which, in case of a war against you, will cost us our dynasty."

A prophetic foreshadowing of the downfall of the reigning Russian dynasty!

From Brest I went to Strassburg, where my grandfather was attending the imperial maneuvers. In spite of the failure of my mission I found calm judgments of the political situation. My grandfather was pleased at the cordial greetings from the Czar, which, in so far as the personal relationship of the two rulers was concerned, showed no change of heart. Also, to my surprise, I received a letter from Prince Bismarck wherein he expressed gratitude and appreciation to me for my actions and my report. This meant all the more since my statements could not have been agreeable to my grandfather and the Chancellor. The Congress of Berlin had, especially in Russian military circles, done away with the remnants of the brotherhood in arms still fostered among us and had engendered a hatred against everything Prussian and German, stirred up by association with French officers, which was increased by the French until it developed into the desire of vengeance by means of arms. That was the soil in which, later, the World War ambitions of our foes found nourishment. "Revanche pour Sedan," combined with "Revanche pour San Stefano." The words of the old general at Brest have remained unforgettably engraved upon my memory; they induced me to bring about my many meetings with Alexander III and Nicholas II, at which my grandfather's wish, impressed upon me on his deathbed, that I watch over our relations with Russia, has always been my guiding motive.

RELIEF AT DISMISSAL

In 1890, at the Narva maneuvers, I was obliged to describe minutely to the Czar the retirement of Prince Bismarck. The Czar listened very attentively. When I had finished, the usually very cool and reserved sovereign, who seldom spoke about politics, spontaneously seized my hand, thanked me for this token of my confidence, regretted that I had been brought into such a situation and added, in exactly these words:

"I understand perfectly thy line of action; the Prince with all his greatness, was, after all, merely thy employee or official. As soon as he re-

FORD RUNS 57 MILES ON GALLON OF GASOLINE

A new automatic Vaporizer and Decarbonizer, which in actual test has increased the power and mileage of Fords from 25 to 50 per cent and at the same time removed every particle of carbon from the cylinders is the proud achievement of John A. Stransky, 875 South Main Street, Pukwana, South Dakota. A remarkable feature of this simple and inexpensive device is that its action is governed entirely by the motor. It is slipped between the carburetor and intake manifold and can be installed by anyone in five minutes without drilling or tapping. With it attached, Ford cars have made from 40 to 57 miles on one gallon of gasoline. Mr. Stransky wants to place a few of these devices on cars in this territory and has a very liberal offer to make to anyone who is able to handle the business which is sure to be created wherever this marvelous little device is demonstrated. If you want to try one entirely at his risk send him your name and address today.—[Advertisement.

TURKS VICTORS IN DIPLOMACY

Invited Back Into Europe by Allied Note

Strange Reversal of Events Bursts Suddenly

Lloyd George Agrees to All Disputed Points

Rumania insisted upon this provision before they consented to the return of Turkey to Europe, although it is not mentioned in the note. It is thought probable that the Turkish military forces in Thrace and Adrianople will be rigidly limited, and that the strictest guarantees will be exacted for the Greek minorities in these places.

ATTACK FEARED

The probability of a Turkish attack on the British position at Chanak was given as the reason why the joint note was cabled immediately after the conference tonight. M. Poincare informed Lord Curzon that with the Allied decision granting the Turkish claims in the hands of Kemal Pasha, the Nationalist leader could influence his warlike associates to await calmly the outcome of the peace conference.

The last-minute abandonment by Great Britain of her position was due, it is believed, to a desire to avoid war, which many British officials, both at home and in the Near East, regarded as likely. Pressure from British labor, which was united against hostilities in the Near East, also is thought to have played no small part in the decision of the British government.

Having effectively obtained in the decision freedom of the straits, Great Britain is said to have reasoned that to insure peace in the Near East it would be better not to withhold any longer Turkish aspirations to a foothold in Europe, provided ample guarantees were exacted which would prevent a Turkish-Bulgarian alliance directed against the Balkan countries.

While agreeing virtually to all the Turkish claims, Lord Curzon insisted upon preservation of the neutral zones on the Asiatic side of the straits. The pledge is expected from Kemal to observe these zones and not to cross the straits or the Sea of Marmora until peace is signed. The previous contention of Great Britain that Allied troops should continue to occupy Gallipoli is not mentioned in the note, but it is probable that a small Allied force will remain temporarily on the peninsula.

ARMISTICE PLANS

The Greek forces are to retire from Eastern Thrace and Adrianople to a line to be fixed by the Allied generals in agreement with the Greek and Turkish military authorities. The meeting to arrange an armistice is expected to be held at Mudania within a few days. Admission of Turkey to the League of Nations, which the Allies pledge themselves to support, is not expected until the Assembly meeting of next year.

Complete agreement by M. Poincare, Lord Curzon and Count Sforza was reached after a three-and-a-half-hour session. It is considered the more surprising because of the virtual decision last night that separate notes would have to be sent to the Angora government for the reason that Great Britain was not willing to bind herself in advance to any definite terms sufficient to attract Kemal Pasha to a peace conference.

The phraseology of that part of the note regarding Thrace is commented upon, as it sets forth that the three governments "view with favor the desire of Turkey to recover Thrace," but support to this end is conditioned on the Angora government's promise not to send troops into the neutral zones pending the peace conference.

WAR SITUATION AT A GLANCE

Dispatches from Constantinople say information of the highest authority reached the Sublime Porte today that Great Britain has agreed to return Thrace to Turkey. The question of war or peace, this information stated, rests entirely on the British willingness to make an official statement to that effect before the peace conference is summoned.

Lloyd George announces "no-war" policy, but demands that straits be kept neutral for all time.

It was reported and officially denied that a British warship had been sunk in the Dardanelles.

Marines and British light infantry departed today for Asia Minor.

Kemal Pasha will enter Near East parley. His decision, it is believed, will delay Sunday's threatened attack.

Jugo-Slav troops march to southern border.

British guns land at Constantinople.

Turks, under personal direction of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, are moving their guns close to British forts, and Turkish cavalry patrols are active on Chanak front.

RICHARDSON DEFIES GANG

man Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach, and one or two others, reached an agreement in Sacramento following the State convention last Tuesday, that a chairman of the Republican State Central Committee acceptable alike to Johnson and Richardson would be supported by the Senatorial and gubernatorial nominees.

At the time this agrement was made by Johnson and Richardson there was a clear understanding that Richardson would not accept former State Senator Albert E. Boynton as committee chairman for the following specific reasons:

(1.) Only a man who had supported Richardson before the primary would be acceptable. Boynton published a newspaper that supported Gov. Stephens and actively opposed Richardson and Boynton himself, in addition to personal opposition to Richardson, was further impossible because of his official connection with the repudiated State machine.

(2.) Boynton, being dominated by the McCabe machine, could not win the support for all nominees that could be obtained by an independent chairman frinedly to all candidates, but controlled by none.

(3.) Machine insistence that Boynton be named chairman would force the Richardson supporters to conduct a campaign independent of the machine which Richardson had promised to "kick out of politics."

Boynton today was named chairman.

INDEPENDENT CAMPAIGN

The Richardson campaign will be conducted independently.

The campaign slogan that won Richardson the Republican nomination remains the same: "Economy with efficiency," and "Kick the State machine out of politics."

But behind these actual developments is a background upon which light must be shed.

The program followed by the machine leaders in today's meeting was given in detail in Hearst's Examiner this morning, and several hours before the committee followed the orders of McCabe and named Boynton to the chairmanship, Hearst's Evening Call appeared carrying a photograph of Boynton and announcing his selection.

In the same Hearst papers the names of Johnson and Woolwine appeared more or less linked together, giving further color to growing rumors that the Republican machine is lining up its strength for the wet Democratic nominee.

WETS FOR JOHNSON

The bootleggers of San Francisco, the wet Sacramento Bee and the irreconcilable wets are for Johnson and Woolwine. Their slogan is Johnson, Woolwine and wine.

Democratic women here are pledging their support to Richardson and are prepared to form a State-wide organization of women members of their party to support the Republican gubernatorial nominee.

A few wet Democrats profess to see a Republican split in the results of the State Central Committee fight today and are boasting that they are receiving either open or secret support from Republican machine workers.

It was under such conditions as these that the Richardson forces went into today's meeting to defy the machine and make no sacrifice of the gubernatorial nominee's pledges.

And the machine did not have an easy time in efforts to affront the party's choice for Governor. Proxies were sought in some cases through misrepresentation. The votes of committeemen were demanded in certain cases under threat of loss of employment. Telegraph and telephone wires were kept humming for hours as McCabe sent out his summons for aid for the machine's puppets.

Four years ago the machine put up just such a fight and won, not only a superficial victory such as it won today, but it won control of the office of Governor and virtually tied the hands of William D. Stephens, who, by his refusal to fight the machine, became its victim.

RICHARDSON FIRM

The machine found no such acquiescence today on the part of the new gubernatorial nominee. Richardson stood his ground and, when the result was announced, showing Boynton's election, he issued a scathing denunciation of the McCabe forces and renewed his "kick the machine out of politics," pledge.

His campaign will be conducted through the northern and southern California newspapermen committee headquarters established for the primary campaign.

The Richardson leaders learned a few hours before the committee met today that Senator Johnson and McCabe had decided to break their word given to the Richardson camp that no candidate unacceptable to Richardson would be named.

The men pledged to help Richardson carry out his pledge also knew that the machine could muster sufficient strength to defeat their candidate, George W. Radcliffe, but they went into the fight nevertheless.

BAD FAITH CHARGE

Assemblyman Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach, in his speech nominating Radcliffe, bluntly charged McCabe and Johnson with bad faith and with a violation of their agreement. He said Boynton's election was contrary to party interests and urged support for Radcliffe on the ground that the Watsonville editor was a friend both of the Senatorial and gubernatorial nominee. Radcliffe's nomination was seconded by John W. Carrigan of Los Angeles.

All of those who spoke in behalf of Boynton were members of the repudiated and discredited machine that fought Richardson in the primaries. Among them were former Assemblyman J. A. Pettis, machine floor leader in the last Assembly; R. M. Armstrong, attorney for Sheriff Finn, machine political boss in San Francisco; Charles L. Neumiller, a member of the State Prison Board.

The main fight was conducted as a "Progressive" battle against an imaginary "reactionary" element, the "Progressives" including all those who agreed with McCabe and the "reactionaries" consisting of those who challenged the right of the machine boss to dictate their course.

There is a feeling almost of exultation in the Richardson camp here as the Richardson leaders have uncovered the full scope of machine treachery and are, therefore, prepared to conduct their campaign with exact knowledge of the issues involved and the perils to be met.

SMYRNA RED CROSS WORK WELL IN HAND

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Maj. J. Claflin Davis, American Red Cross representative in Smyrna, today reported to national headquarters of the Red Cross that the temporary relief situation there was well in hand, but that the problem of caring for the refugees gathered at Athens, Saloniki and Kavalla was rapidly becoming more pressing.

EPISCOPALIANS END SESSIONS

Triennial Gathering Closes in Portland

Pastoral Letter Hits Hard at Many Evils

Capital and Labor Both Get Call to Service

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND, Sept. 23.—Closing, as it had opened, with religious services, the forty-seventh triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States passed into history here today. Reading of the pastorial letter by Rt. Rev. Charles Fiske, bishop coadjutor of Central New York, was the main feature of the final ceremonies.

The morning sessions of both houses were devoted to final work on prayer-book revision, the bishops completing consideration of the report of the joint commission on revision, but the deputies failing to round out the work owing to an objection being made that there was not a quorum present, leaving the changes proposed for the litany unapproved by the lower house.

PASTORAL LETTER

Service, unity and devotion to Christian principles were emphasized in the pastoral letter. The clergy and the laity are enjoined to put the principles of Christ into effect to solve the present-day problems of industry, labor and of family life. Outstanding passages in the letter follow:

"Service! It is the lesson which many of the members of this church have special opportunity to apply to industrial life. Were great corporations to realize that they are, and must be, primarily, corporations for public service, rather than for private profit, it would be easier to reply to agitators who threaten their peace and prosperity.

"And labor! The unions will be as cordially hated as the most unpopular of industrial trusts if they neglect the call to serve while insisting on the right to have. Efficiency in production, honesty in labor, better work, as well as better wages—this must be the program, if industrial justice is also demanded.

"Too many of the generation now passing have been content to have, to hold and enjoy. We have been too easily satisfied with low ideals of the religion of Christ. Our consciences have not been troubled when the strong oppressed the weak. We have been fearful to inquire too closely as to sources of wealth and methods of production.

PARENTS AT FAULT

"The young people of today are exactly what we have made them. Too frequently parents have practically abdicated their position of direction and leadership; certainly they have not exercised strong spiritual influence by example as well as in precept in building up a simple and natural and religious home life. Without a vital faith, without definite standards of conduct having back of them divine sanctions, the level of popular moral opinion will steadily become lowered. It has already been terribly lowered through the menace of divorce, which encourages a selfish and extreme individualism, in disrupting the American home and poisoning the springs of social life.

"We have little sympathy with critics who adopt a censorious attitude toward youth, always complaining and generally condemning. Freedom of behavior and carelessness of speech may mean, and often do mean, not lack of courtesy or consideration, but dislike of convention, the desire to be natural and human.

"This church has labored faithfully in the cause of that unity for which Christ prayed.

"Conferences on unity will accomplish something; plans for unity my bring Christians of many names into fuller sympathy and growing appreciation, each of the other; but only as we all give ourselves fully and freely to unselfish service can we come together in unity of life. We must refuse to isolate the spiritual life. So shall we find life in losing it, not merely as individuals, but as a church."

NEW MEXICO CATTLE DYING BY THOUSANDS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 23.—Cattle in New Mexico are dying by thousands and the loss in that State to the cattle interests already has been heavy, according to a message received here today by Gov. Thomas Campbell from Gov. Merrit C. Mechem of New Mexico, who asks that Arizona lift the quarantine on cattle and permit the stock to be moved over to Arizona ranges. In his telegram Gov. Mechem stated that the cattle were starving because of lack of feed on the ranges.

ANALYSIS OF THE MEMOIRS

memoirs, was a hopeless reactionary. He was opposed to giving the working classes a voice in the government. He was an advocate of aristocratic privilege. He furnished by his own obstinacy the fulcrum for the lever with which he was overthrown.

But the Kaiser makes too much of a profession of his own virtue. His defense savors of plagiarism. It is a cheap adaptation of the defense of Brutus: "Not that I loved Caesar less, but that I loved Rome more."

GERMAN SECRET PERFIDY

Historians will be interested in the Kaiser's assertion that, while Prince, he was inrusted by Bismarck with the mission of informing Czar Alexander of Russia that Germany would not oppose the seizure of Constantinople by the Russians.

This was a flagrant repudiation of the German commitments in the Treaty of Berlin—a scrap of paper incident. The old Czar's reply that, when he desired Constantinople and the Dardanelles, he would take them "without need of approval or permission from Prince Bismarck" indicates that he placed but slight confidence in German pledges.

What was the Czar's real position toward Bismarck? Was it one of trust or distrust? We read in the introduction to the third volume of Bismarck's Memoirs:

> In October, 1889, in the midst of an important interview with Alexander III of Russia, the Czar interrupted Bismarck by saying, "Yes, I believe you. I have confidence in you. But are you sure of remaining in office?" Bismarck replied, "Certainly, Your Majesty, I am absolutely sure to remain Minister all my life."

But the Kaiser quotes the same Czar as saying to him after Bismarck's dismissal:

> As for me, I always distrusted him, and I never believed a word that he had told me or said to me himself, for I was sure and knew he was hoaxing me.

As no memoirs of Alexander III are extant, the real opinion of Alexander III will never be known. Perhaps, following the traditions of secret diplomacy, he was spoofing them both.

WHY RUSSIA COLLAPSED

More credence could be placed in the onenyous prophecy of the Russian general, quoted by the Kaiser, if the author had been named, or if it had been made public before the collapse of the Romanoff dynasty.

There was undoubted logic in the apprehension that, if the soldiers of monarchial Russia would engage in a campaign by the side of those of republican France, they would have become so imbued with democratic ideas by reason of the contact that they would no longer submit to autocratic domination. Viewed after the verthrow of that dynasty it looks like a mistaken policy. But it is upon the mistakes of monarchial governments that democracies are founded.

There is also truth in the Kaiser's contention that by encouraging the Russians to take Constantinople in 1878 a war between that country and England might have been precipitated. But one cannot read that part of the Kaiser's narrative without sensing his callous cynicism. He would have pluned half of Europe into a bloody war for the sake of gaining a diplomatic advantage over a rival nation.

A MODERN MACHIAVELLI

Later in the memoirs the Kaiser admits the authenticity of the "Willy Nicky" letters, made public by the Bolshevik government in 1919. In those letters the Kaiser urged the Czar to make war upon Japan; and it is clear now that it was for the purpose of crippling Russia.

This spirit of seeking to embroil Germany's rivals in warfare with each other is one that crops out all through the Kaiser's thirty years' reign, culminating in the World War, in which, by reasons of his exposed perfidy, the Kaiser found himself without a friend among the neutral people. By that time his sins had found him out.

Taken as a whole, the first installment of the Kaisers' memoirs savors more of artful sophistry than of truthful narration of historical incidents.

Interest is added to the memoirs just now by the reports of the approaching marriage of the Kaiser. In this connection is related a statement in the autobiography of Bismarck to the effect that Kaiser Wilhelm II shares in two ways in the inheritance of Friedrich Wilhelm II, one his predilection for women and the other a "certain susceptibility to mystical influences."

COAL PRICES TUMBLING FAST

Henry Ford Says to Buy Fuel Sparingly at Present

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DETROIT, Sept. 23.—Henry Ford, in a newspaper interview late today, advised the people of the country to "buy as little coal as possible now," declaring "coal prices are tumbling." Mr. Ford granted the interview shortly after his return from Southern Ohio, where he arranged for an uninterrupted movement of coal to his Detroit industries.

MEMOIRS GIVEN BY WILHELM

twelve years and his successors at the helm of the ship of state succeeded in doing likewise for twenty-four more years.

When I was a Prince I purposely held aloof from party politics, concentrating my entire attention upon my duties in the different army branches to which I was assigned. This afforded me satisfaction and filled up my whole life. For this reason I avoided, while I was Prince of Prussia, all attempts to drag me into party activities. Often enough endeavors were made, under the cloak of harmless functions, teas and the like, to ensnare me into political circles or for electioneering purposes. But I always held aloof.

The outcome of the treacherous malady which killed Emperor Frederick, III, was frankly told me in advance by German physicians called into consultation as experts by the English physician, Sir Morrell Mackenzie. My deep grief and sorrow were all the greater because it was almost impossible for me to speak alone with my beloved father. He was guarded like a prisoner by the English physicians and, though reporters from all countries could look upon the poor sick man from the physicians' room, every kind of obstacle was placed in my path to keep me frome father's side and even to prevent my keeping in constant touch with him by writing; my letters weer often intercepted and not delivered. Moreover, from among the group of watchers, an infamous, organized campaign of slander was conducted in the newspapers against me. Two journalists were especially active in this; one Herr Schmidrowitz and M. Jacques St. Cere, of the Figaro—a German-Jew—who slandered him who was later Emperor in the most poisonous way in France, until the "Petit-Sucrier" trial put an end to his activities.

I gave the dying Emperor his last joy on earth when I had the Second Infantry Brigade march past him, led by me in person. These were the first and last troops seen by Frederick III, as Emperor. He delighted his son by writing on this occasion, on a little card, that he was grateful for having had the pleasure of seeing these troops and proud to call them his own. This event was a ray of light during the gloomy ninety-nine days, which brought upon me also, as Crown Prince, much grief, humiliation and suspicion. In fulfillment of my duty during this crisis, I kept a watchful eye upon all happenings in military, official and social circles, and was inwardly outraged at the signs of slackness which I noted everywhere, most especially at the hostility against my mother, which was becoming more and more noticeable. Moreover, I was naturally deeply hurt at the constant campaign of slander directed against me which depicted me as living in discord with my father.

"Mother, I Like Pyo-Rem Dental Cream Best!"

"It tastes so good and I just love to brush my teeth with it!"

This is the universal decision of children. The deliciously pleasant flavor of Pyo-Rem enables you to easily induce the child to regularly brush the teeth. Grown-ups, too, like its delicious flavor. You well know the value of the care of teeth and that habits formed in youth stay with the child throughout maturity.

Pyo-Rem, while cleansing the teeth perfectly, prevents decay and the appearance of pyorrhea. Thus it prevents painful repairs and needless dental bills. It contains no grit; lies flat on brush; combats acid mouth and film; deodorizes foul breath. Large generous size tube 25c at all drug and department stores.

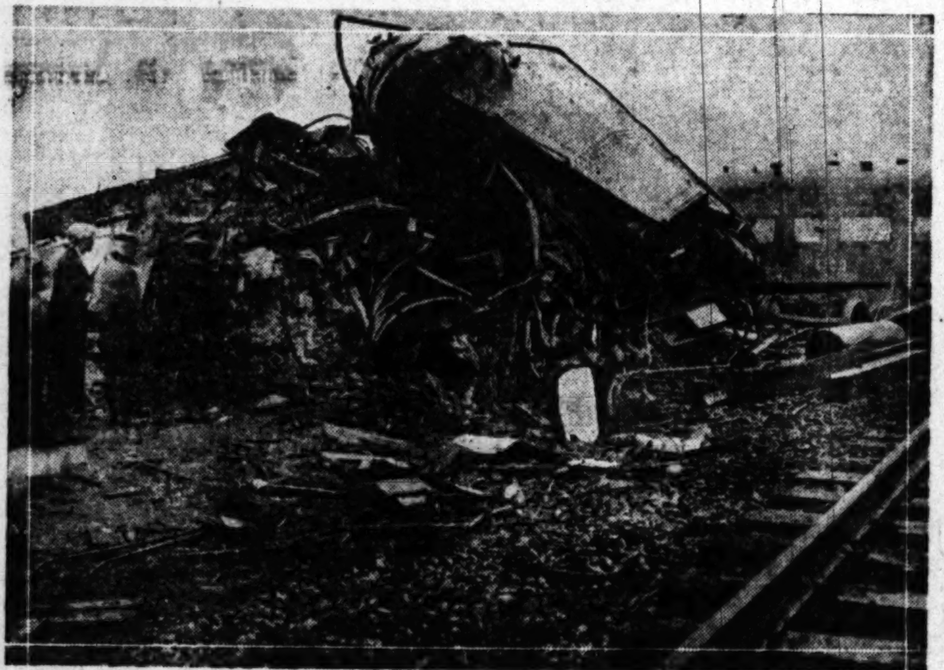
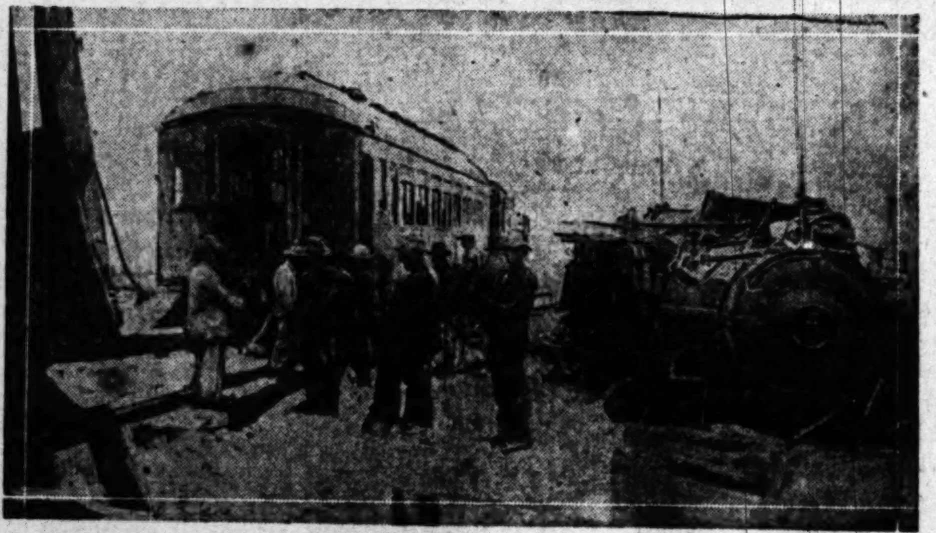
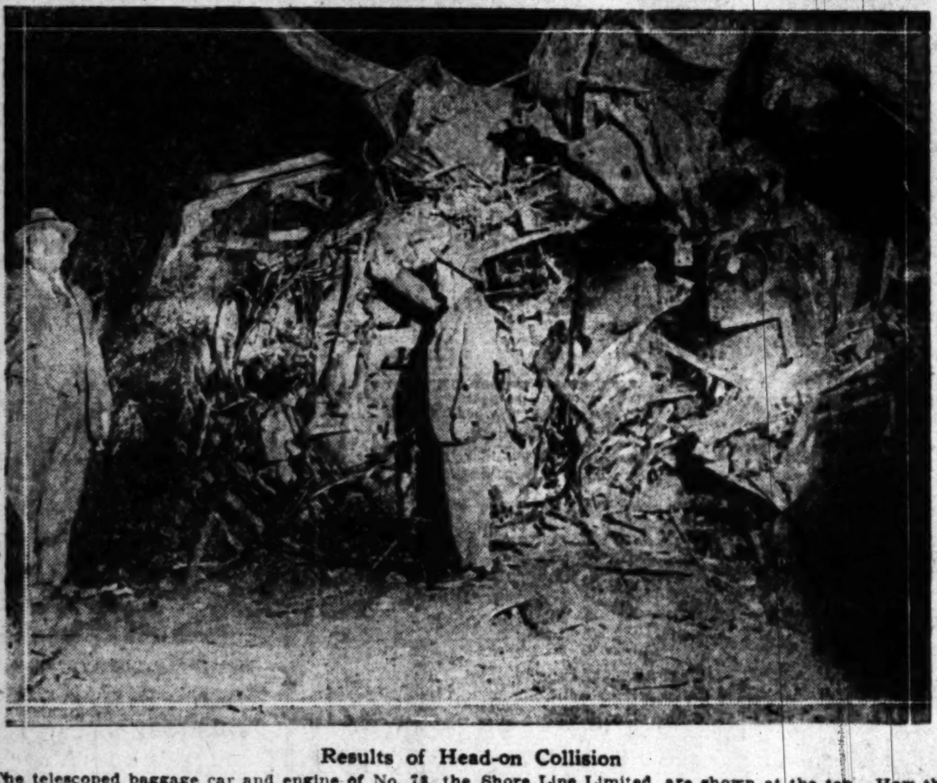
Havoc Created by Shore Line Limited Wreck







Results of Head-on Collision

BLAME PLACED IN WRECK QUIZ

he ran his train onto the main line without waiting for signals from the brakeman, who had gone ahead to see the indicators, according to the findings of the board of inquiry.

The brakeman went ahead to read the indicators which would have told if the Shore Line Limited had passed, leaving train No. 38 on the branch line—safely clear of the main line, according to the report of the officials. Without waiting for the proper signals, Engineer Barto took his train onto the main line, it was declared. A few seconds later the Shore Line Limited from San Francisco, bound for Los Angeles, traveling down grade at a speed of more than fifty miles an hour in an attempt to make up for the twenty-minute delay at Ventura, sideswiped No. 38, hurling both engines over and smashing several coaches.

CONDUCTOR BLAMED

Equal responsibility for the accident was placed on Conductor Simmons, in charge of train No. 38, because it was his duty to be riding in the forward end of the train, to detect any obstacles to their progress. At the time of the accident, according to the report from the investigating body, Simmons was riding in the rear of the train.

A Coroner's jury was sworn in late Friday by Deputy Coroner Julian Hathaway of Ventura to aid in the investigation of the causes of the accident. Inquest will be held next Tuesday, according to word from Ventura yesterday.

The bodies of the two men killed, R. H. Bradley, engineer on train No. 78, and Fireman Peter Feeley, on train No. 38, were sent to Los Angeles late last night from Oxnard.

REVISED LIST

The revised list of those more seriously injured was given late in the day as follows:

Jim Phillips of Los Angeles, fireman of No. 27; severe burns and lacerations, but has even chance to recover.

F. H. Barto, engineer of train No. 38; injured about the head.

Mrs. Mary A. Edmiston, Camden Hotel, Weston, W. Va.; bruises and shock.

Mrs. A. T. Roane, 612 Main street, Grenada, Miss.; slight bruises on head, ankle sprained.

Mrs. C. E. Hall, 1906 Logan street, Denver, Colo.; slight lacerations on head, bruised knee and general shock.

Mrs. L. W. Harper, San Francisco, street address not obtained; contusions of head and bruised hip.

Mrs. M. K. Snow, 317 East Evergreen street, San Antonio, Tex.; slight bruises.

Mrs. W. V. Muldane, New Camerston, O.; severe bruises on face.

Mrs. Florence Collins, 104 Floral avenue, Dayton, O.; teeth loosened.

Mrs. J. W. Harrison, 556 Ponce De Leon avenue, Atlanta, Ga.; bruised hip.

H. E. Hall of Los Angeles; cut by falling glass.

Miss Jessie Honsicker of San Francisco; suffering from nervousness and cut by falling glass.

James Real of Bakersfield; cut by glass; slight bruises.

F. S. Myrtle, Pacific Gas and Electric Company, San Francisco; shock and bruises.

Mrs. F. S. Myrtle, San Francisco; bruises and general shock.

Mrs. E. W. Savage, Haley Hotel, 50 Market street, Venice; shock; under doctor's care for recent operation.

S. A. Davison, 118 North Colorado street, Glendale; slightly sprained ankle.

HERO LOSES LIFE

By means of the investigation it was disclosed that Dick Bradley was the hero of the collision. He was killed at his post.

He was beyond the retiring age, but had refused to retire. At the end of his Friday night run his children had hoped he would retire. It was his last run, but Engineer Bradley did not retire. He died in the harness as his steady hand applied the air brakes to the eight coaches with the 200 passengers whose lives had been intrusted to him.

The lives of all the passengers were spared, although some received cuts and bruises. But Dick Bradley, the man with nerves of steel, though he was approaching his seventieth mile post, died instantly, his hand clutching the throttle.

IOWA ATTORNEY DIES

DES MOINES, Sept. 23.—Hiram H. Roadifer, 72, prominent attorney of Logan for forty-four years and twice mayor of that town, is dead.

LAST RITES FOR GAYNOR ON TUESDAY

Prominent Mason's Funeral Services to be Conducted at Masonic Temple

Funeral services of William Henry Gaynor, prominent Mason, who died Friday night at the Pacific Hospital, will be conducted in the commandery room of the Masonic Temple, Pico and Figueroa, Tuesday, at 2 p.m.

Mr. Gaynor, who was 62 years old, had been ill for the past two years. About a month ago he was operated on at the Pacific Hospital. This was followed by another operation Friday night, after which he died.

For the past thirty-five years Mr. Gaynor had resided in Los Angeles. Until about five years ago, when he retired, he was connected with the Harper & Reynolds Corporation. He was a member of the Signet Chapter of Royal Arch Masons; Past High Priest of the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of the State of California; Past Commander of Los Angeles Commandery, No. 9, and founder of South Gate Lodge.

Mr. Gaynor leaves his widow, Mrs. Lenox Gaynor; a daughter, Miss Alta E. Gaynor, and a son, William Alfred Gaynor, all residing at the Gaynor home, 1036 North Berendo street.

Burial will be at Rosedale Cemetery. Bresee Brothers Company is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

HUGE SUM GIVEN FOR BUILDING

E. L. Doheny Gives Fortune to St. Vincent's Church for New Edifice

The congregation of Saint Vincent's Catholic Church after laboring for nearly two score years is soon to realize its ambition for a new $500,000 church, according to a statement made last night Father J. H. MacRoberts, pastor of the church. One half of the cost of the new edifice has already been pledged by one man, Edward L. Doheny. A large part of the other portion has been pledged as well.

The new structure will stand on the northwest corner of Adams and Figueroa streets, opposite the new home of the Southern California Automobile Club. The site for the church extends 258 feet on Figueroa street and 350 feet on Adams street. The ground was acquired by the congregation several years ago when an effort was being made to build the church. The development along both Adams and Figueroa streets is said to make the site one of the most desirable for a church in Los Angeles.

While plans for the edifice exist only in the minds of those who have conceived the ambition for the new home, Father MacRoberts said last night that he thought that the church would be of Spanish-colonial design. He added that until the fund campaign is concluded an architect probably will not be engaged. The building will be designed so as to furnish seating capacity for 1500 persons.

Father MacRoberts said that as soon as the new building is completed and ready for occupancy the church which the congregation now uses at the corner of Washington street and Grand avenue will be sold. Funds from this sale will be used to remove debts which have exicted for some time. The church which is now used was erected in 1887. It stands on the southern part of the Saint Vincent's College campus. The frontage of the campus on Grand avenue is 500 feet and on Washington street it is 331 feet.

EDITORS TO BE CITY'S GUESTS

Annual Convention Opens Here Tomorrow

Southland Newspapers Are Well Represented

Business, Sightseeing and Pleasure Planned

Editors of 175 newspapers of Southern California will hold their thirty-fourth annual convention in Los Angeles tomorrow and Tuesday. Official headquarters for the editors will be at the Alexandria.

As guests of the city the editors will spend the two days in Los Angeles sightseeing and performing business duties. Under the general direction of John E. Knig, president of the Southern California Editorial Association, vice-president of the National Editorial Association, and editor of the Hemet News, the newspaper men will outline plans for the coming year.

The convention will officially open at 9 a.m. tomorrow with registration at the Alexandria. Sylvester L. Weaver, former president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, will welcome the editors to Los Angeles during the first business meeting which will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the ballroom. During this meeting various officers will make their annual reports and committees appointed. At the conclusion of the business meeting, election of officers for the coming year will be elected.

The speakers and their subjects at the business meeting will be: J. F. Craemer, Orange News, "Circulation Contests;" discussion by E. O. Wickizer and Crombie Allen; E. L. Howell, Chino Champion, "Do Conditions Warrant a Reduction in Subscription Rates?" discussion by Harvey Johnson and F. M. Keffer; Judge H. A. Westover, Yuma Sun, "The National Editorial Association;" E. O. Edgerton, State Railroad Commission, "The Southern Pacific-Central Pacific Dismemberment;" C. A. Lyman, Security Trust and Savings Bank, "Bank Advertising;" George F. Rinehart, Covina Citizen, "The Ideal Newspaper;" Benjamin F. Pearson, Southern California Edison Company, "The Big Job."

Following the business meeting the editors will be escorted to luncheon by a reception committee composed of Louis H. Roseberry, chairman, William Rhodes Hervey, J. H. Coverly, C. Summer James, and A. L. Lathrop. Short talks will be made by D. M. Reynolds, vice-president First National Bank and Woodworth Clum, publisher of the Shopping News.

In the afternoon the visiting editors will be shown Los Angeles and suburbs. They will be taken by automobiles to the Palos Verdes Estates, stopping en route at Culver City and visiting the Goldwyn studios.

Returning at 7:30 p.m. the delegates will attend a banquet at the Alexandria. Friend W. Richardson, Republican nominee for Governor will be honorary guest. Mr. King will serve as toastmaster.

The speakers will be: J. R. Gabbert, Riverside Enterprise; E. G. Lewis, Atascadero News; Prudence Penny, Los Angeles Examiner; Al C. Joy, Fresno; Rupert Hughes, Culver City, and Friend W. Richardson. Following the speeches a showing of the motion picture "Remembrance," written and directed by Rupert Hughes for Goldwyn will be shown. The banquet committee: J. J. Conrad, E. O. Wickizer, J. F. Craemer, Paul W. Moore, Crombie Allen, C. H. Turner, F. M. Keffer, and F. S. Hosfelt.

TUESDAY'S PROGRAM

Program for Tuesday: 9:30 a.m., meet in lobby of Alexandria; 10 a.m., leave by automobiles for trip to bay cities; 12 m., dinner at Walnut Park by Victor Girard; 2 p.m., arrive at Melville Square, concert by B.P.O. Band, welcome by Mayor of Santa Monica, reception by City Commissioners, M. B. Rapp, chairman; 3:30 p.m., tour through Santa Monica, visiting beaches and amusement concessions.

The Southern California Editorial Association was organized Feb. 18, 1889, at a meeting in the original Chamber of Commerce building, then at First and Broadway, Los Angeles. The call for the meeting was issued from the office of the Pasadena Star. The first president was Col. James J. Ayres of the old Morning Herald. Will J. Vail of the Pasadena Star was the first secretary.

DIES READING DEATH ROLL

Civil War Veteran Drops While Addressing Convention

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—James O. Smith, secretary of the Thirteenth New Jersey Veteran Volunteers' Association, fell dead from heart disease just as he finished reading the organization's death roll for the last year before its annual convention in Newark.

"There are only a few of us left—" he read solemnly, then lurched forward and died.

His last words came home to the gray-headed soldiers of the Army of the Potomac with a force they had never felt in former years as they counted their dwindling numbers.

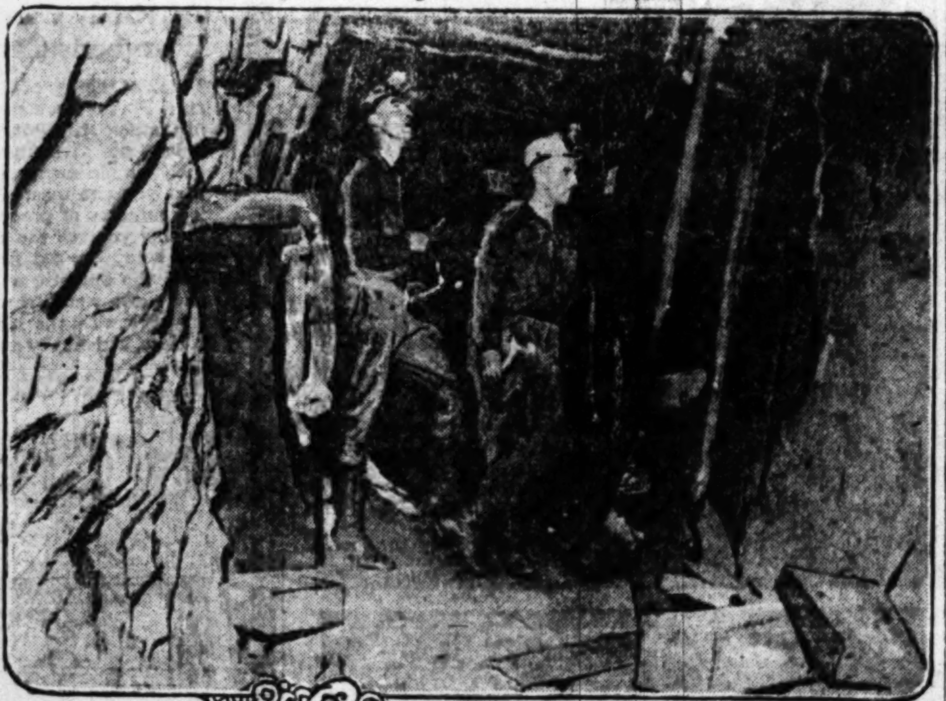
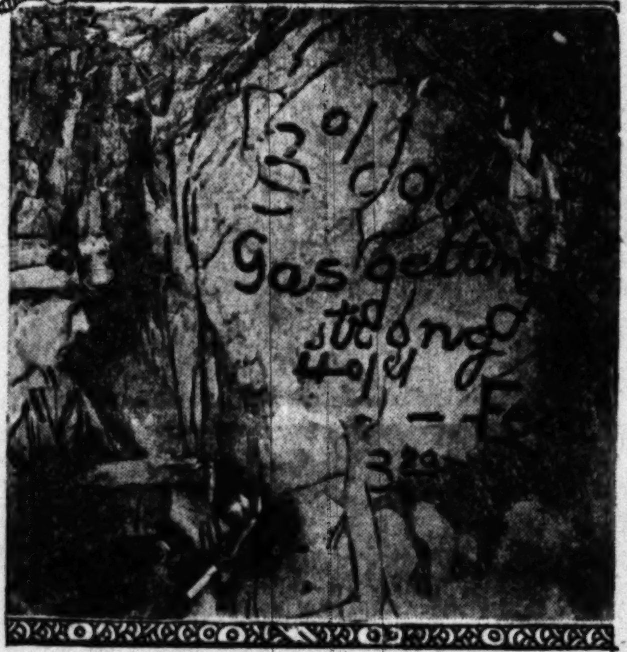
Scene of Dead Argonaut Miners' Last Stand





[P. and A. Photos—Copyrighted by W. Aird MacDonald.]

"3 o'clock, Gas Getting Strong"

These photos, secured 4350 feet beneath the surface of the Argonaut mine, Jackson, Cal., took W. Aird MacDonald, a photographer, four hours to complete his trip underground, and he was at the scene of the death trap but six minutes. Picture No. 1 shows the bulkhead erected by the dead miners and near which their bodies were found. This is the actual scene of the dead miners' last stand. Picture No. 2 shows the note burned on the wall of the 4350-foot drift by William Fessel, one of the forty-seven entombed miners, since missing. A careful scrutiny will show another message scratched on the mine's wall: "1-2 knocked out."

Police Officer Shot by Yeggs Will Recover

A decided improvement in the condition of Everett E. Haek, the police officer, who was shot in the stomach and hand early Saturday morning, when safecrackers attempted to blow the safe of the Woolworth store on Hollywood Boulevard, a few doors from the Hollywood Police Station, was reported by physicians at the White Memorial Hospital last night.

Patrolman Haek was shot as the thieves made their escape through the back door, shooting as they fled. Three men were believed implicated in the safe-blowing plot. Two made their escape through the back door, and a third, Daniel Lane, aged 25, was captured as he broke through the front door.

It was at first believed that Officer Haek's injuries would prove fatal, but when Police Surgeon Goodrich operated he found that the bullet had entered the stomach only a short distance. It was later discovered that the shot had first struck Haek's belt buckle, which probably saved his life.

SPEED UP COAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. PAUL, Sept. 23.—Speedy distribution of coal from the lake docks the various Northwestern States is promised by Maj. C. J. Bailey of the bureau of service of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who arrived in St. Paul yesterday to work in co-operation with the State Central Fuel Committee.

RELIEF FUND INCREASING

"Times" Readers Send in $5007.35 for Families of Forty-seven Victims in Mine Disaster

The Times will receive, acknowledge by publication and forward funds for the relief of the victims of the Jackson mine disaster—the widows and orphans of the entombed miners.

Contributions should be addressed to the City Editor, The Times, Los Angeles, Cal. They will be forwarded at once to the Amador County Chamber of Commerce, which has charge of the relief work. The names of the donors will be printed in The Times.

Forty-two of the forty-seven miners trapped on the lower levels of the Argonaut mine were married and left children.

Grief-stricken women and little children whose husbands and fathers will never again serve them as bread-winners will receive this money. All are invited to give as much as they can.

PARENTAGE QUIZ DOUBTFUL

Tiernan Reconciliation Raises Question Whether Blood Tests Will Be Made

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Sept. 23.—Will the blood test to determine the parentage of the ten-months-old son of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, wife of Prof. John P. Tiernan of the law faculty of the University of Notre Dame, who charges Harry Poulin, campus haberdasher, is the infant's father, be carried out now that the Tiernan family has announced a reconciliation?

That was the question asked most frequently while the court which is hearing the paternity case took a half holiday and recessed at noon today without the defense having completed its testimony. The hearing is to be resumed Monday and it is expected the defendant in the case, Harry Poulin, will take the witness stand in his own defense.

The fact that Prof. Tiernan had opened negotiations some time ago with Dr. Albert Abrams, of San Francisco, who claims he has evolved a system whereby he can establish the parentage of an infant through vibratory blood tests, was disclosed this afternoon through a statement given out in San Francisco by Dr. Abrams' office to the effect that the physician had departed for Chicago and may be called in the case here.

TESTS PROBLEMATICAL

Prof. Tiernan, after being shown the dispatch from San Francisco, admitted that he had been in correspondence with Dr. Abrams concerning the making of blood tests in the case of Mrs. Tiernan's youngest child. Dr. Abrams is expected to arrive in Chicago next Wednesday but whether the blood tests will be made, since the Tiernans have announced that they "will forgive and forget" was said to be problematical tonight.

Intimations that Prof. and Mrs. Tiernan had effected a reconciliation led to inquiries and Prof.

Condition of Congressman Still Critical

Hurt in Auto Accident Near Baltimore

Companion Instantly Killed, Secretary Dies Later

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Congressman Arthur Free of California is still in a critical condition and complications which may arise are such that the doctors in attendance will not pronounce him out of danger for some hours to come. He regained consciousness about noon after a morning of intense suffering.

His kidneys have been lacerated and the physicians worked for hours to stop the loss of blood from this cause. Late in the afternoon they were successful, but it is impossible to tell how badly he has been injured about the jaws for several days. Many of his teeth were loosened and he is badly cut about the face and head. His life was despaired of this morning, but at noon the doctors found a change in his condition and are now hopeful of recovery, barring complications or infection.

Senator Shortridge and other members of the California delegation were visitors at the Baltimore Hospital during the day and Mrs. Free remained at the bedside of her husband constantly.

Congressman Free was injured while driving his car on a sharp curve on a road near Baltimore. The glaring headlight of another car blinded him and in turning aside he went too far, the car going over an embankment and then striking a telephone pole.

ESCAPES DEATH

N. A. Denvir of San Francisco, the fourth member of the Free motor party, is only slightly injured and had a really miraculous escape. He will be able to leave the hospital tomorrow. His brother, W. F. Denvir, was instantly killed and Congressman Free's secretary, Grant C. Freeman, died on the way to the hospital in an ambulance.

The four men were returning to Washington in the California Representative's new touring car after a few hours' business trip in Baltimore. They had just passed Savage, about sixteen miles outside of Baltimore, where they turned down an "S" shaped hill when the accident occurred.

The body of W. F. Denvir was taken to the Laurel undertaking establishment, where it now remains pending an inquest by Coroner Gardinala at Savage.

The two Denvirs came to Washington Thursday from California and registered at the Raleigh Hotel. They called on Representative Free and told him they were going to Baltimore Friday to attend business. Mr. Free, who had recently purchased a new car, offered to drive them over. Shortly after Congress adjourned he invited his secretary, Mr. Freeman, to go on the trip and the four left Washington.

WAITS IN VAIN

Mr. Free had a dinner engagement with Mrs. Free and the two California visitors at the Raleigh Hotel at 7:30 last night. Mrs. Free arrived at the hotel at the appointed time and after waiting for more than an hour, returned to her home on Thirty-fourth Place.

Mr. Freedman has been in Washington since 1920. He managed Representative Free's campaign in the spring of that year, and was chosen by the former as his secretary. He is married, but has no children. He was born in 1872, in Sacramento, Cal., but when a young man went to San Jose, where he entered the real estate business in San Francisco. She left her home this morning for Baltimore to take charge of her husband's body.

REMOVAL OF GENERAL REQUESTED BY LEGION

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) Sept. 23.—Demand for the removal of Brig.-Gen. Charles E. Sawyer from the post of chief co-ordinator of the Federal hospitalization board was made today in a resolution unanimously adopted by the convention of the New York State Department of the American Legion. The resolution charged Dr. Sawyer "has shown himself by speech and action to be temperamentally unfitted for the position."

COURT GRANTS INJUNCTION

cated by Donald Richberg, counsel for Bert M. Jewell, head of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor and the lading defendant in the case, an appeal will be rushed to the Circuit Court of Appeals for a review of the case.

Attorney Richberg asserted that though the opinion of the court supports the contention of the Attorney-General the court did not hold that the strike at its inception was unlawful.

Counsel for the defendants have an opportunity to answer the bill within twenty days after the application was filed which was on the 11th inst. If this is done the hearing will result either in making the restraining order permanently effective as to future strike operations of Bert M. Jewell, president of the Railroad Department of the American Federation of Labor, or in striking it out entirely. The latter alternative seems utterly unlikely in view of the strong language employed in Judge Wilkerson's opinion regarding the power of the court to enjoin acts of all character which tend to obstruct interstate commerce.

The restraining order prohibits the strikers and the injunction is expected to prohibit them from:

RESTRAINS STRIKERS

Interfering with operation, repairs and employment on the railroads.

Conspiring to interfere.

Loitering near or trespassing on road property.

Attempting to induce road employees to quit or to prevent persons from seeking employment with the roads.

Picketing.

Harming employees or would-be employees or visiting their homes.

Hindering transportation.

Encouraging or directing employees (union members or others) to stop work or others to refrain from seeking work.

Issuing instructions or public statements which might have the above effect.

Using union funds for purposes to be enjoined as above.

UNION DEATH BLOW

In a statement tonight Mr. Richberg said he interpreted the decision as a death blow to all big unions because it will make them powerless nationally if upheld by the higher courts.

"The decision, as I interpret it, means that the unions will be liable for any unlawful act committed in connection with a union strike regardless of who commits it," it said.

"That means that there can be no national strikes. When there is a national strike with thousands of men involved there are bound to be some acts which would be in violation of the injunction. Since the unions would be held responsible for these acts they could not call a strike without eventually having all their leaders in jail."

He said that an appeal would be taken regardless of the technical form the temporary injunction to be issued Monday takes, and asserted his intention of calling B. M. Jewell, shopcrafts leader and other strikers' officials in an effort to prove that the shopcrafts organization had no connection with any unlawful acts.

S. M. Felton, head of the western division of the Association of Railway Executives said that while he had not carefully read the decision as yet, he believed is to be "quite right and just."

Wedding Day of Former Kaiser Fixed, Report

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—The wedding of former Kaiser Wilhelm to Princess Permine of Reus has been tentatively fixed for November 5, according to an announcement in well-informed quarters today.

Public lists have been opened in the shops at Potsdam for signatures of congratulation to the former Emperor.

GLIDER IS INJURED

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

GERSFIELD (Rouan Mountains) Sept. 23.—Edmund T. Allen, the Boston glider pilot, became the victim of the first serious accident that has happened during this year's gliding season here. While making a flight from Wasserkuppe his machine suddenly crashed to earth. Allen had to be carried down the hill which is more than an hour's walk. The exact nature of his injuries has not yet been ascertained.

His Hearing Restored

The invisible ear drum invented by A. O. Leonard, which is a miniature megaphone, fitting inside the ear entirely out of sight, is restoring the hearing of hundreds of people in New York City. Mr. Leonard invented this drum to relieve himself of deafness and head noises, and it does this so successfully that no one could tell he is a deaf man. It is effective when deafness is caused by catarrh or by perforated or wholly destroyed natural drums. A request for information to A. O. Leonard, Suite 111, 70 Fifth avenue, New York City, will be given prompt reply.—[Advertisement.

Guaranteed for pyorrhea

Now, for the first time in the history of dentistry, it is possible to obtain a treatment for Rigg's Disease (Pyorrhea) on terms of "your money back if it fails."

If you are a sufferer from this dread disease you have sought in vain for a remedy backed by any such guarantee.

Your dentist may be one of the many who are using DENTOMEL regularly in their practice and he may have told you that nothing he ever has tried has been so uniformly successful and so permanent in results. Ask him about it.

Or, better still, get a bottle from your druggist and try it at our risk. So simple and easy are the directions for removing every bit of tartar, pus and film from the teeth and for hardening the gums and setting loose teeth firm and tight that anybody can apply it at home.

Remember, if DENTOMEL fails to rid your mouth of all traces of Pyorrhea and its effects you have only to return the bottle to your druggist to get your money back.

BILL JOHNSTON DOWNS TILDEN

Californian Defeats Champ in Four Sets

West Carries Off the Major Tennis Honors

Mrs. Mallory Trims Mary Browne at Nets

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FOREST HILLS (L.I.) Sept. 23.—West carried off the major honors of the East-West struggle to decide the championship of the sections before a tremendous crowd at Forest Hills today. Although the complete score cannot be given because one match was stopped to permit the Kinsey brothers to catch a train for California, the score counts but little. The fact that little Bill Johnston swept to victory, three sets to one, over Big Bill Tilden, and finally buried him in a love set justifies the claim of the West to the lead. On points West won, although each section is credited with three matches.

The final game of the Tilden match furnished the anticlimax of an exciting and interesting intersectional struggle which brought together most of the really great stars of American tennis. They had battled hard for three sets, although Tilden, save in one brilliant period, was far from being what he was a week ago at Philadelphia.

SHOWS NO FLASH

Then, when the big crowd, which showed its favoritism for the little Californian, expected a rally, Tilden suddenly stopped, played as if indifferent, slammed the ball around, netted repeatedly and seemed to be trying to lose. Not a flash of play did he show in the entire six games during which he scored but five points.

His exhibition left a bad taste in the mouths of the 10,000 fans jammed around the field.

The doubles, which started as a runaway for the East, developed into a fiercely fought struggle, but with the sets 2 to 1 in favor of the East and five games all in the fourth set, the Kinseys were forced to quit in order to catch their train to California, and the match was declared canceled.

CALIFORNIANS RALLY

The easterners were within two points of winning the match in three straight sets when the Californians rallied and, directing their attack at Washburn, wore him down steadily. At times Williams was marooned in the court while Washburn was forced to stand the brunt of the hot volleying from the coast boys and their steady lobbing and shooting at him wore him down. It looked like a good compromise for the East to permit the calling off of the match even though they held the advantage of one set as the westerners were going better and seemed to have the fourth set won when they started hurrying and allowed Washburn and Williams to even the count on games.

Washburn and Williams started with a rush and swept the Californians off their feet in the first set, breaking through Bob repeatedly and winning the set, 6-1. The native sons made a desperate rally in the second set and just fell short of winning, once being within two points of game and set. But finally the superior service of the easterners told and they won, 9-7. It was a brilliant struggle, the Kinseys twice breaking through Williams's service, but in the fifteenth Bob Kinsey's weaker service was attacked successfully and although the Kinseys rallied brilliantly and forced Washburn to a deuce game they lost and were beaten.

SEEM ALMOST BEATEN

The Kinseys seemed surely beaten in the third set with the games 5-4 against them and Williams serving, but with set and match at his mercy Williams wabbled and the Kinseys broke through, squaring the set. The easterners, however, evened the score by breaking through Howard Kinsey's service in the eleventh game, winning it, 5-3, and the Californians came back and broke through Washburn, winning a love game marked by fierce rallies. They fought for every point until the twentieth game, when the Kinseys smashed through Washburn's service and took the game and set winning, 11-9.

They were five games all in the fourth set, the Kinseys twice seeming to be sweeping to victory then hastening when the Californians were warned they would have to catch their train for the Coast. After a minute of consultation the match was called off and the boys, showered with cheers, raced to catch their train for home.

DRIVEN TO BACK COURTS

Mrs. Mallory and Miss Browne, who suspended play yesterday because of darkness, agreed to play three sets instead of one today and Mrs. Mallory swept the first, 6-3, Miss Browne failing to come to the net with her usual style of attack. In the second set Miss Browne fought harder, but Mrs. Mallory drove her into the back courts and, although her placements were better, she was not strong enough to withstand the attack of the champion.

It was growing dark when Richards and Willis Davis were battling and an agreement was made to make it two sets out of three. Davis captured the first, but Richards, volleying brilliantly and using better service than is usual for him, took the next and, breaking through Davis, twice took the final set. He seemed to have it won easily when Davis suddenly braced and carried it to a deuce set; then a brilliant attack by Richards captured the next two games and made the match a technical tie and a moral victory for the West.

The results follow:

Watson Washburn and Richard Williams (East) played Howard and Robert Kinsey (California,) the match standing 6-1, 7-9, 11-9 and 5-5 when play was stopped to permit the Kinseys to catch a train.

William Johnston (California) defeated William T. Tilden II (Philadelphia,) 6-3 4-6, 6-0.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory (East) defeated Miss Mary Browne (California,) 6-3, 6-3.

Vincent Richards (Yonkers) defeated Willis Davis (California,) 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

SINDORF TAKES SINGLES TITLE

Ralph Sindorf won the men's singles championship of the Los Angeles county tennis tournament at the Los Angeles Tennis Club yesterday by winning a hard-fought three-set match from Eugene Warren, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4. Warren battled viciously, but Sindorf had a little too much reserve power for him.

Simpson Sinsabaugh and Carl Busch sprung a surprise by capturing the men's doubles title from Warren and Sindorf after three sets by a count of 6-1, 6-8, 8-6. The last two sets were full of sterling tennis and the issue was in doubt until Sinsabaugh and Busch got over the deciding point.

SEMIPROS TO TANGLE UP TODAY

Cleary Athletic Club to Meet Renshaw, Jones and Sutton Ball Squad

BY JOE BUSH

Twenty-eight Greater Southern California Baseball Association ball teams have been scheduled by Secretary Joe Pirrone to meet in fourteen games today. The feature game to be played on local diamonds is between the Cleary Athletic Club nine and the fast Renshaw, Jones & Sutton squad at the White Sox Park.

Both of these teams have been going like whirlwinds lately and a rip-snorter of a game is predicted. The Cal-Pa-Co Paints, one of the strongest squads in the association, will hook up with the speedy San Diego gang in the San Diego stadium. This will be the San Diego nine's first appearance against a Greater Southern California Baseball Association squad and much interest is being concerned as to what kind of showing the southern club will make, as it is rated as a very high class team.

At Lynwood, the Lynwood and Latin teams will clash in what is expected to be a close game. The Ira Furniture Company meets Belleflower on the latter's diamond, while the White King Soap Company nine tangles with the West Coast Oil Company squad at Olinda. The Fahy-Fords clash with the Glendale Merchants in the Merchants' Park and Rivera meets Glendora at Glendora. The schedule follows:

Latin vs. Lynwood at Lynwood.
L. A. of C. vs. Fraternal Brotherhood at Ross-Snyder field.
V. M. Ira Furniture Company vs. Belleflower at Belleflower.
Palomar vs. New Method Sewing Machine Company at Slauson playgrounds.
Cimarrons vs. Herman Sheet Metal Company at Salt Lake playgrounds.
Cleary Athletic Club vs. Renshaw, Jones & Sutton Paper Box Company at White Sox Park.
Cal-Pa-Co Paints vs. San Diego at San Diego Stadium.
Pomona Elks vs. Santa Fe Athletic Club at San Bernardino.
Rivera vs. Glendora at Glendora.
White King Soap Company vs. West Coast Oil Company at Olinda.
Fahy-Fords vs. Glendale Merchants at Glendale.
L. A. Japanese vs. Hynes at Hynes.
Kramer Lease vs. Standard Oil Company at Huntington Beach.
Bradfords vs. Long Beach at K. of C.

WILASKA IS WINNER IN STRAIGHT HEATS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Sept. 23.—Three cheap class events were all that were staged on today's grand circuit card, the 2:16 pace having been declared off because of a lack of starters. Wilaska, of the McDonald stable, was the only straight heat winner of the afternoon, winning the 2:18 trot, without dropping a heat. She was first choice along with Justissima.

After D. W. Maloney, an outsider, had won the first heat of the 2:08 pace, he broke in the second mile and narrowly escape the flag, Wrack, the favorite, winning. D. W. Maloney was never headed in the final mile, however. Jane the Great placed in the field in the 2:04 trot, won that event after Kilowatts, second choice, had won the first heat. In each of the last two miles, Jane the Great was easily the best, while the favorite, Peter Coley, was never a contender.

ELKS IN BALL GAME

The strongest line-up the Huntington Park Elks ever have banded together is going out to battle the Garden Athletic Club team at the colored club's home field, Thirty-second and Long Beach avenue, this afternoon.

SPRINTER COPS AGAINST HORSE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) Sept. 23.—Allan Woodring, Olympic 200-meter champion and world's 300-yard indoor title holder, won a special 75-yard dash against a race horse at the State American Legion games yesterday. His time was 7⅘s. Woodring won by a stride.

PANTHERS WILL PLAY STANFORD

Pittsburg Eleven to Invade Palo Alto Grid

Football Game Arranged for December 30

Proceeds to be Devoted to Nonsport Funds

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURG, Sept. 23.—Athletic officials of the University of Pittsburg announced tonight they had accepted an invitation from Leland Stanford University for a football game at Palo Alto, Cal., on December 30.

The announcement came as a distinct surprise to the students. Not long ago reports that the University of Pittsburg eleven might participate in post season contests were semiofficially denied.

The Panthers, coached by Glenn S. Warner of Carlisle fame, are in training for their heavy schedule of games. They will meet the University of West Virginia here on October 14 and have contests scheduled with Cincinnati University, Lafayette, Syracuse, University of Pennsylvania, Bucknell, Geneva, Washington and Jefferson and Penn State.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 23.—Leland Cutler, member of the university board of control, announced tonight he had received a telegram from the athletic council of the University of Pittsburg accepting his suggestion that a football game be played between Pittsburg and Stanford on December 30 at Stanford University. Glenn (Pop) Warner, the coach of the Pittsburg outfit, is to be the Stanford coach beginning with the season of 1924. His chief lieutenant, Andrew Kerr, is head coach of the Stanford team.

The proceeds of the game will be divided between the universities for nonathletic purposes, it was announced. Stanford's share will go toward the proposed $400,000 men's dormitory, while the Pittsburg end will be devoted to payments on the new alumni hall on the Pittsburg campus.

SEATTLE WALLOPS BEES TWO GAMES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALT LAKE, Sept. 23.—Seattle won both ends of a double-header today 7 to 4 and 13 to 2. The Indians combined a batting rally with erratic fielding on the part of the Bees in the ninth inning of the first game for four tallies. In the second Williams had the locals helpless. Lane hit three doubles and a single in the second game and Tobin got a homer, two doubles, a single and a sacrifice. Score:

By HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Chances are that the boys who chirograph the figures on the form chart will give the Yankees a slight edge over the Giants should the two New York teams, as seems probable, meet in the world series.

Both clubs have undergone certain chances calculated to enhance their strength over a year ago, but the process of presaging the probabilities will be one for the most part of simple addition and subtraction.

Subtract Phil Douglas from the Giants and add "Bullet Joe" Bush to the Yankees, and the net result would seem to be considerably larger than the breadth that separated winner and loser at the close of that memorable struggle last fall.

Douglas turned the Yankees back twice. Nehf won a game, Barnes two. Without big-framed, powerful Phil, courageous in a close battle and a great money pitcher, the Giants would have been put to ignominious flight. Has McGraw a pitcher who can step into the breach?

The situation would appear to be one largely of less Douglas and plus Bush. Many will regard the addition of Scott and Dolan on one side and Groh and Stengel on the other as rather a balancing maneuver, and not necessarily vital elements. Clearest cut angle of the situation would appear to be the phase of the pitching situation mentioned.

Fielding, of course, is an elusive and imponderable factor. The way baseballs are made they are full of strange and unexplainable hops.

Off-hand we recall two world series in which the bulk of the sacks changed hands on boots, one of them no later than last year. That muff by Snodgrass against Boston won Fred undying fame of a kind. Fielding, or rather lack of it, was in the last analysis the deciding factor a year ago. Starting with the seventh game the series began to slide unmistakably toward the Giants through the faulty Yankee defense. Two errors by Ward gave this contest to the National League Club. Then, failure of Peckinpaugh to handle an easy roller in the first inning of the eighth contest produced the only run of the game and, as it proved, the decisive run of the series. This gave the Giants their fifth game and cinched the affair. Douglas nursed that one-run lead throughout, turning back the Yanks, who battled desperately, but, as it proved, with futility to break through.

This time the Yankees will have the less brilliant, but possibly more dependable Scott at short in lieu of Peckinpaugh. Ward will again be at second unless Huggins elects to use McNally, which would not be surprising in view of the psychological effect which last year's experience might have on Ward.

These things are recited, not in a spirit of criticism or censure, but to point out how a bad hop or two may turn over the dope of the expertest experteriono.

Only wonder is that considering the strain under which the athletes labor, more world series have not passed into history via the slippery error route.

Were the series for nine games instead of seven, the chances of the Yankees would be further enhanced. Huggins is believed to be better fortified in the box for an extended duel than McGraw, now that Phil is gone and is out splashing around among the anchovies.

Strange as it may listen, New York baseball writers have been "afraid" for some time that the Giants and Yankees would win.

This attitude is not due to disloyalty, but rather to the instinct of self-preservation. I have a letter from a scribe acquaintance in Manhattan, describing the horrors of the last series from a writer's standpoint, and confessing in a palsied hand the fear that it may happen again.

Few realize the work which a series of this magnitude imposes on a baseball writer, especially in a city where fresh editions are shooting onto the streets every few minutes, each calling for a fresh lead, and every move depicted to the last detail. I recall one afternoon at the Polo Grounds when I was required to dictate a running story for my own paper in New York, and also two stories for Philadelphia papers which my own paper was serving. This was just an ordinary double-header. Of course, that was not an everyday situation, but the duties in a world series are more onerous, as the game must be described on a ball and strike basis and much more elaborately.

It is a tough job even when the big series is played in two rival cities, with a day's break now and then and a change of scenery. Little wonder the Gotham literati were cuckoo at the finish last fall, and fear that the impending experience will leave them chasing butterflies up and down Coogan's bluff.

TEXAS CREW WINS

Dope ran true in the opening of the Pacific Fleet's winter boat-racing program at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday, Ensign Dan Worth's first enlistment whaleboat crew from the Dreadnaught Texas winning the three-mile event in one of the prettiest whaleboat races seen on this coast. It was an ideal day for the race with a light breeze rippling the course slightly. Every battleship in port had a crew entered and they rowed like veterans—the entire field hanging well together until within 100 yards of the finish. Coxswain Bill McIntyre speeded up the Texans stroke on the final quarter mile and they responded beautifully, finishing well ahead of the New Mexico and Tennessee crews, winners of second and third place respectively. The New York's entry was disqualified for running outside the course at the finish line.

Victory went to the Tennessee in the one-man half-mile punt race, the Pennsylvania finishing second with the Mississippi a close third. Sports interest of the fleet will today be centered on the special three-mile whaleboat race between the California and Tennessee to be run over a straightaway course inside the breakwater at ten o'clock this morning, a side bet of $15,000 is said to be up on the event.

EWING COPS TROPHY

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Sept. 23.—Between 2000 and 3000 Nobles of Al Malaikah and other temples of the Mystic Shrine attended the annual outing and golf tournament of Al Malaikah at Flintridge Country Club today.

The Frank P. Flint Cup, offered by former Senator Flint for the best net score in the handicap match, was worn by N. S. Ewing of Long Beach, whose handicap of 18 brought his score down to sixty-four for the course. Noble Ewing will have his name engraved on the trophy and receive a smaller replica of it for permanent possession. Dr. Wallace H. Spinks of Los Angeles won the cup offered for the best gross score, he made the course in 79. E. N. Jones of Long Beach, handicap 24, won the second prize cup with a net score of 68, and third place was tied between H. E. Bennett, handicap 14, and Frank Freshman, handicap 18, whose net score was 70.

There were 118 cards turned in by the golfers, and it was whispered that some of the scores on them almost reached the 200 mark. The handicaps were those of the Southern California Golf Association.

O'HARA AND SEAMAN TO MEET AT VERNON

Solly Seaman, the scrappy lightweight, will tangle with Teddy O'Hara, the hard-hitting Oaklander, in the feature attraction at Doyle's Vernon arena next Tuesday night. Matchmaker Wad Wadhams has lined up what appears to be a splendid set of bouts to back up the main event. The semi-wind-up brings together Goat Lavin and Young George, a pair of sluggers. Johnny Trambitas and Johnny Jordan are down for the special event.

Soldier Burke vs. Sunny Jim, 165 pounds.
Sailor Constantine vs. George West, 125 pounds.
Bobby Gray vs. Jack Morton, 145 pounds.
Robert Moran vs. George Zaro, 122 pounds.

VERNON LOST HALF A GAME YESTERDAY

Vernon lost ground yesterday as a result of defeat at the hands of Oakland, while Los Angeles was holding San Francisco at an even break in San Francisco. One full game now separates San Francisco and Vernon.

While not very successful to date, the Angels are apparently giving the Seals a tough battle. They forced the league leaders to go fourteen innings on Friday and yesterday defeated them in ten rounds. San Francisco is a hard club to beat on its own advantageous grounds, but may suffer a reverse in Sacramento next week while Seattle is playing Vernon here.

OAKLAND WINS IN TORRID TILT

Northerners Down Vernon in Twelfth Inning

Heaver Kremer Puts Up a Whale of Game

Wheezer Dell to Rescue in Tenth, but Fails

BY HARRY A WILLIAMS

Whether Del Howard gave his ball team a shot in the ankle or merely orazzed it into action is neither here nor there nor the other place.

Suffice it to remark that Oakland upset the dope of those optimists who had predicted it would not snatch even one game out of the series by trimming the Tigers, 4 to 3, in twelve innings. Thus the Oaks made a lot of work for themselves and a lot of trouble for Vernon, who didn't want to be bothered.

WILIE THERE

Denny Wilie who was hitting hard, with a double back of Wildfire Schulte's single in the twelfth, gave the Oaks a winning run off none other than Wheezer Dell, our only outstanding and bona fide no-hit pitcher. Previously, Doyle had been taken out because of lacking his usual fine form, with Roy Gilder removed for a pinch-hitter in ninth. Dell took hold at the start of the tenth, and for two rounds turned the Oaks back without a bingle. This, counting the last inning of the first game Sunday, have Wheezer twelve consecutive hitless innings. We have seen batters go more innings than that, without a hit, but few pitchers.

Ray Kremer, a large and rugged right hander, pitched real ball, and there was an extra reason. He had two more victories to go before drawing a $500 bonus, and this was one of them. His next victory will be an expensive one for the club. Kremer had some fine support, particularly from Brubaker and Chavez, but it was ragged in spots, and all of Vernon's runs were scored on errors.

BREAK LOOSE

The Tigers were stopped at third base in the home half of the twelfth. Zeider seemed to start something with a short fly that dropped between Knight and Wilie. Dell sacrificed, and Chadbourne was strong-armed out at first on grounder to Chavez, Zeider taking third. High hit a sharp grounder at the same party. Ball hugged ground, and was hard to field. But Chavez handled the ball faultlessly, and with a quick throw got Hughie at first by a good stride.

Official scorer was haggard and needed a shave after his horrifying experience of the day before, and showed the pallid after-effects of a night of prayer and fasting.

Scoring instructions say that the scorer should make sure that his heart is right with God, and urges him to let his conscience be his guide. This would appear to be asking a good deal, as heretofore it has been the impression that it would take a considerable and extended voyage to find a conscience in baseball.

HE ADMITS IT

But Mr. Frayne after much self-searching admits he discovered that he has a conscience, and that it is clear on this particular point. How it stands on other matters is a delicate point, and we were too polite to ask him. His bold and unshakable stand, while causing dissention, won't do baseball any harm, and proves that the press box is at least spasmodically pure.

It is indeed an inspiring thing to see a young man lash himself to the mast on the roof and stand unshaken while the howls of adverse criticism whistle through his new whiskers, undaunted, undefiled, incorruptible and unpolluted. Too many of us wear our conscience on our cuff, and then in the middle of the week turn the cuff instead of changing shirts.

GIVES PLEASURE

It gives us pleasure to announce that our official scorer after being rocked around in the crucible of criticism is now free from dross and fully sanctified. Those who disagree with him may sometime gaze up through the smoke of Purgatory and find him playing a zither in Paradise.

Rather early in Saturday's combat it became evident that the Oaks regarded themselves as tough as second growth hickory.

FIRST TO SCORE

The Tigers as usual were first to score, doing so in the second. Spud Murphy doubled with two down, and took third on a wild pitch which Koehler blocked. Koehler then recovered the ball and heaved wild to third, Spud dusting along to the plate.

The Oaks dragged the tying run out of a large mess in the third. Brubaker led off with a double. A brace of sacrifices, one by Willie on the ground and one by Cather into the air, enabled Brubaker to finish brewing the run. Lafayette raked a single to left and Knight walked. Gilder displaced Doyle. Koehler drove to French, but Zeider spilled the toss. This loaded the sacks, although to no purpose, as Chavez was beans and chili for the Tigers on a grounder to Zeider.

STEALS SECOND

Two had been retired in the third, when Brubaker, most active of the visitors, walked and stole second on the run. Murphy's throw went to center field, and Brubaker intended to arise and shine, but found Rollie Zeider sitting on him. Mr. Zeider was reclining across the legs of Mr. Brubaker in the leisurely manner of the old Romans. Bru protested violently to serving as a davenport and being occupied by a tramp, but Mal Eason closed the incident by declaring it the first down with a long distance remaining to be traveled to the goal line. Taking this tip, Brubaker traveled that long, long trail on Wilie's single to right, arriving safely by virtue of Murphy's muff of Bodie's throw. Cather filed.

FIRST TIME

When the Oaks scored back in third it was the first time they had crossed the plate in thirty-three innings. That is, there had been thirty-two barren frames intervening. This encouraged them so they decided to score again in the fourth, as recited, which in turn encouraged them to score again in the fifth on the brace of singles by Lafayette and Knight, Koehler's sacrifice and an out.

Vernon knotted the going in the fifth. French doubled and Zeider walked. Brubaker stabbed a hot grounder of Gilder, who tagged French out of line. Chad drove to Knight. Jack had to cut loose with all he had at close range, and the throw was too hot for Lafayette to freeze. This filled the bases. High forced Chad, Chavez to Knight, and Jack in trying for a double play threw to the pit, Zeider and Gilder scoring on the error.

Smith skied to Cather. Vernon couldn't quite finish it in the ninth. French walked and Zeider sacrificed. Hawks, batting for Gilder, out Chavez to Lafayette on a sensational play. French on third died there when Schulte at the finish of a long sprint gathered in Chadbourne's fly. Score:

KERR SHIPPED TO PALO ALTO

Bill Kerr, prep distance champion, after several false rumors and reports, has apparently settled down again, this time at Stanford. Bill and his side kick, Bud Nash, registered at Occidental last week, mapped out their courses and start-to school. After one day a delegation of distinguished relatives, headed by an aunt, swooped down on Bill and carried him off bodily and shipped him to Stanford. Nash is still a Tiger. Kerr has been something of a bone of contention all summer. His own personal wishes, as he expressed them publicly several times, were to go to Occidental, but his relatives were particularly strong for Stanford. So that's that—unless Bill shows up at some other school next week.

Oxy Freshmen Give Varsity Hard Tussle

The Occidental varsity ran up against a tough customer in the first crimmage of the year yesterday when the Tigers tackled the Tiger freshmen. At the end of a solid hour of stamping up and down the field the varsity found itself ahead by the score of one touchdown, the result of a long forward pass, and a safety when Johnny Spangler threw quarterback Smith of the Frosh behind his own line.

The varsity looked fair, but the freshmen were a big surprise with their strong attack and great defense. For the varsity Capt. Cory at tackle, Pierre Priaulx at center, Hadden at half, Garey at full and Spangler and Argue at ends were the heroes. For the freshmen Hall of Citrus at full, the Davis brothers and Westgate at halves, Smith at quarter, and several linemen, particularly Stevens of Santa Ana at quarter, carried off the violent applause.

WILDCATS VICTORS OVER INGLEWOODS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MONROVIA, Sept. 23.—The Wildcats' first prelim, played with Inglewood's pigskinners on Monrovia field, resulted in a clean victory for Monrovia, Childers intercepting an Inglewood forward pass on their own 30-yard line and squirming through for the only score of the afternoon. Albert Miller played good football as did most of the Wildcats, Capt. "Turk" Anderson is developing into a fair booter, sending the ball for 45 yards on punts with apparent ease. The Wildcats will not start their regular schedule until October 20. Coach W. H. Feeler sees another Central League championship team in the making.

Our Shattered Angels Finally Secure a Contest from the Seals

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—Los Angeles and San Francisco divided today's double-header, the Seals winning the first game, 4 to 3, and the Angels taking the second by the same score. The Seals also gained a half-game lead in the league today on account of Oakland beating Vernon.

The first game belonged to the Seals from the start. They scored twice in the first inning. They made another run in the third and the final score in the ninth.

The Angels made one score in the first inning of the second game, but the Seals tied the score in the second as a result of Ellison's homer, and took the lead in the fifth. The game was evened again in the seventh. It took ten innings for the visitors to win.

It was Jimmy O'Connell's day and between games the Knights of Columbus gave O'Connell a gold watch and chain and a gold knife. Manager Killefer of Los Angeles gave him a bouquet. Score:

BROWNS BLOW FLAG CHANCES

Lowly Mackmen Triumph Over St. Louis

Cleveland Loses to Yankees by Poor Playing

Tigers Cling to Third Place at Boston's Expense

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—St. Louis lost to Philadelphia today, 6 to 5 and dropped to 4½ games behind New York in the pennant race, as the New York Yanks won from Cleveland. The Browns now can do no better than tie it up in the remaining games scheduled and to do this, they will have to win their four remaining games and New York will have to lose its five games still to be played.

Kenneth Williams lost the major league home-run lead by failing to connect with a circuit drive, as Rogers Hornsby of the local Nationals, with whom he had been tied, clouted his fortieth of the season in today's game with New York. The score:

NEW RECORDS BY SPEEDSTERS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) Sept. 23.—Sig Haugdahl, driving a Frontenac, who yesterday broke the world's automobile record for the mile on a half-mile track at the Eastern States Exposition, today set up five more world's records for two, three, four, five and ten miles. In the two-mile he did 1:59 as against his own time of 2.0236 last year at Lincoln, Neb. He did three miles in 3m. flat as against Leslie Allen's 3.1020 last year. Haugdahl did four miles in 4.00½, five miles in 5.00¾ and ten miles in 9.56. Leon Durcy's earlier records were 4.13 for the four miles, 5.1580 for the five miles and 10.2960 for ten miles.

CAMILIA SABI SETS TWO FIELD RECORDS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Sept. 23.—Miss Camilia Sabi, of Newark, star of the American team of girl athletes, which recently participated in the Paris Olympiad, today established two new world's records for feminine athletics in a local meet sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union. She cleared the sixty-yard hurdles in 8 4-5 seconds and stretched the standing broad jump record to 8 feet 3 3-4 inches.

ANGLO-AMERICANS WINNERS AT POLO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—Eastcott, the Anglo-American polo four, won an exciting extra period match from Argentine, the English and American champions, by the score of 8 to 7. The contest was a special one arranged to take the place of the canceled Meadowbrook-Eastcott match. Both teams started from flat. Eastcott led until the eighth period when Argentine tied the Anglo-Americans by making three goals. In the final period Argentine narrowly missed scoring and then Eastcott drove down the field and scored the winning goal after a scrimmage, in one minute and fifteen seconds of play.

OSBORNE BRINGS IN TWO SPLENDID BUCKS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 23.—John Osborne, of the city park department here, has broken the local hunters' records for getting deer this year. Osborne went over into the wilds of Taquitz, in the San Jacinto Mountains, and before he came back to Redlands two fine bucks had fallen before his trusty Springfield.

Frank Lodge, Ollie West and John Stocker have returned from Twenty-nine Palms, where they scared up three big bucks the first morning they were out, but go only one of them.

SIGNS WITH SEALS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Charley Valla, an older brother of Gene Valla, San Francisco outfielder, who is considered the best "find" in the Pacific Coast Baseball League this year, has been signed by the Seals for a tryout.

OLD ELI SQUASHES BATES GRID SQUAD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Sept. 23.—Yale won its first football game over Bates College today, 48 to 0. Although the day here was unusually warm over 15,000 spectators were in the bowl. Bates was helpless before the Eli attack.

NAPOLEON'S INVASION OF CAPITAL SUCCESS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 23.—In the first game of the season, Oakland High School football team defeated Sacramento High School, 21 to 12 here today. Napoleon Simpson, negro halfback, scored two touchdowns for Oakland.

SHINN-HOLTZ-LYONS WINS

The Shinn-Holtz-Lyons ball squad easily won from the Pacific Pipe and Supply Company nine, 13 to 2, in a lop-sided game played yesterday at the Y.M.C.A. Field. The hitting of the winners and the pitching of Perkins, who fanned eleven men, were the feature of the game. C. Smith, Sandberg, Barger and A. Lyons fielded sensationally. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Shinn-Holtz-Lyons	13	11	4
Pacific Pipe Co.	2	6	6

Batteries—Hoodman and C. Smith; Perkins and Nelson.

O'LEARY-DIEST IN DRAW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ANAHEIM, Sept. 23.—Mike O'Leary and Scotty Diest fought a fast four-round battle here last night. Kid Layman shaded Jack Burman in the semi-windup, but the bout was called a draw. Other results: Ad Guyer stopped Art Espinosa, two rounds; Bud Baker kayoed Harry Brown, one round; Mose Mooch beat Pete Pena, four rounds.

OFFICIAL VOTE IS TABULATED

Richardson Beat Governor by 24,921

Fifty-six Per Cent of All Ballots Cast

Jordan Got Largest Number in Party History

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 23.—Friend W. Richardson defeated Gov. Stephens for the Republican nomination for Governor at the primary election by 24,921 votes, according to official election figures, made public today by Secretary of State Jordan. Richardson's vote was 286,442 and Stephens's 261,521.

The total vote cast was 813,166, or 56 per cent of the total registration of 1,425,293. This was the largest primary election vote in the history of the State. The previous record was made in 1918, when 647,234 votes were cast.

Hiram W. Johnson won the Republican nomination for United States Senator from Charles C. Moore by 74,214 majority. Moore carried four counties, Los Angeles, San Diego, Kings and Santa Clara.

GIVEN HUGE VOTE

One of the outstanding features of the election was the fact that Secretary of State Jordan, unopposed for the Republican nomination, received the largest vote ever given a party candidate at a primary election in California. His vote was 427,055. In addition to receiving the highest vote, Jordan also qualified for the Democratic nomination, having received 2297 write-in votes on the Bourbon ticket.

Surveyor-General W. S. Kingsbury also won the Democratic nomination, in addition to the Republican, securing more than the minimum required by the write-in process.

The official tabulation for all offices voted on at the primary, with the exception of Superintendent of Public Instruction and the congressional and legislative offices, which will be given out Monday, follows:

TEN LASHES FOR BEATING HORSE

Court Gives Farmer Dose of Own Punishment for Cruelty

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ZION (Ill.) Sept. 23.—Arrested for beating his horse until the blood ran down the animal's side, Clarence O. Ellis, a farmer, was sentenced to receive ten lashes with his own whip today. The sentence was carried out by Theodore Becker, Chief of Police, after which the man was set free.

Italians to Make Merry at Barbecue

Italians of Los Angeles and the immediate vicinity will observe the fifty-second anniversary of the unification of Italy with a barbecue and picnic tomorrow at Rose Hill Park. Games, sports and songs of Italy with a number of addresses will make up the program which has been planned.

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine, E. Piana, Italian consul in Los Angeles, Cleto Browni and G. Andreine are to be the speakers of the day. Dorothy Lloyd and Marine Vallen, juvenile dancers, will present the "French Doll House" in dance. Janeski Robenoff will present a Russian dance. Miss Gilda Marchetti will sing an Italian solo.

Fencing and wrestling are to be demonstrated by P. Bugandi and Bull Montana respectively.

Signor Piana will act as chairman of the festivities. He will be assisted by Signor Baroni, John Lipizitch, P. Matranga and L. Posso. All of these men are officers of the Italian Federation of Societies.

Council Head Hits District Election Plan

Declaring that those who are trying to arouse interest in the district representative plan of electing the City Council are in reality attempting to revive the discarded ward system, President Criswell of the City Council spoke before the City Club at noon yesterday in favor of the proposed proportional representation plan.

"Under the proposed proportional representation plan the expensive primary would be eliminated and we would handle nominations and elections at one time," said Mr. Criswell. "By allowing each voter to vote his first and second choice for Mayor and other officials we not only obviate the need of the primary, but we get closer to the real wishes of the people."

GRAND JURY STRIKE INQUIRY NEARS END

REPORT ON NEEDLES QUIZ IN FEW DAYS, FEDERAL OFFICIAL SAYS

Special Asst. Atty.-Gen. Hiram C. Todd said yesterday that the inquiry of the Federal grand jury into strike conditions on the three transcontinental railways would be concluded during the present week. A report will be submitted to Judge Bledsoe at that time.

Attorney Todd said also that the probe so far had only covered conditions at Needles, and in his opinion the investigation would be confined to the activities of the strikers at that point.

The grand jury will resume its deliberations tomorrow, and Mr. Todd thinks only a few more days will be required to place the body in a position to make a report on the situation. He gives no hint as to what the result might be.

AGENTS CO-OPERATE

County and Federal Officers to Join Hands in Dry Cases

There is to be a closer co-operation between the county and Federal authorities hereafter in the enforcement of the prohibition law, following a conference yesterday between Sheriff W. I. Traeger and Prohibition Enforcement Agent Harold H. Dolley.

The necessity for close work on the part of both factors has been long recognized, and there has been some friction arising out of the fact that there has not been a thorough understanding as to just how operations should be conducted.

VETERANS PLAN FOR ARMISTICE

Soldiers of Allies Will Join in Celebration With Review and Grand Ball

Soldiers of the Allied nations will observe Armistice Day together if the plans which were outlined at a meeting held in the British Overseas Club last Friday evening are carried through to completion. The soldiers aiding in the observation ceremonies will not be confined to World War veterans alone. The Grand Army veterans also are planning to take part in the festivities.

Plans that have been outlined thus far provide for a review and grand military ball to be conducted at Exposition Park. Other details of the program are being considered and will be announced later, it is reported. The review and the ball are said to have been definitely decided upon, however.

Those who attended the meeting were Charles Winsell, Belgian Vice-Consul and chairman; Lieut.-Col. Sutphen, U.S.O.R., Ninety-first Division; Capt. Clayton of the British war veterans' organizations; Capt. Charles Phelpes of the G.A.R.; M. Arnoldstein, president of the Belgium Circle; Mme. Steggers, vice-president of the Belgium Circle; M. Knezevich of the Jugo-Slav Press; Dr. W. C. Francis and S. A. Milborne of the Overseas Club, and Harry Gearing of the Allied Committee.

M. Winsel announced that the Belgians of Los Angeles will observe the King's birthday, Belgian national holiday and Armistice Day on November 11. He also said that he had conferred with his government concerning a special decoration for the troops that fought as comrades of the Belgian soldiers in the late war. The matter has not been closed and it is possible that a decoration will be emblazoned on the standards of those outfits on Armistice Day.

PLANS TO SUE FARM BUREAU

Craig Requested to Resign from Board

Rancher Angered Over Action of Directors

Asserts Suit Necessary to Defend Name

Volney H. Craig, general manager of the Ford-Craig Ranch Company which operates the Ford Ranch at San Fernando, announced yesterday his intention of bringing suit against the directors of the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau, who recently requested his resignation as director-at-large of the bureau.

In his statement Mr. Craig declares that he has been unable to secure from the board any declaration of the charges upon which the request was based. He avers that the action was caused by his efforts to put the farm bureau on record as opposing the proposed $500,000,000 bond issue for water and power, which is to be voted on in November.

RESOLUTION PASSED

He further declares that the first official notice that he had of the matter was at the directors' meeting Thursday when the resolution requesting his resignation was passed and signed by thirty members of the board. This constitutes about two-thirds of the membership of the board and Mr. Craig declares in his statment that they would not have taken such action in the absence of more definite charges than appear in the resolution.

Of these resolutions, Mr. Craig says:

"Their insincerity is apparent when it is known that my term of office as a director-at-large would have expired in one month. As a director-at-large is elected by the board, if they did not want me all they had to do was not to re-elect me. This is an evident scheme to discredit me in the county.

"Now after four years of service in the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau, a service that has cost me much time and considerable money, I am put to the expense and annoyance of bringing a legal action to defend my good name."

Mr. Craig's statement is address "To the Los Angeles county farmers and to all taxpayers of the county."

DOMINATES BODY

The resolutions, which Mr. Craig quotes in full in his statement, set forth that the Los Angeles County Farm Bureau is primarily for the purpose of furthering the agricultural interests of the county; that it is a democratic association of public-spirited, unselfish workers, ruled by the majority; that a situation has arisen which appears to threaten the usefulness of the bureau and which, if it continues, "will result in the wholesale resignation and loss of our principal and most constructive workers."

The inference is made that a single individual, presumably Mr. Craig, "gifted with a dominant personality and certain oratorical ability," has forced upon the majority the wishes and desires of a minority and has blocked and delayed the expressed desires of that majority. The resolution concludes that the signatories feel that it is for the best interests of the farm bureau to request Mr. Craig's resignation.

HOTTER THAN SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR

BUT "OLD MAN HUMIDITY" IS TO BLAME FOR SOME DISCOMFORT

Although yesterday was extremely warm and declared by many to be as hot as any day this month, the official figures recorded at the United States Weather Bureau registered 85 deg. for the high point, which was shortly after noon.

On the same day last year, 76 deg. was the high point registered. Col. Hersey of the Weather Bureau says that "the hot days recorded during September this year can not be considered unusual because all sections of the country are having warmer days this month than heretofore."

Humidity caused by fog is one reason for the oppressiveness of recent days.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo which is pure and greaseless,) and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—[Advertisement.

COLLEGES TO CONSOLIDATE

Plans to Combine Units of Varsity Announced

Professional Requirements Raised by School

Pharmacy Branch Becomes Part of Institution

Plans for the reorganization of the University of Southern California wherein all of the schools and colleges which have heretofore been independent units of the school will be consolidated as integral parts of the university itself were announced yesterday by President Von KleinSmid.

The plan, as outlined by the president, purposes to raise the entrance requirements required by each of the professional schools to practically the same basis of entrance demanded by the college of liberal arts.

SAME CONTROL

The school of pharmacy, which now becomes a part of the university, will be governed by the same discipline as the college of liberal arts, including chapel attendance and campus activities. Next year requirements for entrance to this department will be four years' high school work instead of three. Dean Laird J. Stabler will remain as head of the school. The course will cover four years' study and will award graduates the degree of Bachelor of Science.

MacClay College of Theology becomes the school of Religion on the MacClay Foundation under the reorganization plan, and classes will interlap with those of the college of liberal arts. The prescribed course of study covers preparatory work for Christian ministry, advanced Bible literature, religious education, social service and missions. Dr. John Fisher is dean and Dr. John G. Hill and Prof. Carl S. Knopf are professors of biblical literature.

DEGREE NEEDED

The school will operate under the rules of the graduate school and a prerequisite for theological work will be a Bachelor of Arts degree.

The college of music also becomes more closely affiliated with the school and will award graduates the bachelor of music degree. Entrance requirements are indentical with those of the college of liberal arts.

The college of oratory will in the future be known as the school of speech and will award the bachelor of letters degree.

Two years' college of liberal arts work will be required for entrance to the law school, while similar requirements will be made for entrance to the dental school. Registration in this department closed ten days ago when the full quota of students had registered.

AWARDED DAMAGES

Judge Stephens yesterday awarded L. LeKman $500 damages against L. B. Warren for purported false arrest. Mr. Lehman was charged with embezzlement in a deal in which both parties were interested, was arrested and detained twenty-five hours.

Wounding of Negress and Tar Puzzles

George Bowan, negro, steward on the U.S.S. Sanoma, with two bullet wounds in his neck, and Mrs. Irene Washington, a negress, with a bullet wound on the breast were taken from a house at 1211 East Adams street last evening and removed to the Emergency Hospital. Neither would tell what had happened and the police were in a quandary whether to suspect an attempted murder and suicide or a suicide pact.

Bowan is on six-day shore leave from the Sanoma. He has been stopping in the house where Mrs. Washington and her husband, who is a contractor, live.

A buddy of Watson also stopping there reports he heard the shots and found the woman and the man wounded in a room in the house.

When Bowan came to on the operating table he asked:

"Where's my baby? Where's my baby?"

He would say no more.

He probably will live as the bullets missed the jugular and the brain. The woman is more seriously wounded.

COUNCIL TO SPEED UP PAVING REPAIR

SPECIFICATIONS FOR MORE REPLACING EQUIPMENT ORDERED MADE

Aroused over the report from City Engineer Griffin that there are today the record-breaking number of 464 known cuts, holes or "bumps" in street pavements due to the installation of gas, electric and other service connections, the City Council has ordered specifications drawn for additional replacing equipment, and it is expected that by November 1 the City Engineer will have many more than his present force of 100 men active in this work.

The Automobile Club of Southern California and the Los Angeles Traffic Commission have urgently requested the City Council to provide the additional equipment and men necessary to speed up the street replacement work, as the streets of Los Angeles are now, representatives of these organizations declare, in the most deplorable condition in the city's history, due to no fault of the City Engineer but as a result of the tremendous increase in the number of new buildings which must be given service connections.

Under the law the utilities companies making the holes in the pavements pay the city for resurfacing of the pavements, but the work is done by the City Engineer.

TIDE HAS TURNED

He performed the marriage ceremony for James Russell and Bessie Crawford. It is the second matrimonial step for both of the parties.

AUTOMOBILE SALESMAN LOSES HUSTLING WIFE

Mrs. H. Ruth Rohman was married thirteen years and for five of those years, she declared, in Judge Summerfield's court yesterday, her husband paid the rent. She said he worked on a commission, but she never knew how much he earned as an automobile salesman. She sued for divorce on the ground of nonsupport and was granted a decree.

Pamphlets on 'Free Love' Get Woman Jailed

"Madame" Edith Maida Lessing, asserted advocate of the abolition of marriage and the overthrow of the United States government, was arraigned before Commissioner Long, yesterday, on a complaint signed by Postoffice Inspector Sharon, charging her with violation of the Federal law prohibiting the circulation of salacious matter through the mails.

The woman was taken from the County Jail for arraignment on the Federal charge. She was unaccompanied by any attorney. The bond of $5000 was previously fixed on the recommendation of Asst. U. S. Dist.-Atty. Meader, and she was unable to furnish it. She was taken to the County Jail after the preliminary hearing was set for October 7.

The action of the Federal authorities in this case was based on the transmission of the local postoffice inspectors of copies of the defendant's pamphlet on "Civil Marriage, Why Should it be Abolished?" and "The New State." In a communication to the inspectors she is said to have threatened to place the pamphlets in the hands of every girl in the country more than fourteen years of age.

CREDIT and your BUSINESS

Thousands of men and women of "unlimited means" buy home furnishings on Credit!

In answer to why they do this, many of them will tell you:

"I can use my 'ready money' to better advantage in my business. It's pleasant and easy to take advantage of Credit in furnishing a home. I also find it economical. So why shouldn't I enjoy the privilege of easy payments if I wish?"

CONVENIENT FOR ALL

Possibly you could use your "ready money" to better advantage in your business. Had you ever thought of that?

Why should you make a large cash investment in furniture when a small initial payment gives you possession of the things you'd like to have, and when you can pay the balance at your convenience, weekly or monthly, as your earnings "come in"?

YOUR CREDIT WILL GO A "LONG WAY" AT BRENT'S

If you've never purchased furniture on easy terms here, you have a pleasant surprise in store for you. There is no embarrassing red tape attached to our Credit System—our merchandise is decidedly moderate in price—our sales people are courteous and attentive—and we try to make it particularly easy for the person who never used his Credit to open an account here.

WON'T YOU COME IN?

We will be pleased to have you, whether you wish to buy or not.

PACKING-HOUSE BURNS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 23.—The entire packing-house district of Redlands was threatened by fire at 7 o'clock tonight, when the big citrus fruit packing-house of Paine & Cornwall burned to the ground. The house was also used as a storage place for fumigation outfits owned by the company and explosions of materials used in fumigating added to the intensity of the fire.

It was caused by oil stoves exploding in the sweat-room, it is believed. The room had several boxes of lemons in it and color was being sweated into the fruit with the oil stoves. Employees had left the packing-house for just a few minutes to get something to eat. A passer-by heard roaring and started to investigate, but before he reached the house there was an explosion and flames burst through the roof. The building and equipment burned was valued at about $20,000.

dent of the independent organization, which put on the runaway strike two years ago.

The agitators are said to be busy in all shops and also among the other unions. Their argument is that the shopmen have lost their strike and that, encouraged by this victory, the rail executives will now attemptt o put a snaffle bit on the brotherhoods and all other rail unions. The agitators are being assisted by the Radicals, Bolshevists and I.W.W., who find themselves barred under the new agreements. All strikers who have participated in violence, ranging from murder to the bombing of workmen's homes, the destruction of bridges and down to the slugging of some workmen by a gang are vehement in their support of the "outlaw" union.

The promoters realize, however, that they would be certain of these recruits, so their main efforts are directed to an effort to obtain a grip on the new shop unions. Unless control of these men could be obtained, the insurgents will be unable to make any progress.

Violence broke out at various points today including a bomb explosion in the Burlington roundhouse at Kansas City, the destruction of a car by a dynamite bomb in the Missouri, Kansas and Texas yards at St. Louis and isolated cases of slugging. D. A. Hamilton, president of the Federation of Shopcrafts unions in the Santa Fe shops at Fort Madison, Iowa, was arrested for interfering with a United States marshal, who was attempting to arrest a striker for slugging a workman. A bomb was thrown through a window of the Burlington roundhouse at Aurora, Ill., but did little damage.

CLEARING COURT LIST

Judge Bledsoe to Confine Work This Week to Criminal Cases

Proceedings in the local Federal Court this week will be confined to the trial of criminal cases in Judge Bledsoe's department, all involving an alleged violation of the liquor laws. Judge Sawtelle will continue on the bench in San Diego during the most of the week, but it is understood that he will end his work there by Friday evening.

Judge Bledsoe has announced that after this week he will take up civil cases. The time of his court has lately been taken up exclusively with criminal trials and hearings growing out of the strike situation.

SNICKERS SCARE OFF TWO THUGS

Laugh of Long Beach Woman Causes Bandits to Lose Morale

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Sept. 23.—The scorning laugh of a woman proved too much for the morale of two youthful bandits last night who attempted to hold up Mrs. Minnie Sather of 944 Magnolia avenue, in her neighborhood grocery store. As a result they fled when the flourishing of their lone gun failed to alarm their victim and were captured an hour later in East Fourth street by Patrol Sergt. J. P. Davison.

At the police station where they were booked for highway robbery, they gave their names as Paul Armstrong, 18 years old, and Gene Pearce, 19 years old. Both admitted the attempted robbery. In Armstrong's possession was found a 45-caliber automatic which he said they had bought of a soldier in Needles, from where they had just come.

It was 7 o'clock in the evening when the two boys clad in overalls entered the store. One had a blue bandana handkerchief covering his face and other a red bandanna. The red-bandanned one flourished a gun. Mrs. Sather began to snicker.

"Hands up," he said. Mrs. Sather laughed.

"Get out quick before I call the police," she replied.

The red-bandanned one looked at the blue-bandanned one and the blue-bandanned-one looked at Mrs. Sather. They fled.

Police immediately sent two machine loads of detectives to the scene. The youthful bandits were found only a few squares from their attempted robbery.

OHIO TOWN DOES NOT WANT RED SPEAKER

JURY FINDS DOCTOR GUILTY OF MURDER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HUNTINGDON (Pa.) Sept. 23.—"Guilty of murder in the second degree," was the verdict returned by the jury late this afternoon in the case of Dr. Herbert Bryson, who was charged with the murder of Mrs. Helen Irene Haines, wife of a Washington (D.C.) chauffeur, with whom he had lived clandestinely for nearly a year in the village of Cassville.

PASTOR'S WIFE TELLS STORY

For First Time Since Murder Talks With Reporters

Written Statement Issued in Diary Form

Professes Great Confidence in Husband

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW BRUNSWICK (N. J.) Sept. 23.—For the first time since the discovery of the bodies here of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, a week ago, Mrs. Hall, the rector's widow, today consented to give an interview to representatives of the press. They had previously tried unsuccessfully to obtain some expression of opinion from her as to the mystery of what the authorities have decided was a double murder committed probably on the night of September 14.

Mrs. Hall was examined for over two hours by the prosecutors of Somerset and Middlesex counties. Then she issued a signed statement, recounting events leading up to the murder and giving her recollection of occurrences day by day from Wednesday, September 13, until Saturday, September 16, when the bodies were found.

DENIES JEALOUSY

"Did you feel jealousy toward Mrs. Mills or anybody else?" she was asked tonight. Her reply was, "no."

"Do you have any suspicion of anybody who might have committed the murder?" was another question, to which she replied, "no."

"Did you ever hear any gossip about Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills?"

Again she said no.

Asked about the telephone call her husband answered at 7 o'clock on the night of Thursday, September 14, just before he left his home for the last time, she said she did not know who called him.

When she was informed that Mrs. Jessie Jamieson, one of the choir singers, had said today that Mr. Hall brought her a bouquet of flowers at 3 p.m. on Thursday, Mrs. Hall did not seem surprised, although in her signed statement she made no mention of this. She explained that he often carried flowers to persons who were sick and that he probably took a few minutes from his other engagements that day to take a bouquet to Mrs. Jamieson, who was not feeling well. When Mrs. Hall was asked in effect why she did not offer a reward for the capture of her husband's slayer or employ private detectives, she ended the interview by saying:

"I have no statement to make on that."

SIGNED STATEMENT

Mrs. Hall issued a signed statement late today recounting the events leading up to the murders. The statement follows, in part:

"Wednesday, Sept. 13, 1922:

"For the past three years Mr. Hall and I have taken Mrs. Eleanor Mills and Mrs. Addison Clarke on picnics in appreciation of all the work they have done for the church. This year we went to Lake Hopatcong, the picnic comprising Mr. Hall and myself, Mr. Hall's mother, Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Clarke. We reached home about 9 in the evening.

"Thursday, Sept. 14, 1922: Mr. Hall was preparing to go out about 7, when the telephone rang. He answered from the extension upstairs as he happened to be there. I did not overhear the conversation.

"Mr. Hall went out about 7:30 telling me that he was going over to the Mills's to explain something that Mr. Mills did not quite understand in the doctor's bill.

"Mr. Hall was always early in coming home. Naturally I was very much worried when he did not come in. About 2:30 my anxiety became so great that I roused my brother William and we went down to the church, thinking it possible that Mr. Hall had stopped there for business as he frequently did, and had fallen asleep in his study. The church was locked and dark. I then went around by the Mills's house thinking someone might have been taken ill, and that my husband had remained to give assistance, as he had stated that he was going there about the bill.

"The house was dark, and I came directly home with my brother William. . .

DAY AFTER MURDER

"Friday, Sept. 15, 1922: About 7 a.m. I telephoned the police to learn if any accident had been reported. They had nothing to report. In front of the church I saw Mr. Mills. I stopped and asked him if Mr. Hall had been to his house on the preceding evening. Mr. Mills said, he had not seen him, and so far as he knew Mr. Hall had not been there. He added that his wife had also been missing. I then came home and telephoned to Mr. Hall's sisters. I met them at the train round noon. I consulted with my sister-in-law and telephoned Mr. Florence (Mrs. Hall's lawyer) who said the authorities ought to know, and that he himself would go to the police. The rest of the day, I remained at home.

"Saturday, Sept. 16, 1922: About 1:30 a.m. a member of the family came to my home to break the news to me, telling me that my fear of an accident was verified. He informed me that Mr. Hall had been shot. Mr. Hall had no private enemies. I can form no conjecture as to the motive of the deed or perpetrator. Our life had been absolutely happy and sympathetic. My confidence in him is boundless and unshaken."

FUNERAL FOR PIONEER

Services Will be Conducted Tomorrow

Funeral services of William A. White, who died yesterday at the age of 70 years at his home, 7123 Mentone avenue, will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 1 p.m. from the Pierce Brothers' chapel, 810 South Flower street. Cremation will be at the Los Angeles Crematory.

Mr. White had resided in Los Angeles for thirty-five years. For thirty years he was actively engaged in the realty business. He leaves his widow, Fanny E. White, and a son, F. J. White.

Hughes Back From Trip to South America

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The battleship Maryland, bringing Secretary of State Hughes back from Rio de Janeiro, where he represented the United States at the Brazilian World's Exposition, arrived here this afternoon.

Secretary Hughes, it is announced, will leave at once for Washington, being eager to resume his official duties at the State Department as soon as possible.

The Maryland has been seeking to break the speed record between the United States and South America on its return trip with the Cabinet member. Despite heavy seas, it is announced, and the fact that it has been forced to reduce the average speed by eight-tenths of a knot, it stands a splendid chance of bettering the record made by the liner American Legion.

WORKMAN CRUSHED BY TONS OF SHEET IRON

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

FRESNO, Sept. 23.—Ben Ayon, a laborer employed by the Western Pipe and Steel Company, was instantly killed here this morning when ten tons of galvanized sheet iron toppled from a rack at the side of the company's warehouse building, crushing him to the ground. His body was extricated from the wreckage by fellow employees.

Stocks Higher; Professionals Leave Market

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Most of last week's somewhat bewildering flutuations on the Stock Exchange were undoubtedly attributable to professional speculators and since these financial experts had been occupied every day with reversing the position which they had taken the day before, it was not to be supposed they would leave an extensive speculative account outstanding over Sunday. No one has seemed to feel sure whether and to what extent the Dardanelles dispute has actually been the governing influence in the last week's markts. But so far as that singular episode has colored financial impressions, there was always the chance of such rapid change in the cable news as to leave the "eastern crisis" no longer visible Monday morning.

Naturally, there was also the chance of greatly increased tension; but neither the stock market nor foreign exchange market appeared to entertain that expectation. On the Stock Exchange, today's irregularly distributed recovery brought some stocks one or two points above yesterday's closings. It left most of the stock market, however, with equal or larger losses for the week, and the bond market with extremely irregular changes.

All that can be said with assurance of the last week's markets is that they have at least reflected the prevalent financial state of mind; which is characterized by much uncertainty and some disappointment, but little actual uneasiness. Except for sterling, practically all the foreign exchanges ended today above yesterday's closing rates and above those of a week ago, but considerably under the rates of the first week of September. That the German mark should have sold today above the price of a week or a month ago—this notwithstanding the unheard of outpour of paper marks and the tightening German credit siutation—has caused some surprise. But every one knows how much of the immediate future is foreshadowed and measured in a "panic market" such as that which swept down mark exchange in August.

RESULT OF U.S.C. TILT IS MYSTERY

Trojan Frosh and Varsity Tangle, but Score is Kept Dark Secret

BY PERRY SCOPE

First scrimmage that the University of Southern California has had against any other than a contingent of its own men, was held yesterday behind barred gates on Bovard Field, when the Frosh took on the varsity.

The fur flew far and fast as the youngsters went into the game with the determination of beating the Trojans. No official score was kept but the varsity seemed to have the better of the argument most of the way. A lot of fumbles on the part of the older team gave the ball to the Frosh a number of times when the baby Trojans were too fast for the members of the varsity.

Joe Crail, a youngster with a gargeous crop of red clover on the top of his cranium, played a stellar game at tackle for a large portion of the game. Members of the team are mourning his loss to the school as his parents, namely the honorable Judge Crail and wife, seriously object to their youngster playing and although he has been training for several weeks by blocking kicks at home, he lost in the last few minutes of play there.

Wolford, a local high school star of last season, also made a good showing at tackle making several stellar type tackles of Hobo Kincaid, and Ironsides Baker.

The varsity team was changed so constantly that there was little to be chosen in favor of anyone man in a position. Swede Anderson, former Los Angeles High School tackle was played by Henderson for a longer period than any other man on the varsity. His 210 pounds of beef made some very good impressions on a number of the Frosh when he went plunging through the line like a mad bull.

The line-up, "as it was in the beginning" is as follows:

Varsity		Frosh
Hobo Kincaid	R.H.L.	Green
Ironsides Baker	L.H.R.	Scott
Chet Dolley	Q.	Loustalot
Norman Anderson	R.T.L.	Wolford
Johnny Boyle	L.T.R.	Joe Crail
Lowell Lindley	L.G.R.	Hicks
Newman	R.G.L.	Thompson
Leo Calland	C.	[illegible]
Dick Emmons	L.E.R.	[illegible]
Boyce	R.E.L.	Stark

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—[Advertisement.

His Conscience Troubled Him

"I know I have done wrong, please forgive me for not doing my duty and writing you before. I am thankful to God for the good remedy He gave you, and would not take $500 for the good the first dose gave me. I have been bothered for many years with gas in my stomach and indigestion, but since taking Mayr's Wonderful Remedy two years ago, have had no such trouble." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—[Advertisement.

Married Life Palled on Husband, Brother-in-law Says

Two elements seem to have made married life unhappy for Irma Bradford.

She wanted a home and her husband, Forest Bradford, apparently did not.

Mr. Bradford, according to his brother-in-law, did not have a good enough time as a married man; married life had apparently palled on him.

Judge Summerfield yesterday granted her a divorce. Mr. Bradford worked in Indianapolis.

CLASSES RESUMED

Students of Spanish Begin Work Through University Extension

The University of California extension division's classes in Spanish, in which there were 1500 enrollments last term, will be resumed for the autumn term tomorrow evening.

Eighteen other classes, covering part of the many subjects for spare time study for men and women, will be opened next week, with others to follow daily during October. The new headquarters of the extension is in the Junior Orpheum Building, 815 South Hill street.

REALTY COMMISSIONS START COURT FIGHT

The State Real Estate Commission and Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser were made defendants in two suits filed yesterday by Lloyd E. Noble who asks for a writ of prohibition to prevent the defendants from hearing charges made against him by Walter S. McKee, W. A. Wick and Louis L. Shears. A dispute over commissions which the State Commission has no jurisdiction to pass on, is said to be at the bottom of the actions.

Serving a Double Purpose

Lighting Fixtures

When you select lighting fixtures bear in mind that they serve two important purposes:

1—Illumination

2—Ornamentation

Not only should they furnish correct lighting but they should also be harmoniously in keeping with the other decorations of your home.

Our Service

Our fixture department also serves you in two ways. We not only carry a splendid selection of high grade fixtures, such as the nationally known Kayline Fixtures and Miller Fixtures, but we also operate our own factory, with skilled fixture makers who will gladly work out original fixture ideas particularly suited to your purpose.

An Exquisitely Fashioned Fixture

Illustrated above, is a de luxe candelabra, with the new Venetian finish (black, gold and colors). It is one of the famous Kayline creations, especially adapted for a fine dining room finished in the darker woods, since it has brilliant touches of color, while at the same time maintaining a conservative dignity. It is made of solid brass and bronze. The price is $133.50. Silk shades extra. To appreciate the matchless beauty of this fixture you must come in and see it.

For honest advice regarding lighting of stores, offices and factories, get in touch with our Commercial Fixture Department.

Woman Robbed of Expensive Gems in Hotel

Jewelry valued at thousands of dollars was stolen from the room of Mrs. T. Mitchell Hastings of Santa Barbara in an exclusive downtown hotel, it was learned last night, when a report of the loss was received at Central Police Station.

It was learned from employees at the hotel that Mrs. Hastings retired to her room last Tuesday night and the following morning missed her jewels. Insurance investigators have been working on the case since, it was learned.

Among the articles reported missing by Mrs. Hastings were the following: A gold and platinum bracelet, set with seventy-five diamonds; another gold and platinum bracelet with five diamonds; a diamond ring, with a large diamond in the center and several smaller ones surrounding it; a pearl necklace with three diamonds incorporated in it, and a costly gold cigarette case. The jewelry was said to have been heavily insured with Lloyd's.

It was understood that Mrs. Hastings suspected no one and could give the officers no help other than a description of the jewelry.

CALLED WIFE OLD HEN WHEN SHE QUIT JOB

When Mrs. Jessie Sain quit her job seven months after her marriage to Charles C. Sain, the husband became angry, a complaint for divorce filed yesterday by the wife states. She charges that her husband called her an "old hen" and that he nagged her. A short time after the wedding, she says, he brought his three children to live with them.

WILL INCREASE OUTPUT OF GENERATING PLANTS

Half-Million Horsepower Production Aim of Southern California Company Next Year

"More than 500,000 horsepower electric generating capacity—or, to be exact, 501,700 horsepower—is the mark we have set for our total production in 1923," was the statement made yesterday by R. H. Ballard, vice-president and general manager of the Southern California Edison Company.

This means that the Edison development program on its Big Creek-San Joaquin project in the High Sierra is being rushed at top speed and will result in bringing into operation next summer 125,000 horsepower of new water-power electricity. Of this, 100,000 horsepower will be generated in the fourth power house which will be located far down the San Joaquin Canyon at a drop of about [illegible] feet from the Huntington Lake reservoir, which will be the highest hydroelectric generating plant west of Niagara Falls. The remaining 25,000 horsepower will come from a new unit of the first power house in this chain of generating plants.

The Edison program for 1923 will keep California in the forefront rank in electric water-power development and preserve its position as a close second to New York State, which by reason of having on its northwest border the titanic power of Niagara, is still a lap ahead of this State.

NINETEEN PLANTS

There are now in operation by the Southern California Edison Company nineteen waterpower electric generating plants, including those on Big Creek and the San Joaquin River, Kern River, on the Tule and Kaweah, Mill Creek, Lytle Creek, the Santa Ana River and other streams, generating a total of 245,800 horsepower. Of its steam plants the largest are at Long Beach and Redondo, with a total steam auxiliary capacity of [illegible]. This gives a total capacity of [illegible] horsepower.

By reason of the great hydroelectrical development in Southern and Central California in the last few years Los Angeles and the southwestern zone which is commercially tributary to it will have available for agricultural and industrial purposes 773,700 horsepower of electric energy upon the completion of the Edison program next year. This water-power and steampower capacity at the end of 1923 will be approximately as follows in horsepower:

Southern California Edison Company...	501,700
Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company.	63,800
City of Los Angeles Aqueduct..........	97,300
Southern Sierras Power Company.......	68,000
San Diego Gas and Electric Company...	41,900

This will make a total of about 750,000 horsepower available in this region for all purposes.

WILL EXCEED DEMAND

"Extensive developments of the last few years," resumed Mr. Ballard, "will result during the year 1923, and for several years thereafter, in a supply of developed water power in excess of the demand by consumers. This will insure the needs of our growing population and will attract many additional industries, giving even greater impetus to our growth and prosperity. The companies are now increasing their selling forces to develop new uses for this additional water power and to negotiate with eastern manufacturers to locate their factories here.

"During the war period and the several years of readjustment following, the companies have had virtually no power salesmen in the field, but now the time for more extensive development for uses of electricity has arrived and the selling force will aggressively recanvass the entire situation and boost community development in this new era of progress following the war and readjustment period.

"To achieve the maximum, and

In upper left-hand corner is a view obtained by looking down the Grand Canyon of the San Joaquin from the third Edison power-house in the direction of the new power-house which soon will be started and which will be the largest electric-generating plant west of Niagara Falls. George C. Ward, shown in the inset picture, is vice-president of the Edison Company and is in charge of construction. In upper right-hand corner is a view of Huntington Lake, the first of four huge storage reservoirs which the company is building in the High Sierras of Fresno county. The men shown in the picture below are, left to right, R. H. Ballard, vice-president and general manager; G. C. Ward, vice-president in charge of construction; H. A. Barre, executive engineer; Edwin R. Davis, manager of construction; David H. Redinger, resident manager.

RED TAPE MAKES AID WORTHLESS

McKinley Mome for Boys Refuses to Accept Any More State Assistance

Why the McKinley Home for Boys at Gardena has decided to accept no more State aid is set forth in a statement issued by the trustees of the home yesterday, which says:

"From October, 1918, to June, 1919, McKinley had eight boys receiving State aid. Seven of these were half orphans and one orphan. For the half orphan we were allowed $6.25 a month and for a whole orphan $8.33, making approximately the sum of $515 received for the care of these boys during this period. The nurse or agent of the board of control, as shown by the State books, received $466.67 for salary and traveling expenses.

"The report made by this agent, covering thirty-five pages, most of which was duplicating some one or other of the other eighteen commissions, speaks of the vaccination of the boys. This is very fully covered by the health department and the medical department of the school board. Then the report recommends the cows be inspected for tuberculosis. This is covered by the Veterinary Commission. The report also speaks of excelsior mattresses, which did not please her. The fact that McKinley had no excelsior mattresses is merely a detail. McKinley derived no benefit of any kind from this inspection, and since it was impossible to comply with demands made by this nurse and the other eighteen commissions, the trustees decided not to take any more State aid.

"These details throw some light on the percentage of the State aid that really reaches the widows and orphans."

PIECEWORK ON SEWER ADVOCATED

Chamber of Commerce Asks That Council Call for Private Bids

The Chamber of Commerce has recommended to the City Council, as has also the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, that the improvements to be built under the $12,000,000 sewer bond issue recently authorized by the voters, be constructed by private contractors under competitive bidding and that the contract be let in sections. The Chamber of Commerce in its letter to the council said:

Sept. 23, 1922.

"The Honorable City Council,
"City Hall,
"Los Angeles.

"Gentlemen: It has come to the notice of the Board of Directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce that there is some thought in the minds of the city officials that the new outfall sewer for the city of Los Angeles could best be built for day work under the supervision of the city itself.

"We most respectfully urge that in our opinion the best method of construction of this sewer would be to let the same in sections for competitive bidding by contract rather than by day's work.

"We are quite sure you will appreciate the spirit in which this letter is written.

Yours respectfully,
LOS ANGELES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE."

EDSTROM HONORED

Local Sculptor Honored by Order at New York Meeting

David Edstrom, noted Los Angeles sculptor, whose peace statue, "Man Triumphant," was exhibited before the Conference on the Limitation of Armaments at Washington, was one of the guests of honor at the recent annual convention of the New York District, Order of Vesa, a Swedish-American organization with a national membership of 55,000.

Five hundred prominent Swedish-Americans were in attendance at the convention, which was held at the Hotel Astor, New York. "Man Triumphant" has been the subject of considerable favorable comment by eastern art critics.

BUSINESS ON UP GRADE

Remarkable Increase Shown in Number of Persons Given Employment Here This Year

Mercury in one indicative barometer of the industrial and financial conditions of Los Angeles has been reported to have recorded unsurpassed high business pressure during the last few weeks. The mercury is symbolic of the number of placements made by the local office of the State Public Employment Bureau. This barometer is the most sensitive of all that observers have to indicate the true conditions of business in the Southland, according to E. H. Hancock, district superintendent of the bureau.

During the week ending with the 16th inst., the increase in the number of placements over the same week of last year was 120 per cent. The month of August this year showed an increase in placements over the same month of last year of 100 per cent.

"This indicates that business in Los Angeles is from 95 to 100 per cent better now than it was a year ago," Mr. Hancock said yesterday.

MANY PLACEMENTS

During the week ending the 16th inst., alone, the State employment offices here found positions for 3238 workers or more than 500 each day. Of the number that were placed during the week, 2668 were industrial workers, 335 women domestic workers, and 135 men and women office workers.

For the first four days of this week, 2234 men and women found positions through the aid of the bureau. This number exceeds the daily average of the previous week by sixteen. Industrial workers made up 1865 of the number placed for the first four days 267 of the total represented women who found domestic or similar work, and 102 men and women found office employment.

The past few days have been the busiest in the history of the local bureau, according to Mr. Hancock.

If the number of placements continues to run at the high figures which have prevailed for the last two months the record for this year will surpass the 75,000 placements which were made last year, he said.

Monday is the outstanding day of the week for the seventeen persons who make up the personnel

AWARDS IN WAD CONTEST

Following are the awards in the last of The Times daily comic strip contest centering about the adventures of the Wad family. This final contest ended Thursday, September 21.

First prize, $10—North Young, 854 South Harvard Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Second prize, $5—Harold J. Wells, 5323 Santa Monica Boulevard, Los Angeles.

Prizes of $2 each for available ideas in addition to the above were awarded to the following: Bruce Russell, 2116 Fourth avenue, Los Angeles; Frank Harman, Jr., 5200 South Normandie avenue, Los Angeles; Howard W. Coombs, 1911 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles; Mrs. Viola Klages, 1411 South Catalina street, Los Angeles.

With the conclusion of these contests, which have now been conducted by The Times for one year, Mr. Wad desires to thank the thousands of Times readers who have, at various times, submitted ideas calculated to keep time from hanging heavy on his hands. It is probable that the $1500 or so expended by The Times in prizes for these ideas combined to give the Wad family a more strenuous twelve months than that enjoyed by any other residents of Los Angeles. Mr. Wad says that for one, he is worn out and expects shortly to leave for Honolulu with Mrs. Wad and the baby for an extended vacation. At last reports Tight Wad was arranging to become a stowaway in order to save the price of a ticket.

RUSH PLANS FOR ANNUAL CITY PICNIC

Committeeman Preparing Day of Joy for Employees at Frolic October 12

Preparations for entertaining 5000 city employees and their families at the third annual picnic to be held at Sycamore Grove, October 12, are being rushed by the committee in charge of arrangements. Sub-committees reported yesterday that arrangements for practically all the food supplies had been completed. It is planned to serve a free lunch to the picnickers, consisting of hot dog sandwiches, hot and cold drinks and ice cream.

C. B. Raitt, superintendent of playgrounds, has arranged a program that will include athletic contests and sports. An effort is being made to secure one of the most prominent men on the Pacific Coast for the principal speech and there will be dancing all day and evening.

The general committee in charge is composed of C. R. Lewis of the playground department, chairman; E. C. Carpenter of the engineering department, secretary; E. M. P. Cruetz of the street assessment department, treasurer; W. E. Houston of the public service department; J. A. McCaleb of the police department; C. J. O'Neil of the fire department, and C. F. LaGrage of the park department.

All city officials have given their enthusiastic support to the picnic and it is hoped that as a result of the affair a closer relationship will be cemented among the departments.

Episcopalians Visiting Here En Route Home

Episcopalians of Los Angeles are preparing a welcome and entertainment for the bishops and deputies, who have been attending the general conventions of Episcopal churches at Portland, Or., and who have announced their intention of visiting Los Angeles within the next few days.

An information desk has been established in the lobby of the Hotel Clark for the use of the guests, and automobile trips to various points of interest throughout the Southland are being arranged.

Next Sunday at 4 p.m., the Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, M.D., president of the National Council, and Lewis B. Franklin, vice-president of the council, will address a large gathering in the auditorium of the University of Southern California.

Next Thursday and Friday Mr. Franklin will conduct a training institute for the nation-wide campaign of the Episcopal church. The institute will be conducted at the St. James and Barnabas Church and hundreds of leading Episcopalians from various parts of the Southland are expected to attend.

Much Liquor Found in Raid, Say Officers

Nearly a hundred gallons of "jackass brandy" was confiscated when the University police, under the leadership of Sergt. Saunders and Detective Sergeant Williams, raided a soda-bottling plant and bonded winery at 3029 Alhambra avenue this morning.

Contrary to the terms of the bond under which the winery has been in operation, say the Federal prohibition agents, who co-operated with the police in the raid, they found concealed among some wine barrels several bottles of the brandy. Proceeding further, there was found just inside a door opening off the soda plant, nearly a hundred gallons of the liquor, they said.

L. Posty and F. Escalle, partners in the operation of the plant, were arrested and taken to the County Jail. Subsequently they were released under $2000 bond each.

Street Railway Accidents Here Show Decline

Street railway accidents are on the decrease in Los Angeles, according to a tabulation made public yesterday by the Board of Public Utilities which showed that, despite the increase of traffic in the streets, the number of accidents on street railway lines during the year ending June 30, last, was 597 fewer than during the previous year. The engineers of the board attribute this decrease to the inauguration of "no left-hand" turns at the busiest of the downtown street intersections, to the installation of the automatic traffic signal device and to safety campaigns conducted by various civic bodies, including the Chamber of Commerce, the safety council and the Los Angeles Traffic Commission.

The report of the board showed that for the year ending June 30, last, there were 17,912 reported accidents on street railway lines in Los Angeles as compared with 18,509 during the previous year. Of the total of 17,912 accidents, collisions of street cars with automobiles numbered 13,022; miscellaneous accidents, 1198; accidents to persons alighting from street cars, 1544; collisions of street cars with other vehicles, 651; accidents to persons boarding street cars, 966, and collisions of street cars with pedestrians, 531.

TAXES PAID HERE GREAT

As Revenue Producer State Leads Country

Income Returns of District Enlightening

Expansion Record Beats All Commonwealths

A report received yesterday by Collector Goodcell shows that this State has become such a great Federal revenue producer that during the past year it has paid $135,000,000 in taxes, which is more than one-third of the total amount the new tariff bill is expected to produce in the whole United States.

In 1915 the Los Angeles district's total collections from all sources amounted to only $2,502,448.97. In 1922 the collection of taxes on admissions to moving pictures alone was greater than the sum total of 1915.

The Los Angeles collections climbed up to $49,966,320.55 in 1922, the receipts increasing twenty-fold in seven years.

In 1918 the theater tax collections were $582,606.52, indicating the attendance for the year of 7,000,000. In 1919 the receipts were $977,039.45, with 12,000,000 visiting the theater. For 1920 about 22,000,000 patrons paid the government $1,851,551.46.

This increased to $2,555,436.36 in 1921, and in 1922 the banner mark of $2,587,621.22, representing a theater attendance of 30,000,000. The 1922 receipts increased in spite of the fact that the tax on 10 cent tickets in motion picture theaters had been removed.

The Los Angeles district produced $35,621,315.47 in income taxes in 1922, as compared with $1,011,525.97 in 1915.

In personal income returns, which do not include corporation or partnerships, California reported taxable incomes of $228,324,945 in 1916, while in 1921 the personal incomes amounted to $1,329,008,594.

From a total collection for income tax in 1916 of $3,595,636, California increased to $35,500,000 in 1922.

Personal returns made in 1916 were only 21,208, while in 1922 more than 400,000 Californians made personal returns and paid taxes.

Collector Goodcell says: "These figures set a record in expansion unequaled by any revenue district or State in the United States."

FALSELY ACCUSED?

Suit Filed for Malicious Prosecution

George W. Combs yesterday filed suit against F. M. Trinkle and Orpha Trinkle, asking $5000 damages for malicious prosecution

He says he was arrested on a charge of issuing a check without sufficient funds to cover it and was put in jail a few days. At the preliminary hearing, the complaint states, he was discharged.

He declares thta he has been injured in his credit and reputation, suffered great anxiety and made a subject of scandal and infamy.

CALIFORNIA SEA LIFE IS STUDIED

Conditions Especially Good, Say Scientists

Man Knows Little of Ocean Organisms

Vast World of Living Things Unexplained

BY W. E. ALLEN.
California Biological Expert

On the shelf beside my work table there is a three-foot row of ponderous volumes containing pictures, descriptions and discussion of many different forms of life which have been found in the sea. In our library there is yard after yard of other books dealing with the same general subject. Other libraries have still greater quantities of such literature.

There are in various countries great museums loaded with exhibits of marine creatures. To any beholder it must appear that both libraries and museums give convincing evidence that mankind has taken long strides toward acquaintance with oceanic life.

But, as I sit at my laboratory window, I look out across a waste of waters to the far horizon and I am oppressed by the little that we know about even this much studied region. Are the living things in that patch of green water just like those in the surrounding blue? Are the animals under that smooth spot the same as those beneath the ripply surface all around? Does that long narrow streak indicate a current which carries plants different from those in other portions of the great mass of water?

Are the living things twenty feet below the surface just like those at the surface, or those twenty feet below them, or forty, or a hundred or a thousand? How many animals and plants are there beneath this surface which I see of kinds that have never been seen by any man? Are those now present the same kinds as those which were there yesterday or last week or last year? If not, where shall we look for those which have vanished? Should we expect to find them there again, and when, and why?

GREAT AREAS UNTOUCHED

"If we know so little about life in the sea, even in areas which can be easily observed in comfort and safety what can we pretend to know about life five or ten or a hundred or a thousand miles from shore or at depths of a hundred or a thousand or ten thousand feet? In most cases practically nothing except that on a certain day at a certain hour a certain plant or animal was caught in a certain location and that there is a definite similarity in the locations in which many of them have been caught. We do not know that repeated trials would yield like results.

Furthermore the area of the oceans which has actually been studied is ridiculously small as compared with the whole. Aggregate areas of ocean surfaces much greater than the aggregate of all land surfaces have never been touched by exploration. Areas as great as that of our continent have only been touched once or twice and then so very lightly that it might be compared in results to those of a man coming by limited express from New York to San Francisco and jumping off at division points to grab a few samples while engines were being changed. Studies of oceanic depths have been still more meager beneath areas of continental size.

It may very easily be seen that our progress in learning about life in the sea has been and must be very slow, because we cannot see what we are doing, because of the enormous expense of getting boats and other equipment, because of the distance from a base of supplies at which much of the work must be done, and because of the difficulty of getting enough qualified workers.

There is the further difficulty of the danger involved in most parts of the oceans through large portions of the year. In northern seas in winter the water is so rough that scientific gear is likely to be destroyed even if human life is not endangered, and there are few localities in which this may not be true at important seasons. Hence it is very essential to find and use localities in which work can be done continuously at all seasons of the year.

California is favored by the possession of such a locality in the San Diego region. It is easily reached by scientific workers from any part of the world. Characteristic conditions of life in deep sea as well as in shallow shore waters are to be found near at hand. Even in winter there is rarely a storm so severe as to prevent certain types of work being done from a seaworthy boat.

Fortunately, through the Biological Station at La Jolla, the State has already made a substantial beginning in the use of such a wonderful natural opportunity. With only a few workers and with resources so limited that a boat can only be operated for a few weeks in the year, a great deal has already been done in recording the seasonal and yearly changes in character and composition of the water and in character and composition of the living things which inhabit it.

With the progressive interest and support of the people of the State this institution may at any time be advanced to a foremost position amongst scientific institutions of the world devoted to oceanographic research. Through continuous effort the time may come when we understand the basic conditions of productivity of our oceanic waters as definitely as we now understand the basic conditions of productivity of our lands.

Don't Squeeze Black-Heads—Dissolve Them

Squeezing and pinching out blackheads make the pores large and cause irritation. Blackheads are caused by accumulations of dust and dirt and secretions from the skin and there is only one safe and sure way and one that never fails to get rid of them—a simple way, too—that is to dissolve them. Just get from any drug store about two ounces of calonite powder—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—wash off and you'll be surprised to see that every blackhead has disappeared, and the skin will be left soft and the pores in their natural condition.—[Advertisement.

MENTALITY TESTS FOR CHILDREN PROVE VALUE

Amazing Discoveries Made Among Public School Students by Use of Measurements

When Miss M. Frances Martin, assistant director of the Psychological and Research Bureau of the Public Schools here, announced last week that she had found the prize mental prodigy of the world, the news created great interest, skepticism and criticism. One mother telephoned Miss Martin that it was not fair to dub one child the world's brightest, that her own young hopeful was the equal of any child in this world or the next. So to make a test case Miss Martin requested that the child take the same mental tests that Elizabeth Benson, the child prodigy, had been given.

The results were illuminating to the parents of the supposed prodigy, as well as proof of the accuracy of these famous tests of mental caliber. The child who had challenged Elizabeth's record was found to have an intelligence quotient of 120 per cent, while Elizabeth's record is 202 per cent. In other words the aspirant to the title is 9 years old actually, or chronologically, and his mental age is 10 years and 11 months. The tests—the Leland Stanford revision of the Binet-Simon tests—reveal these facts as accurately as a physician's laboratory expert reveals the blood account from microscopic examination.

QUESTIONS POUR IN

Are these tests fads? What are they good for? Why haven't people heard more about them? Who gives them and when? These are among the flood of questions aimed at the research bureau during the past few days. The answers are easy. These tests have been given for many years in European countries, where they were originated by an alienist named Binet, who combined his tests with those of another Frenchman, Simon. Hence the name. These tests were originally used for the purpose of rating criminals mentally, for since the Dark Ages imbeciles have been imprisoned for crimes for which mentally they were not responsible. The tests quickly achieved popularity, and in Europe were used to rate children in school long before they were so used in the United States.

European customs, environments and differences in languages made it necessary for these well-known and really authentic and accurate tests to be changed for use in the United States. Prof. Lewis M. Terman, head of the psychology department at Leland Stanford University, took upon himself the task of revising these French tests for American use, and the Leland Stanford revision of the Binet-Simon tests is the result.

ADOPTED UNIVERSALLY

This system of gauging the mental caliber of children has been almost universally adopted in the United States. In New York it is required that all teachers use the tests, both group and individual, in grading children. Many States use them even in the rural communities. Texas, for instance, has a supervisor of tests and measures, as the person in charge of psychological tests is called, in every city of any size, and even in some rural communities.

In Los Angeles the system of testing is an old story, as far as the teachers are concerned. It is still regarded as a fad in educational methods by many of the old schools, but it is being used throughout the country just the same.

At the beginning of each term, and indeed throughout the term, group tests are given to rooms. The children are roughly classified by these group tests as normal, sub-normal and super-normal. The normal children are not bothered. The sub-normal and the super-normal are given special attention. If a child is seven years old physically and seven years old mentally, he or she is a 100 per cent child—perfectly normal mentally.

MANY IDIOTS

This mental norm ranges from 90 per cent to 110 per cent. If a child tests slightly below 90 per cent he is called dull; if below 80 per cent, he is very dull; below 70 per cent—the borderland—he is called feeble-minded. Below 40 per cent a child is classed as an idiot. It is startling to know, according to Miss Frances Martin, who gave Elizabeth Benson her test and who has given 4000 individual mentality tests, that there are 500 idiots in the Los Angeles schools and more than a thousand feeble-minded. These children are the real problem, for they cannot be educated beyond a certain very limited level. Prof. Terman asserts that a feeble-minded child is incapable of education beyond the fourth grade. An idiot is incapable of receiving any education whatever, yet he must be dealt with by the scholastic system. There are not institutions enough to care for the feeble-minded and idiots in the Los Angeles schools, experts say.

The superbright children are the pride and chief concern of a school system, and they are given individual tests, and their exact mental caliber determined.

BREAKS ALL RECORDS

For instance, when Elizabeth Benson reported to the Sentous Junior High School and asked to be put in the eighth grade, and gave her age as 8 years and 11 months, the school authorities naturally questioned her previous preparation and her ability to do the required work. Dr. Sutherland, head of the psychology department of the Los Angeles schools, was called upon to arrange an individual test of her mentality and Miss Frances Martin was assigned the task of testing the child.

Elizabeth's remarkable record came as an oasis in a desert of feeble-minded children, for on that day Miss Martin had to tell twelve mothers that their children were feeble-minded and incapable of education past the fourth grade. It was a bitter task, but an inevitable one. The pleasure of telling Elizabeth's mother that Elizabeth had broken all previous high records for child mentality was a great joy, Miss Martin said.

Psychologists are uniting their efforts to see that Elizabeth is placed happily and as advantageously as possible in school. Mentally, she is capable of doing college work, although only 9 years old, for her mental age is above 18. The Terman tests extend only through eighteen years of mental age—superior adult rating. Elizabeth passed the entire series of Terman tests for superior adult without an error, as well as the tests for 9, 10, 12, 14 and 16-year-olds.

MOTHER OBJECTS

The first solution suggested was the sending of Elizabeth to Los Angeles High, but her mother objected because the social life would be all wrong for the child of 9. She would be an outcast. Miss Martin suggested Elizabeth's enrollment in the room for superbright children at the Vernon Junior High School, where Elizabeth would have the companionship in her classes of only superbright children and the instruction of a teacher especially trained for the teaching of exceptional children.

Children in this room are allowed to progress as fast as they can, and there are no hard-and-fast grade boundaries. Elizabeth could be prepared for ninth-grade work in a few weeks, according to Miss Martin, and should be able to finish high school within two years.

The reason these tests are not more widely advertised is that the psychologists are not in favor of publicity, for fear that it will be publicity of the wrong kind, the kind which would prejudice the average parent against these tests. The children do not question the authority of the teachers and see nothing remarkable in having their minds probed. The parents, if told the results of these tests, in every case, might make endless trouble. In cases of extremely low intelligence quotients, it is necessary that the parents be called upon to co-operate. The same applies to extremely high quotients.

AGES VARY

When children are reclassified in school, according to the results of these tests, strange discrepancies are found. In Elizabeth's room there are girls of 16 years of age.

Elizabeth Benson, with her mental age of 18 years plus, is really older than any of these 16-year-old girls, who look upon her as a baby. The teacher, on the other hand, unless she is a trained psychologist, will invariably expect more of these normal or slightly subnormal older girls than she will of Elizabeth, and her superbright companions, for she is looking at the physical rather than mental stature.

It is the purpose of these tests to group in one room children of approximately the same mental age. The physical age does not matter, except as it disorganizes social life. Elizabeth has almost no social life, for she is looked upon as a sort of freak by those who are old enough mentally to talk about things she is interested in, and the younger children do not interest her.

The problem of the superbright is even more difficult than that of the feeble-minded. The feeble-minded are thicker skinned. The lack of social life is not so disturbing to them. It is the superbright child, with its capacity for great accomplishments, who should be most carefully safeguarded and scientifically educated, educational experts declare.

ASK FOR TESTS

During the past week many requests for mental tests have been made. These tests are given by the psychologists of the public school system and can be arranged for only through the public schools. The psychologists are not conducting side shows and clairvoyant seances. Parents, who have superbright or subnormal children, whom they wish to have tested can do nothing but bring the case to the attention of the teacher, who probably already has the child spotted.

Super children test from 120 per cent upward. The highest previously found in Los Angeles is declared to be 170 per cent. Elizabeth Benson's record of 202 per cent has never been approached in Los Angeles. There are several score of these superbright children in Los Angeles who are being observed by the psychologists and their progress noted at certain intervals. They are given every opportunity for rapid, unhampered advancement. Most of them are placed in "opportunity rooms" where a grade and a half or even two grades can be made in a term.

HAS PRACTICAL SIDE

There is a very practical side to this matter of mentality tests for children. In actual saving of money the system pays for itself many times over. The actual cost of educating a child in the public schools for one year is $87.96 in the common schools and $224.34 in the high schools. When a child in the fourth grade, for instance, is found to have a mental age of twelve years, that child is put into an "opportunity room," where he or she quickly bridges the gap between the fourth grade and the sixth grade. They can usually accomplish a skip of this kind within half a year after being up into the "opportunity room." They are then placed in the sixth grade and everyone is happy. Incidentally the State has been saved the cost of educating that child for one solid year and a half, which totals in dollars and cents $131.94 of the taxpayers' money.

MOLE LEADS TO HIS UNDOING

Wife No. 1 Identifies Husband by Blemish and No. 2 Gets Divorce

It is the little things in life that count. William Campbell is said to have had a mole on his left ear. Margaret Smith Campbell, who married him, learned, she told Judge Summerfield in annulment proceedings yesterday, that there was another Mrs. Campbell.

This was a month after her marriage. The other purported wife was living in Chicago and she wrote her. Photographs were exchanged, together with descriptions, and in her description the other Mrs. Campbell referred to the mole. That settled it. Mrs. Campbell the second was granted a decree.

WORLD IS TOO MUCH WITH HIM

Palm Springs Hermit Will Seek Seclusion in Mexico, He Says

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Sept. 23.—William Pester, who for several years has lived a hermit life in the canyon near the Palm Springs Hotel, and who is known as the hermit of Palm Springs, is leaving his retreat there. People who called on him recently found him making preparations for leaving, simple preparations at that, for he has lived a most simple life for many years.

"There are too many people around here now," he said. "When I first came to Palm Springs there were only a few Indians and an occasional white man. Now there are tourists all the time and motion-picture people pestering me and I am no longer able to lead the life of contemplation that I desire."

Pester says he is going way down into the jungles of Southern Mexico, where he will build a little hut and spend the remainder of his life in contemplation and study. He says that there is an abundance of fruit, nuts and vegetables to be had there and that he will not want for anything. He does not fear the people of that section for he says they will not bother him if he does not molest them.

Pester has smarted under the surveillance he was put under during the time this country was at war with Germany. He was accused of being a spy for the Fatherland and his movements were watched carefully. No definite charge was ever brought against him. He has lived in Palm Springs Canyon for years, wears but few clothes, no shoes, no hat, and lives entirely on fruits, nuts and vegetables.

CO-OPERATION, TOPIC

The Alliance of Social Agencies will hold its first post-vacation meeting at 2 p.m., September 26, in room 513, Y.M.C.A. Building. Delegates from seventy-two public and private social service agencies are expected to be present. The principal speaker will be the Rev. G. Bromley Oxnam, who will speak on "The Value of Co-operation Work."

LOCAL BUSINESS IS ON UP GRADE

of the local offices. Last Monday 580 employers secured 646 persons from the Los Angeles bureau. On other days the number of placements is close to the 500 mark.

Supply and demand seems to run in about the same proportion, according to Mr. Hancock. No acute shortage of labor has been felt during the summer. Unemployment here is at a minimum he said. As work in Southern California has increased during the summer, so the number of workers has increased, so that the ratio has remained about the same.

During the winter months the supply may be expected to rise above that of the existing ratio. This is due to the many "drifters" who come to California each Fall and Winter.

The increase in the demand for labor during the last few months here in Los Angeles and the immediate vicinity seems to be due to the large fruit, beet and bean harvest, Mr. Hancock said. Sugar mills and fruit canneries have required many additional workers during the last few weeks. There have been a number of men added to the road building and repair gangs lately.

Highway work soon will be resumed in the Imperial Valley. Most of the men that will make up the working gangs are expected to be recruited here. The city will start its new outfall sewer work before long and this will demand more laborers, it is thought.

There is one demand for laborers in Southern California that surpasses all others. This is the building and construction industry. A steady stream of workers is absorbed regularly in this work. The lumber industry during the summer has also given work to many men.

The State employment bureau is but one of approximately seventy in Los Angeles but it is said to make more than 75 per cent of the placements.

In one instance the office supplied 100 men to a local plant in less than 40 minutes.

ACTION IN RAWLINSON CASE NEAR

District Attorney to Settle Tomorrow What Charges Will be Made

Whether the District Attorney's office will take any action with regard to charges of attractive Dorothy Clark, young screen actress and dancer, and her mother, Mrs. Ethel Clark, against Herbert Rawlinson, well-known cinema star, will be decided tomorrow, it was stated yesterday at the District Attorney's office.

A conference will be held between Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and Deputy Joos, who has been conducting an investigation, and the facts in the case will be gone over thoroughly, it was announced. The girl and her mother charge that on two occasions Rawlinson attacked the girl, once in New York and once in Los Angeles after the mother filed a suit for $200,000 against Rawlinson for damages.

After interviewing both the girl and her mother and Rawlinson and his attorney, it was stated by Mr. Joos that what action, if any, would be taken by the District Attorney would depend upon the age of the girl. Her age was established yesterday by a certified copy of her birth certificate. This document was received yesterday by Mr. Joos from Attorney J. K. Stickney of San Diego, counsel for the girl and her mother. The certificate shows that the girl was born in Boston on March 19, 1905, making her under the legal age of 18.

Man Who Shot Lawyer Starts Fight in Jail

Mack South, former inmate of Patton asylum, who is accused of shooting and seriously injuring J. Everett Brown, a local attorney, was sent to the psychopathic ward of the County Hospital from the County Jail yesterday following an asserted attack upon another prisoner.

It was stated at the jail that Paul Wilder and other prisoners objected to being placed in the same cell with South because of the latter's asserted belligerent tendencies. South is reported to have fashioned a knife out of a piece of tin and cut Wilder over the eye and in the face, but not seriously.

Wiler was treated at the jail and South was ordered to the County Hospital.

Research Work on Mt. Whitney is Completed

Dr. Paul S. Epstein, professor of theoretical physics; Ira S. Bowen, instructor; Russell M. Otis, research fellow, and Lewis Mott-Smith, a member of the senior class, all of the California Institute of Technology, returned yesterday from a ten days' scientific expedition to Mt. Whitney.

The purpose of the trip was to continue the study of the penetrating radiation in the higher atmosphere being conducted by Mr. Otis, the other members of the party accompanying him to collaborate in this work. The special purpose of the trip to Mt. Whitney was to make observations, with the special apparatus devised for the purpose, both day and night, and these tests were made continuously during a period of forty-eight hours.

The party attained an elevation of 13,500 feet, where most of the observations were made.

CADETS WIN HIGH HONORS

Crack Unit at Lincoln High School Ranked as Best Reserve Corps in Country

Lincoln High School for the second time has won recognition for the work of its R.O.T.C. unit as one of the twelve honor schools of the United States for 1922. Ninety-six per cent plus, the highest rating in the United States, was awarded to Lincoln High School by the War Department upon the recommendation of Maj.-Gen. C. G. Morton, commandant of the Ninth Corps Area, for having maintained an especially high standard of military training and of soldierly discipline, it was learned yesterday from the official bulletin of the department.

The Lincoln High School unit consisted of three companies, captained by Warren Helvey, Mulford Miles and Victor Condron. Theodore McGilliard was major of the crack unit when the deciding inspection was held Friday, June 2, 1922. The men assigned by the War Department in charge at Lincoln High School were Capt. James Lowry, Mr. W. M. Wells, and Sergt. Clay. Capt. Lowry was the war-hero found dead less than a week before the inspection.

On the day of inspection the student body in uniform, the enthusiastic support of the unit by everyone from principal to janitor made possible the result. The work of Capt. Lowry "carried on" and his school won the highest honors in the land.

Col. Clark in charge of the R.O.T.C. units of this division expressed himself as highly pleased with the work of the Lincoln High School cadets and congratulated them upon their second victory. This honor, he pointed out, places Lincoln in the enviable position of being the only school west of Chicago to win honors the second time and of sharing with Pasadena the honors of the West this year.

Warren Helvey has been chosen major for the coming year.

The schools winning the name of "Honor School" are Arsenal Technical High School, Indianapolis, Ind.; Council Bluffs High School, Council Bluffs, Iowa; Gloucester High School, Gloucester, Mass.; Knoxville High School, Knoxville, Tenn.; Lake View High School, Illinois; Lincoln High School, Los Angeles; Northern High School, Detroit, Mich.; Pasadena High School, Pasadena, Cal.; Rockford High School, Rockford, Ill.; the Gary High School, Gary, Ind.

SINGLE TAX OPPONENTS IN WARNING

League Points to North Dakota as Example of Its Ill Effects

Single tax is to be voted upon by the electors of the State again in November and the measure which will be on the ballot at that time is the most radical of its kind which has yet appeared according to members of the People's Anti-Single Tax League who are fighting the measure.

Among the things which this act aims to accomplish is to abolish the present system of taxation; declare private property rights attach only to the products of labor and not to land; and define franchises as special privileges granted by the government permitting the use and monopoly of land. In other words Single Tax means to tax land values only, those who are working against this measure assert. Under this system the personal property of individuals and corporations would pay no tax and probably 50 per cent of the present taxable property would be eliminated from the tax rolls, they say. This would mean that the tax on land would have to be doubled to get enough to finance the State government, members of the League say.

"This method of taxation has been tried in North Dakota and the result has been that the State is practically bankrupt," declared Dr. Milbank Johnson, one of the men who is directing the campaign against the Single Tax measure. "A prosperous community in British Columbia was ruined a few years ago by the application of Single Tax and the inevitable results will follow if the measure becomes a statute in California."

To prevent single tax from appearing on the ballot year after year the People's Anti-Single Tax League urges the voters to support the proposed amendment to the initiative which will increase the number of signatures required for an initiative petition from 8 per cent to 15 per cent when the petition relates to the assessment or collection of taxes.

ANGELENOS SPEND DAY SEEING CITY

Bishops' Museum and City of Honolulu Viewed by Tourists

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

HONOLULU, Sept. 23.—Today was spent by the Los Angeles visitors largely in sightseeing in and about the city. There was no special event on the day's program.

In the afternoon many of the visitors went by auto to the Bishop Museum, where a corps of guides and experts on Polynesian lore, escorted them through the various museum halls. This museum is on the grounds of the Kamehameha school, an institution founded by the beneficence of an Hawaiian Princess, Bernice Pauahi, long dead, who married a Californian.

It is now the center from which radiates a Pacific-wide investigation of the migration of races and of their development in Polynesia, Micronesia and Melanosia.

Tonight there was a band concert at the Moana Hotel in honor of the visitors and later a dance at the hotel. This was attended by hundreds of townspeople and Army and Navy folk and was one of the social events of the week. Dancing took place on the broad hotel verandas, within a few feet of the pounding surf of Waikiki Beach.

Red Minister Hopes to Renew Negotiations

BY S. B. CONGER

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Sept. 23.—M. Tchitcherin in an interview before leaving Berlin made an overture to the United States to renew negotiations for the dispatch of a committee of investigation.

The soviet Minister gradually is recovering from the daze in which he was thrown by Ambassador Houghton's prompt and decisive refusal to pursue negotiations further after Moscow's attempt to wheedle an additional diplomatic advantage out of the American suggestion and is trying to reknit the threads of negotiations severed by the Russian refusal of the American proposal. He goes as far as to declare he sees every reason to hope that the obstacles to an agreement soon will be removed since Russia's policy is in thorough conformity with that of the United States—a statement which probably will surprise the State Department and American public opinion.

A Discoverer's Reward

William Murdock, the Scot who discovered the process of distilling artificial gas from coal, never received more than $5 a week for his work until after he was 44 years old. And in spite of the value of his work to the world he died a comparatively poor man, though in his later years he received what for those days was a liberal salary—$5000 a year.—[Utility Bulletin.

WILL INCREASE PLANT OUTPUT

most immediate use of electric energy which is now available for manufacture and development of agricultural lands and the increase of production, the Southern California Edison Company is now conducting a most comprehensive industrial survey of the new business prospects in the counties of Los Angeles, Fresno, Kings, Kern, Tulare, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside, which are supplied by Edison service, accurately to ascertain how much of its new product may be consumed in 1923; how soon thereafter it will be absorbed by the communities and upon these findings to project plans for further development in the high Sierra to provide for the demands of 1924 and thereafter. The survey is so important to the company and to every one of the 250 cities and towns and intervening rural communities which receive Edison service that I am preparing personally to visit as many of them as possible and by conferences with the officers of the chamber of commerce and other commercial bodies, business men and agriculturists to check up the preliminary reports of these surveys and help our district managers and field men to co-operate in every possible way to stimulate increased production from lands and in the securing of new industries."

GREAT PROJECT

The High Sierra development project that the Southern California Edison Company is pushing is probably the largest of its kind ever undertaken on the Western Hemisphere. George C. Ward, vice-president in charge of construction and the builder of the greatest electrical properties on the Pacific Coast, related the following, as he stowed blueprints and record photographs into a brief case that looked like one side of a mule pannier. He was preparing to start for Huntington Lake Lodge.

From this vantage point Mr. Ward supervises the work of the Edison construction army, which is working over a line of sixty-five miles, reaching from Florence Lake far over the Kaiser Range in the High Sierra to the site of the fourth powerhouse near the bottom of San Joaquin River Gorge.

"Transportation—getting in supplies and material which will keep 5000 men working and well fed during the winter," said Mr. Ward, "is the big thing that confronts us for the next six or eight weeks. Any time after October 15 we can expect the first snows in the High Sierra, and we have got to get a large portion of our supplies over the Kaiser Range at an altitude of nearly 10,000 feet before the snow gets deep. From then until spring nothing will be able to get over the new road, which we are completing.

MUST SPEED WORK

"Estimates show that we have got to haul 11,480 tons of material and supplies for winter use. We are jamming this enormous tonnage up the hill from Fresno to Cascada, the construction base, and a good deal of it goes up over Kaiser Range and into the winter camps. One hundred and seventy tons a day was the average we set to get the job done on time, but we will have to speed this up to about 200 tons a day to make good.

"Our battery of logging locomotives are fairly spitting fire as they yank train after train of giant powder, cement, provisions and about everything you can think of, over the fifty-six miles of our San Joaquin and Eastern Railroad from Fresno to Cascada. All the motor power on the road is double screwed and we are hauling the stuff up day and night. From Cascada, the terminal of the San Joaquin and Eastern Railroad, and the headquarters of the resident engineer, we are shoving a great deal of this tonnage up to a distribution camp near Huntington Lake on our incline railroad, which lifts it 2000 feet. From thence it is reloaded into enormous motor trucks—we have a fleet of thirty-five or forty of them—and hauled over the Kaiser Pass to a construction entrance of the Florence Lake tunnel, where one of our big winter camps is located, and yet further on over a new piece of road to Florence Lake, where the intake portal of another section of the tunnel will be commenced very soon.

ATTACK LONGEST TUNNEL

"Then we will be attacking the fourteen miles of the tunnel which is said to be the longest piece of tunnel on the American continent, from five different construction headings, speeding up the work so that it will come into service about March, 1925. Five or six hundred men will go into winter quarters in these two camps. They will be absolutely cut off from the world, with the exception of the radio, which serves as a means of communicating orders for their work, and a team of Alaskan dogs which takes in the mail daily on an Alaskan sledge.

"Down from Cascada in the Grand Canyon of the San Joaquin River we have completed a piece of roadway cut out of the sheer face of the rock, over which we are hauling material for six miles of tunnel which will carry water from the third power house on the Big Creek, San Joaquin River project, to the fourth one which is about 6000 feet below Huntington Lake and will use the water over for the fourth time.

MANY YEARS TO COMPLETE

"Oh, yes, there is a good deal more to the construction story, which will take ten or twelve years more in the making, which means digging tunnels that will measure eighty-six miles, if placed end to end, creating three more mountain lakes, and bringing into service 1,250,000 horsepower of electric energy—more than is now consumed in the biggest centers of population. It isn't a story, it's a book."

"The story that I like best of them all," said Mr. Ward as he stuffed a document that looked like a map of the European war zone into his mule pannier-brief case and buckled the strap, "is the human side. Our men know that they are on one of the world's greatest construction jobs, and they are out to make world's records for good work and quick time. I think this winter will show some new world records."

ON SOVIET PAY ROLL

Every House Confiscated by Bolsheviki Has a "Commandant."

Every house in Russia that has been confiscated by the Bolsheviki is in charge of a commandant, and I offer this fact as proof in its way that in a Communist state the political plum tree is fairly well laden.

There are more people in the employ of the soviet government than any other government on earth ever employed. It is said that in the city of Moscow alone there are at least 500,000 attached in some way to the public pay roll. One-half of Russia now knows how the other half lives. No wonder they need credits.

Our commandant did nothing but swagger around giving arbitrary orders, antagonizing everybody and making a general nuisance of himself. He insisted upon occupying the best room in the house, which had been assigned to the reverend representative of the American National Catholic Welfare Council, and appeal had finally to be taken against him all the way up to the top of Moscow soviet, after which he subsided and began to show some appreciation of the privilege he enjoyed of loafing in the immediate vicinity of an American food supply.

He never did any work. My observation was that the real object of the establishment of a dictatorship of the workers is to relieve the workers of the necessity for working.—[Eleanor Franklin Egan in Saturday Evening Post.

101 uses for Schumacher Wall Board

THIS page could be filled telling you of the many uses for SCHUMACHER WALL BOARD, the ready prepared wall.

It is frequently used for temporary construction on account of its economy and the quickness and ease with which it is applied.

But it is more often used for permanent construction in fine buildings where not only economy, but durability, beauty and perfect wall surface is desired.

Do not confuse SCHUMACHER WALL BOARD with ordinary pulp and paper wall board that cannot be sealed at the joints and requires unsightly battens to hide these ugly places.

"SCHUMACHER" can be sealed easily and simply to defy detection, thus giving a single piece wall that takes any kind of covering beautifully. And the patented process prevents shrinking, swelling, buckling or warping.

Do not mistake "SCHUMACHER" for old fashioned, costly, time and labor-wasting lath and plaster construction that takes weeks to dry out and months to settle.

For quickness, economy, durability, beauty, use SCHUMACHER WALL BOARD—the exterior and interior wall that comes ready prepared.

Write for descriptive folder showing the many advantages of this superior wall board.

SOMETHING WORSE

As Macaulay said of the killing of King Charles I, the Treaty of Sevres was worse than a crime, it was a blunder. Look at the innocent lives that today are paying for that blunder. The knife designed to carve up Turkey has been turned into a scimitar.

HE DID IT WITH A FLIVVER

Now we are informed that Henry Ford is the richest man in the world; that he has made a back number of John D. A new vogue in millionaires is always a good sign of the trend of events. Will the next celebrity to be hailed the richest man in the world be the owner of a 5-and-10-cent store?

STOLE HIS THUNDER

Rudyard Kipling has repudiated the interview with Mrs. Clare Sheridan, but it will be noted he said nothing about taking back the sentiments expressed in it. So perhaps it was because Clare forestalled him that the poet's feelings were hurt. She should have waited till R. K. was ready to express his views in a new "Obsessional."

LOVE IS SUFFICIENT

Some of our lady friends are not content with having the word "obey" eliminated from the marriage service. They declare that "honor," too, is superfluous. Love is sufficient, because it includes honor. That sounds logical. If a woman can live up to the contract to love a man "till death do them part" there is no doubt but that their marriage will be a success.

CALL NOT LOUD ENOUGH

Any call for participation in another war, unless the parties called upon are directly in the line of fire, is likely to fall on deaf ears. It's a long, long way to Constantinople. Canada and Australia are very sympathetic over the troubles with Turkey, but a little shy in action. Perhaps, before mixing in, they want to make sure that it is not just another war to end war.

LEST WE FORGET

How many citizens could say offhand what important historical event took place on September 22? How many of our colored friends, with tokens of gratitude and thanksgiving, celebrate the day? It passed by generally without recognition. Yet it means as much to the negro as the Fourth of July to the nation. For it was on this day President Lincoln issued his famous proclamation freeing the slaves. It evidently takes fireworks to make a national date stick.

PARKING THE FAMILY

The idea of using the movies as parking space for the children is quite sensible. Whenever some of the matrons are having company for the afternoon they send the kids to the theater around the corner and tell them they may stay until the 6 o'clock whistle blows. Also the movie theater is a handy place to leave little sister while big sister is having lunch with the boss. The time may come when women will check their husbands at the theater while they are shopping or taking tea.

THE PREMATURE JOB

Many children for the sake of a temporary job leave school too soon and, having once broken the thread of their education, seem unable to take it up again. So they drift aimlessly and in later life find themselve unfitted to fill any trained position. Stay in school and sacrifice the chance to earn a little spending money is good advice to the young, since business today is top-heavy with too many jacks-of-all-trades and masters-of-none. Better learn one thing thoroughly than accept a premature job.

SPEEDING UP

The railroads are doing wonders in the shipment of coal. It is announced that the New York Central system has handled 46 per cent more bituminous coal this year than last. All this in spite of the fact that the strikers did their best to impede the movement of freight. Last year there was no strike to affect shipments. In eleven days this month the road loaded and moved more than 27,000 cars of coal, which was the record for the system. If coal is scarce or prices high it cannot be extensively blamed upon the railways.

SOMEONE WILL PAY FOR IT

If it be true, as reported, that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is buying up West Virginia and Kentucky coal mines with a capacity of over 6000 tons a day it looks as though the labor unions were employing the strike as a financial weapon in a way supposed to be confined to the malefactors in "big business."

Henry Ford declared not long ago, under the constant strike threat, coal mines were no longer desirable property. Does it mean that the brotherhood is assured of exemption from this threat and so is able to purchase a property arbitrarily forced down to a price far below its intrinsic value? This last move doesn't promise much relief for the unfortunate consumer next winter.

ISLAM OR CHRISTIANITY—

Has another crusade, that of the great World War, ended in a triumph for the crescent of Islam over the cross of Christianity?

Have the Christian nations of Europe, including Great Britain, grown too weak or too materialistic to defend the followers of the Nazarene against the fanatical satellites of Mohammed?

These questions must surge upward in every breast when we read from Paris dispatches that the Allied nations are seeking an armistice with Mustapha Kemal and his followers on a basis of a return of Constantinople, Adrianople and Thrace to the Turks.

The burnings and massacres at Smyrna are not to be avenged. Far from it, by such methods the Turks have apparently forced the Allies to agree to an armistice, under the terms of which the Turk returns triumphant to Europe, with a prestige that must strike terror to the hearts of all the Christian residents of British, French and Italian colonies in Asia and Africa.

This surrender of the former defenders of Christianity comes like a flash from the clear sky. We have been vaguely aware that England and France were exhausted by their struggles in the World War and that their people—especially those of England—were staggering under an enormous burden of taxation. But we were not prepared to believe that they were so weak or that they would refuse to defend the Dardanelles and the Bosporus against Moslem hordes from Asia.

Perhaps it is true that a war over Constantinople would precipitate a holy war in the Orient. But are we to be compelled to believe that England and France will sacrifice Christian populations in Europe in order to protect Moslem populations in Asia?

If this be true, the star of Christian Europe must be surely sinking below the horizon.

On all sides one hears expressions of astonishment that the British should be willing to turn Constantinople and Thrace back to the Turk. But the British government can perhaps ask with a show of justice why England should be expected to fight the battles of Christian peoples alone.

When Mustapha Kemal started for the Bosporus England was the first to throw herself into the breach. This was what the world expected, perhaps from force of habit. For one discovers by reading modern history that England has been the defender of Christian peoples all over the earth for more than 100 years. Whenever a Christian people was attacked a voice of warning rang out from London; and if that voice was unheeded the roar of British cannon and the rattle of British sabers followed.

But the British government can well ask why she alone should defend territory which is not under the British flag and where other nations have greater material interests than she.

As soon as the Mustapha Kemal crises loomed on the eastern horizon our government at Washington announced that it was an affair in which no American interests were threatened and in which our government would take no part.

England promptly began massing her troops and ships to defend Constantinople and the Bosporus and called upon her late Allies to come to her aid. If the Paris dispatches are correct the French government refused to give material aid to the enforcement of the Treaty of Sevres. Both she and Italy would pledge only moral support. That looks like a repudiation of their treaty pledges.

Now it appears that the British government will not bear the brunt of the conflict alone. She will not bring upon herself a holy war in Asia and Africa for the privilege of fighting others' battles in Europe.

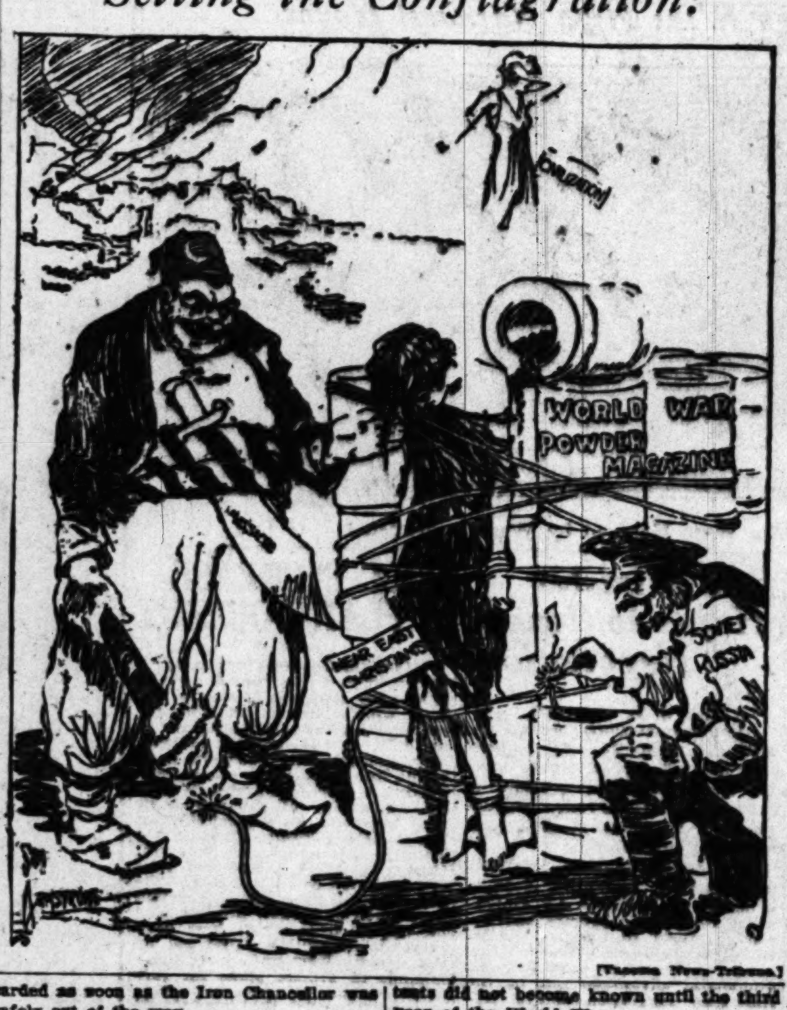
What is the answer?

Let there be no misunderstanding about what the return of the Turks to Eastern Europe means. Mustapha Kemal and his followers are Mohammedan fanatics. They have already proclaimed that they will not permit any Christian missionaries or Christian schools inside Turkish dominions. Any guarantees that they might give for the protection of Christian minorities are worthless. The fanatics of Islam have never been deterred from massacres by paper agreements.

This surrender of Constantinople and Thrace means more than immediate occupation by the Turks. It means that there will be a large portion of Asia and Africa, together with a smaller portion of Europe, in which no avowed Christian can reside. The Turks will have a greater prestige than they have enjoyed in the last 150 years. And one shudders to think of the uses to which that prestige may be put.

The only hope The Times can express, in view of the latest dispatches, is that they are not true. We are not yet prepared to believe that the Christian peoples are too weak or too callous to defend their faith against a Mohammedan crusade. Weak governments may be strengthened by a strong public opinion. It is just possible that the French and Italian cabinets were not awake to the full gravity of the situation.

Setting the Conflagration!



[Tacoma News-Tribune.]

KAISER AND BISMARCK

In the opening installments of the Kaiser's Memoirs, publication of which begins in The Times today, the deposed German ruler gives, for the first time, his version of the incidents that led him peremptorially to dismiss the great Bismarck, almost at the beginning of his reign.

That dismissal was the most dramatic diplomatic incident in the political history of the nineteenth century. Bismarck believed himself so powerful that no Emperor would dare dismiss him. Yet he was simply "turned out" by the young Hohenzollern so adroitly that Bismarck's own political supporters did not dare to openly protest.

Read in conjunction with the suppressed volume of Bismarck's autobiography the world gets for the first time a peep behind the scenes during one of the most indefensible periods of European diplomacy, when balances of power were used to wreak vengeance on whole peoples, for personal revenge or to secure unjustifiable national advantage.

One here discerns why the Kaiser assumed the pose of "the friend of the people" and expressed a desire to rule as "King of the rabble," a pose that he discarded as soon as the Iron Chancellor was safely out of the way.

But the astute manner in which the Kaiser had maneuvered Bismarck into a position where the Kaiser appeared as the friend of the working classes—of "the rabble," as the laborers and all those who possessed no landed interests were contemptuously termed by the German autocracy—and Bismarck, as the defender of feudal right and special privileges, did not escape the keen vision of the diplomats of other European states. They recognized in him, not a "heedless young man," as Bismarck had termed him, but one possessing a keen intelligence and thoroughly unscrupulous; and they began to take protective measures accordingly.

Bismarck's autobiography discloses that he would not have scrupled to foment a rebellion against the Kaiser in favor of his younger brother, Prince Henry. But the Kaiser evidently knew from what source rebellion arises. History demonstrates that, while revolts are generally planned by what the Russians term the "intelligentzia," it is to the rabble that they look for the overt acts to put it into action and to support it until the movement can be consolidated and a rebel government formed. It is always the blood of the unthinking masses that flows first.

But the Kaiser had won the support of "the rabble" by forcing his government to yield to the Socialist demands in the great Westphalian coal strike and to give leaders of the Social Democrats places in the Cabinet.

Neither could Bismarck appeal to the Reichstag; for he had himself drafted the German constitution which placed the German Emperor beyond the reach of the parliamentary body. That constitution contained no procedure for the impeachment of the "President" of the Germanic confederation, as the office held by the Kaiser is there termed. An American President can be impeached and, if found guilty, can be removed from office. Under the German constitution no such procedure was possible. The Presidency of the empire was the hereditary and unimpeachable right of the King of Prussia, likewise a hereditary and unimpeachable office.

In fact, Bismarck was destroyed by weapons of his own forging. The constitution provided that the Imperial Chancellor alone, by his signature, could give validity to decrees and ordinances of the Emperor and gave to the Chancellor the right to refuse that signature if he deemed the ordinance or decree inadvisable.

This constitution was written by Bismarck for Kaiser Wilhelm I. But that astute monarch accepted it only when the provision had been added that the Chancellor could be removed at will by the German Emperor, and that no confirmation of his removal by the Reichstag should be required.

The young Kaiser had discovered that, while he could dismiss his Chancellor at will, only by rebellion could he himself be removed. It is very possible that this had been called to his attention by Bismarck's political enemies.

Bismarck accepted the inescapable with very bad grace. He voiced his dispair to Holstein, who had been his associate in the Foreign Office. Holstein quotes him as saying in utter dejection:

"It is all over. Destiny wants me to look upon the destruction of my own work. . . . Can you understand what it is to feel that one has become nothing after having been everything?"

But the Kaiser, who had read to some purpose Roman history, won to his side the "rabble" by concessions to the Socialists and the army through the grant of special favors and honors; and he had planned so well that the great Iron Chancellor fell with scarcely a ripple on the surface of the political waters, either in Germany or in Europe outside.

New political currents were set in motion; but they were in the vasty depths and did not come to the surface for nearly thirty years.

Bismarck attempted to stir public indignation against the Kaiser by the publication of his autobiography, in which he extolled to the skies in the first two volumes the Kaiser's father and grandfather and pictured the Kaiser himself as about everything that is objectionable in a ruler in the third. The Kaiser craftily permitted the publication of the first two volumes, but suppressed the last "for temporary reasons of state" so effectively that its contents did not become known until the third year of the World War.

It was the adroit manner in which he had "dismissed the pilot" that perhaps revealed him to Czar Alexander of Russia as a crafty and unscrupulous sovereign who carried a stiletto in his glove and caused that monarch to reject all overtures for a Russo-German alliance. He had early demonstrated that he was no mental weakling. During the whole of his reign he was regarded in other courts as crafty and thoroughly unscrupulous, but neither crazy nor stupid.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STICH

The Law of Diminishing Returns

A fundamental postulate of economies is embodied in what is known as the "Law of Diminishing Returns." It is applied as follows:

A certain amount of labor on a farm will produce a certain amount of wheat. Additional labor will coax additional wheat from the ground. Intensive cultivation will increase the harvest still more.

After a while, however, you reach the point where there is not enough land for more workers and where the ground cannot be cultivated more intensively. Increased labor and efforts to cultivate more intensively are not only superfluous, but may actually be harmful. The law of diminishing returns operates.

Applied to daily life, the law of diminishing returns makes for efficiency, for conservation, for maximum utility of our hours and our powers, for rationality, normality and common sense. It means better living.

Take exercise for one thing. The majority of us must have it because of our sedentary occupations. But a half-hour's vigorous exercise a day is enough for the average man. More than that may be injurious because, instead of stimulating and eliminating, it may destroy. Complications of the heart may set in. The "athletic heart" is common among college athletes who, as a rule, overtrain and overstrain.

Food is necessary to well-being; but most of us ruin our stomachs either because we overeat or because we "snatch" hurried "bites." So we lose both the pleasure and the benefits obtained from eating well-balanced meals regularly.

And study. It is probably true, as has been claimed, that as many men fail through overstudy as through no study. What shall it profit a man if he know everything under the sun or everything about something if the acquisition of his knowledge has robbed him of the energy or the years to apply it effectively and successfully?

The law of diminishing returns tells us that if we would make the most of and get the most out of life we must learn to let go as well as to go on. We must learn to do but not overdo; work but not overwork; strain but not overstrain.

This great law applies to our eyes, our stomach, our heart, our brain, to every part of us. For our every part must last for life, must last for anywhere from forty to sixty years more, and we ought take good care of them.

RIPPLING RHYMES

ANGER

In anger I rose, in the face of my foes, and called them some sumptuous names; I said they were fit for the bottomless pit, and sinful and dark were their games. My enemies smiled at my eloquence wild and said that my statements were fibs; they weren't disturbed by my passions uncurbed, for wind doesn't break any ribs. They all went away to their work or their play, to movie or office or home; and if they recalled how I thundered and bawled, they thought I had bats in my dome. But I have been sick since I made the big kick, I'm loaded with three-cornered pains; it's bad for a jay when he's withered and gray, if his blood ups and boils in his veins. My nerves are unstrung since I brandished my tongue, and sleep has deserted my couch; my appetite's gone and I sit on the lawn and cherish the ghost of my grouch. The doctor remarks, "I am bringing you barks and buds from a sycamore tree, the which you will boil with a gallon of oil and fill up your works with the tea. But medicine fails and no potion avails, if anger possesses your heart; be always serene, of benevolent mien and pains will not rack you apart."

WALT MASON.

Rudyard Kipling has made a splenetic attack on America. What is the matter, Rud, ain't the returns from your publisher anything to brag of? The fact is, if Kipling had not written the "Recessional" he would have been forgotten long ago.

SWINDLING UNCLE SAM

BY GARET GARRETT

Hitherto Europe has been creditor to all the world. Now suddenly this is reversed. She has the role of debtor and she cares not for it. In the amazing note addressed "with the greatest reluctance" to her former Allies on the subject of war debts Great Britain declares:

First. That for the good of mankind she wishes to forgive all her war debtors their debts and would do so but for the unfortunate fact that the United States will not forgive her.

Second. That other European countries owe Great Britain war debts amounting to $17,000,000,000, all of which she would forgive, whereas she owes the United States only $4,250,000,000, which the United States will not forgive.

Third. That her indebtedness to the United States was incurred for others, not for herself.

Fourth. That she was obliged to borrow from the United States and lend to other countries because "the United States insisted in substance, if not in form, that, though our allies were to spend the money, it was only on our security that they (the United States) were prepared to lend it."

These statements, both directly and by implication, profoundly tend to give Europe an impression of the American case that is ghastly and false. It is unimportant what anyone thinks who knows better; but what shall the distracted Old World multitude think from this representation of the facts if not that the United States first insisted upon good security for its war loans, then obliged Great Britain to indorse the notes of the Allies and now selfishly demands to be repaid? Great Britain is revealed in the wish to forgive $17,000,000,000. The United States is unwilling to forgive debts amounting, as the note particularly says, "to about a quarter of this sum, say £850,000,000." Or $4,250,000,000.

The amount owing to the United States from Great Britain is understated. It is $4,750,000,000, not $4,250,000,000. That error doubtless was unintentional. It only makes us $500,000,000 meaner.

In the $17,000,000,000 owing to Great Britain, all of which she would forgive but for the $4,750,000,000 the United States demands from her—in that $17,000,000,000 is included $7,250,000,000 of German indemnity. Deduct that and the total amount owing to Great Britain from her Allies in the war is $9,750,000,000. The amount owing to the United States from Europe in the same way, excluding anything from Germany, is $11,500,000,000. So, if all war debts were canceled, Great Britain would forgive $9,750,000,000 and the United States $11,500,000,000, for, of course, we could not forgive Great Britain her debt and make all or any part of the others pay.

Great Britain's declaration that her debt to the United States was incurred for others, not for herself, and that she was obliged to borrow from the United States and lend to the other Allied countries because it was only on British security that the United States would lend its money, already has been answered by the American government to the effect that it was not so. The British have replied, saying it was practically so, because once they offered to pay cash for everything they bought here if the United States Treasury would assume the burden of lending direct to the other Allied countries.

Well, what was actually the case need not stand in dispute. The record shows Great Britain made war loans to nineteen countries. They were France, Russia, Italy, Belgium, Serbia, Montenegro, Rumania, Portugal, Greece, Belgian Congo, Austria, Serb-Croat-Slovene Kingdom, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Esthonia, Lithuania, Latvia, Hungary, Armenia.

The United States also made loans direct to all these nineteen countries, save three. The exceptions were Montenegro, Portugal and Belgian Congo. The United States made loans of $3,635,000,000 direct to France, $1,809,000,000 direct to Italy, $409,000,000 direct to Belgium, $212,000,000 direct to Russia, $136,000,000 direct to Poland and $225,000,000 direct to thirteen other countries without security other than their word to pay and with no British countersign. (These facts are taken not from our own record, but by choice from the work of a British expert, "A revision of the treaty," by J. M. Keynes.)

In the face of this record, how can anyone pretend to say that the United States refused, in either substance or form, to lend except on British security and was willing to assume the risk of lending to the Allied countries direct?

The American people, who care less about money as money than any other people on earth, find themselves holding the bag. It is a ludicrous part, but they say very little about it until they begin to hear themselves hissed. Then they are disagreeable.

THIS IS THE DAY

John Marshall, the most famous lawyer and master of jurisprudence in American history, was born in Fauquier county, Virginia, in the year 1755. He died at Philadelphia in his 80th year. He was appointed Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court by President Adams in 1800 and served thirty-five years.

The financial misfortunes of New York in 1869, the result of a sudden gold panic, came to a head on this day, which in consequence was dubbed in commercial circles "Black Friday."

Not All So Impressed

A Batavia woman killed herself on discovering that bobbed hair did not become her. Few of the addicts ever realize it. It is their husbands that wear the suicide look.—[New York World.

THE LANCER

There is an ardent campaign to make Germany "dry." Prohibitionists have compiled figures to show that a dry Germany would mean a saving of 3,500,000,000 gold marks annually.

Yes, of course. But it is a moot point whether the Allies would win greater satisfaction from Fritz sober as against Fritz slightly drunk.

And isn't it just possible that it would take all of that 3,500,000,000 and then some for "law enforcement?"

Also there is always the chance that Germany might be just as adept at bootlegging as ourselves and that her law-enforcement officers would prove just as distressingly "human."

There is something very elusive about the financial profits of national total abstinence.

In an Illinois family scandal the wronged husband testified that he offered to accept about $200 from Poulin as a suitable anodyne for his hurt.

In the local Farrell-Fleming case Fleming testified that the husband offered to settle for $50.

By which it would seem that wronged husbands are much more conservative in their original estimates than slighted ladies in lost love and breach-of-promise suits.

Neither Mrs. Bill Hart, Mrs. Charles Spencer Chaplin, Mrs. Rodolph Valentino nor Mrs. Peggy Hopkins Joyce could have been guilty of such modest estimates—and Evan Fontaine, Dorothy Clark and other lamentably unprotected young women could never be induced to think in less than five figures.

There should really be a little efficient standardization in these matters. The present erratic system of computation seems to need a little commercial judgment.

In the meantime a young woman who was shot by a young man, although not fatally, is bringing suit for $26,665 damages.

Really one would suppose that the young woman was the only person who was ever shot, whereas, of course, the thing is so general nowadays that there really is not $25,665 worth of eclat in it. Moreover, it can't be a matter of supply and demand, either, for the supply of possible victims is still greatly in excess of the demand.

It seems absurd to make so much fuss about a little shooting, especially when it didn't "take." This sort of thing might be excusable in countries where shooting is not so general, so well understood, so sympathetically respected. But, really, if everyone who is shot at in the United States is going to sue for magnificent damages, it will scarcely enhance our reputation for good sportsmanship. If you let people buy tennis rackets the natural presumption is that they will play tennis. If you let them buy guns the still more natural presumption is that they will shoot somebody when the spirit moves them. But nothing could be more deplorable than the attitude of the losers in this latter sport.

Complaints that the country boy does not get a fair chance at education is somewhat offset by the knowledge that he scores considerably over a mere city boy when it comes to running for political office. If he worked on a farm he is as good as elected.

A Chicago man announces that he is about to marry a girl as chosen and directed by his deceased wife's spirit.

If this sort of thing becomes usual deceased wives have rather alarming opportunities to "get even."

The Episcopalians have resisted admitting women to their House of Deputies with a somewhat distressing argument.

"If this change is adopted it will not be long before the men are pleading all sorts of excuses for not attending these conventions and the gathering will be left entirely to women," is an excerpt from the convincing address that settled the matter.

So, presumably Episcopalian masculinity will have all the authority and responsibility—or none.

And perchance it is going to be the same in politics—except, of course, that politics are rather more profitable.

This Madame Lessing, of whom the law is now taking cognizance, has been paying your Lancer rather special attention—in some passionately illiterate letters, discoursing of "jaded passions," free love, polygamy, government overthrow and numerous other trifling matters which she wished your Lancer to advocate.

Among other things, she has assured me that she will "never know the love of man or the joy of life" until these happy consummations have come to pass.

Sorry, of course, but as far as I am concerned I am afraid the lady must remain loveless and manless and joyless. She signs her letters Mary Cross—the cross symbolized in fancy aura. She doesn't append her picture, but reports declare her to be distinctly fat. I never could take fat reformers seriously. But she has worked so hard for this police recognition, or any kind of recognition, that her present joylessness must be considerably mitigated.

Etiquette Extraordinary

Tommy's mother gave him a book on etiquette instead of the usual "Robinson Crusoe."

It thereafter became a pretty fragment of English home life until Tommy's sister, in attempting to leave the room one day, found herself clutched by the hand and flung violently backward into the coal scuttle.

"You ignorant little beast," protested Tommy, "don't you know that a gentleman should open the door for you?"—[London Weekly Telegraph.

CHURCHGOERS BRAVE HEAT

[illegible] Spiritual Rewards for Few at Service

Weather Fails to Check the Ardor of Worshipers

St. Athanasius Sermon Sows Seed of Content

BY ALMA WHITAKER

There are two kinds of weather [illegible] which even formal Christians [illegible] suspend their Sabbath wor[illegible]. A wet and stormy Sunday is one of them. A very hot Sunday is another.

And last Sunday was a very hot Sunday, indeed.

But pastors and organists and [illegible] take small accoun: of thermometers and barometers. It has to be a pretty drastic bit of weather that fazes them.

So it came to pass that little St. Athanasius Church, which re[illegible] at the edge of Echo Park, [illegible] on the borders of the lake, had a pastor, an organist and a [illegible] choir last Sunday morning, although only about fifty members of the congregation were able to brave that rising thermometer, which threatened dire things e'er [illegible] was reached.

DEVOTE SERVICE

But just for that very reason it was a specially devoted congregation, a specially sincere service, a rather special spiritual experience. [illegible], you see, cared tremendously. It meant a great deal to them. They didn't just go when it was cool and comfortable. Their [illegible] wasn't just a nicely graded affair that shrunk at the first hint of discomfort.

And one felt it directly one entered the little church. It is a [illegible] little church, the sole decorations of its windows are the [illegible] through which the sun [illegible], and forms a dainty pattern. Its altar has a background of quite modern drapery. Its [illegible] is of bright polished brass. Its altar cloth is snow-white, embroidered by devoted fingers. Its [illegible] is hung with a green silk [illegible] upon which a gold cross is [illegible] embossed. But for the [illegible], it is unembellished.

And presently the choir voices [illegible] heard from the vestry, young and hearty voices, singing their [illegible] of God. Soon the [illegible] file into the aisle, singing as they take their places before the altar, with the pastor [illegible] up the rear.

A choir of twelve girls and eight [illegible], all in white surplices, and the [illegible] in mortar-board hats—because St. Paul laid it down that no woman must appear in church with head uncovered—even with a steadily rising thermometer.

MUSIC SOOTHES

The organist was a very good [illegible], and the organ a good [illegible]. So that the sacred music, [illegible] gentle chant, its rising and [illegible] notes and the clear sweet [illegible] of the choir seemed cool and [illegible].

And the prayers with their beautiful language, with their minute understanding of human needs, [illegible] in the way of the Episcopalian service, seemed permeated [illegible] such simple faith, a wonderful faith that had left all [illegible] materialism outside in the heat.

The pastor's theme for this sermon was "The Power of God," a [illegible] sermon, reminding us how [illegible] humans had a wholesome re[illegible] for power, an ingenious talent [illegible] appreciating and utilizing power [illegible] so much of our modern [illegible]—research, education, even [illegible] inordinate love of money, our [illegible] into psychoanalysis—was [illegible] directed toward the acquisition of power.

He wound up with a little story [illegible] tribe in New Zealand, which [illegible] in direst poverty under [illegible] most primitive conditions in [illegible] very shadow of a great waterfall, which was the very embodiment of power, the sort of power [illegible] which so much of our modern [illegible] is built. But they were [illegible] of its possibilities, its [illegible] uses. And even when they [illegible] when the wonders of it [illegible] been explained to them, they [illegible] still incapable of appreciating [illegible] utilizing the wondrous power that was theirs.

SPIRITUAL POVERTY

The analogy was obvious. "Almighty God"—a phrase so often on [illegible] lips, yet scarcely believed, [illegible] understood, and so very [illegible] accepted with the same fine [illegible], the same superb [illegible], the same conscious [illegible] and confidence with which [illegible] develop material powers. And [illegible] in the very shadow of [illegible] power, we continue to [illegible] existence in spiritual poverty through apathy, ignorance and [illegible] of faith.

[illegible], of course, that sermon [illegible] really quite apply to that heat-braving congregation. [illegible] was all of those who had [illegible] at home, grumbling and [illegible] to keep cool, who should have heard that simple, but [illegible] sermon.

[illegible] after that sermon, the communion service took place—that [illegible] in which the devout go [illegible] the altar, kneel in a radiant [illegible], and partake of the [illegible] Supper of bread and wine [illegible] hands of their pastor. Only [illegible] of all that little congregation of fifty, failed to partake [illegible] bread and wine. And as [illegible] communicants came back to [illegible]—all ages, types, quality, [illegible] and women, rich and poor, [illegible] and dowdy, there was [illegible] about them, an exaltation, a power which one felt and [illegible] would sustain them through [illegible] that life might bring.

RICH REWARD

[illegible], it was a weather-braving congregation, which cared tremendously, to whom this spiritual [illegible] meant everything.

[illegible] with the thermometer at [illegible], the service closed with [illegible] and confident singing as the [illegible] filed out, with friendly hu[illegible] at the church door. [illegible] spiritual power developed and [illegible]—and the heat a small [illegible] indeed for rich rewards. [illegible] a modest little church on a [illegible] Sunday.

The fruition of a creed.

On the occasion of our twentieth anniversary

TWENTY years ago this business was established—upon a "Vision" and a "Creed!"

THE vision of a great Los Angeles resolved itself into a glorious reality, and it followed that the creed, invoking a consistent, satisfactory service, found root in fertile soil. Thousands of home makers recognized the existence of this service and sought its benefits—thus forcing the business to move to finer and larger quarters, and eventually to occupy its own buildings.

BUT the real fruition of the creed—and the most precious asset of the business, an asset which has grown day by day and year by year—is the Trust and Friendship of its Patrons.

TWENTY years ago the "Creed" read:

"To render, always, a Consistent Service."

"To consider no sale complete until you, Our Customer, tell us you are satisfied."

THE fruition of this Creed of Service bespeaks not only past progress; it contemplates a vision of what Los Angeles is yet destined to become—and throughout all the coming years of the growth of this great business the shining spirit of this Creed shall ever remain unchanged.

WORLD ART EXHIBITED HERE

Water Color Masterpieces of Famed Painters Hung at Exposition Park Museum

Considerable popularity, attested by the large crowds that daily flock into the Los Angeles Museum at Exposition Park, is being enjoyed by the art exhibition of international and local water-color paintings being held there under the auspices of the California Water-Color Society. The exhibition, which is composed of about 130 paintings, eighty-four of which are water colors of internationally famed artists, will remain in the gallery at the museum until October 14.

Brought to Los Angeles from Chicago at great expense, the international exhibition contains pictures from almost every art center in Europe as well as the work of the more prominent Americans. The local exhibition of forty-four paintings represents the work of native artists in and about the State.

Both the local and the international exhibitions exemplify the latest tendencies in the art world as well as the conventional and dogmatic technic of the old European schools.

From R. J. Edward Mooney's painting "Dawn," suggestive of Milton's immortal lines apotheosizing Dawn's dappled-colored approach on the skirts of Night, mingled with its Italian richness of design, down to the sharp and slightly futuristic water-color of Sandzen, the Swedish-American artist whose paintings radiate strength and massiveness, and the sharp line-marked paintings of the modern French school, Boutet Lepape and others, the entire gamut of themes and color fantasies is presented.

First, there are the paintings of the German artists with their methodical and realistic brush-work, distinctly different from the impressionism of the French colony. One portrait, by Mayer-Franken, director of the Munich Industrial School, is a marvel of water-color technic and realism.

Then there is the picture of Lucien Simon entitled, "Old Merchant Women," a picture with the atmosphere of Brittany, with the vividness and ruggedness that only Simon can mirror. Then one is attracted by the transparent water-color of John F. Carlson, "Haunted Hovels," a snow scene with the shadows of the late afternoon breaking warmly over a white-capped country house. Over on another wall are the delicate, almost elusive tints of Take Sato, a scorner of the modernism and realism of today who defies the idealistic fantasy of the Orient.

Among other pictures of prominence is the painting of Boris Anisfeld, one of the foremost of the Russians, who apparently has absorbed considerable of the Venetian and Italian traditions as far as color and body are concerned; the realistic water and mountain scene along the Carmel coast by Eugen Neuhaus of the University of California, with the ripples and cross currents clearly defined, and Thornton Oakley's conception of an incident in the novel "Westward Ho!" an illustration of rioting color and imagery with flying flamingoes against a background of primeval splendor and vastness, faintly reminiscent of Dore in style.

WINS FIRST PRIZE

Last Friday a special jury composed of Mrs. Elizabeth Bingham, art critic for Saturday Night; Roscoe Shrader, director of the Otis Art Institute, and George T. Cole, a local artist and son of former Senator Cornelius Cole, awarded the Mrs. Henry E. Huntington prize of $100 for the best water-color in the local exhibition to Karl Yens for his painting, "A Mystic of the Orient."

Mr. Yens, who is one of the most spontaneous of the water-colorists, also recently won the capital prize at the Laguna Art Show, Laguna Beach, where he is a resident. Mr. Yens studied at the Julian Academy in Paris under Jean Paul Laurens. He also studied in London and Edinburgh.

Among the other paintings which have excited considerable comment during the past week have been the water-colors of George T. Cole, who journeyed down into the Southwest to the picturesque Hopi Indian country and brought back some of its lost color. One picture of his is painted on a canvas with guache. Another set of three pictures of the Southwest is exhibited by Carl Borg, who did the murals for the University of California several years ago.

Dana Barclay, president of the California Water-Color Society, also has two studies, one in pastel and the other in water-color, both picturing the delicate shades of tree forms.

In addition to the water-color exhibition, officials have also brought to Los Angeles the first one-man show of etchings representing ten years of work by Roi Partridge, an instructor in Mills College, near San Francisco. Forty-one etchings are included in the collection.

MT. BLANC SHRINKING

New measurements of Mt. Blanc by scientists, reported in the Scientific American, reveal the fact that, instead of being 4810 meters in height, it stretches but 4807 meters toward the skies. While some authorities hold that the greater accuracy of our present instruments is responsible for this apparent shrinkage, others believe the loss to be actual. From the brow of the mighty mountain rises a snow cap at least 100 feet in thickness, and in view of the unusual heat of the past summer it is not inconceivable that nine feet of this cap should have melted away.

RADIO SHOW WILL BRING NEW IDEAS

Latest in Up-to-Date Sets and Equipment Will be Shown October 9 to 14

"On the air," a term familiar to tens of thousands of radio fans thoughout the Southwest, will take on new significance when the first annual radio exposition opens in this city October 9, for a six days' run, closing October 19.

As this is to be held under the auspices of the Southern California Broadcast Association, the Radio Trade Association of Southern California and the Southern California Radio Association, it is forecast that every angle of the science, from newest methods to the last word in apparatus, will be exploited.

And it is also predicted that many novel features approaching radical departures will be brought forth for the edification of the hosts of listeners-in throughout this section.

Radio expositions have been held in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, Seattle and other cities, with each offering a contribution of some sort to advance the science. The Los Angeles exposition naturally will cap the climax.

Added interest is lent to the affair from the fact that the radio convention of the Pacific Coast will be held in this city to coincide with the exposition. Leading authorities on radio, as well as visitors from other fields, will be present to discuss and expound every phase of the fascinating science.

The scene of the great display will be the roof of the Harold L. Arnold Building at Seventh and Figueroa streets, where nearly an acre of space is available. Exhibitors will include amateurs as well as those firms dealing in the various instruments, materials and patents going to make up the compendium of radio.

That the science is in its infancy is the general opinion of the experts, comparable at this stage to the original talking machines. Los Angeles is known as one of the most enterprising of radio centers in the country with perhaps more amateurs and experts experimenting than in any other section. It is out of this consideration that the associations behind the exposition believe that new history will be written here through the combination of the exhibit and the convention.

The management has arranged a program designed to make the affair one of entertainment as well as of instruction. You have heard the voices of many artists from The Times' broadcast station. These will be present on one night, which will be given over to the artists. They will be heard as well as seen and radio fans will be given illustrations of how they do it.

Still another night will be given over to the motion-picture stars, with most of the screen celebrities present to entertain as well as to scintillate.

Some one is going to be lucky enough to receive a $500 receiving set free of charge.

Amateurs as well as professionals will have their day. Each individual or firm exhibit will be installed in a booth. Applications for such space are now being received and it is stated that the entire space undoubtedly will be reserved, making this the largest exposition of its kind ever held.

The management comprises a number of committees, as follows: Committee on display, Les Taufenback, chairman; exhibits, Al Myer, chairman; light and decoration, A. McDonald, chairman; entertainment, Sibley G. Pease, chairman; finance, E. C. Anthony, chairman. The daily newspapers of Los Angeles have been designated as the committee on publicity.

SHAME PROFITEERS

"A marvel of engineering skill" is the verdict of visitors at the Federal Telegraph Company transmitting station at Clearwater. Here are located three arc transmitters and one spark, together with switchboards and other aquipment. There are three rooms at the Clearwater station, one for the generators, one for the switchboards and the three arcs, and the last for the spark transmitter, and the high-frequency circuits. Operation of the apparatus is very simple, only one man being necessary at a time to see that everything is working properly. If, for some reason or other, an arc should stop, the operator is apprised of the fact by the blowing of a 110 volt horn. The Clearwater transmitters are operated by remote control from Los Angeles.

BATHERS REFUSE TO BE SEPARATED

An attempt by the municipality of Zurich to prevent mixed bathing has failed, according to the Geneva correspondent of the Daily Express. They built a swimming bath on the edge of the lake and erected a dividing screen of boards six feet high down the middle—one division for women, the other for men.

Fathers and mothers refused to be separated, and as the men could reach the women's division by swimming under the screen, they bathed together.

The officials protested and there were daily scenes. The police were called in but found it difficult to arrest a man in deep water. Uniforms were splashed, women became hysterical and were rescued spluttering. The scandal reached the ears of the municipality and the bath was closed.

After an official meeting, at which petitions from parents who wished to teach their offspring how to swim were considered, the municipal authorities have removed the objectionable dividing screen.—[New York Tribune.

NOTES OF STATE CAPITAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 23.—Property values in California have increased more than 40 per cent since 1916 and business activity as represented by new development has far exceeded that mark, according to a report made to Gov. Stephens by M. D. Lack, secretary of the State Board of Equalization. The report states:

"It will, no doubt, be interesting to you to know that a check just completed by this department with references to values and activities in California at the present time, as compared to the year 1916, the time the last check was made, shows property values in this State have increased more than 40 per cent, and that business activity, as represented by new developments and new installations, has far exceeded that mark.

"In fact, during that time, notwithstanding the extremely abnormal condition during the war period, California has established its advantages as a manufacturing State. Power developments completed and contemplated have far exceeded any previous record. Agriculture in all its branches, both in new production as well as in extent, shows satisfactory progress. Many sections of the State, especially the southern portion, have experienced a growth and development the like of which has never been known.

STATE TO USE PLOW

With the use of a snow plow, to be purchased especially for the purpose, the State Highway Commission next winter will attempt for the first time to keep open for traffic all season the highway through the Sacramento River Canyon.

While use of the snow plow to keep the road open is an entirely new departure in highway maintenance in California, Commissioner George C. Mansfield is of the opinion plows will come into general use on mountain roads if the experiment brings the results expected.

AUTOISTS LOSE LICENSES

Twenty-eight California motorists lost their operator licenses last month through revocation or suspension for periods ranging from thirty days to one year, according to Charles J. Chenu, director of the State Motor Vehicle Department.

Violation of the speeding laws and physical unfitness were the chief causes for the loss of licenses by these motorists. Of the twenty-eight who were penalized four were from Los Angeles.

MUST GET NAMES

J. Stitt Wilson, formerly Socialist Mayor of Berkeley, who is desirous of becoming an independent candidate for Governor, will have to obtain by September 28 the signatures of 9877 voters who did not participate in the primary election if his ambition is to be realized.

Politicians regard this as a task entailing a great deal of work and expense. The late Theodore Bell, who was an independent candidate for Governor in 1918, is said to have paid 50 cents per name for the signatures on his petition.

FUND INCREASES

The State Compensation Insurance Fund showed a gross earning of $1,182,762.70 and a net earning of $262,957.44 during the quarter ending June 30, according to a report made to the State Board of Control.

The net premiums written by the fund totaled $1,098,884.18, and the expenditures amounted to $808,805.26, of which amount $667,592.50 represented losses paid. The fund has a surplus of $5,461,186.30.

POWERS DEFINED

Atty.-Gen. U. S. Webb has ruled that the State Industrial Welfare Commission has supervision over the Indian girls of the Sherman school at Riverside whenever they accept employment outside the reservation. The question was put to Webb to cover the cases of Indian girls employed in canneries.

SUBMITS PLAN FOR ELECTION

Chamber Would Change Way of Choosing Councilmen

Three at Large and One from Each of Twelve Districts

Two Other Proposals Already Placed Upon Ballots

The City Council was yesterday requested by the Chamber of Commerce to place on the ballot at the November election a proposed charter amendment which would change the method of selecting Councilmen from the present plan of choosing nine members at large to selecting three at large and one from each of twelve districts into which the city is to be divided.

The Council has already, upon an initiative petition filed some time ago, ordered a district representation plan on the ballot under which fifteen members of the City Council are to be chosen, one from each of fifteen districts into which the city is to be divided and none to be selected at large. The Council has also ordered on the ballot the proportional representation plan under which three Councilmen are to be chosen from each of five districts into which the city is to be divided.

CHAMBER'S PLAN

Under the Chamber of Commerce's district representation plan, which is expected to be also ordered on the ballot by the Council, the city is divided into twelve districts as follows:

District No. 1—San Fernando Valley, precincts 740 to 755, inclusive, and 539.

District No. 2—All of city east of Los Angeles River and north of Alhambra avenue.

District No. 3—All of city east of river and south of Alhambra avenue.

District No. 4—Beginning at North Broadway and the Los Angeles River, running southwest on North Broadway to Bernardo street, west to Adobe street, south to Colledge street, west to Figueroa street, south to Adams street, east to San Pedro street, south to Pacific Electric tracks, east along Pacific Electric tracks to Alameda street, south to northwest corner Vernon city limits, east along Los Angeles city limits to river, north along river to point of beginning.

District No. 5—Bounded on east by district No. 4 and by Los Angeles River from North Broadway to Los Feliz Boulevard, southwest Los Feliz Boulevard to prolongation of Talmadge street, south along Talmadge to Fountain, west to Hoover, south on Hoover to Pico street, east on Pico to Figueroa.

DISTRICT SIX

District No. 6—All of city north of Temple and Beverly Boulevard, west of Hoover and Talmadge, north and west of Los Feliz Boulevard and of districts No. 2 and 5.

District No. 7—South of Temple and Beverly, north of Pico, west of Hoover to city limits.

District No. 8—South of Pico, north of Adams, west of Figueroa to city limits.

District No. 9—South of Adams, north of Santa Barbara, west of Main street to city limits.

District No. 10—South of Santa Barbara, north of Manchester, west of Main to city limits.

District No. 11—East of Main street, south of district No. 4 to Manchester avenue.

District No. 12—All south of Manchester avenue (precincts 714 to 738, inclusive.)

"All outlaying precincts not covered by this description should be attached to nearest contiguous district. Amendment should provide that City Council shall attach each future annexation to nearest contiguous district and shall redistrict the city at least once in every four years to conform as nearly as possible to changes in population."

CALIFORNIA'S NEGLIGENCE

Insane Persons Now Sent to Hospitals or Prison Only to Soon be Turned Loose on Public

BY EDWARD HUNTINGTON WILLIAMS, M.D.,
Member of Los Angeles County Insanity Commission

In certain things California is criminally negligent. There seems to be no other term that adequately describes the condition. For States and governments, like individuals, may be negligent in enacting, or enforcing, laws that protect their citizens. And this is true of the California laws that control, or better, fail to control, many of her criminally or dangerously insane persons.

On September 9 of this year, the newspapers reported that a well-known attorney in Los Angeles had been attacked and shot by a lunatic. This lunatic was known to be dangerously insane, and had threatened the life of this lawyer, as well as the lives of several other persons including prominent officials.

MAD MEN AT LARGE

About a year ago, a member of the family of a county official was murdered by a madman. Shortly before this a prominent teacher in one of our exclusive private schools was sacrificed. The list of similar murderous assaults could be extended on and on. These cases suggest that something must be wrong in any civilized community where persons who are known to be dangerous to themselves and others are allowed to wander about unhampered until they finally kill or maim somebody.

There are two very tangible reasons for this state of affairs. First: California has no institution for the care of the criminal insane; and second, California's insanity laws are so overly protective to the rights of the individual insane person that they do not adequately protect the rights of the community at large. In these two things our State is lagging in the wake of some other communities that do have institutions for the care of the criminal insane, and that do protect the rights of the community without infringing the rights of the individual.

NO ADEQUATE PROVISIONS

Since we have no institution for the care of the criminal insane in California, it is necessary either to send such unfortunates to prison, which is unjust to them, or send them to one of our institutions for the care of the noncriminal insane, which is not only unjust to them, but also unjust to the other inmates of that institution. Simply because a sick person's form of illness happens to affect the inside of his skull, as in the case of insanity, instead of his chest or abdomen, there is no reason why he should be made to associate with criminals. And even though the insane person himself may not object to this, his relatives and friends do—and have a mighty good right to do so.

The ordinary insane hospital is not the place for the care of insane criminals, because in such institutions they do not have adequate facilities for the necessary restraint of the criminal cases. Indeed, this lack of restraint in one of our State hospitals accounts for the opportunity afforded the criminal lunatic who shot the lawyer in the case just mentioned; and obviously such laxity is an injustice to the insane man himself, as well as to his community.

At the present time, in cases where a criminal is known to be, or is strongly suspected of being insane, the prosecuting attorney, the presiding judge and the trial jury are confronted with a puzzling problem. The situation was expressed recently in the terse statement of one of our presiding judges in speaking of a case that had just come under his observation. The prisoner in question was found guilty of a crime and was manifestly of unsound mind, although the jury had not called him so officially. The statement of this presiding judge was, in effect, as follows:

JUDGE'S DILEMMA

"I believe this man is of unsound mind, has been so for many years, and always will be so. But what am I to do with him? If I send him to prison for a certain short term he will be turned loose upon the community to commit more crimes when the term is completed. If I send him to one of our State institutions for the insane, it is more than likely that he will remain there only a short time, because he is almost certain to escape. They do not have adequate facilities in those institutions for keeping criminals—and, anyhow, nobody wants criminals mingling with other people that are not criminals, whether they be of unsound mind or not."

The answer to this dilemma is: The establishment of a hospital for the criminal insane. And if we would make it impossible for a person who has been pronounced insane by the Insanity Commission to obtain a jury trial simply for the asking, we would clear up a situation that is now in a continuous muddle.

SUPERPROTECTION

The bugbear of all insanity legislation is the fear that some one who is not insane will be "railroaded" into an asylum. The primary object of our existing legislation is to prevent this, and there is no doubt that our laws do so in a most satisfactory manner.

In order to commit a person to the insane hospital it is necessary, (1) for some qualified person to convince the clerk of the Insanity Court that the suspected person is of unsound mind; (2) to have a physician examine the patient and send a written statement to the clerk; (3) the patient must be observed for several days by a judge of the Superior Court and the nurses in the psycopathic hospital; (4) he must be examined by four physicians; (5) he must be brought before a regular court in open session where all witnesses may be heard and complete records made of their statements and, (6,) four examining physicians must express the opinion that the person is insane and give their reasons for such an opinion—all this complicated process of protection to the accused person before the Superior Court judge expresses his opinion and renders his decision.

Could anything be fair or more just as a protection against "railroading?" And yet this does not end matters. If, after all this proceeding, the insane person, or his friends, or his attorneys, wish to do so, they may obtain a jury trial simply for the asking and without giving reasons.

INJUSTICE POSSIBLE

Now, this is the flaw in the otherwise reasonably clear amber. This is where scientific and judicial consideration ends, and farcical injustice is likely to begin. For, in these jury trials it is left for twelve laymen, who, of course, know very little indeed about insanity, to decide a purely medical question about the individual's mental equilibrium, which has already been passed upon by the array of specially qualified legal, and medical, and lay examiners enumerated. Or to be perfectly accurate, the matter is not decided by twelve jurors, but by any eight of them who hold the same opinion, since in insanity trials it requires only eight out of twelve votes of the jurymen to decide the issue.

Is it reasonable to suppose that any twelve laymen picked at random will be more competent to pass judgment upon the peculiarly puzzling disease, insanity, or to be more honest in their decision in the matter, than the experienced clerk, hospital nurses and hospital doctors, and the specially qualified physicians of the Insanity Commission, and the judge of the insanity court, who have already passed judgment upon the accused person's condition? There is only one answer. And this answer has been given in a practical manner in several of the other States by making the decision of the insanity commission final, except as it may be overthrown by habeas corpus proceedings, which cannot be had simply for the asking. It is not an experiment, for such laws have been in practical and satisfactory operation for several years.

HOSPITAL IMPERATIVE

Less injustice would be done to the insane criminal and the noncriminal insane in our institutions and the public at large, if our great State would establish a public hospital for insane criminals. Our prominent citizens would then be less likely to be attacked by insane cranks, whose unsoundness of mind, as in the case of the lunatic who shot the attorney a few days ago, is not manifest to the average observer, particularly in a community that is the haven for so many different types of queer individuals.

Italian Shoots Spouse in Row; Gives Reason

The rather martial than marital relations of John and Carlotta Cogorno were punctuated yesterday afternoon by a shot and the wife soon after was in the Receiving Hospital with a bullet wound that showed a shattered breast bone, and her husband was under arrest.

For a long time, Cogorno related, he and his wife have been at outs, but he continued to occupy a room in the same house with her in the rear of 660½ Lamar street.

"I no shoot him for nothing," Cogorno said. "He bother me all the time. I'm good man. Work for Southern Pacific. Want to keep children. Oldest girl he 6½; youngest something like 2. I no shoot him for nothing. He put rags in my room, said get out. Tried give me kick, like this. I no shoot him for nothing."

Cogorno, a tall, blond Italian laborer, continued at some length to convince the police that he had been justified in shooting his wife, as he admitted. The three children are being cared for by neighbors. The police surgeons believe the woman will die.

COLLEGE TO OPEN IN ARCTIC REGIONS

ALASKA'S SCHOOL OF MINES FARTHEST NORTH IN THE WORLD

Alaska's first college—an accredited school of higher learning seventy miles from the Arctic Circle, the farthest north of any in the world—will open its doors September 15. The new Alaska Agricultural College and School of Mines is located at Fairbanks, in the center of well-known mining regions and at the head of several fertile valleys, where farming operations have just begun.

Heretofore, Alaska's high school graduates had to travel outside for college training, but the new institution will offer courses besides agriculture and mining, in home economics, civil and electrical engineering, general science and special work for business fields.

The president of the Alaska college is Judge Charles E. Bunnell, formerly presiding over the fourth judicial division of the Territory, and who has selected the following persons as his faculty: Clinton H. Morgan and Elizabeth E. Kirkpatrick, graduates from the Kansas State Agriculture College; Herbert D. Bruce, University of Nevada; Ernest H. Patty of the University of Washington; E. H. Bell, Gordon Street and Thomas Colter, all of Iowa State College of Agriculture.

The history of this new college dates back to 1917, when the Territorial Legislature appropriated $60,000 for site and buildings. As soon as opened it is entitled to $50,000 annually from the Federal government.

It is said the school will begin its sessions with a registration of from seventy to 100 students.—[New York World.

SMALLEST OF DOGS

"Small enough to crawl through a knot hole and yet big enough to attract the attention due all champions when placed on exhibition," is the boast of Mrs. Harry S. Peaster of this city as to her 3-year-old Mexican Chihuahua dog. Little Pedro weighs one pound four ounces.

This tiny canine specimen, probably the smallest in the country, has a grandfather now 20 years old and himself contributed this past summer to several litters numbering ten pups. His last appearance at Newport several weeks ago marked his first failure to capture the championship in his class in ten different summer shows.

No Swiss watchmaker ever handled his charge more carefully than Mrs. Peaster looks after Little Pedro. Not much bigger than a speck, anyway, Little Pedro could well clamber into the canary bird's bathtub and come to an untimely end through drowning.—[Philadelphia Correspondence New York World.

TWO REFUSE TO ACCEPT BERLIN JOB

Vice-Premier and Louis Loucheur Will Not be Ambassadors to Germany

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

PARIS, Sept. 23.—Premier Poincare has offered the Ambassadorship to Berlin to Louis Barthou, vice-Premier, who represented France more or less successfully at the Genoa conference.

M. Barthou has refused the post and his refusal has been strong and flat. Louis Loucher also has been offered the Berlin post and he too, has declied it. The former minister of reconstruction is looking forward to being Premier.

According to Aux Ecoutes the impending changes in the French Cabinet will be more extensive than at first expected, even subsidiary posts being affected. M. Maunoury, who is leaving the Ministry of the Interior, has been offered the portfolio of Justice, which Barthou now holds.

There are several candidates to replace Maunoury, including Maginot, Colrat and Rebel. One of the first two is most likely to be called. If Maginot should get the interior portfolio—he is in no hurry to have the job—Colrat would receive the Ministry of Justice, in case Maunoury preferred to retire or become Minister to the Vatican.

M. Jonnart, now Minister to the Vatican, will be offered the French seat on the reparations commission and thereby become president of the commission, the long-expected resignation of Paul Dubois being practically effective now.

Had to Have a Baggage Plane

Col. Hiram Bingham of Connecticut and his family, consisting of his wife and six sons, who are touring Europe, made a full load for the Daimler air express from London to Paris. In addition there was half a ton of personal baggage to meet the family needs, and it was necessary to send a second plane along to accommodate the luggage. Col. Bingham was a pilot in the American air force during the war, and while in France rose to the command of his section.—[Indianapolis News.

WHERE GORDON FELL

A Tale of British Heroism Recalled in Modern Khartum

Perhaps the most interesting sights of Khartum today are those connected with the strange, romantic figure of Gen. Gordon, such as Gordon Memorial College, where Sudanese youths are trained for official careers by Egyptian and English teachers; the statue of Gordon mounted on a camel in the ground behind the sirdar's palace, reminding one of the story of his solitary ride across eighty-five miles of desert to the camp of Suleiman, where his daring orders to disarm and disband so startled the rebellious tribesmen that they promptly put them into effect; and the palace itself, built over the remains of Gordon's house, rising white and fantastic beside the Blue Nile.

The palace marks the place where Gordon sat, with hair that had turned suddenly white during the last weeks of the siege, scribbling his mad journal on the telegram blanks that were now of no greater use to him, since all connection with Cairo had been cut.

Here he used to spend those long day and night vigils on the roof, looking to the west and to the north, wondering which would break through first, the indrawing hordes of the Mahdi or the relief expedition confidently expected from Cairo.

And when the shots from the Mahdi's cannon across the Nile picked out the palace as their particular mark and a Levantine merchant calling upon Gordon late one evening begged him to block the windows with boxes of sand, he calmly ordered a large lantern to be brought in, lighted its candles, set the lantern on the table in front of the window and invited his guest to occupy the seat opposite his at the table, maintaining that God had created him without fear.

It was on this spot that Gordon finally fell, under the spears of four dervishes, when the Mahdi's followers came pouring across the mud flats to the south and overran the starved city.—[Gertrude Emerson in Asia.

Effect, Effectual, Effected

"I suppose, Henry," said the old gentleman to his new son-in-law, "you are aware the check for £1000 I placed among your wedding presents was merely for effect?" "Oh, yes, sir," was the bright rejoinder, "and the effect was excellent. The bank cashed it this morning without a word."—[London Post.

FOILS PICKPOCKETS

Traveler Has Novel Scheme For Hiding Money Safely

He was a visitor from a small town in New Hampshire and after he reached the home of a friend in New York and was shown to his room he took stock of his finances. His friend had lingered to talk over old times. The stranger pulled a card from his pocket, looked at a penciled memorandum and then produced a roll of bills from his trousers pocket.

Again the card was consulted and a compact bundle of bills was brought from the watch-pocket of the trousers. The inside pocket of the waistcoat—the wearer called it a vest—yielded a wad and so did a card case carried in a breast pocket.

"What is the plot?" asked the New Yorker.

"In case a pickpocket frisks me," said the Granite State man, "I don't intend to lose all I have. I started with about $500 and I scattered it in various pockets. I might lose one or two of the bundles, but I a mnot likely to lose all of them."

"But the card?"

"Oh, the memorandum? Why I might forget where all the money

LOCAL PASTOR TRANSFERRED

Westlake Church Minister to St. Louis

To Preach Last Sermon Here on October 1

Has Served in City for Last Three Years

Rev. Thomas O. Grieves, who in 1919 succeeded Rev. H. F. Howe to the pastorate of the Westlake Methodist Church, has been appointed pastor of the Union-avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of St. Louis, Mo., according to information received yesterday.

The appointment of Mr. Grieves to his new charge was made by Bishop Adna W. Leonard, D.D., of the St. Louis Conference, with the consent of Bishop William A. Quayle, D.D., in charge of the Southern California Conference.

Mr. Grieves is closing the work of his conference year at the church which he has faithfully served for the last three years and will preach his last sermon in Los Angeles October 1, preaching for the first time before his new congregation at St. Louis, October 8.

Before coming to Los Angeles Mr. Grieves had spent several years in Troy Conference in Eastern New York and eight years in ministerial work in Western New York. At a recent meeting of the official board of the Westlake Methodist Church Mr. Grieves was invited to return for the fourth year and had expected to do so.

"It is not without a feeling of regret that I leave this lovely land and the splendid people here," said Mr. Grieves. "However, the pastorate of the Union-avenue church at St. Louis, one of the most influential churches of that district, offers a fine opportunity for service and I hope that God will point me to the way of usefulness to my new congregation."

A new pastor for the Westlake Methodist Church will be appointed at the local Methodist Conference which will meet at Fresno October 12.

At It Again

Two old English women who had not been on speaking terms were brought together by friends who desired to patch up their quarrel. There was an embarrassed silence between them for a moment, then one ventured, "Well, Mrs. 'iggins, I wish you all you wishes me."

"An, oos's sayin' narsty things now?" snapped the other woman.—[Boston Transcript.

MORMON HEAD ARRIVES HERE

Will Dedicate Ocean Park Chapel Today

Authorities of Church Also to be Present

New Edifice is One of Most Practical at Beach

Heber J. Grant, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormon) will dedicate the new Latter Day Saint Chapel in Ocean Park tomorrow. Three meetings will be held during the day, and the special dedicatory service will commence at 2 p.m.

The president and members of his family arrived from Salt Lake City yesterday. Several of the general authorities of the church will be present, among them Joseph W. McMurrin, who is also president of the California Mission.

George W. McCune will be in attendance. He is prominent in church affairs and was formerly president of the Eastern States Mission. It has been announced that he will be in charge of the "Los Angeles Stake of Zion" which is soon to be organized.

Music for the dedicatory services will be furnished by the combined Los Angeles, Ocean Park and Long Beach, L.D.S. branch choirs, consisting of 150 voices under direction of Prof. William C. Salt. Some of the noted soloists and musicans who will render special musical numbers are:

David Reese, Harold Anderson, Norma Hewlett, Ruth Jensen, May Anderson, violinist; Irving Jenkins, cellist; Alexander F. Schreiner, organist and pianist.

The new chapel is at the corner of Strand and Washington streets. From it an excellent view of the city and sea can be had. The building was started April 5, which was the ninety-second anniversary of the organization of the Mormon church. The building is one of the most practical church edifices at the beach.

R. D. Rutheford was the architect and builder. Dr. Otto J. Monson. Dr. George F. Harding and James Thomas are the presidency of the L.D.S., Ocean Park branch and were directly in charge of the construction.

Love of Argument

"Why is betting an almost exclusively masculine habit?" an exchange inquires, and a cynical correspondent answers, "Men choose betting as a means of stopping an argument; women never want an argument stopped." — [Boston Transcript.

COME .. HERE, .. LIVE .. FOREVER

Former Texan's Message to Home Folks

Span Many Years

"I'M GOING back to Texas to tell the folks about Southern California. If they come here they'll live forever."

This determination was voiced yesterday by Mrs. Minnie C. Harris of 1720 South Hobart Boulevard, who is the next oldest member of a family representing five successive generations. Mrs. G. A. Smith, mother of Mrs. Harris, who lives at Austin, Tex., is 74 years old.

Mrs. Harris, who is 62 years old, has a son, G. D. Harris, a grandson, Menlo Harris, and a great-grandson, M. C. Harris, Jr., living at Dallas Tex., their respective ages being 46 years, 24 years and 6 months. This entitles Mrs. G. A. Smith, widow of a Civil War veteran, to be called great-great grandmother.

Mrs. M. A. H. Noble, grandmother of Mrs. Harris, who died recently at Belton, Tex., was the head of a family consisting of thirteen children, sixty-seven grandchildren, forty-seven great-grandchildren and nine great-great grandchildren. Mrs. Harris is the mother of Mrs. Anna Wright of Bisbee, Ariz., inventor of the new "flapper doll."

PAINT BATH IN MIDAIR

Suspended eighty feet in midair by his toes for nearly half an hour before being rescued was the experience Wednesday of John B. Thomas, 60, a painter, at work on a factory smokestack. Thomas was sitting in a rigger's chair when he was overcome by heat. Falling backward he began a plunge. As his feet came up through the chair his toes caught in a piece of rope, stopping his fall. A bucket of creosote paint upset and poured over Thomas, adding to his suffering. A helper climbed from the top of the stack and lashed Thomas's feet to the rigging. A fire company rescued Thomas twenty-five minutes later.—[New Orleans correspondence New York World.

SAFER SIZE

Nurse: No, indeed, ma'am. The babies don't fall so far when I drop 'em.—[Boston Transcript.

PARISH TO OPEN OLD-TIME FAIR

Week of Fun to be Had by Members of St. Mary's; Many Booths

Beginning with a grand opening tomorrow night, St. Mary's Fair, conducted under the auspices of the various organizations of the parish, will open its doors to the public for a week of fun. The entertainment is housed in a circus tent at the corner of East Fourth and Chicago streets.

The show is patterned after the old-time county fair, with numerous amusement features, and booths representing the activities of St. Mary's Church organizations. Each evening from 6 until 8 p.m. Spanish and chicken dinners will be served.

Included in the list of special booths are those of the L.C.B.A. Society, the Holy Name Society booth, the Young Ladies' booth, the Catholic Order of Foresters' booth, the Children of Mary booth and the Revelation booth.

A special attraction for the children will be Mrs. Wetzel's "Fish Pond." The fair will close on Saturday night the 30th inst.

RECALLING A LETTER

The Postoffice Department Tells How It May Be Done

Have you ever written a letter, mailed it in a corner box or in your local post office and then changed your mind? Have you ever lain awake all night wishing you had the letter back again and thinking that, having once mailed it, there was no chance of recalling it?

If you have had such an experience don't let it worry you in the future, for under the postal laws and regulations it is a comparatively easy matter for you to get the letter back into your own hands.

All you have to do is to go to your local postmaster and explain to him that you want to withdraw your letter from the mails. The postmaster must comply with your request, providing you can furnish proofs that you are the sender of the missive. These proofs consist of giving an accurate description of the letter you wish to get back as well as presenting to the postmaster a sample of your handwriting, which must be identical with that on the original letter.

The rules of the Postoffice Department also permit postmasters to telegraph to the railway mail clerk and get him to take a recalled letter out of a mail pouch after it has left the city on the way to its destination. This measure to secure the return of a letter is only taken, however, in extreme emergencies.—[Postoffice Department Bulletin.

Increasing Egg Production

Over 22,000,000,000 eggs have been laid in the United States already this year, says a report of the department of agriculture. The average per capita consumption of eggs is one-half an egg daily. According to the report decreased consumption of poultry has left a larger number of hens on the farms with the result that eggs are cheaper and more plentiful.—[Pathfinder.

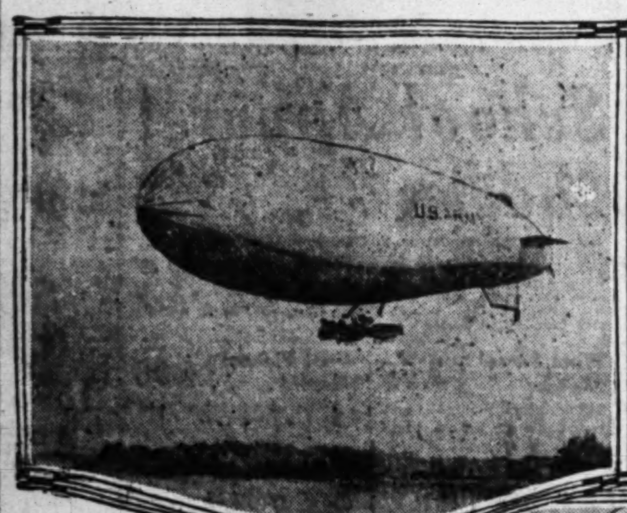
Army Dirigible Nears City



Crew of C-2 Facing Scorching Heat of Desert Skies Today

Above, the C-2 Army airship making transcontinental flight from Langley Field, Virginia, to Ross Field, Arcadia. It left Akron, O., September 15. Below, the C-2 crew. Left to right, Capt. G. W. McEntire, Staff Sergts. William F. Fitch and G. A. Albrecht, Lieut. Don L. Hutchins, Maj. H. A. Strauss, commander, and Lieut. O. A. Anderson.

DIRIGIBLE ARRIVES HERE

Eager Crowd Greets Immense Airship at End of Record-Making Journey

Completing the first coast-to-coast flight by a lighter-than-air machine, the Army dirigible C-2 made a perfect landing at 7 o'clock last night at Ross Field, Arcadia.

She left Nogales, Ariz., at daybreak on the last lap of her trip, her crew in high hopes of reaching Ross Field by midafternoon.

A forced landing in the desert near Ajo, Ariz., when motor trouble developed, consumed two and a half hours before the airship reached Yuma, where she landed for fuel and supplies, leaving there at 2 o'clock on the final hop to Ross Field.

Although there was no trouble in crossing mountain ranges, the crew of the big ship reported themselves buffeted in a surging sea of air whirlpools above the desert. Heat waves, from the sun-scorched surface of the desert, were so severe that several times the C-2 was in actual danger of being capsized by the force of the whirling air. However, skilful handling by the six men who hopped off from Langley Field, Va., on the 13th inst., brought the dirigible safely to the end of her record-making journey.

CROWDS WAITING

Early yesterday morning a great crowd was gathering at Ross Field. Automobilists arrived in a steady stream all forenoon, but were disappointed when word was passed ou that the blimp would not arrive until evening. However, afternoon saw another big crowd congregating, and there was every indication that a tremendous gathering would be on hand to welcome the C-2 on completion of her trip.

The crew manuvering the air vessel is composed of six men. Maj. Strauss is in command, assisted by Capt. G. W. McEntire, Lieuts. Don L. Hutchins and O. A. Anderson, and Staff Sergts. William F. Fitch and A. D. Albrecht.

Plans are already being made at Ross Field for a series of flights to be made by the C-2 during the coming week.

The C-2 is 192 feet long, 54 feet wide, 57 feet high and is inflated with hydrogen. It has a cruising speed of forty-five miles an hour and a cruising radius of 700 miles.

KISS GIVEN TO EVERY LONELY GOB

Mary Has Busy Day at Sailors' Fete; She is Talented Chimpanzee

Nearly 2000 sailors of the Pacific Fleet celebrated their first "regular" holiday ashore yesterday at Selig Zoo Park, a splendid entertainment having been prepared for them under the direction of the Assistance League of Southern California.

Boxing, dancing, wrestling and games were among the features of the afternoon program, the evening being devoted entirely to dancing, hundreds of Los Angeles girls participating.

Among other features of the afternoon was the lion-training exhibit, by Mr. Selig's trainers, and the trick performances by members of the Simian tribes. The hit of the day was the entertainment afforded by Mary 10-year-old chimpanzee, under the direction of Cy DeVry.

Mary kissed every sailor that would accept her osculatory welcome, threw kisses at the rest of the boys, used the telephone, smoked cigarettes, expectorated in a most charming manner, shook hands with everybody and signed autograph books

The most popular man of the day was Ygnacio Lucero, who, assisted by his wife and daughter, Mrs. Lucero and Bebe, prepared the excellent beef and trimmings for the visitors. It was one of the best barbecues of the season.

Will Dedicate Catholic Church This Afternoon

Heads of the civic organizations of Glendale and the pastors of neighboring parishes are invited to attend the dedication of the Holy Family Church at Glendale at 4 p.m. today Bishop Cantwell will officiate.

Rev. James S. O'Neill, pastor of he new parish, has arranged for a large processional in which all the organizations of the church will participate.

An appropriate musical program has been prepared through the efforts of Rev. S. Kirk of St. Basil's Church and Edward J. Wheelan, organist and choir director of St. Basil's.

Following the dedicatory services at the church a banquet in honor of Bishop Cantwell and in commemoration of the dedication of the parish will be given at 6 p.m. at the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. During the manquet a program of music will be rendered by William G. Bode, Julius Bierlich, Louis Apid, A. L. Gardner and H. G. Henning. John Steven McGroarty will be toastmaster and the principal speakers will be Judge Paul J. McCormick and Joseph Scott.

Cole Company Says Business Quite Healthy

The Cole Motor Car Company reports that during the first month of production of the new ultra series Cole 8-90, sales have increased 62 per cent over those of the preceding month, and 49 per cent over those of the same month for 1921.

The new models include many minor improvements and refinements, and have met with so much public approval that the factory has been forced to more than double their intended program of production. The factory is now running full force and all indications point to a greater business this fall than has been had at any time in the past few years.

FIVE FACTORS HAVE DECIDED INFLUENCE

THEY GOVERN THE BUYER IN HIS SELECTION OF AN AUTOMOBILE

No longer can a dealer who represents a manufacturer, forget the buyer once a purchase is made, declares Don P. Smith, general manager of the W. P. Herbert Company, distributor of the Chandler and Cleveland lines.

"There are at least five factors that influence the car buyer of today in the selection of his automobile," explained Mr. Smith, "they are briefly: First, are the manufacturer's facilities and policies, as evidenced by his standing, up to standard? Second, are the system of manufacture and the production plans perfect? Third, is the chassis mechanically perfect and correct in preserving proper relation between power and load, comfort and safety, performance and durability? Fourth, does the manufacturer furnish a body type that is exactly suited to the buyer's requirements in every detail? Fifth, what is the extent of the manufacturer's desire, once the car is purchased, to guarantee the owner transportation as nearly uninterrupted as possible?"

STABILATOR SPRING CUTS DOWN RECOIL

Comfort features in vehicular construction have been in constant evolution, just as have those particular mechanical characteristics having primarily to do with locomotion, points out Howland Paddock of the Watson Stabilator Company of Los Angeles.

"From the crude parts of primitive times to the present motor car, there has been a constant effort to add more and more comfort to the riding qualities of the vehicle," says Mr. Paddock. "Early passenger-carrying contrivances were constructed with little or no regard to easy riding, the primary object being to get over the ground, regardless of any discomforts attendant to having no springs to absorb the shocks of the road.

"The introduction of the spring was a step of major importance. From then on concentrated energy has been expended in the effort to make the spring more efficient.

"Popularity of the Watson Stabilator is due to the fact that it steps in and helps the spring to insure complete comfort by controlling recoil, the unfortunately unavidable evil of every spring."

Pacific Electric Wants to Carry Freight in City Street

In order to serve the Westinghouse Electric Company and other industries, the Pacific Electric company yesterday asked the City Council for a twenty-one-year freight-carrying franchise on San Pedro street between Ninth street and Aliso street.

In case the franchise is granted it will be necessary, the application stated, to widen San Pedro street and to install curves at Ninth street and at Aliso street. The cost of this work is estimated at $90,000, of which property owners in the district have agreed to contribute $25,000, the railroad to pay the remainder.

Under the terms of the application, the Pacific Electric agrees to do its San Pedro-street freight hauling between the hours of 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. The matter will come before the Council tomorrow morning.

Do You Want Relief From Feet That Hurt?

Wouldn't you like to feel again the freedom from foot troubles that you enjoyed as a child? You can banish forever the tired, achey, cramped feeling that makes you long for the time when you can remove your shoes.

Why should you suffer with corns or bunions or calloused spots or weak arches or painful feet that make your life miserable and your disposition crabbed when others enjoy the perfect restfulness of feet that do not bother them?

Why GROUND GRIPPER SHOES Give Comfort

The Flexible Shank

High and close fitting—supports the arch and many times actually cures flat foot; gives with the slightest flex of the muscle and does not bind or press unduly.

The Perfect Arch

The low, flat Ground Gripper Heel provides a perfect arch and holds the foot exactly as Nature intended with the weight of the body falling right on the center of the arch.

The Natural Lines

No. 1 shows how the foot is abused when cramped into so-called stylish shoes. No. 2 shows the swinging outside line and the straight inside line that keep the foot as Nature provided.

The Rotor Heel

A Rubber Inset in the Heel that acts as a miniature shock absorber and also pivots the foot so that it keeps straight in walking and thus prevents tiring and abusing the muscles.

Note These Points!

They spell comfort for you. Never again will you go back to the old-style shoes that have caused you so much bother. And, remember, even though you have never had foot trouble Ground Gripper Shoes will prevent it.

Hugs the Instep—Supports the Arch

The seam is back of, and cannot press upon, the great toe joint, one of the common faults with ordinary shoes. Those who suffer with enlarged joints will appreciate this comfort.

Ground Gripper Shoes Give You The Comfort You've Dreamed of

If you can imagine the absolute and complete comfort that you enjoy in an old pair of slippers you will get some idea of the perfect freedom you will feel in Ground Gripper Shoes. Ground Grippers were made first of all for comfort and to prevent and remedy foot troubles. Try Ground Grippers. If you are troubled with feet that hurt, with corns or bunions, or over-lapping toes, or weak arches, Ground Gripper Shoes will afford you instant relief and will change your whole attitude towards life.

ORPHANS .. HAVE .. BIG .. CELEBRATION

Third Anniversary of Founding of Institution Real Event

Tots at Kiddie Koop Home

THE fifty unfortunate children of the Kiddie Koop Home never enjoyed themselves quite as much before as they did last week when the third anniversary of the founding of the institution was celebrated with a party. They also had a treat while the circus was here. For the visit to the "white top" the girls and boys were indebted to C. M. Pierce, who bundled thirty-five of the kiddies in his big automobile, taking along Miss Eula Wilson, president, and Miss Ruth Allen, secretary, for good measure.

Mr. Pierce, who is one of the best friends of the orphans of Los Angeles, has taken thousands of children to the Pilgrimage Play, the Hollywood Bowl concerts, and the beach resorts this summer, with the kindly aid of friends who have donated their services and their automobiles at various times. During the last fifteen years Mr. Pierce has collected and distributed 121 tons of foodstuff to orphan homes of Los Angeles.

The Kiddie Koop is at 621 East Forty-eighth street, and was founded by Miss Wilson following her recuperation from a long illness. It is supported almost entirely by popular subscriptions. Last year the expenses of the institution amounted to $19,200.

CURIOUS HEADGEAR

The standard bearer who rode in front of the bridal carriage in the royal wedding procession at Belgrade wore the curious headgear worn by the natives of Montenegro, both male and female. This is the pork-pie cap or kapa, which bears a border of black silk as a token of mourning for the battle of Kossovo, where the Serbs and other Christian Balkan nations were crushed by the Turks in 1389. The crimson center signifies the sea of blood in which the country has been washed since then, and the five gold bands around the cap represent the five centuries of Montenegro's stormy history following the defeat.—[Indianapolis News.

Beaverton, Oregon—"I take great pleasure in stating what Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets have done for me in a very severe case of bladder and kidney trouble. For ten years I was distressed about every thirty minutes. I doctored and doctored but no relief. My last doctor bill was $175.00, and I was no better. I went back to my old home and my folks wanted me to give Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets a trial so I did and I also took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' with them to work on my liver. Now I can walk, ride, go to town and go for five or six hours without being distressed. I can not praise the Anuric Tablets too much for they are wonderful for the kidneys." Laugh at Father Time

If Hair is Turning Gray, use Sage Tea

YOU can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Swiss Guides, Fed on Garlic, to Steer City Hall Visitors; Safety First

The recent discovery of an aged, starving man wandering about at the City Hall searching for room 203 has again revived the movement for a corps of Swiss guides to personally escort citizens to the departments which they seek. The lost citizen recently brought to light at the hall had entered the municipal portals young and confident that he would soon dispatch his public business, but when discovered his whiskers had reached Santa Claus proportions and he was without hope that such an office as the assessment bureau existed.

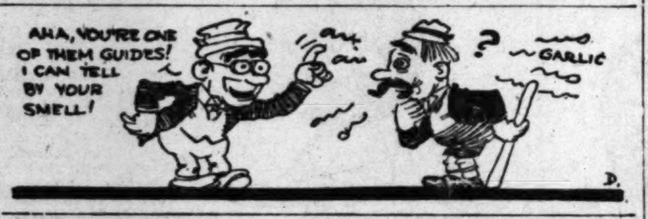
The situation will be still further complicated next month, when just to make it more difficult than ever for city business to be transacted the departments will be shuffled about, and some of them sent to the Bullard Block near the postoffice. Hence, the revival of the demand for individual Swiss guides.

PROFESSOR IS BOSS

Prof. John Burns will command the guides, and as he is the only living man who knows where all of the city departments are located, he will first give his assistants a complete course of training. The guides, according to present plans, will be dressed in bright green uniforms, and will be required to eat garlic, so that the guides can be found at any time, even if the citizen is color blind. The guides will be equipped with lanterns, ropes, alpenstocks, and nonskid mountain boots. They will all be young, hardy mountaineers, and fitted to start on the long journeys to which they will be assigned. It is expected that with the guides at work the average number of miles required to be traversed by a citizen seeking, for example, a building permit, will be reduced from 200 to 100, and the time required cut by at least six months.

A citizen applying at the door of the City Hall as to how and where to obtain a building permit will be literally taken in tow by one of the Swiss guides, attached to the guide by ropes in order that the citizen will not be lost during his long trip, and then the journey will begin and proceed as follows:

First to the top floor of the City Hall, thence to the south annex for the man's house number, thence to the north annex for the lot number, thence southerly by westerly to the Bullard Block, to the health department, thence to the Chief of Police to ascertain if he knows any reason why the permit should not be issued, and thence to Normal Hill to point out the spot where the library will be built, and then the citizen will be given a numbered check, so that he can return the following day and continue his journey to the water, plumbing, City Planning Commission, to look at the pretty zoning map, thence to the marriage bureau and to the fire department, playground commissioners, the gas company's office, and so on and so on, until at last, at last, the citizen has secured his permit.



AHA, YOU'RE ONE OF THEM GUIDES! I CAN TELL BY YOUR SMELL!
GARLIC

ONE CONSOLATION

The one consolation the City Council has in regard to the present puzzle page arrangement of the city departments is that each citizen having business with the present city government becomes, after a few hours' experience at the City Hall, a warm supporter of the project for a new City Hall as a means of prolonging the lives of the people who desire to transact city business.

Licks All the Foreign Cars in Hill-Climbing Contest in Province of Morocco

Hill climbs for automobiles in the French province of Morocco are novelties and especially when an American-made automobile walks off with the palm. Yet this is what actually happened in a recent contest staged by the Automobile Club Morocain at Oued Neffifik, near Casablanca, Morocco.

The official distance of the climb was three kilometers, or slightly less then two miles over a 10 per cent grade that zig-zagged up the hillside, states an announcement of the Los Angeles Chevrolet dealers. The winning time in which the Chevrolet car made the run was 2m., 40s., or at a speed of 41.42 miles per hour.

"The American public is very familiar with the hill climbing abilities of the Chevrolet," says the statement of the local Chevrolet dealers. "But the combination of this feature with wonderful economy is the thing that has recommended the car so highly to European buyers.

"There the matter of fuel costs is a very serious proposition. It is absolutely imperative that a car be secured that will give a maximum of operation upon a mimimum of fuel. The Chevrolet has done this very thing. In other foreign countries, notably Sweden, England, South Africa and Cuba, Chevrolet cars have taken first honors for speed, econmy and endurance in which other American cars participated as well as those of foreign makes.

"The Chevrolet representative in Morocco, M. eon Marchenay, states that the car which won the Moroccan hill climb was a truly remarkable automobile. He says that the same machine has done 100 kilometers in one hour flat which, in American terms, is more than sixty-two miles per hour.

"It is this quality, not usually associated with economy, that is making Chevrolet cars universally popular."

Gardner Climbs Up the Ladder of Popularity

New blood in the automotive industry is constantly forging to the front and the latest authoritative report indicates that the Gardner Motor Company, Inc., of St. Louis, has shown sales figures that place it in the van of manufacturers of the United States.

In units of production, according to William G. Fisher, sales manager of the McGill Motor Company, distributor of the Gardner line in Los Angeles, among approximately ninety passenger car manufacturers this company ranked seventeenth in June and sixteenth in July.

"The Gardner Motor Company has passed many of the large and prominent automobile manufacturers," declared Mr. Fisher. "This is a feat that merits notice because of the increasing demand for the popular priced Gardner. This shows a remarkable business revival during a period usually stagnant in automobile sales.

"One of the most interesting features of the report shows that actual closed car orders, calling for over 50 per cent of the company's output of all models were received."

How Dr. Doyle Started

You never can tell. S. S. McClure relates that once, calling upon Andrew Lang, in London, while on a search for fiction, the latter casually remarked that a doctor named Doyle was turning out some lively "penny shockers." Thus was the great A. Conan, Sherlock Holmes and all, brought to America.—[New York World.

Mexicans Vote Quite Solidly for Hartfords

Mexico is turning more and more to Los Angeles as a source of supply in various lines of manufacture, according to Sr. J. Navarro, who is in Los Angeles on a business trip. The demand for accessories, explained Mr. Navarro, has recently increased tremendously. The accessories must possess unusual merit in order to be accepted by the Mexicans, who want their cars to have the best possible appearance.

"Take in the matter of windshields. Many wealthy people are excellent prospects," said Mr. Navarro, "but the windshield must have that same classy appearance which Californians demand on their cars. In opening our motor car and supply stores in Mexico City and Tampico, we quickly discovered that ordinary wind wings or tonneau shields would not get a hearing.

"The people were inclined to be supercritical, but one windshield which pleased them was the Hartford. Its splendid appearance coupled with its general utility and durability make a wonderful appeal to Mexicans, just as Packard automobiles do."

Mr. A. C. Lillie, president of the Hartford Windshield Company announces that Mr. Navarro will carry the Hartford line in Mexico City and Tampico, in his motor-car accessories stores.

MORE FLOOR SPACE TO BUILD "CHEVS"

DETROIT (Mich.) Sept. 23.—Fred J. Fisher, president of the Fisher Body Corporation of this city today announces an expansion program involving assembly plants at six points in the United States, aggregating more than one and a half million square feet of additional floor space, which will be devoted exclusively to the manufacture of Chevrolet closed bodies.

The corporation through a newly organized subsidiary, the Fisher Body St. Louis Company, has taken over the large General Motors Buick plant in St. Louis which will be devoted exclusively to the manufacture of closed bodies for the superior Chevrolet.

This announcement follows closely upon the acquisition of the O. J. Beaudette Company at Pontiac, Michigan, which will be devoted exclusively to the production of open bodies for the Chevrolet.

CHALMERS DELIVERIES HELD UP TEMPORARILY

The heavy demand for the new Chalmers six at its new price, coupled with delayed shipments on account of strike conditions on the railroads, has made necessary for the Greer-Robbins Company, Chalmers distributors, to inaugurate temporarily deferred deliveries of certain models of this popular car.

"We trust this will only be for a short time," said R. O. Gould, Chalmers sales manager. "Since the last price reduction, the public realizes that the Chalmers six is a wonderful investment value, and a flood of orders, both retail and wholesale has been the natural consequence. It is noticeable that there has been a marked increase in the number of orders taken for closed cars."

Billy Williams, Hupmobile sales manager for the Greer-Robbins Company, returned last week from a two weeks' vacation spent in Santa Barbara and at Catalina.

R. O. Gould, Chalmers sales manager for the Greer-Robbins Company, and his family, are now on a two weeks' vacation.

To Distribute Service Parts to All Plants

Announcement is made by the Ford Motor Company, Los Angeles, that during the temporary shutdown of the main plant of the Ford Motor Company at Detroit, the branch will continue the distribution of service parts to its dealers in this territory. This assures every owner of a Ford car, truck, tractor or Lincoln car full service facilities and the ability on the part of every dealer to render prompt and efficient service requirements.

Ample provisions have been made by the factory and the thirty-five factory branches throughout the country to continue the usual standard in the delivery of replacement parts and in the handling of service while the factory is waging its war against profiteering in coal and other essential supplies.

At a series of meetings of Ford dealers which are now being held throughout the State of California the question of service to be rendered to the owners of Ford cars and trucks, the users of Fordson tractors and car owners driving Lincolns, has been the main point of discussion, and even more complete plans are being laid for the future than have been laid during the past for the prompt rendering of efficient service at all times.

According to the branch of the Ford Motor Company at Los Angeles, service is to become the operating keynote of all Ford dealerships and the rendering of prompt, efficient and satisfactory service will be placed alongside the sales activity in its importance.

Reinforcements Are on Way to the Earl Plant

Reinforcements in increasing numbers are beginning to move westward to assist the Earl's invasion of Pacific Coast territory, according to word brought to the H. J. Wurzburger Company, local distributors, last week by R. N. Cowham, assistant general sales manager of Earl Motors, Inc., who is making a special tour of Western States.

Mr. Cowham brought the most optimistic reports from the Earl factory. Production there has been steadily increased in spite of railroad tie-ups and strikes in the coal fields, he says. The prediction is made that Earl production will reach its capacity of 100 cars a day with present facilities before the first of the coming year.

In spite of this increased production, Mr. Cowham reports, the demand for new Earls is increasing at a pace equally rapid, so that no matter how many cars are built the number will never be quite sufficient. Delays in deliveries, however, he asserts, will be reduced to a minimum.

Mr. Cowham explains the urgency of his Western visit as evidence of the factory's efforts to satisfy the particularly insistent demand for the Earle on the Coast. Heretofore the majority of the output has been taken by the East, so that no special effort could be made to develop western territory until increased production made it feasible.

Restaurant Humor

"How did you order your steak, sir?" the waiter returned to ask after having been gone what seemed like a week to the hungry diner.

"Like a fool, I did it personally," bellowed the patron. "If I'd had any sense I'd have ordered it by mail a month in advance."—[Legion Weekly.

Returning from England

It is interesting for their numerous Los Angeles friends to learn that Sir Aubrey and Lady Brisco expect to arrive in California about the end of this month. Since their arrival from Europe on August 28 on board the White Star liner "Baltic," they have been visiting Sir Aubrey's old home in Virginia.

Sir Aubrey went to England last May to receive the estate of his cousin, Sir Hylton Ralph Brisco, Bart., who died last January.

The properties are in Lincolnshire, Sussex, Yorkshire and Cumberland. Coghurst Hall in Sussex is one of the estates and is noted for its beauty. Crofton Hall, a grand old place, the principal seat of the family, lies in Cumberland and has been in the family for almost 900 years.

Sir Aubrey and Lady Brisco expect a large part of their time at their place in England, but will hold their interests in California.

Sir Aubrey is a Virginian by birth, but has spent much time in California. Lady Brisco was formerly Miss Anna Victoria Doyle, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Doyle of San Francisco and niece of the late John Redmond, M. P., the Irish leader. They have many friends here and in Santa Barbara.

Counsel That Creates Effectiveness and Economy

DEDICATED TO BETTER HOMES

Character is formed, the mind is molded, happiness is created by the surroundings of the home. To make of the home an attractive abiding place, to add to its beauty and comfort and to enhance its appeal, are a responsibility effectively assumed by the California Furniture Company.

This responsibility does not end with the mere sale of the appointments for the home, although were this the fact, the very beauty and distinctiveness of the home furnishings at the "California" would contribute in great measure to the creation of better homes.

But the responsibility assumed by the "California" goes farther than this. It is in the ability to give, at no additional cost, authoritative advice and counsel as to the selection of correct home furnishings that this institution fulfills its mission to the community it serves.

Frequently this advice guides to a considerable saving and at the same time creates an even more effective result than had been anticipated. At the "California" there is placed at your disposal, the knowledge of experts in every branch of the home furnishing art which will insure you the selection of correct home furnishings in perfect accord with the finest conception of true art and beauty at an expenditure well within your limitations.

These men of specialized experience will co-operate with you to the fullest extent with no obligation whatsoever incurred or implied.

Visitors are always welcome.

"Feagans" Watches—Beauty Covering Beauty

It often has been said that a beautiful soul may be hidden within an ugly body. But a beautiful soul covered by a beautiful body more nearly approximates the human ideal.

Mechanical perfection, beautiful in itself, when hidden by necessity approaches the ultimate when covered with material and artistic beauty.

"Feagans" Watches are famed for their mechanical perfection—accuracy, durability and reliable functioning.

Practical purpose requires a shield for this perfection. And the fame of "Feagans" Watches has spread through the beauty and artistry with which these shields, or cases, or settings, have been designed.

Thus, "Feagans" Watches not only perform the expected functions of reliable timepieces but they are blessed with a distinctiveness and character that give to them a marked personality and smart appearance peculiar to the jewel pieces, precious gems and personal accessories selected by Feagans and Co. for a discriminating clientele.

AT $35.00 FEAGANS & CO. OFFERS A GENTLEMAN'S POCKET WATCH IN 25-YEAR GREEN GOLD CASE—WITH 17-JEWEL WALTHAM MOVEMENT—A VERY EXCELLENT VALUE.

He is a nephew of Mrs. Willard Arnott of South New Hampshire street. No date has been set for the wedding.

Home From Extended Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Arnott and their children, Willard, Jr., and Mary Helen, who have been away all summer, at La Jolla, San Francisco and Del Monte are back in town for the winter.

Entertains at Bridge-Luncheon

Miss Katherine Torrance was hostess at a jully little bridge-luncheon on Friday.

Return From Motor Trip

Mrs. William T. McFie and her son, William T. McFie, Jr., have returned from a delightful six-weeks' motor trip that took them as far as Vancouver and Victoria, B. C. hey first went to the Yosemite Valley, motoring through Tioga Pass to Mono Lake, Carson City and Lake Tahoe, then to Redding, Portland, Seattle and British Columbia. They fished on the McKensie River in Oregon and Mrs. McFie went over the Cascades while her son hunted deer. On their return they visited Mrs. Gail B. Johnson who has had a house there all summer. Mrs. Isaac Milbank was also visiting Mrs. Johnson.

Entertain House Party

Mr. and Mrs. Secondo Guasti are entertaining an interesting house party over the week-end at their country place, Guasti Vineyard.

On Wednesday evening they gave a dinner party which was one of the important functions of the week. It was arranged as a courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Laurence Doheny and their guests, the Hon. Anita Weir and the Hon. Isabella Weir of England. There were plates for twenty at a table centered with gorgeous autumn flowers.

During the week Mr. and Mrs. Guasti entertained a distinguished visitor, Commander Guiseppe de Michaelis, who came on from Washington where he went as an emissary for the Italian government. He came here especially to visit the Guastis and Mr. Guasti entertained at luncheon for him on Wednesday just before he left.

Marriage Surprise

Friends of Mrs. Daisy Lovering Evans of 1245 Berkshire avenue, Sierra Vista, will be surprised and pleased to learn of her marriage in Dallas, Tex., on September 6 to Judge Elbert Jemison Gibson of Corsicana, Tex., which is to be their home.

The bride, who comes from the noted old Virginia families of Carringtons and Maurys, has lived in Sierra Vista fourteen years. She has a large circle of friends, especially in Pasadena and Alhambra, as well as in Los Angeles. She has two young married daughters, Mrs. Robert Stanton of South Pasadena, and Mrs. Bennett Dennison of Alhambra. Judge Gibson is one of the most able lawyers of the Lone Star State. The bride recently left for Texas, supposedly on a visit.

Wedding Date Set

Miss Myna Eisner and Louis Lissner have decided upon their wedding day, which is to be October 18. It will take place at the Hotel Alexandria, and will be a quiet affair, with no attendants.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Eisner of South Kingsley Drive, who recently announced the engagement at a family dinner party. She is a graduate of the Bishop School for Girls at La Jolla and is one of the popular members of the college set.

Mr. Lissner, a Stanford graduate, is a brilliant young lawyer, and is assistant United States Attorney. He is the son of Meyer Lissner of the United States Shipping Board and is a nephew of Dr. Henry J. Lissner, one of the best-known physicians and diagnosticians of the city.

To Marry at Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice S. Hellman of 2225 South Harvard Boulevard is to be the scene tomorrow evening of the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Lucille Hellman Frank, and Leonard Meyberg, well-known young attorney and clubman of this city. Dr. Messing, grandfather of the groom, will officiate. The ceremony is set for 6:30 o'clock.

It will be a quiet affair, with members of the two families only witnessing the ceremony. A dinner will follow, the couple leaving at once for a honeymoon trip, and upon their return will occupy the Hellman home, while Mr. and Mrs. Hellman and their son, Jack Hellman, are traveling in Europe. They will leave next Saturday.

Mrs. Holmes in Bay City

Mrs. Edwin Francis Holmes is in San Francisco, where she went to see decorators in regard to extensive improvements she is making on her home in Pasadena. It is to be practically rebuilt and will be one of the show places of the Crown City. It overlooks the most charming spot above the Arroyo Seco and will be the scene of much entertaining after January.

Entertains at Tea

Mrs. Rufus B. von KleinSmid, wife of the president of the University of Southern California, gave a delightful tea on Friday afternoon for the young women of the university.

The rooms were colorful with masses of gorgeous autumn flowers and ferns and guests in their smartest fall frocks.

Receiving with Mrs. Von KleinSmid were Miss Emily Biles, dean of women, and several others. There was a program of music, violin solos and songs. Tea was served in the garden.

Betrothal Revealed at Tea

At a pretty high tea yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. T. Brook Townsend, Jr. (Lynee Burntrager,) a bride of last month who returned from her honeymoon trip to Honolulu on Thursday, Mrs. S. Alice Middaugh of Fuller avenue, Hollywood, announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Virginia Colburn Middaugh to John Louis Coons.

There were twenty-four intimate friends of Mrs. Townsend and Miss Middaugh and tea was served at small tables in the dining-room.

Yellow and orange dahlias and African daisies were used to decorate the rooms.

A little Pekingese pup was concealed in a hat box which Mrs. Townsend carried and when opened out it came with the secret tied by yellow ribbons to his collar. Mr. Coons is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Coons of 2552 Eighth avenue and is associated with the Security Trust and Savings Bank. The wedding will be an event of the early New Year.

Wedding Date Set

Miss Gladys Anderson, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnt Anderson, and Lawrence G. Cairn have set October 18 as the date of their marriage.

Events Past, Planned.

ried to Lester McIntyre Case, son of Mrs. Ella F. Case, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's parents at 2500 Thirtieth avenue in the presence of 150 guests.

The couple were married in the studio of the residence, which had been transformed by elaborate floral decorations into a chapel. Rev. Dr. Ray C. Harker, pastor of the West Adams M. E. Church, performed the ceremony, which took place in a bower of flowers. The bride was given away by her father. She wore a beautiful dress of ivory charmeuse with a veil of tulle caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor was Mrs. Morton L. Barker, who wore a gown of apple green crêpe de chine and carried a shower bouquet of pale pink and orchid sweet peas.

Miss Marion Miller was bridesmaid and was gowned in pale pink crepe de chine and carried a shower bouquet of deep pink and orchid sweet peas. The flower girls, the little Misses Kathleen Wiseman and June Ganahl, wore dresses of cream net and carried baskets of rose petals which they scattered before the bridal party. The best man was Allen W. Case, brother of the groom, and the ushers were W. Maxwell King, brother of the bride, and Jack Montgomery.

Following the return from their honeymoon trip, the young people will live in their new home at 2342 Thirtieth avenue.

Dr. Ross Returns

Dr. G. T. Ross, physician and surgeon, has just returned from Del Monte, where he spent his vacation at the golf tournament.

At Home Wedding

Miss Louise May Thompson and Ralph Burrows Hull were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Thompson of West Eighth street on September 16, with Rev. William Clark Hull, father of the bridegroom officiating. The house was decorated with yellow and orchid flowers with palms, ferns and orange blossoms. The bride, who was born in Durham, N. H., was educated in Colorado and has resided here several years. The groom came here thirteen years ago from Pennsylvania.

To Reside in Terminal

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Gore Wilson, whose wedding took place a week ago yesterday, are now enjoying a motor trip, and after October 1 are to reside at Terminal.

Before their marriage the bride was Miss Helen Elizabeth Hutchins, daughter of Mrs. George Harvey Hutchins of Orange street, at whose home the wedding took place. The ceremony was performed in the garden under an ivy grown oak. Frank Gardiner Hutchins stood with the groom and the bride was given in marriage by her mother. After the ceremony there was a supper for twelve at a table beautifully adorned with pink roses and ferns.

Of Interest to Many

A marriage of interest to a large circle of friends is that of Miss Agnes Ganahl and Joseph Hoover of this city on Monday morning at St. Brendan's Church. Rev. Father William Forde officiated.

Mr. Hoover is a young business man and is the son of Mrs. Rosa Huvesstuhl, while the bride is the daughter of Mrs. Louise Ganahl and of the late F. J. Ganahl, a pioneer lumber man of this city. Ray Hoover was his brother's best man while Mrs. Donald Hanna (Eloise Donovan) was matron of honor. After a motor trip to Del Monte, the couple will reside on South Van Ness avenue.

At Dance and Musicale

Mrs. Hugh W. Ferguson of Kenwood avenue entertained a company of thirty at a musical and dancing party in compliment to her house-guest, Miss Matilda Strean of San Francisco, well known as a dramatic soprano and who has toured in concert work.

Baskets of cut flowers adorned the rooms and veranda which was lighted with Japanese lanterns.

Daughter Born

Mark Silver Anniversary

In celebration of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rhomberg, Mrs. M. E. Bertsch of El Segundo gave a family dinner party for a company of sixteen. Later in the evening twenty-five of the neighbors dropped in and surprised the couple. A midnight supper was served. The couple have lived in Los Angeles thirty-five years. They have two daughters, Mrs. Myrtle Bertsch and Miss Edith A. Rhomberg.

Miscellaneous Shower

One of the charming affairs of the week was the miscellaneous shower given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Jerome Sengel of Hollywood in honor of Miss Anne Hughes, whose engagement to Hardwick Ladin Van Degrift was recently announced.

Early autumn flowers were used in decorating the rooms. The guests embroidered tea towels and made dainty aprons, which were later given to Miss Hughes. Little Mary Elizabeth Sengel, daughter of the hostess, drew a wagon, trimmed in yellow and pink and piled high with all sorts of beribboned packages, which she gave to Miss Hughes, presenting the contents of the wagon with a little verse.

Out-of-Town Society

PASADENA

A group of weddings represent the principal social activity of the week in Pasadena.

Miss Irma Antieu, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Antieu of 1120 Forest avenue, and Carl Tayes Holub were married Wednesday at 9 a.m. at St. Andrews Church by the Rt. Rev. John M. McCarthy. Miss Agnes Smith and Miss Elizabeth Blake were bridesmaids and Oscar Antieu was groomsman.

Miss Elna Cecilia Stanton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stanton of Catalina, and George W. Hall of Pasadena were married Wednesday morning at the residence of the groom's mother, Mrs. George E. Hall, 1254 Oak Knoll avenue. The Rev. Dr. Daniel F. Fox performed the ceremony.

Miss Alice Annie Bremit, daughter of Mrs. Annie Bremit of 942 North Mentor avenue, and Herman E. Brooks of Whittier were married Tuesday at noon at the bride's home, the Rev. E. G. Elder of Whittier performing the ceremony. Mrs. Vernance Sylvester and Raymond D. Brooks were the attendants.

An outdoor ceremony on Mt. Lowe Monday united Miss Rae G. Sangster of San Diego, and George W. Tombleson, Jr., of Pasadena. The Rev. Rufus Chase of All Saints' Episcopal Church read the service, which took place at sunrise.

Miss Rachel Stilwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Stilwell of 1121 Mound avenue, and Lloyd Elverton Morrison were married Tuesday at the bride's home, the Rev. Carl F. Henry of the First Universalist Church performing the ceremony. Miss Hilda Wright of Glendora, and Claire Blauvelt were the attendants.

Miss Ruth I. Summers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Summers of 154 West Walnut street, and Thomas E. Remy were married Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church. The Rev. A. O. Pritchard officiated, and Miss Katherine Lathrop and William Remy were the principal attendants.

The opening concert of the season at the Maryland Sunday evening was well attended despite the heat. Mrs. Louise Dorr, lyric soprano, and Henri J. Van Pragg, violinist, furnished the program.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Creller, Ray M. Hobbs, R. L. Power, O. A. Zanis, J. H. Shrader, H. M. Robinson and S. Smith are Pasadenans registered at the Mt. Wilson Hotel.

A. D. Porter and Miss Ethel Porter have returned to their home, 860 North Holliston avenue, from spending the summer at Hermosa Beach and Santa Barbara.

Mrs. Jeanette M. Sutliff and her daughter, Miss Louise Sutliff of 615 North Orange Grove avenue have returned from a trip to New York, Washington, Salt Lake City and San Francisco.

Miss Ruth Pinkerton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Pinkerton of 840 Oakland avenue is in New York, where she will continue vocal studies this winter.

ALHAMBRA

At the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. L. H. Cope, 100 North Fourth street, Miss Myra E. Thompson and Robert Young were married Wednesday evening by Rev. C. D. Lewis of Los Angeles. Miss Wealtha McNeil was maid of honor, and Franklin Scott best man. Mr. and Mrs. Young left immediately to spend their honeymoon at Catalina. They will reside in Alhambra.

To compliment the past matrons of Alhambra Chapter of the Eastern Star, Mrs. Howard P. Buttress entertained at a charming luncheon on Saturday. The table was centered with a bowl of pink carnations and blue delphinium, with attractive little Dutch girls marking covers for Cynthia B. Clapp, Mary Cartwright, M. Ednell Hanscome, Jessie Pitzer, Nellie D. Graham, Florence B. Clapp, Rose Ebert, Florence Fitzpatrick, Bonnie B. Graves, Winifred Hall, Lillian M. Gilstrap and Madeline Woodbury.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Josephine Conner and Stanley M. Goode.

In joint celebration of their birthdays, Miss Bonnie Sharp and Miss Eloise Gilstrap entertained with a dancing party on Saturday night. There were fifty guests.

MONROVIA

Miss Elizabeth Skeele is at home for a week with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. A. F. Skeele of Monroe Place. Miss Skeele is executive secretary of the Associated Charities of the city of Oakland. After a walking trip in the High Sierras she is spending the remainder of her vacation at home.

Mrs. W. C. Kelby and her niece, Miss Lucia Hull, have returned from a three months' trip, which took them through Oklahoma, Colorado and Northern California, where they visited relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Spence and children have returned from a pleasant motor trip in the north. They were away eight days and visited in San Francisco and other places along the Coast.

A wedding of unusual interest took place on Wednesday, when Miss Kathryn McManaman, well known in art circles of New York and Los Angeles, and J. O. Johnson, president and builder of the Western Rolling Mill Corporation of Seattle, were married. The bride is the only daughter of I. W. McManaman, orange grower and retired stockman of this city. She is a graduate of the college of fine arts, University of Southern California, and studied at the Art Students' League and the Henri School of Art of New York City. She is well known as a portrait painter and illustrator of books. The couple left for San Francisco, where they will make their home.

The Misses Lydia and Lenore Kemman were among the many Monrovians, who have been vacationing at Catalina Island. They went there on Thursday and returned to this city on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scott of West Lime avenue had as their guests over the week-end, Mrs. J. R. Flippin, Miss Maybelle Flippin and Miss Virginia Raymond of Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Williams entertained at dinner on Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Burdette and daughter, Thelma, of Alhambra, who were former residents of this city. Mr. Burdette was manager of the Monrovia Ice Company while here.

A reception was given on Tuesday evening to Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bingham at Seymour Hall by members of the Edison Social Club No. 8. Mr. Bingham is president of the local Edison Club, and has been recently married, so a reception was tendered the happy couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Keiser had as their guests at 6 o'clock dinner on Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nickels of Long Beach. After dinner Mr. and Mrs. Keiser and their guests made up a theater party at the Colonial. Mr. and Mrs. Nickels are spending the week as guests of Mrs. Nickels's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hoerger, of East Greystone avenue.

Mrs. G. F. Sheppard of East Greystone avenue, was hostess at a delightful affair on Tuesday, when she invited a number of friends to spend the afternoon to play mah-jongg, the Chinese game. The equipment for playing the game was presented to Mrs. Sheppard by her brother, Thomas M. Knight, who brought it direct from Shanghai, when he visited in this country in the spring. Late in the afternoon the hostess served a dainty luncheon. Her guests were Mrs. Roy Eller, Mrs.

-a greater Nordlinger's

You are invited to visit our handsomely reconstructed establishment at 631 South Broadway.

We have spared neither effort nor expense to transform our quarters into one of the best appointed jewelry emporiums in the West.

Every dollar has been expended with the sole idea of improving our service for the convenience of our ever-increasing patronage.

You are invited to come and see a "greater Nordlinger's"—greater in facilities, in service, in convenience and in scope and character of stocks.

We are ready for the early Christmas shopper with distinctive jewelry, watches, silverware, leather goods and stationery——the type of merchandise that has brought success and good will to this house over a period of 52 consecutive years in Los Angeles.

ROME
DeLuxe
QUALITY

There is nothing "just as good." Look for the Rome De Luxe trade-mark on the side wall. It is your guarantee.

"DeLuxe" The Bedspring LUXURIOUS

Don't Wish for Better Health —Have It

If you can sleep soundly, perfectly relaxed, you will gain in strength and energy. But to sleep well, you must choose a bedspring that is absolutely comfortable. The average bedspring sags and fails to support the hollows of the body. One must continually twist and turn to avoid cramping the muscles. Sleep on such a spring is restless.

Contrast such misery with a quiet night's sleep on a Rome De Luxe Bedspring. This spring is scientifically designed so sagging is impossible. It molds itself to the anatomy, supporting every part equally. See the Rome De Luxe at your dealer's and you'll know why. It is interchangeable—fits either wood or metal beds.

KINNEY-ROME COMPANY—LOS ANGELES
Factory—Chicago

Accept no substitute. If your dealer can't supply you, write us and we will tell you one who can.

Sleep on a De Luxe Bedspring

Society.

Scott Gleeten and Mrs. James White.

Mrs. E. A. Henderson and Miss Florence Feltrop have returned after a pleasant vacation spent at Redondo and Hermosa Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mendell and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cherrier of Long Beach, motored to this city on Wednesday and were the guests of Mrs. Anna Kemman and daughters of North Myrtle avenue.

DUARTE

Mr. and Mrs. Freland Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Parsons of this city have returned from a delightful trip up the coast to San Francisco. They were away about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knox of San Francisco were the guests of their aunt, Mrs. C. H. Sarwine at Oakleigh for several days. Mr. Knox is engineer of the telephone company, at present dividing his time between the two cities.

Mrs. M. M. Burrus of Los Angeles was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Elliott at their ranch for one week. Another guest at the Elliott home was Chester Parkinson, cousin of Mrs. Elliott. He arrived on Thursday evening from Salisbury, Mo., the old home of the Elliotts. Mr. Parkinson expects to spend several weeks in the West.

One of the enjoyable parties of the week was given by Mrs. C. H. Sarwine and Mrs. Charles Anderson at Oakleigh, the home of Mrs. Sarwine of this city. The afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock was spent under the great oak trees with needlework. Delicious refreshments were served, the hostesses being assisted by Mrs. Joseph Fowler, Miss Ivy Anderson, Miss Amanda Marshall and Miss Isabel Curry. About fifty Duarte ladies were present and the guests from out of town included Miss Louise Coldwell and Miss Rosamond Smith, house guests of Mrs. E. D. Northup; Miss Anna Whitmore, Mrs. Joseph Maxwell, Mrs. Gerhart, Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Curry and two daughters of Galveston, Tex.

ARCADIA

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Baldwin had as their dinner guests on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wisler of San Fernando, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Meade and Mrs. F. A. Pittinger and daughter Katherine of this city.

Mrs. Margaret Marshall entertained the Five Hundred Club at dinner on Saturday evening. After dinner cards furnished entertainment for the evening. Mrs. L. G. Tracy won the women's prize for high score, while G. A. Hawk was awarded the men's prize. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Hawk, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Yarnell, Mr. and Mrs. Angstead, Mr. A. A. Carnes, Mr. and Mrs. Larsen, relatives of Mrs. Marshall who are visiting here from Colorado, and David Marshall. The members of the club are planning a deep-sea fishing trip for the week-end.

The executive committee of the Arcadia Woman's Club, consisting of Mrs. Maye Dunham, Mrs. Nellie Pickard, Mrs. Nellie Schrader, and Mrs. Iona Oldham, staged a most delightful and successful lawn fete on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pickard on Eighth avenue. Wishbone Ranch, as the Pickard place is called, was lighted with myriads of Japanese lanterns which were festooned from the acacia trees on the lawn. A fortune-telling booth was one of the attractions of the evening. A recitation by little Lois Eaton was another entertaining feature. Delicious refreshments were served cafeteria style. About 150 guests were present.

GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. D. Ripley Jackson gave a dancing party Saturday evening at their home on South Brand Boulevard. Miss Dorothy Chandler and Edwin Chandler, of Orange, N. J., niece and nephew of Mr. Jackson, were the complimented guests. A buffet supper was served. There were thirty guests.

Miss Bertha Sayre of South Glendale avenue, who is soon to marry Lieut. Louis T. Young, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower, given last Saturday afternoon by her sister, Miss Helen Sayre. The affair was attended by forty guests.

In the presence of a small group of relatives and close friends, Miss Ernestine Lyon and Miller Fishel were married Wednesday morning. The ceremony was read by Rev. Father James O'Neill of the Holy Family Catholic Church. The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Barnes, parents of the bride, was decorated for the occasion with dahlias and ferns. There were no attendants. Both the young people were members of the class of '17 of the Glendale High School, and have many friends here.

Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Harrower and daughter Verna, left last week for New York City, and expect to sail from there the last of October for a six months' trip abroad.

A garden dinner party was given Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. H. Loren Mitchell of South Boynton street. Dinner was served at a long table placed under a eucalyptus tree in the beautiful rustic garden. Covers were placed for ten. The guests were associates of Mr. Mitchell in physical education department of the Los Angeles city schools.

Mrs. Maude A. Smith of 406 West Elk avenue, entertained eighteen guests with a buffet supper and Five Hundred party, last Saturday evening. High scores were made by Mrs. Warren Roberts and John Rohr.

Mrs. F. G. Hall was hostess to the members of the Foothill Club, at the first meeting of the season. Her home on Viola street was beautifully decorated for the occasion. A delightful program was given by Miss Elizabeth Hall, Mrs. Rillings and Dr. Pearl Anderson. Miss Louise Krooeley, sister of Mrs. Hall, assisted her.

Miss Margaret Tennant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tennant of 317 West Elk street, and William A. Hogan of Cleveland, were married Wednesday morning. The ceremony was solemnized at the Holy Family Catholic Church, Rev. James O'Neill officiating. Miss Robinson of Los Angeles and A. N. Scott of Los Angeles were the only attendants.

BURBANK

Last Friday afternoon Mrs. L. I. Mulvey entertained with a children's party for her little son Dick, in celebration of his third birthday anniversary. Groupings of pink flowers with ferns decorated the house, the same color scheme was used in the table appointments and favors. A huge birthday cake elaborately decorated was a feature of the refreshment table. The guests included Fred Beckner, Ralph Church, Dick Lovejoy, Wesley Ling, Paul Simons, Jack Thompson, Virginia Fence, Betty Fillback, Barbara Foster, Esther Story, Genevieve Barnam and Barbara Spears. As all of the little folk were less than six years of age they were accompanied by their mothers, Mmes. Frederick Beckner, Andrew Fillback, Charles Lovejoy, Harvey Ling, Harold Woods, E. H. Thompson and W. H. Rouscup of Burbank; Mrs. Sydney Foster and Mrs. D. E. Honner of Los Angeles, and Mmes. Frank Barnum, Dallas Spears and Letty Mulvey of South Pasadena.

Miss Cecelia Mae Fischer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Fisher, has returned home after having spent the summer months at Long Beach.

Last Saturday evening Miss Emma Clader entertained with a bridge party. There were two tables of cards.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fischer have returned from a delightful motor trip to Sequoia National Park.

Mrs. L. I. Mulvey gave a small luncheon party Friday. Covers were placed for Mmes. H. W. Rouscup, Harold Woods, W. P. Coffman and the hostess.

BREA

Members of the local Chamber of Commerce were guests at a banquet given by the ladies' guild of the Congregational Church Monday night. Col. C. Horton of Long Beach was the principal speaker, his subject being "Past and Future Development of California." C. A. Merryfield reported on the tri-counties exhibit at the State fair.

A party of Breaites left Tuesday for a two-weeks' camping trip and deer hunt to Humboldt county. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Russell. On their way up they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. B. Baymiller of the El Camino Ranch.

PLACENTIA

Complimenting Miss Evelyn Lempke, who is to be the bride of Arch Hawkins of Anaheim soon, the Misses Marie and Nell Robertson entertained with a miscellaneous shower at their home on Valencia avenue, Placentia, recently. Miss Lempke was the recipient of many handsome gifts that will be used in the new home on Center street in Anaheim. A dainty three-course luncheon was served late in the afternoon. Included in the list of guests were: the Misses Mary Blanchard, Wanda Jackman, Ruth Crawford, of Anaheim, Katherine Travis, Mildred Yorba, Lucy and Emma Kreamer, Virginia McClelland, Emery Marshall, Nina Vance, Reva Hawkins, Elsa Raffi, Alma Yorba, Jewell Dunn, Lois Cameron, Mary Healy, Gladys Edwards, Mary Blanchard Johanna Lempke, Mrs. Fredda Steen, Mable Landreth, Mrs. Anna Lempke,

DYE FADED CURTAINS, SKIRT SWEATER, DRESS OR COAT IN "DIAMOND DYES"

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint her old worn, faded things new. Even if she has never dyed before, she can put a rich, fadeless color into shabby skirts, dresses, waists, coats, stockings, sweaters, coverings, draperies, hangings, everything. Buy Diamond Dyes—no other kind—then perfect home dyeing is guaranteed. Just tell your druggist whether the material you wish to dye is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton, or mixed goods. Diamond Dyes never streak, spot, fade, or run.

Among Society Folk

Mrs. N. P. Robertson, Mrs. Arthur Edwards and Mrs. Ruth Munger.

After the summer vacation the Jolly Nine, a five hundred club, met at the home of Mrs. William Hetebrink on Wednesday afternoon. Prizes went to Mrs. Charles Hansen, first; Mrs. Bert Annin, second and Mrs. C. Alms receiving the consolation. There were three tables at which the dainty luncheon was served at the close of the game. Mrs. J. Sollis and Mrs. C. Alms of Chicago were honor guests.

SIERRA MADRE

A bridge party was held last Friday at the home of Mrs. Donald Ashmore. Among the many guests present were Mmes. George Starr, J. H. Mackeras, George Morgridge, Innis Kinney, Earnest Yerxa, Hall Chase and Perry and Roland Adams. The free-for-all prize was won by Mrs. Earnest Yerxa and Mrs. G. Starr carried off the prize for the highest honors.

Miss May Hoyt of the Bay City is visiting Dean and Mrs. Shaw, where she will be for the next two weeks, while enjoying this all-year climate.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Davis of Chicago are the guests of Mr. Davis's mother, Mrs. Susan E. Davis of Grand View Boulevard, where they expect to remain several weeks.

Mrs. Orville Emly and young daughter, Mary Suerle, accompanied by Mrs. Guy Steinberger, enjoyed last week at the seashore.

Miss Daisy Hawks was the honored guest at a tea on Monday afternoon, given by Mrs. J. D. Mackeras at her home on Hermosa avenue. The event was one of many tendered to Miss Hawks who, with her sister, Mrs. Laura Stevenson, formerly connected with the Bishop School at La Jolla, expect to sail shortly for Italy, where Mrs. Stevenson will be associated with a young ladies' seminary in Milan, Italy. They expect to be accompanied by Mrs. Mary Goodfellow of Grand View Boulevard on their European trip.

Mr. Owen Cowling of Spokane is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hall Perry on Laurel street, where he will remain for a week prior to resuming his studies at the University of Washington.

After spending the summer with her two daughters in the East, Mrs. J. T. Mason recently returned home from Washington, D. C.

WHITTIER

Miss N. Ethel Thomas and Mr. Donald R. Stevenson were married in the social rooms of the Friends' Church Wednesday afternoon. One hundred and fifty invitations were issued. As the guests assembled, Mr. Norman Norsworthy of Riverside, sang "Because," with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Norsworthy. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. A. Rosenberger, who years before had performed the marriage ceremony for Miss Thomas's parents.

Dr. Thomas Newlin, former president of Whittier College, officiated at the marriage of Miss Gladys Debora Gifford and Mr. James Lyman Hodson, which was celebrated at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hodson, 214 North Newlin avenue, Saturday evening.

One of the weddings of the week East Whittier Friends' Church, charming in its artistic simplicity, was that of Miss Anna May Hough, and Mr. Fred Campbell, which was celebrated Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert E. Hough, pioneer residents of the East Whittier district. Rev. George Deshler, pastor of the Swain, A. Woodard, E. W. Bacon officiated.

The bride is a graduate of Whittier Union High School, class of 1919, and while in school, made many friends. Mr. Campbell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Campbell of Whittier, and he, too, attended Whittier High School and later a technical school in Los Angeles. Only the members of the two families and a few intimate friends witnessed the wedding. After a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will be at home to their friends at the Leffingwell ranch.

Mrs. F. A. Fletcher entertained at her attractive home on California street, East Whittier, Friday afternoon, with a luncheon for twelve. She was assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mark Fletcher. The guests were the Mmes. A. L. Reed, M. J. Sprague, E. R. King, G. W. Brey, S. W. Barton, Sam Mendenhall, A. W. Swain, A. Woodard, E. W Bacon and Robert George.

REDLANDS

Mrs. Charles Bowie Detrick of Hilo, T. H., formerly Miss Ruth Massard of this city, who was entertained while on a visit here, was the honor guest at a tea given in the Palm Court of the Palace Hotel at San Francisco by Mrs. Jessie Bowie Detrick, her mother-in-law and her sister, Miss Frances Johnson. Mrs. Detrick is returning to the islands this month.

Miss Dayle Gregg entertained with a charming lawn party at her home on East Central avenue, honoring Miss Millicent Long, who this week became the bride of Verne McMinn. A musical program was given by Miss Georgia Walden. The guests were Beryl Bergtrom, Eva Williams, Marian Winn, Georgia Walden, Lorena Workman, Mary Stockton, Caroline De Witt, Ethel Meiser, Lillian Meiser, Elizabeth Gross, Mrs. Oswald Parry, Mrs. Charles Ferguson, Mrs. Harold Matthews and Mrs. Porterfield.

A number of the friends of Mrs. Georgia Bacon gathered at her home in Mentone during the week to celebrate her eighty-second birthday.

Mrs. A. O. Childs, Miss Ethel Amis, Miss Nettie Leuschen and Miss Margaret Walker have returned from a delightful stay in Bear Valley.

Miss Marian Winn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Winn of Nordina street, was the guest of honor at a most delightful affair given by Miss Vera Van Loan and Miss Beryl Bergstrom. Miss Winn is soon to become the bride of Harold Lineau. Their guests were Helen Bristol Millicent Long, Edna Lineau, Margaret Pendelton, Lois Truesdail, Eva Williams, Lorea Workman, Dayle Gregg, Mrs. H. H. Lineau and Mrs. W. F. Boettger.

During the week Dr. and Mrs. M. W. Hill have had as their guests Dr. and Mrs. Harold Hill, Mrs. Frederick Lanagan and daughter of Denver, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Hill and son Robert of Los Angeles, and Dr. Howard Hill and Miss Edith Hill of this city, all their children, as during the week they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Snyder entertained a number of friends at their bungalow on West Cypress avenue during the week. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jenkins, Harry Jenkins, Mrs. Nettie Wall, Mrs. Georgia Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilma.

FULLERTON

The marriage of Miss Beatrice Bushnell of this city and Robert R. Robinson of Los Angeles took place at the home of the bride's uncle, Edward A. Starr, on West Commonwealth Saturday at noon.

The wedding was given an out-of-door setting and in detail and arrangement was most charming.

Rev. Carl F. Knoff of Los Angeles performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. G. Johnson of Hollywood. Miss Alice Ralph of San Diego sang. The bride's maid was Miss Helen Robinson, sister of the groom. Rufus L. Engstrom of Los Angeles acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Wright Watson and Mr. Watson's brother-in-law and sister, Maj. and Mrs. Jay Lynch, formed a family party Sunday to attend the western premiere production of the new film story of "The Prisoner of Zenda," in which Mr. and Mrs. Mason's daughter, Miss Barbara Le Mar, plays with distinction the role of Antoinette.

Maj. and Mrs. Lynch and the latter's son, Sol Voorhees, recently came West from Washington, D. C., and after a short visit with their relatives in this city went to Los Angeles, where they expect to make their home.

VISALIA

An attractive progressive dinner party was given Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Susman Mitchell on the eve of their departure for New York, to attend the bankers' convention. Mr. and Mrs. D. Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Gibson and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Scott were hosts, courses being served at each residence.

Mrs. Jeanette Olmstead and daughter, Miss Ruth Olmstead, have returned to Visalia after a three months' visit in New York City. Miss Olmstead attended summer session at Columbia University and has assumed her duties as domestic science teacher in the local high school. She and her mother visited friends and relatives in their old home town of Camden, N. J., before returning West.

Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Jones and children, have returned from a short outing in Southern California. Miss Dorothy remained in Loma Linda, where she is entering the medical college.

TULARE

Culminating and old romance, Miss Lina Pearce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pearce of this city, became the bride of Charles Ames Saturday afternoon at the family home of the bride in the Tulare district, Rev. W. G. Geyer officiating. Only a few intimate friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony.

Mrs. Ames is a popular favorite in this city, having resided here for a number of years, graduating from Tulare High School, with the class of '19. For several months she has been employed in the offices of the Southern California Edison Company and has been active in the work of the Edison club.

The groom was formerly employed by the same company and during that time the romance had its inception. Ames is a member of Tulare Post No. 15 American Legion.

After a short honeymoon spent in the north the couple will make their home here.

DINUBA

Miss Nellie Ross, who is soon to be married to J. H. Carpenter, was honor guest at a gift shower at the home of Mrs. C. C. Bowman Tuesday evening. The living-rooms were decorated for the occasion and the timely arrival of a telegram sent the bride-to-be searching for treasures. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her daughter, Glendora. Among those present were: Misses Macie and Dorothy Scott, Bernice Anderson, Beulah Humbird, Emma Knott, Dorothy Jay, Ruth, and Catherine Scott, Bessie Truesdale, Nellie Ross, Edith Wallace, Ida Doyle, Barbara Doyle, Beulah Jennison, Opal Edwards, Mmes. E. W. Lloyd, Frank McCabe, Harold Graham, Wilbur Macy, Ruth Chance and Rev. and Mrs. Frank C. Edwards. Gifts were also received from Miss Eunice Humbird, Mrs. Lottie Leisz and Mrs. A. J. Knott.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Follett, who were married on September 3rd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Stainback in Los Angeles, have returned from their honeymoon trip, spent in touring the Coast, with stops at various points. They will make their home in Dinuba, where Mr. Follett is the representative of the Southern California Automobile Club. Mrs. Follett, who was Miss Mabel Reeves before her marriage, will teach in the North Dinuba school during the coming term.

PASO ROBLES

Friends here have received announcements of the marriage of Miss Beatrice Bunch to Robert F. Olden at Santa Ana on Thursday. Miss Bunch left on Saturday to visit a sister in Southern California. On Monday Mr. Olden quietly slipped away, and the marriage occurred at Santa Ana on Thursday. The newlyweds are both very popular here. They are enjoying a motor tour of the State at present, but are expected home next week.

An enjoyable affair was the dance and card party given by Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Funk Monday evening.

Mrs. G. L. Sobey was hostess Wednesday afternoon at a bridge party in honor of Mrs. Garrett Van Buren of Fresno and Mrs. Anthony. Other guests were Mrs. E. B. McKinlay, Mrs. G. D. Kelker, Mrs. J. Kelker, Mrs. A. H. Birch, Mrs. R. J. Williams and Mrs. C. J. Trussler.

A plunge party was given by Mrs. W. A. Goggin on Thursday afternoon. After spending some time in the Paso Robles Hotel pool the twenty-one guests enjoyed a dinner at Canary Cottage.

Mrs. Maude D. Bradley, Grand Matron of the Eastern Star, made her official visit to the local chapter on Wednesday evening. Following the ritualistic work a social evening was enjoyed.

BAKERSFIELD

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Irene Epperson to Francis W. Kimble was made by the bride-elect at a pretty affair at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Epperson, 1228 K street, to a group of intimate girl friends.

Both young people are well

BUENA PARK

Pleasantly surprising an old friend and neighbor, many friends of Mrs. Fred Bastady, helped her celebrate her birthday anniversary Saturday. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Horn, Mr. and Mrs. George McNeil, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Calloway, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bactady, Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, Mr. and Mrs. C. Bacon, Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Hasson, Mrs. E. L. Cole, Mrs. Rose Hartman, Mrs. L. Berkey, Mrs. W. T. Calloway and the young people of several of the families present.

Louis F. D'Sila of Los Angeles was the speaker of the evening at the first meeting of the reconvened Farm Bureau since the summer vacation. The meeting was in charge of Fred Bastady. Other speakers on farm matters were: J. A. Smiley of West Orange and Prof. Wahlberg of Santa Ana. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

VAN NUYS

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. French of Detroit have arrived here with their children, and will locate in Van Nuys.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hallam of Chicago are spending a month with their daughter, Mrs. A. L. Matthews, of Vanowen street.

J. W. Murray, well-known business man of Toronto, was the guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Kellogg of Friar street.

The Pythian Sisters of Van Nuys held an open session last week and made it the occasion of a shower for Mr. and Mrs. Willard Warner, recently married.

YORBA LINDA

Complimenting her husband with a birthday dinner, Mrs. L. D. Oliver entertained a few intimate friends Saturday evening. The guests were Dr. Lester Keller and sister, Mrs. Christoferson; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hargraves and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Yerrington.

Hoyt Corbett has returned from a six weeks' trip to Seattle and Portland. He was accompanied by his brother from Colton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Walker have returned from their summer outing at Barton Flats.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brown are down from their vacation trip to Big Bear, and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Knight, their daughter Marjorie and son Roy are home from a camping vacation at Thousand Pines.

VENTURA

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weber, who were recently married in Los Angeles, were given a surprise party Tuesday night at the home of Mr. Weber's mother, Mrs. Tom Crawford. All the guests were relatives, members of the "Day clan." The Webers were presented with a handsome case of silver as a wedding gift.

A tea will be given at the home of Mrs. H. O. Wise next Thursday afternoon, under the high school P.T.A. auspices to welcome the high school faculty. Serving with Mrs. John Newby and Mrs. F. C. Pache.

Some thirty-five members and friends of the Tuesday Club were entertained this week at Mrs. O. P. Cook's home. The Misses Addie and Carrie Gorrill gave an illustrated talk on a recent trip to the South Seas. Miss Maude Starks sang and Mrs. A. L. Dodge gave a short McDowell group of piano numbers.

Twelve young men of well-known families of Ojai gave a large dancing party at the Isis Hall on Friday night. The hosts were Douglas Burns, Philip Henry, James Peasley, Lynford Stewart, Adrian Olivas, Irving Thompson, Kenneth Sheldon, Edward Middlesbrook, George Miller, Kenneth Avers, William Koch, Warren Wilcox. Many of the younger set from Ventura attended.

The Tuesday Bridge Club members motored to Santa Barbara this week and had luncheon at El Mirasol.

Miss Mary Julia Newby entertained her bridge club on Saturday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. Oliver Gale and two sons of Pasadena, Mrs. Walter Gale of Los Angeles, Mrs. Paul Brizzard of Arcadia are Ventura visitors this week. They are guests of members of the Sheridan and the Newby families.

SANTA PAULA

The changing fashions of the passing years, from Colonial days down to the present styles for the coming winter, were portrayed by tableaux vivants at the Ebell Club's opening meeting on Monday afternoon. Under the direction of the drama section of the club, Mrs. Edward Loftus and Miss Mary Boynton, curators, a series of reproductions of the costumes in vogue in by-gone years was presented by groups of club members against a background of black velvet with strikingly picturesque effect. Some valuable antique gowns were included in the collection and the models displaying the 1922 styles presented a veritable fashion show.

Mrs. R. W. Post entertained on Thursday afternoon with a bridge party at her home on Virginia Terrace.

TAFT

Miss Bessie Murley was the honor guest at a birthday surprise party given at the home of Mrs. Charles Flemming on Mount View avenue recently by the girls employed in the postoffice.

Games and music furnished pleasant entertainment and delicious refreshments closed the evening. Miss Murley was the recipient of a number of pretty gifts.

Those present included Misses Virginia McGee, Margaret Fleming, Elba Henthorn, Edna and Thetta Flemming; Messrs. Albert Wilson, Howard Murley, R. Howard LeMert, Preston Dickson, W. Churchill, and Mmes. Elba Menthorn, Charles Flemming and the honoree.

Among the many plans for the Woman's Improvement Club during the coming year, a big Christmas bazaar will be a feature, the dates selected being December 12 and 13 at the clubhouse.

Nellie Smith was given a pleasant surprise party at her home on Woodrow street Saturday night, the occasion being her ninth birthday anniversary. The little folks gathered at 6 o'clock and spent a joyous evening with games and a birthday spread. The honor guest received a number of pretty gifts. The guests were Eva Heron, Homer Smith, Dorothy Fritts, Romena Graves, Margaret Stark, John Lavelle, Lloyd Smith, Ellen Lavelle, Geneva Smith.

Roy E. Goodale and Mrs. Margaret Herrick, both of Taft, were married Sunday morning at the Presbyterian parsonage by Rev. F. L. Benedict. Mrs. Jack Summers and Clem Walters were the only witnesses. The bride has been a resident of Taft for the past two years, being connected with a local jewelry store.

Mr. Goodale is well known on the West Side, being field superintendent of the Midway Gas Company. The couple left at once for the south, where they will spend a month at Catalina Island, Santa Barbara and other resorts. On their return they will make their home in Taft.

SAN LUIS OBISPO

The card party given Monday evening by the local Pyramid of Sciots proved to be a most enjoyable affair. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Kenyon H. Clark, Mrs. M. Ernst, Mrs. E. Everly, J. Ergman, W. H. Gibson and Roy Senior.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Fitzgerald are receiving congratulations on the arrival of two grandchildren on the same day. A little daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Miles A. Fitzgerald of this city on Monday, and on the same day a little son was born to their daughter, Mrs. J. H. O'Donnell of Williams, Colusa county. The two little ones are the first grandchildren in the family.

Friends here have received word from Miss Margaret Kohler of this city, who is touring in Southern Europe, that she is now in Florence, Italy. Upon leaving Italy she will return home by way of Great Britain, and plans to arrive in California before Christmas.

Mrs. Nora Mahan of San Francisco has returned to her home after spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. O. E. St. John.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Devol and small son have returned to their home in Martinez after spending two weeks with Mrs. Devol's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Palmer.

Mrs. N. L. Strawn is here from Menlo Park, visiting her sister, Mrs. W. W. McKinney.

The babies and mothers of the Presbyterian Sunday-school cradle roll were entertained at a novel party Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. E. E. Wallace, who is cradle roll superintendent.

PORTERVILLE

Instructors in the Porterville elementary schools were honor guests at a "get-acquainted" party Friday evening in the parlors of the Congregational Church. These receptions are an annual event of the first week of school, and hosts and hostesses are former faculty members. Mrs. C. E. Bigham, Miss Margaret Box, Mrs. Bam Price and Ralph Laumeister delighted with a group of vocal selections, while Miss Hazel Thomas pleased with piano selections. Mrs. Harry Britton acted as accompanist. Miss Herma Templeton had charge of entertainment. Refreshments were served.

Miss Erin Eastwood of Los Angeles was house guest over the week-end at the home of her sisters, Mrs. Robert A. Mack, and Miss Mary Ellen Eastwood, on Harrison street. Miss Eastwood was accompanied as far as Tulare by Miss Mattie Webb, a cousin, who is to teach in Tulare grammar schools this term. Miss Eastwood was honor guest at a dinner party Sunday evening.

Among Porterville young people attending school in the southern part of the State, are the Misses Martha Smith, Ruth Smith and Marion Graham at the Bible Institute, Los Angeles; Helen Carr, University of Redlands; Robert Kenyon, Pomona College, Claremont; Boyd Leavens of Terra Bella, and —that Paisley is worn?

Do You Know

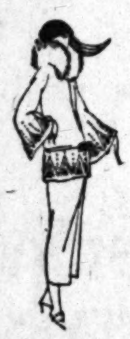
The Persian influence in the mode calls for it. So many of the smart little turbans are draped in Paisley colors, and it is also used extensively in overblouses and in dresses.

—that lace trims hats?

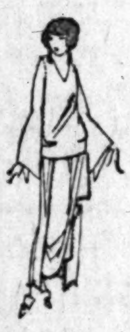
It may be used only as a "Manchette," veiling the eyes, or may be an elaborate drape or a large choux of lace across the hat. Chantilly and cired silver and gold laces are most popular. It appears on all shapes.



"The Balkan"

Is it any wonder that the fur trimmed suit will be popular this season? These new models here at Hamburger's have an echo of Paris in the way the jackets drape smartly across the hips and fasten tightly at the side with a dull metal buckle. Marleen with wolf. Specialized values at 65.00.

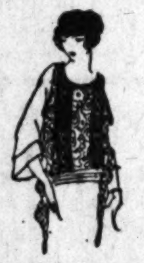
(Second Floor)



Overblouse Dress

A welcome departure from the dress with a wide girdle. The overblouse gives an unbroken waistline which is a much liked feature. Very fashionable, too, are the wide front drapes. A new trimming note is seen in tiny cube beads. Crepe maitre. 55.00.

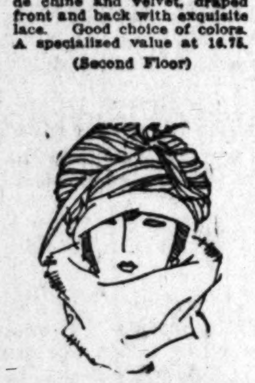
(Second Floor)



The Draped Blouse

By wearing one with your suit you can easily achieve a three-piece costume. Crepe de chine and velvet, draped front and back with exquisite lace. Good choice of colors. A specialized value at 16.75.

(Second Floor)



Oriental Turbans

A small, closely fitting shape admirably suited to accompany the new costume suits or the new street frocks. Velvet or metal cloth drapes, showing the Persian influence. A specialized value at 22.50.

A Store Replete With Specialized Values Finds Us Stressing for Monday These Values in the Vogue

No sooner is the vogue definitely established than Hamburger's offers a wealth of the newest and best fashions that all may see—and take possession.

Modes sympathetically interpretative—subtly flattering to all types of women. Modes flashing, versatile—with a spontaneity of value that stirs a responsive chord in every woman's soul.

Misses' Exquisite Frocks And Fur-Trimmed Suits

—specialized values at 55.00

Included are new basque dresses with circular skirts. Misses are clamoring for these. They're so quaint and youthful. Fascinating dresses with front and side drapery, pleats, buckles and flying panels for misses who have adopted the gracefully draped styles. Dresses for many occasions. Dresses of new crepe materials and fine twilled fabrics. The season's best colors.

Adorable fur-trimmed suits. So appealing in line and in the generous use of squirrel, beaver, nutria and caracul that blend with the softness of duvet de laine, velour de laine and marleen. As practical as they are fashionable, for they answer so ideally as a costume for autumn days when the temperature stands between top-coat and no-coat weather. Fashionable colors, of course.

Women's Newest "Swansdown" Top Coats—Exclusive Here

—specialized value at 85.00

Only at Hamburger's in Los Angeles can you buy "Swansdown" coats. A brand new material as soft, supple and lovely as the name suggests. A custom-made garment as smart as you could wish to see. A coat as adaptable to motor and sports wear as to street wear and to wear over silk frocks. If you desire coat distinction, we suggest a "Swansdown." Plain or fur trimmed. Tan, beige and the new colors of rubber gray and golden glow. Sizes 34 to 44. Others are priced 95.00 to 165.00.

(Hamburger's—Second Floor—Monday)

The Dress Hat Demands Recognition for Formal Wear

—specialized value at 22.50

The new silhouette calls for a particular type of hat. That's why large picture hats, cavalier shapes, tricornes and soft-edged capelines are dominant this season. And that's why Hamburger's is emphasizing value in a wondrous collection of these dressy hats in changeable or two-tone velvets, panne, silk beaver and brocaded metallic cloth at 22.50.

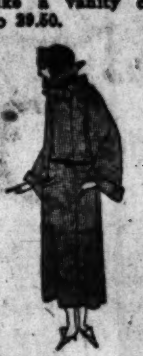
You Must See

The Tuckaway Umbrellas

Those in silk with side straps make smart accessories to the street costume. Can be folded to 13-inch size and tucked away in a traveling bag, in the pocket of your automobile door or in your bureau drawer. Priced 6.00 to 12.50.

L'Opera Bags

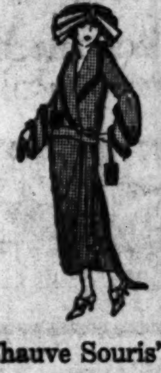
You must indeed see the new imported novelty opera bags. You can't imagine how delightful are the odd and unusual shapes of leather and silk with hand painted or hand embroidered designs. Fitted like a vanity case. 3.95 to 39.50.



"The Sir Walter"

The newest wraps in the misses' department show large collars gathered in soft folds about the neck after the manner of the high collar worn in the days of Raleigh. Attractive! Chill defying. Fashions in all the desirable colors. 65.00.

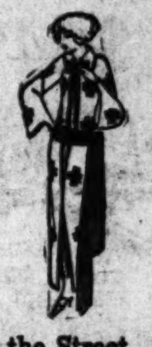
(Second Floor)



"Chauve Souris"

The smartest expression fashion has ever given to the misses' costume suit. Fashioned of lovely marleen with beaver trimming. Note how the skirt drapes smartly beneath the blouse jacket. A Hamburger specialized value at 85.00.

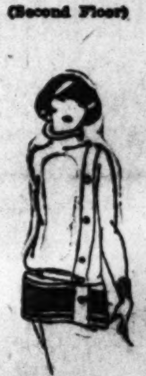
(Second Floor)



For the Street

An appealing version of the ever popular coat frock. Braid trimmed Poiret twill over fine lustrous satin. A skirt just long enough to be fashionable and to appeal to the miss who insists she cannot wear the long draped skirt. 55.00.

(Second Floor)



Novelty Sweaters

A good collection at 15.00. And a novelty sweater to really fulfill its mission must have no duplicate in style. That's why we are showing no two alike. Some blouse at the hips, some button down side, some are angora, others silk-and-wool. But every one a picture of smartness.

LINDSAY

Mrs. Helen Eecker entertained for the week-end her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mudgette of Joplin, Mo., and Mrs. G. M. Scott, Master George Scott and Miss Helen Scott of Modesto. Mr. Mudgette is a prominent mining man of Joplin.

Paul Gifford left Wednesday for Chicago, where he will enter the University of Chicago. He will also take a training course in the Y.M.C.A. College.

Mrs. R. I. Clearman entertained with a dinner party Sunday in honor of her husband's birthday. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Mason and sons, Lowell and Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Ford A. Chatters and B. M. Evans.

—o—

FRESNO

Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Penn Cummings, who were married a fortnight ago in San Francisco, returned home Sunday from their honeymoon spent in motoring about Northern California. Mrs. Cummings was Miss Elizabeth Muir of the Bay City, but had visited in Fresno on several occasions. They are establishing themselves in their new home at 3420 Kerchoff avenue. On their arrival here they were met by the bride's mother, Mrs. Robert Ballantine Muir of San Francisco, who had motored to Fresno for a week-end visit.

Miss Kathryn Donald of Portland, Or., is the house guest of Miss Ruth Newlin for a week or so. Miss Donald is a recent graduate of Stanford University, and is in Fresno doing research work for that institution.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Sunderland left for San Francisco the latter part of the week to see their daughter, Miss Netta Sunderland, who is taking part for a couple of weeks, with the Alcazar Stock Company, now playing "The Unknown Purple." Miss Sunderland, who played with Jane Cowl in "Smilin' Through," last season, has been spending the summer vacation in Fresno, and has not yet signed a contract for the winter season.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Cobbey and their daughter, Miss Marguerite Cobbey, have returned from a vacation, part of which was spent at Giant Forest and part of it at Santa Cruz. Miss Cobbey will return to New York about the first of October to continue her vocal studies.

The marriage of Ruth Elizabeth Stillwell to Harold Creighton Clark took place last week at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stillwell, in Lucerne Lane, Dr. Bell officiating.

LA HABRA

After a vacation of three months the Valada Five Hundred Club was entertained at the ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Espolt on Walnut street Saturday evening. Mrs. E. E. Lutewiler and L. J. Wester took first honors, and Mrs. E. A. Bishop and R. F. Frants second. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lutewiler, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Little, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Launer, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Frantz, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ridgeway, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Muchow, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Launer, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lightfoot of Fullerton.

More Large Productions Under Way

Production activities will reach a high point at the B. P. Schulberg picture plant next week. Three new companies will begin work on new pictures. Two of the Peferred Picture units will comprise special casts, while the third will film a picture with Katherine MacDonald in the stellar role.

"Are You a Failure?" is the title of Larry Evans's new story of thrills and spectacular action. This Tom Forman will produce with a cast in which six-footers predominate. The Forman company, which has not yet been completed, includes Tom Santschi, Hardee Kirkland and Lloyd Hughes. The feminine players have not yet been named.

Gaenier will begin work on "The Hero," casting for which has been completed. Barbara LaMarr, who just has signed a contract under which she will be starred in her own productions, has delayed her stellar debut in order to play the role of Hester, the wife of the forbearing Andrew.

Gaston Glass has been cast for the title role—a part that will require all of the finesse that won for Glass his present position on the screen. John Sainpolis, who has just completed a role in "Shadows," will be seen as the patient, plodding husband. Doris Pawn, whose blonde, girlish type of beauty will be seen in marked contrast to that of the raven-haired Miss LaMarr, has been selected as Martha, the Belgian maid. David Butler, accepted as the typical American youth, will play the part of the modest doughboy. Martha Mattox will have the part of the mother of the hero. Jacqueline Dyris has bene cast as Hilda, the doughboy's sweetheart.

Having returned from a three weeks' vacation in Northern California, Miss MacDonald will begin work on "The Scarlet Lily," an unusual story that has been selected by the star and producer from a mass of stories that were presented for consideration by them for her next production.

Because of the merit of her last production—"The Lonely Road"—both her director and leading man were immediately signed for this picture. Victor L. Schertzinger, who found time in betwen pictures to produce the score for a musical comedy, expects to surpass his previous efforts in "The Scarlet Lily." Orville Caldwell, who is endeavoring to overcome the handicap of being called "the most physically perfect man on the screen," was not only signed for this picture, but for a long-term contract.

At the headwaters of the East and West Rosebud rivers, in the Beartooth Mountains of Montana, is a glacier, known as Grasshopper glacier, from the fact that there are thousands of grasshoppers imbedded in the perpetual ice in as perfect a manner as if preserved in alcohol for exhibition. Scientists believe the insects were caught in the storms in attempting to cross the mountain range.

THREE .. CAREERS .. FOR .. HER

Was Dancer, Writer, Now Screen Star

Barbara La Marr and Ramon Samniegos

BARBARA LA MARR, the beautiful girl who comes into screen prominence as Antoinette de Mauban in Rex Ingram's production for Metro of "The Prisoner of Zenda," now showing at Loew's State Theater, finds in acting of her third career which she has followed with distinction and success. She is only 24, but in her brief span she has lived the life of three ordinary mortals.

First, as a dancer, she began her career at the startling age of 7, continuing on up until she was ranked high on the list of America's interpretative dancers at the age of 17. She varied ballroom dancing with appearances on the Orpheum circuit, but circled always back to the center of theatrical life—New York.

But for her success meant boredom. She grew tired of dancing, even of New York. California, with all the golden possibilities lured her on. She had for some time cherished a secret desire to write. She determined to go West.

Working on a novel, "The Mother of His Children," she caught attention of the Fox studio head, who undertook to convert the story into a picture. It was a success and Barbara La Marr was signed to do six stories. She did them, but the old restlessness came back. Success didn't seem to satisfy. Someone, at the phychological moment, let drop a suggestion that she, being beautiful, should go into the acting end of pictures.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" is only her sixth picture. She gained her first tithe of fame in "The Three Musketeers." Rex Ingram, spotting her, immediately engaged her for a principal role in "Black Orchids."

"Pictures," she says, "are the only thing which I have ever cared to go on with."

LEADERS PLEDGE SUPPORT

The leaders of filmdom pledged their enthusiastic support to the Actors' Fund benefit performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to be given in the Hollywood Bowl October 7, at the recent meeting at the Pickford-Fairbanks studios.

Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Fred Niblo, Frank E. Woods and other celebrities urged the entire film industry to assist Maj. Maurice Campbell, general manager, and Frederic Sullivan, stage director, in making this the greatest entertainment ever given.

The meeting was called by Miss Pickford, chairman of the cast committee for the benefit. She expressed regret that an important business trip to New York would prevent her appearance in the play. Her noted husband offered his moral and financial support and deplored the fact that he will not be here October 7, to appear in the benefit. Fred Niblo, one of the leading directors of filmdom, declared he was ready to sell programs, carry water or serve in any capacity.

Mr. Sullivan explained his plans for a gorgeous pageant in which the youth and beauty of filmdom will appear. Maj. Campbell expressed the gratitude of the committee at the splendid response from the leading stars invited to enact the Shakespearean roles. He also explained that the Actors' Fund will receive 25 cents of every dollar taken in, and will be under no liability.

The Motion-Picture Directors' Association is assuming all responsibility for the entertainment, and if there is any profit in addition to the Actors' Fund percentage, it will be used by the directors for the best interests of the industry.

Mr. Woods, head of the Screen Writers' Guild, impressed upon the meeting the worthiness of the cause for which the entertainment is being given.

STARS IN SHAKESPEARE

Stars of the film firmament will scintillate at Hollywood Bowl, the night of October 7. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be given as a benefit for the Actors' Fund of America, the entertainment being staged under the management of the Motion-Picture Directors' Association.

Charles Ray will play the part of Flute, Harold Lloyd will be Snug, and Wallace Reid, will be Captain of the Guard. With such a trio of artist celebrities, the production is bound to be a brilliant one. The remainder of the cast will include some of the best-known figures of the stage and screen. A complete list of the players will be announced some time this week.

Special lighting effects and costumes are to be used at the production, and even the moon has been ordered up for the occasion.

Due to a poor theatrical year, the actors' fund is especially in need of replenishing, and those in charge of the Shakespearean production are bending every effort to make the occasion one of the most beautiful outdoor events which have been staged in this city.

TWO REELERS GOOD AMUSEMENT VENTURE

CHRISTIE WORKING ON SATIRES AND OTHER SHORT SUBJECTS

The movie palate evidently still has its craving for amusement in two-reel doses, judging by the activity going on about the Christie studios, which now enter their eighth consecutive year of sticking consistently to the short comedies.

Al Christie, in addition to being president and supervising director of his organization, continues to direct pctures practically all the time, and also has Scott Sidney and Harold Beaudine directing new stories featuring such comedy stars as Bobby Vernon, Neal Burns, Dorothy Devore, Viora Daniel and others.

The first picture of the new series will be "That Son of a Sheik," directed by Scott Sidney and featuring Neal Burns, with Viora Daniel, Helen Darling, Lincoln Plumer, Lydia Yeamans Titus and others.

Christie has performed a comedy operation on the desert formula of movie making in a like manner to his kidding of the mounted police last summer in "Cold Feet." There will be other pictures in the new Christie schedule of a similar character, for, according to Christie, movie subjects of late have particularly lent themselves to satirical treatment.

"One of our most ambitious plans for the new season," says the comedy producer, "will be a satire on the movies in general. The title of the picture will be 'Hazel From Hollywood,' and the story will be the true-to-life picture of the Middle-West farm-bred heroine who has learned all about Hollywood in the motion-picture magazines and who makes the dizzy plunge into the movies.

"Only the way she makes it will be comedy. Nobody shall believe that our Hazel is having real movie experiences. There will be no tears shed over this Hazel, because she is a nut to start with and will probably finish without knowing what her plunge into the movie vortex was all about."

Scott Sidney has already been assigned to the direction of "Hazel," and the leading role will be played by Dorothy Devore, who won her recognition in farce in her characters in "Saving Sister Susie," "One Stormy Knight" and "Mile-a-Minute Mary." Henry Murdock has been assigned the important role of Hazel's champion from back home.

NEW PLANS

Playcrafters to Discuss Next Season's Events

Tomorrow's meeting of the playcrafters promises to be a very enthusiastic one. The president, Mr. Sidney Sprague, and his wife, who have been absent from the club for many weeks, will return again on this occasion.

Many interesting events are being planned for the new year, one of which will be a dinner in the near future at which speeches will be made by prominent people interested in the drama. Anyone interested may come, by making reservations for plate at club meeting.

The program for tomorrow will consist of two one-act plays—"The End of the Summer," from the pen of Tipton Lindsey Frasier, will be read by the author, assisted by Miss Irine D'Arville; "Waves," by Ruth Price, will be read by Mrs. Walker Raymond Gillette, who is curator of the drama section of the Ebell Club.

SAXOPHONIST COMPOSES

The saxophone is not always considered the "pet peeve" of apartment-house tenants—and especially when the player is everything but an embryo musician. And it is only fair to assume that dear old Los Angeles will accept anything but an embryo. Consequently, when a certain red-headed youth took it into his head to learn to play a saxophone, he went direct to Rudy Wiedoeft, and under that musician's direction, has become a thorough master of the instrument. Lawrence (Red) Abbott, now playing with Herb Wiedoeft's orchestra at the Cinderella Roof, is rapidly becoming one of the foremost saxophonists, and he is devoting his spare time to composing some of his own original lyrics which he will introduce at the roof.

Too Late

Somebody misses nearly every train. There may be a dozen reasons, but most of the causes can be traced to an unreliable watch.

Why not buy a watch with a proven record of reliability—The Hamilton. We have them in some of the most attractive newly designed men's pocket watches ever shown.

We are now showing the new Fall models in the finest imported platinum and diamond ribbon watches for ladies in unusual as well as conservative shapes, some in combination with sapphires.

To meet the increasing demand among business men for a dependable strap watch we are featuring many new models in both silver and gold.

Our unfailing policy of selling only the better grades of well-known makes such as Vacheron—Meylan—Agassiz—Longines—Ditisheim — Gruen—Hamilton—Elgin and Waltham, has been the success of our watch department.

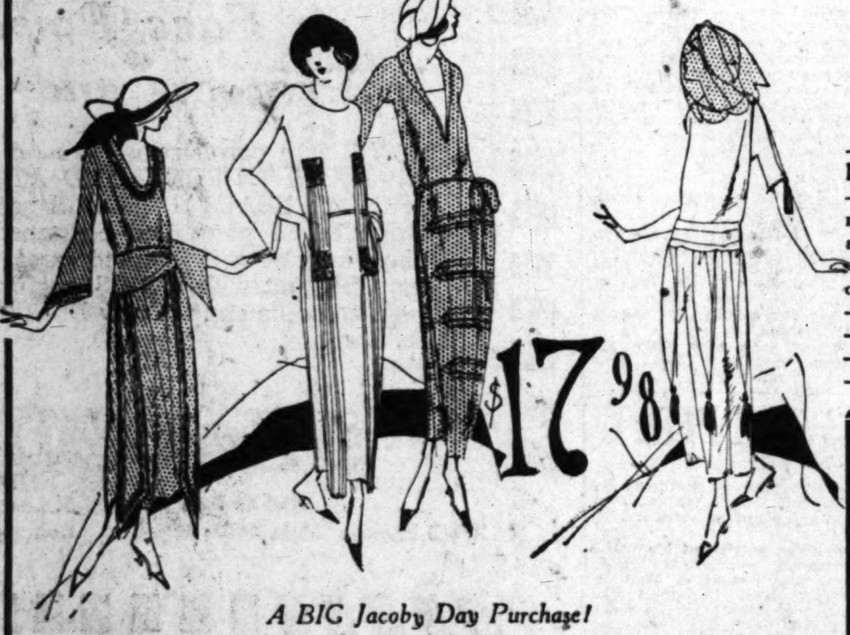
Here's A Real Jacoby Day Sale!

75 New Fall Dresses at $17.98



The mere announcement of a sale of new Fall Dresses at $17.98 will make every reader of The Times open her eyes with astonishment, but when we announce that these dresses are of CANTON CREPE and POIRET TWILL, scores will start making plans to be at Jacoby's bright and early Monday morning.

—It is difficult to know just how to begin to tell you about this remarkable Jacoby Day Sale—
—Such dresses as these at $17.98 are worthy of the strongest statements that we could make—and so you must consider that we have said about these just what you would say about a dress which you were wildly enthusiastic over——The Poiret Twills are all in styles for street and business wear—some in the very new coat effects with rich braid trimmings and distinguished looking buckles and ornaments—
—The Canton crepes run to two extremes—to long straight lines and to sweeping drapes—all of them show very plainly they were intended to be sold for a much higher price.
—Most of them are in navy and black—
—Sizes begin at 16 and range up to 44.

THE CONFESSIONS OF AN IMITATION, BOGUS TURK

The Amazing Adventures of Joe Richard, Alias Kala Pasha; Was Buried Alive as Fake Hypnotist

BY KALA PASHA
As Told to Helen Ferguson

These are the confessions of Kala Pasha.

He is a motion-picture actor now—and a wrestler.

For years he has passed himself off on the public as a Turk.

His innocent Turkish mistake have been the laughing stock of many an American city—to his great profit.

Kala Pasha says that, with a Turkish war evidently pending in Europe, it is time to resign his oriental distinctions.

So he has told the story of his adventures as a Turk to Helen Ferguson, the motion-picture actress, who writes them for The Times.

I hated to do it, but I did the only thing I could: I ducked around a corner into a dark street. When he came around the corner after me, I swung on him with an upper-cut under the point of his chin. For all I know he is lying here yet.

One of the funniest times I had was in Baltimore. I had gone down there to wrestle and I wasn't making as much excitement as I had hoped. They seemed to be a little blase on Turks.

FISHED FOR OYSTERS

So I got a fish-line and pole and went down to the docks. I baited the hook with a soda cracker and sat down in my fez and my wide Turkish pants. When anybody would ask me what I was doing I would tell them I was fishing for oysters. Day after day I sat there patiently all day long, fishing with soda crackers for oysters—the trustful, naive Turk. It got into the papers and the folks used to come down there in crowd to see me.

One day, just as the rush of the traffic was at its height, I got out my prayer rug and spread it carefully out on a street car track on the most crowded corner of the city and began my sunset prayers.

The street cars came up and stopped; they nearly clanged their bells out of joint, but I went right on with my evening prayers. My devotions were not expressed in silence either. On a clear day you could have heard me praying for a mile. The street cars began piling up; a couple of policemen came up and tried to drag me away, but I was very strong and shook them off and went on with my devotions. At last one of the street cars came up close and shoved me along for half a block on the fender; but I stuck valiently to the prayer for a full half hour by which time the traffic was blocked for six blocks in every direction.

Another time, I went into a

Novelist Tells of Victims of Hop

Strange Delusions of the "Hypes"

Terrible Fate of Those Under Influence

BY JIM TULLY,
Author of "Emmett Lawler"

There are over 1,000,000 drug users in America.

The victims are numbered in every walk of life. Many claim that there are more opium users on the Pacific Coast than in any other section in the nation, San Francisco has always been well known as the headquarters of opium smokers. Of late years Los Angeles has rivaled the northern city.

Roughly, the users of dope in some form can be classified as follows. A "snowbird" is one who uses cocaine or heroin sniffed through the nostrils. The drug is placed quite often in a hollow spot back of the thumb. The thumb is held erect and stiff, thus forming a perfect pocket for the drug as it is breathed into the nostril.

A "hype" or "gun" is one who

Lords and Ladies, "Broke" Financially as the Result of the War, Find Jobs in Los Angeles; an Italian Countess as an Extra Girl; a Noble Insurance Agent

BY MYRTLE GEBHART

The war has wrought a number of changes over in Europe, where thrones have the shimmies and scepters are on the bargain counter.

This chaotic upheaval has cast its talons over here; it has sent many noblemen and titled ladies, whose greatest exertion in the good old days was the lifting of their monocles and lorgnettes to wearied eyes, scurrying to Los Angeles. From the bright glare of the incandescents they dropped into the gulf in which live unnoticed the millions of little nobodies. In their own countries they were as a thing apart from ordinary life; you couldn't make the peasants believe that their lords and duchesses breathed and ate and blew their noses just as did their own subservient selves; when these great people walked abroad or motored to the races or had babies or lost their husbands, butlers or lives, they always got a column out of it—and pretended they detested publicity. But over here they were left to their own devices—which I happen to know shocked a couple of them so terribly that they had to fetch their own smelling salts.

A few, however, deserve to be sung in the paean of the press, for, by their own individual efforts, unabetted by titular glory, they are slowly winning their ways in the commercial baronage of Los Angeles' money mart.

There may be a few disqualified princes and duchesses in other cities of this land of theoretic democracy, bdt I don't see how there can be many, for the City of the Angels in this, as in punk whisky, movies, morning fogs and scenic views, has cornered the market.

Life which formerly went its daily regulated round has become a thing of surprises; you have to watch your step since the nobility invaded California. You'd be terribly embarrassed to discover you were bawling out a countess for not getting the egg stain out of your shirt front, wouldn't you? For shhh, here's a secret—most of us do care what the princesses and counts think of us. Democrats though we fondly in our delusion believe ourselves to be, we possess still a smidgen of that servility in our ego which causes us to look up a bit toward the bearers of titles. Not necessarily with the blindfold admiration that characterized Europe before monarchies began to slip, but certainly with awe and a trifle of envy. We—if we're truthful—admit that it wouldn't be a bad idea to have people courtesying before us and exclaiming: "The motor waits, Milady!" or "Will Your Grace have your eggs turned over?" Tho fact that many of the graces in Europe today haven't any eggs to turn over does nothing to diminish the charm of the idea.

DUCHESS AND THE BUTCHER

So though we claim that titles mean nothing in our young lives, I have noticed they have in certain quarters a poignant effect. For instance, the other day I was standing in line with my mother before that shrine of housewives, the meat market, when a charming, dulcet-voiced, wordly looking woman stepped opologetically ahead of her turn. When I tried that I won a severe bawling-out from the white-aproned priest of the pig joints. But not she! Leaving a highly indignant matron with her leg o' lamb half cut, he bowed himself as nearly double as his prominent front veranda would permit and, with a great flourish and much pompousness, sold the new arrival 30 cents worth of chops.

"She's a real duchess," he chortled, wide-eyed, after the dear, sweet thing, with a charming apology—which but half veiled her entire assumption of her rights—had stepped on everybody's toes extricating herself and her precious 30-cent dinner from the mob. "Yeah, livin' in Hollywood. All them titled foreigners trades with me." Then, growling, to the wife of a mere $10,0000-a-year automobile man: "Whatcha want? Only a $1.80 roast?"

Being cursed with a dominating inquisitiveness, I set out to find a few of these titled foreigners working for so much per day in Los Angeles. My search was rewarded with such a profusion of counts, duchesses and lords that I almost decided I'd gone to sleep and awakened in some mythical Ruritania. I had to sort 'em out, like the exhibits they use in a murder trial, to choose which ones to write about.

COUNT INSURES AUTOS

Down on South Flower street is an office bearing the innocent sign: "J. V. Strazelle, Automobile Insurance." Looking beyond that plate glass window, to the dapper little man sitting at the big mahogany desk, you'd never dream that behind its—and his—complacence lies a story of inherited grandeur at the court of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, now would you? But "J. V. Strazelle" was, before he cast overboard part of his monicker, the Count Giovanni Vincenzo de Strazelle.

"I came to America as a boy to study medicine and pharmacy," said Mister Strazelle—as he prefers to be called. "I had an income from my family's revenues in Italy. Then came the war which wiped out everything we had; so I, who had never dreamed of working for my living had to hustle out, as you say here, and 'do my stuff.'" The Count thinks our American slang quite fetching and, unlike most foreigners, doesn't get it upside down. "So I go to work. I know nothing about it, I speak not the language well, but I study. I form this business, the National Automobile Owners' Association, keep my past a dark secret—for by this time I learn something of American democratic ways—and work hard. Now, after four years, I do well. And if any of my titled countrymen are contemplating going into business here," brown eyes a-twinkling, "I would suggest that they take their titles out to Santa Monica and lose them in the ocean. They are great accessories back in Italy; but here a title is worth less than a plugged nickel."

A friend of Mr. Strazelle's, the Chevalier d'Andreini, is a professor here, teaching in one of our schools.

At the Lasky studio I found Stella, Duchess de Lanti, letting Gloria Swanson's director tell her how to walk in a baronial hall. Now, Stella de Lanti, of the proud blood of the Doges, one of the oldest aristocratic families of Italy's noble roster, knows that in baronial halls you don't glide and slink around, that you merely walk at ease and act your perfectly natural, ladylike self; but this being "the movies," designed to satisfy the demands of the flappers, and Stella being a wise, wise young lady, she nods, apologizes contritely—and glides.

"I am here to earn my living," she said with a charming frankness that I wish certain other titled foreigners would imitate. Stella, Duchess de Lanti, in my opinion has a perfect right to that wide term "lady," applied in its real and older-day sense. Some of the other noblewomen I've met haven't. In fact, I know a washerwoman who would seem more fittingly placed wearing their titles. But about the Duchess de Lanti there is that complete absence of self, of pose, which characterizes the real woman of culture; she has that refinement that doesn't remind you of its existence in haughty words or studied gestures, and the cosmopolitan charm of the woman of the world that cannot be copied successfully.

HER VILLA IN ROME

Having no brother to inherit the title, it descended to her through the operation of the Salic law. Her villa in Rome—remaining after the storm of war had washed away her other inheritances—is said to be one of the show-places of the Eternal City, and is profusely decorated with paintings by Michaelangelo.

"I have been working in the motion pictures for over a year, with my husband, Fenwick Oliver, an Englishman. I was educated in England and Paris and," with a girlish, reminiscent laugh, "it was while an art student in England that I had my first taste of the Kleig lights. I ran away from school one day to take part in a cinema then being made at a London studio. And though my liberty was brief—for next day my horrified guardians found me and insisted upon my giving up my budding career as an actress—I determined then that some day I would continue with the first work I had ever done in my life. I was very proud of my 'talent check,' as you call them over here, though it was but a pound, less than a dollar.

"Later, when our family for-

Impresario Tells Some Amusing Secrets About the Temperaments of World Famous Celebrities Who Have Come Under His Management

[Sunset and evening star, and one clear call forme!" The call is that of art; the star is any one of many; the sunset is the sunset of Mr. Merle Armitage's belief in the infallibility of genius, though admitting that many of them are human. Mr. Armitage is an impresario, at present in charge of the Fitzgerald concert course, and he is young and not above punishment. Doubtless other of our well-known impresarios—L. E. Behymer, for instance—could tell tales of troublous—and humorous—doings with stars that would likewise harrow up the feelings as with a fine-toothed comb. But the fact remains that Mr. Armitage has told. Now disregard the bracket and go on with Mr. Armitage's tale of temperament on tour.—Ed.]

Manifestations of so-called temperament hold second place to wit, humor, and unusual pranks in the lives of the great stars of the musical world, as I have known them. Most all great artists have a keen sense of humor about everything under the sun, except themselves. Perhaps it is the same ego that gives them the courage and belief in themselves to make a career, that also distorts their vision when it comes to themselves. However, most of them are really charming people, and all of them are, at times.

John McCormack is a highly complex individual. He is a collector and connoisseur of fine violins, of old masters and modern paintings; is a boxing fan, a tennis player of parts, and a fine pianist, in addition to being one of the world's great singers. His sense of humor is great. One night in Louisville he was giving a concert in the Armory, which has a tin roof. Just as John started to sing, it commenced to rain, and a heavy rain on a square block of tin roof makes a noise like applause at a political convention. John got red in the face trying to outshout the elements, then gave up with a laugh that brought down the house. Three times he started and three times the rain increased in intensity. Then it stopped just long enough for the Irish tenor to complete the concert.

One night at dinner a gentleman was introduced to McCormack just after the famous tenor had returned from a hunting trip, during which he walked many miles. McCormack, to make conversation, mentioned the length of this walk, saying that he was sore as a boil. The stranger tactlessly remarked that if McCormack would walk that far every day, he would "soon get down to my size!" "Yes, responded the singer, and I would probably sing like you do too." On another occasion an admirer said, on meeting the singer for the first time,

"I'd give both legs if I could stand up and sing as you do." "But you couldn't stand up and sing then," replied McCormack.

MARY'S MANUAL

Mary Garden has a reputation for doing the unusual, and for having a terrific temper. She is certainly unusual, and would have been a great person no matter what profession she might have gone into, but I have never known her to lose her temper unless there was ample cause for it. But she has wit. A very few years ago on a long concert tour she turned every appearance into gala affairs, and something unusual happened every night she sang. She played the game for all it was worth. Babies were kissed in the best political style. Programs and photographs were autographed by the score.

One night in Indianapolis where, as usual, the house was packed to suffocation, we both noticed two empty seats in the front row, and commented on it. I assured her they were sold. Half way through the concert two men took these seats while Garden was singing a group of songs. Finishing her singing, she walked to the side of the stage nearest to the latecomers, and asked with a smile, "What detained you gentlemen?" No one but a vaudeville performer could have gotten away with it. But Garden did it and they liked it hugely. In Tulsa, Okla., it was raining pitchforks when we arrived there. Garden hurried to her hotel, and we heard nothing from her all day. About 6 o'clock I knocked on her door and told her I wished to introduce a reporter. She answered that she was in her bath, but that if we would come into her living-room, she would talk to us through the bathroom door. Amid sounds of splashing, the reporter got his answers.

"Have you a message for the people of Tulsa?" the reporter inquired. Mary, remembering the rain outside shouted an epigram that was used next morning on the front page. "Tell them," Mary said, "to trust in God, but keep their feet dry."

COULD DO WORSE

Arriving in Chicago one cool autumn direct from Europe, Mary sighted two fine-looking mounted policemen, just as she was getting into her taxi at the station. Motioning for them to come over, she shook hands with the awed arms of the law, and told them how glad she was to be back in Chicago. Driving to the Blackstone Hotel, where an army of reporters had gathered, Mary told them all that she had seen two such handsome policeman at the station. "I might even marry a policeman, one could do worse, you know," Mary told the reporters, which was flashed all over the country. All this was in anticipation of the coming performance of "Aphrodite," which she hoped to do with the Chicago Opera Company, and which had been banned the year previous by police order. Mary gave "Aphrodite" that year without being molested. One night, when she was back stage with her manager, Charles L. Wagner, she introduced him to some admirers as "her future husband." Wagner's sister happened to be in the little party, and taking Mary seriously, she nearly fainted with surprise.

Titta Ruffo is a genial soul, besides being one of the greatest singing actors today. He hears many aspiring youths and maidens, who think they can sing, and to all he gives friendly advice. Not speaking English, he wanted to give a personal touch to an interview with a particularly talented youth. As the happy young singer was leaving, after having talked with the great Ruffo through an interpreter, he was almost convulsed with laughter, when Ruffo grasped his hand in a friendly fashion and said, "How do you do! How do you do!" Ruffo is one of the highest priced singers in the world and with his money supports many charitable institutions, both in America and Italy. To his friends he is a prince of a gentleman.

Galli-Curci is what Americans would call a good sport. At a concert which we handled at Notre Dame, Ind., an abandoned gymnasium was used, and a stage about ten feet high improvised from packing boxes. There being no rear door, Galli-Curci was forced to walk down through the audience and mount the stage by a stepladder, in full view of the audience, who gave her a thrilling reception. She took it all with a gracious good nature that won her audience immediately.

John Charles Thomas, the popular American baritone, was to have appeared in Detroit one night as soloist with a great symphony orchestra. It was in the dead of winter, and 8 o'clock came and no orchestra. The manager of the concert told Thomas the concert would probably have to be called off, as the orchestra was on a train many hours late because of the deep snow. "If you are game, I am," said Thomas, and he proceeded to give the entire concert on fifteen minute's notice. The audience seemed not to miss the orchestra, because of Thomas's graciousness and resourcefulness.

ART AND SCOTCH WHISKY

Antonio Scotti is every inch a gentleman. Two things other than singing in opera he loves well, one is playing bridge, the other is Scotch whisky. In managing the first transcontinental tour of the Scotti Opera Company, it was one of the writer's duties to provide Scotti with occasional refreshment. Now Scotti has never been known to become intoxicated, but nothing quite tops off a dinner like a little drink, thinks Tony, and as we touched the Canadian cities of Vancouver and Victoria coming West, it seemed right and fitting that this was the place to stock up. Accordingly a case of extra fine was loaded into the compartment in Scotti's private car. Alert officials on the border came aboard in the middle of the night. Scotti, sensing trouble, grabbed in the dark for one bottle and pushed it under the mattress of his bed, at least he had saved one bottle. Next morning on detecting an odor of whisky, it was found that the sole bottle which Scotti had saved was and had been minus a cork, and a whisky-soaked mattress told the tale.

ON SUNDAY'S TRAIL

The Scotti Opera Company, to break a bad jump, played a good-sized town in the east, which had no auditorium. Billy Sunday had been there, however, and the tabernacle still stood. The company carried a heavy and beautiful velvet curtain, with the Scotti monogram in gold letters. When this was hung in the tabernacle, the roof started to cave in with the weight. A hurried trip to a plumbing shop yielded a good-sized gas pipe, which placed under the weakening roof in the center of the proscenium arch. Not only were "Pagliacci" and L'Oracolo" played that night with an iron pole in the middle of the stage, but the men and women of the chorus dressed on a vacant lot next door, behind the lids of their wardrobe trunks by the light of spotlights taken from the stage, a la circus. Knowing the temperament of these birds, all from the Metropolitan Opera Company, the writer would never have believed this had he not been the manager of the company and seen it with his own eyes.

Paderewski in years gone by, has had many idiosyncracies. On a cold night he held his hands in hot water between numbers. He has been known to insist on a covered run-way being built out to the stage in a cold theater.

ON HIS LAP

Frances Alda insists on a white cloth being tacked to the floor from the wings to the front of the stage when she sings, even though her gown may be just below the knees. The writer has the distinction of having held this great artist on his lap for three miles when she alighted from a train in an Indiana city one night with so much baggage and so many maids and secretaries that it swamped the flivver taxi for room.

Rudolph Ganz has French wit of the bubbling kind. He can be brilliant at 7 in the morning. The writer made a silhouette of this artist in Boston after a concert one night. It pleased Ganz and he autographed it as follows: "To Merlé Armitage, who draws artists as a side issue. I like him, although I am not as black as he tried to make me. Sincerely, Rudolph Ganz."

THE BALD ONE

George Copeland, internationally known pianist, has no eyebrows and is perfectly bald. One night during a concert he became incensed at an electric operator who turned a spotlight on his shining head, and shouted to him, "That space is not for rent."

Tetrazzini has naive humor. The train of her skirt caught on a nail one night. She had quite a battle with the nail all during the concert, much to the amusement of the audience. After that she insisted on a nail being driven in every stage, at every concert on the tour.

Caruso was a great man, in whom there was a great deal of the milk of human kindness. He was always ready to help, and his gifts and kindnesses were legion. He was a cartoonist and caricaturist of great distinction, who took great delight in drawing his fellow artists, or his managers, in the most grotesque fashion.

Theodore Roosevelt was the greatest man with whom I ever came in contact. To talk with him was to be convinced of his sinceri-

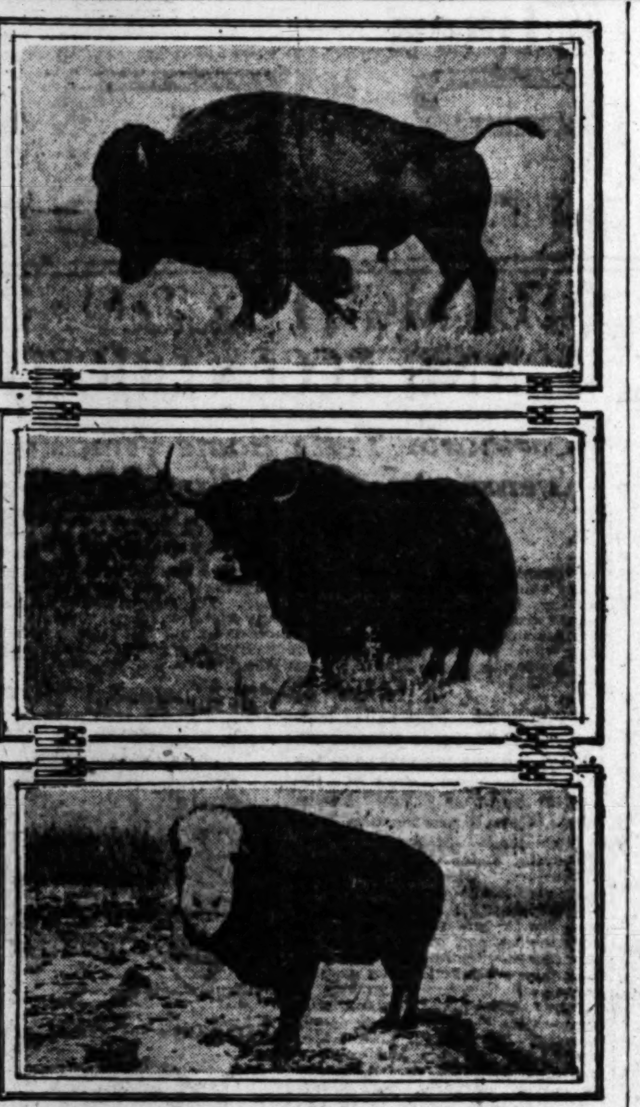
BUFFALO BEEF FOR MILLIONS

Canadian Herds Show a Marked Increase

Hybrids to Furnish Meat in Future

Far Northland to be the Breeding Place

BY FRANCIS DICKIE



Canada's Buffalo

Upper picture, a 3-year-old bull buffalo at Wainwright Park; middle picture, a yak which is being crossed with buffalo; lower picture, a trialia, being three-fourths buffalo cow.

Great herds of buffalo once more roaming the vast plains of Northwestern Canada and thriving on land otherwise useless, though offering the best of grazing to these sturdy animals! Great herds that may again offer buffalo huntng to sportsmen on the North American continent at a time when the majority of people have come to believe that the buffalo as a big-game animal has passed forever! No wild dream this, but the truth; a possibility for the immediate future.

Even this amazing fact is only one of several in connection with the buffalo today. For now there is not only great promise that large herds will in the near future roam the otherwise useless grazing ground of Northwestern Canada, in Alberta, and the Northwest territories, but that there will also be roaming several new types of animals which never beore have trod the face of the earth, animals produced by crossing the buffalo with domestic cattle; buffalo and the yak of Central Asia, and the yak and such breeds of cattle as the Hereford, Angus and Shorthorn, which already have proved the best for crossing with the buffalo.

A GREAT BUFFALO PARK

The story to date of this great experiment is laid on the plains of the Province of Alberta where, in an enormous inclosure, the largest of its kind in the world, roams in its natural state the government herd of buffalo, or rather bison, for this animal, so long miscalled buffalo, is a species peculiar to the land. The bison park comprises 15,875 square miles, situated near the town of Wainwright on the Canadian National Railway. The park is inclosed by galvanized steel wire fence seventy-five miles long, nine feet high, and required to construct 25,000 poles and 1700 miles of wire. As a protection against prairie fires a strip of forty feet of ground is plowed yearly, twenty on either side of the fence. The park is well wooded and watered by many small lakes, providing the same country which the buffalo lived in before the white man came.

RAPID GROWTH

According to a census of the herd just taken (1922,) there are now 6000 head of buffalo in the inclosure. In 1910, the herd numbered 750. From this it will be seen that in twelve years the animals have increased eight times their number. Thus, by the year 1934, Canada will own 48,000 head of buffalo, not to count the new species of beef-producing animals raised from crossing buffalo with domestic cattle, and yak and buffalo and cattle hybrids, and yak and domestic cattle. Before turning to what has been accomplished in breeding new types of beef-producers, and proving their ability to range unassisted the semi-Arctic prairies of Canada, and the story of what further types are being planned by government officials, a brief history of the near extinction of the bison, and how it was saved, is here given.

The story surrounding this wonderful come-back of the buffalo is romantic in the extreme, for the 6000 in existence today are due solely to four calves, two males and two females, that were saved in the year 1875 from slaughter by a Pend d'Oreille Indian, and which several years later, when they had increased to about a dozen head, were purchased by Michael Pablo, an illiterate but shrewd Mexican halfbreed. The herd was left by its owner to roam in a state of freedom on the Pend d'Oreille reserve along the river of that name. In 1907 the United States Government decided to throw open for settlement the reserve. Pablo was forced to look for a buyer for his animals. He offered them to the United States Government. Roosevelt and several others interested in the preservation of native wild animals, strongly advocated the purchase, but Congress refused. The Canadian government, however, accepted the offer. For two years the buffalo were hunted by expert crews of riders before the last ones were finally rounded up and loaded on special trains that carried them at express-rate speed to their new home in Canada.

The possibilities of a new type of animal to be obtained from mating buffalo and domestic cattle, a type combining the beef qualities of cattle with the hardiness and winter ranging ability of the buffalo, were thought about by various men as far back as 1885. But not until the late Mr. Mossom Boyd of Bobcaygeon, Ont., began experimenting in the year 1894, was any great progress made. By mating a pure buffalo bull with domestic cows of various breeds he succeeded in building up a herd of different types of a new race of animals. Upon his death in 1915 the Department of Agriculture purchased from his estate twenty head of hybrids and cattalos. These were brought to Wainwright Park and placed in an inclosure adjoining the buffalo range, and tests begun of the animals' abilities to range unassisted outdoors through the hard winters of this region.

The hybrid, a half buffalo, half domestic cow, shorthorn, Angus or Hereford stock has proved the best for crossing. Cattalos are the offspring of two hybrid animals of both of these new types and have a great many points which make them animals valuable to foster. The hides are of fine texture, combining beauty with serviceability. Valuable fur coats and robes, commanding from $50 to $100, according to size and condition, are given by these animals.

HARDY STOCK

Mr. Maxwell Graham, director of park animals, who has devoted many years' study to the breeding experiments, states that in the matter of ruggedness both this type of animals are equal to the buffalo. They do not drift before a storm like range cattle, and are not easily susceptible to disease. Th eherd owned by the government has never had any infectious disease. In the matter of rustling they are equal to the buffalo and thrive on comparatively poor pasture. They live without shelter on the Alberta plain. A test in a recent poor grazing year showed the hybrids and cattalos in much better flesh than domestic cattle foraging on the same range.

But the Dominion's experiments have not stopped at this modicum of success. Just shortly before the writing of this, there arrived at Wainwright an odd, alien animal, a yak bull from the chill and windy plateaux of Central Asia. The 6000-mile trip left the animal in good condition, and it came to a region much similar in climate to its own. The yak is the zoologically connecting link between buffalo and domestic cattle and mates readily with cattle, so it is hoped will also with the buffalo and buffalo hybrids. From these experiments it is hoped to produce further valuable meat-producing hybrids capable of unassisted ranging all the year around in the sub-Arctic regions.

The yak is a particularly hardy ranger, equal, if not superior to the buffalo. It is distinguished by its long hair and horse-like tail. Usually black in color, some are brown or white. It will stand the most severe cold and is remarkably free from disease. The meat is of finer grain than that of cattle. With the successful production of cattalos and other domestic cattle-buffalo crosses, the success of the yak introduction seems likely. All of which raises the most wonderful possibilities for the hitherto unproductive regions of Canada.

GREAT FUTURE

As has been pointed out there were in 1910 only 750 buffalo in the park. Today there are 6000. Thus, having established that they increase eight times their number in twelve years, we have something definite to work upon for the future. So we find the amazing but indisputable figures arising before us: Canada will have in 1934, 48,000 buffalo; in 1946, 348,000, and in 1958, 3,072,000. In the life of a nation fifty years is nothing. Yet in fourteen years less than that time, Canada will have more than 3,000,000 animals. The prospect is a pleasantly startling one.

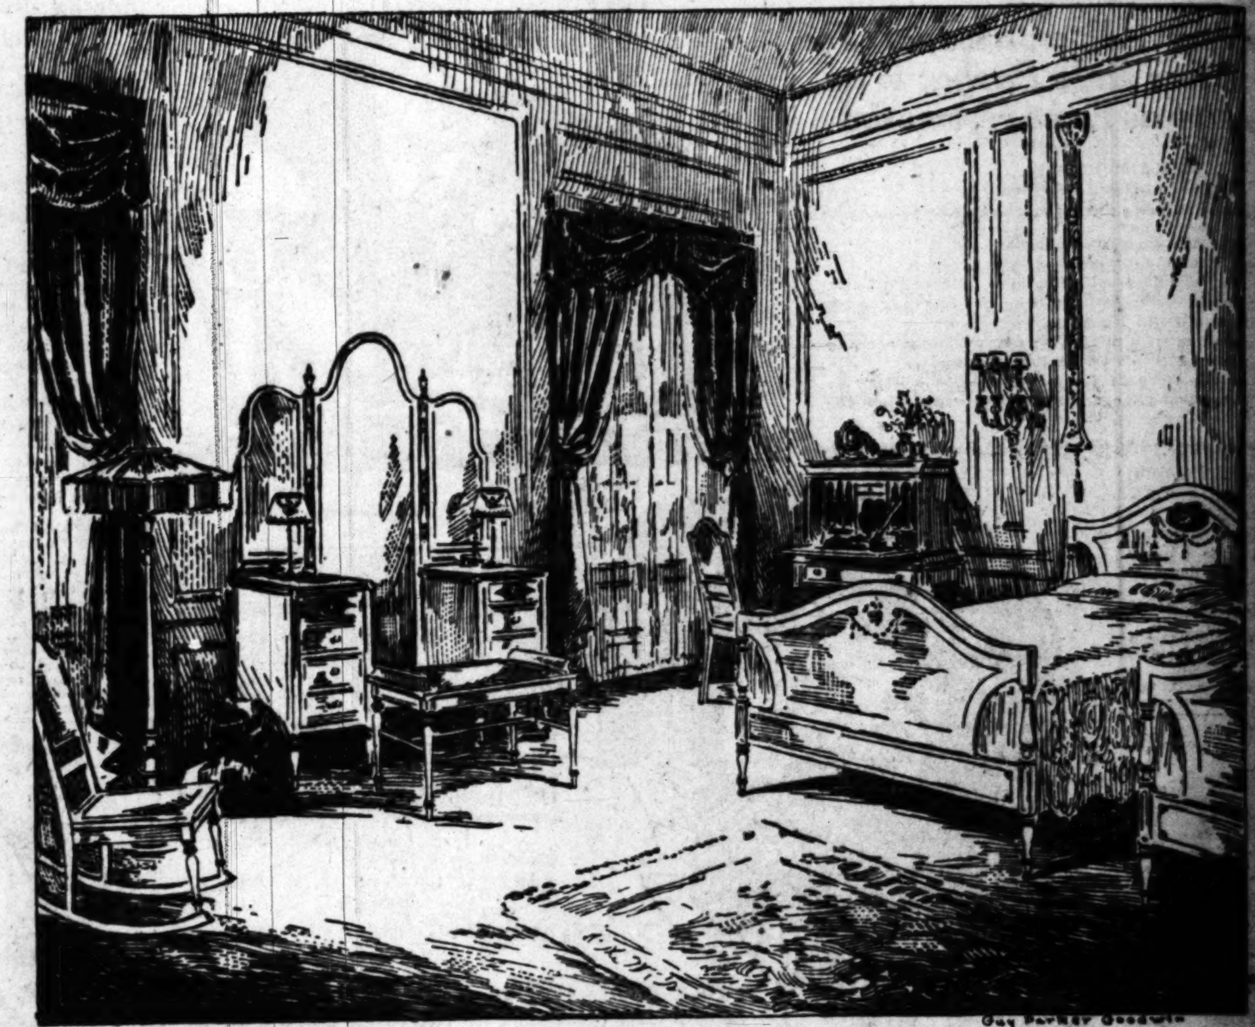
The Artists' Series of Successful Homes



This, the first of the Artists' series of Better Home illustrations, is from the pen of GUY PARKER GOODWIN. Mr. Goodwin gives to his interpretations a delicacy of detail and harmony, and a veracity of execution which gain for them the vibrant quality of "personality." A great room, or a group drawn by him, not only depicts each element truthfully, but has as well, an added spirit of inviting "livableness" which makes his illustrations particularly appealing for home subjects. The bedroom here reproduced from his special drawing for this series, typifies both the manner and the spirit of his creations.

Mr. Goodwin has practiced his art in Los Angeles since 1906, varying his residence here with periods of study abroad in Munich, Paris and London, and a stay in New York City while engaged in a series of commissions for several nationally known organizations. The Southland's congeniality and inspiration of atmosphere have won him as a permanent resident of Los Angeles. Mr. Goodwin is a past president of the Commercial Artists' Association of Southern California.

Sligh Furniture for Bedrooms Occupies National Pre-eminence

Sligh Bedroom Furniture, distributed exclusively in Los Angeles and vicinity by Barker Bros., has that indefinable something known as "character," yet is priced easily within reach of the average better home.

The group, illustrated above, takes its theme from the artistic designing of Heppelwhite—yet its construction is ultra-modern in the skill of execution and finish—its proportions are adapted to the modern American home—and its prices are extremely moderate with consideration of the quality.

Finish is of exquisitely toned enamel in Venetian gray, with panels of antique gold and uniquely shaped motifs and edgings of black. Varied floral decorations in rose and blue tones give a final witching touch.

Prices are: Dresser, 48-inch top, with large mirror, $175. Chifforobe, $175. Beds, full or twin size, $130. Full size Vanity, shown, $245. Junior Vanity, $175. Cabinet Desk, shown, $140. Chairs, Rockers, Benches, Night Stand and Mirrors may be had to match.

Barker Bros. Feature America's Foremost Makes Of Home Furnishings

Nearly half a century of searching for and selecting the best productions in furniture and home furnishings, has taught Barker Bros. the worth of nationally known makes. For time and discriminating public approval form an indisputable criterion of good taste and reliability.

With the almost limitless resources at our command and pre-eminence in our trade position, we are able always to offer Style of unquestionable excellence and authoritative origin and vogue, in those articles where that element is desired.

Quality may be depended upon invariably as a factor here, pre-determined in your favor and affording you always a safe and profitable return for the money you invest.

Prices will be found at Barker Bros., assuring you under any and all conditions, Value which makes your coming to this store a matter of wise decision.

And with Style, Quality and Value assured, you may also include among the inducements which contribute to your advantage, the important factor of Service, which at Barker Bros., has attained a degree of helpfulness and thoroughness not easily possible of duplication.

The grace and elegance of the Louis Quinze period are recalled in the patterning of the "Du Barry" Dining-Room group shown. But it proves its right to belong in a modern American home, by its sturdy construction from American walnut. All cabinet and chair panels and the apron of the table are of burl walnut with the grain beautifully brought out in the soft finish. Many of the finer details of construction are in this group—such as sliding silver drawers and two aproned leaves.

Beauty and Prices Welcome Comparison

When Spanish Cavaliers Dreamed True

A century and a half ago, when the plumed cavaliers from over the sea rested their horses on the spot where modern brick buildings now stand they dreamed of better homes—of comfort and beauty for their loved ones.

As the years have brought fame for many things to the Southland, pre-eminent has grown the title, "The Homeland of America."

And, with the progress of the times—whatever satisfaction in commercial success Barker Bros. may feel—that spirit is ever secondary to pride in having been able to help weave the pattern of the fulfillment of the dream of those who founded "the City of the Angels"—the dream of beautiful homes.

With the Help of Modern Science

Housekeeping has acquired great saving of time and energy—for those who wisely choose the "right" equipment.

"Napanee" Dutch Kitchenet, $68.50

Harrington Emerson—the famous "efficiency engineer"—in a recent contest—showed how the average housewife can save herself 1500 steps a day, while getting three meals in an average kitchen. A complete report may be seen on Barker Bros.' Sixth Floor—in the department with the "Napanee" Dutch Kitchenet"—that was the solution.

"Royal" Rental Club

To further acquaint the patrons of Barker Bros. with the services of the Vacuum Cleaner Department—"Royal" Electrical Cleaners may be rented. Telephone Pico 1840 or Automatic 10423—and ask for the Vacuum Cleaner Department.

"Free" Sewing Machine, $54.75

Reliable for use and attractive in appearance—in the wanted cabinet style—this machine is a Barker Bros' "extra good value"—at $54.75.

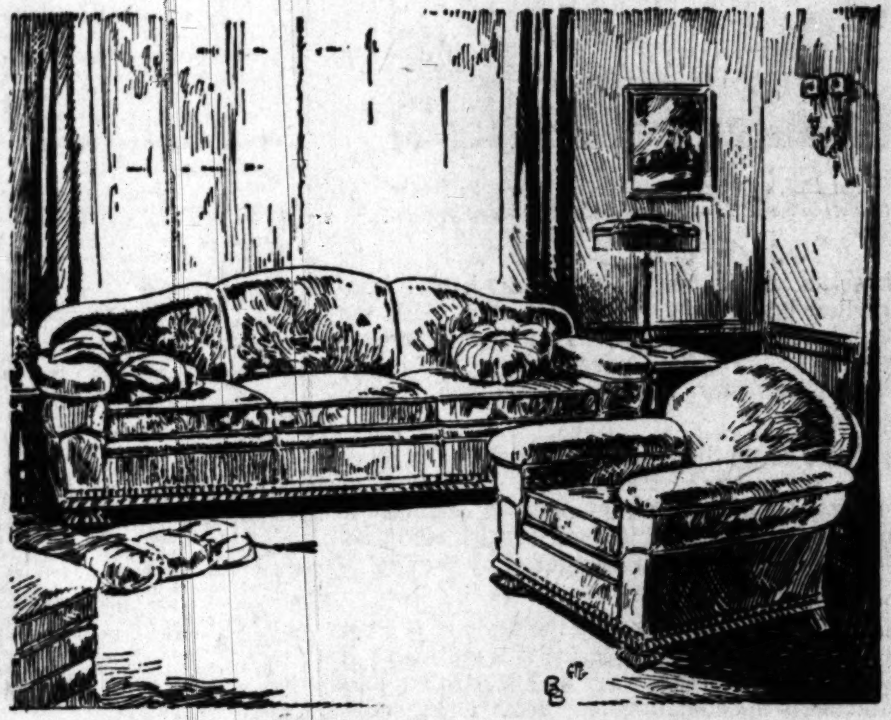
Two "Extra Pieces" at Extra Small Cost

Wrought Iron Bridge Lamps, $27.50

Gracefully designed—as only wrought iron can be—in several different styles—and touched with the rich colors, in keeping with old-world art—this new collection of Wrought Iron Lamp Standards finds equal favor for beauty and low cost.

"California Sunshine" Table, $14.25

A small round table of standard height, with top twenty-five inches in diameter; made of the best Quality Reed and attractively designed. Is suited admirably to many uses in almost any room. An uncommonly good value at the price quoted.



Clearance of $35,000 Over-stock of Distinctive Upholstered Furniture At 20% Off

This is thoroughly superior furniture—Davenports and Rockers of the best construction obtainable—webbing, spring edge and cushions of the kinds that stand the test of time and service.

Frames are well-built from carefully selected woods, designed after the better motifs of former periods and handsomely carved or exquisitely simple.

Upholstery fabrics are of taupe, blue and mulberry mohairs and velvets.

In fact, this is furniture known as "better."

Made by a Famous Eastern Firm and distributed in Los Angeles exclusively by Barker Bros.

But we have a large over-stock now which we wish to dispose of—so a straight discount of 20% is to be given—offering our patrons furniture of high character at the usual cost of the ordinary.

FADS, FANCIES OF THE GREAT

ty. You might not agree with him, but you were sure that he meant what he said and did.

Foreign artists have intense superstitions that seem strange to Americans. Three lighting a cigar from one match, a black cat, the distorted face of beggar, etc., will often ruin a performance for an artist who believes in the power of the evil eye.

Some symphony conductors are regular prima donnas when it comes to demands and mannerisms. Leopold Stokowsky carries fifteen suits of clothes, and a complete outfit for shampooing his hair, which takes up a whole suit case, is taken on every tour with the Philadephia Symphony Orchestra. Ossip Gabrilowitsch sometimes wears his fur coat when he conducts the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in a strange town, where he is afraid of draft.

Members of the Russian Grand Opera Company, each of whom is a stock holder, were warned when they began their tour, last December that they were wasting a great deal of money by refusing to take their suit cases and hand luggage with them in the taxicabs on their arrivals in different cities. During the last weeks of the tour in Philadelphia we posted a condensed statement of the company's affairs back stage. The cost of the transfer and hauling was questioned by many members of the company.

We explained that it would have been about $100 less in each city had each individual carried his own luggage. The company then asked what each piece of baggage had cost. Pointing to a hat box containing three hats belonging to one of the conductors, they asked what that had cost the company in transfer fares. On being told this innocent little box valued at about $12 had cost $62 in hauling charges in three months, six husky chorus men, with shouts like wild Indians, jumped on the box and smashed it to bits, hats and all. Other members of the company, when informed of the incident, took their turns in punishing the box, while the conductor-owner refused to lift his baton that night.

One of the most humorous, if slightly embarrassing, incidents of the Russian Opera tour happened one night during the Chicago engagement. On the opening night one of the chorus men had attempted to commit suicide, by stabbing himself with a pair of manicure scissors. This caused a lot of excitement, as the noise of his fall was heard all over the house. The next night as the critics arrived, they asked what excitement had been provided, and I remarked "wait and see," knowing that the Russians usually staged some excitement every day.

In the "Tsar's Bride," which was given that night, the ballet does a bit of wild Cossack dancing.

The chief ballerina, a very lovely girl, wears a man's Cossack uniform, with trousers. During one of the whirls, unknown to her she lost the lower member of her suit. Being in motion, she did not notice it for a moment, but the audience did. A roar of applause in the wrong place was her first warning. Making a grab for the offending trousers, she missed them, adding to the amusement of the audience. The papers next day stated that after she did get hold of them, she made the fastest time off stage known in those parts. It stopped the opera completely, those on the stage being as completely convulsed as was the very smart Chicago audience.

REVERSES PRECEDENT

Larry Semon Was Director, Then Comedian

Many screen directors have won their directorial spurs via the grease-paint route, having been actors before starting to wield the megaphone. Larry Semon, however, has reversed the process, and was a director before he decided to woo the muse of mirth in person.

Larry was a cartoonist on the New York newspapers when his knowledge of art and sense of humor attracted the attention of J. Stuart Blackton, then the big chief of Vitagraph. Semon was placed under contract to direct comedies, and after several pictures, in which he showed other people how to be funny, he decided to take a fling at fun-making himself, with the result that he is now one of the highest salaried comedians in the business.

Sid Grauman, who has signed for the new Semon series starting with "Golf," is said to have paid the highest rental for the Semon films ever paid for a comedian's efforts, with the possible exception of Charlie Chaplin.

CAREY AT WORK.

Has Begun Third Starring Picture for F. B. O.

Harry Carey has started production on "The One Man," his third starring vehicle for F. B. O. release, at the R-C studios.

"The One Man" is an adaption of the well-known story of the same name by Elizabeth Dejeas, which appeared in the "Blue Book" magazine.

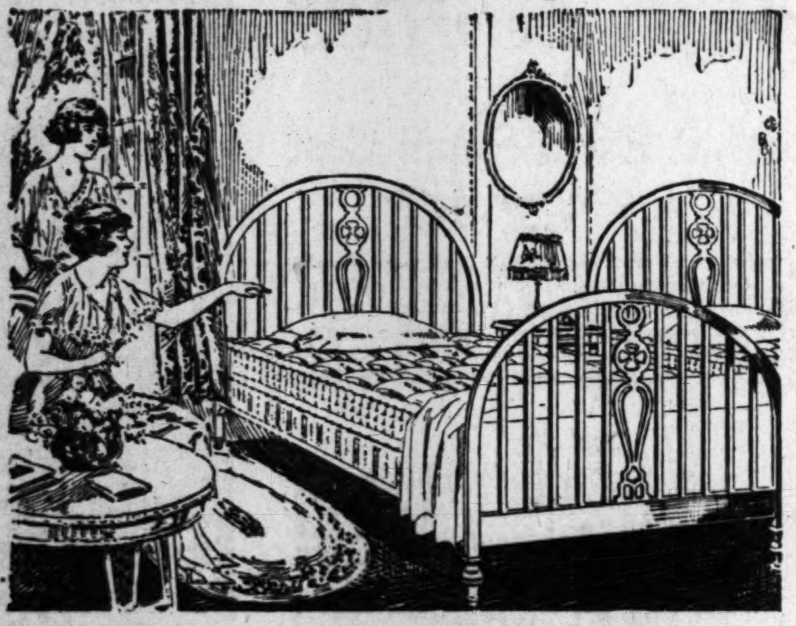
Vola Vale, the young woman who played opposite Carey in "Good Men and True," recently completed, again is cast in the leading feminine role in "The One Man." Cullen Landis, who is soon to be starred in a series of special productions for F.B.O. release, plays one of the important roles.

In the supporting cast of Carey's latest starring vehicle are included also such well-known players as Myrtle Steadman, Charles J. LeHoyne, Winifred Bryson, Joseph Harris and Donald MacDonald. The cast is not fully completed and two or three important players are to be added within the next few days.

BOARD PRAISES NINE

In its latest bulletin of asterisk pictures selected for special merit, the National Board of Review names nine feature productions as worthy of commendation to film patrons. Two of these, placed at the top as particularly exceptional achievements, are the Charles Ray-United Artists production, "A Tailor-Made Man" and "Above All Law," formerly titled "Mysteries of India." One other, Elmer Clifton's "Down to the Sea in Ships," is recommended as having special appeal to young people. The other selections of the Board of Review are "Burning Sands" (Paramount,) "The Siren Call" (Paramount,) "Hope" (Hodgkinson,) "Skin Deep" (First National,) "Dusk to Dawn" (Pathe) and "Till We Meet Again" (Pathe.)

The Economy of Sleeping Intelligently

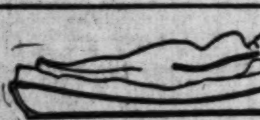


Illustrating the new Simmons Windsor Bed, sold in Los Angeles exclusively by Barker Bros., the largest single retail distributors in the world of Simmons Metal Beds and Springs.

The money invested in a correct, scientific, restful bed comes back a hundredfold in the buoyancy and vigor brought by wholesome sleep. To the bread winner, this means actual dollars and cents. To anyone it means freedom from many annoying minor ills which upset our physical and mental comfort and well being, if not more serious ones which require special treatment.

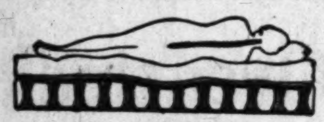
When one considers the large part of the body's work which takes place during sleep—the restoring of oxygen to the tissues—the completion of digestion—the replacing of nerve, brain and muscle cells—it certainly is an important matter to have the kind of bed which will furnish complete relaxation so that these vital processes can go on unhindered by the slightest strain.

Only the correct springs and mattress which will carry the body in perfect alignment and gently support every curve line will insure this undisturbed repose, and Barker Bros.' Individualized Box Springs and Mattresses and the Simmons Coil Springs, made to our specifications, are scientifically constructed according to sleep-promoting principles, yet are usually lower in price than the ordinary commercial article.



Hindered Relaxation

Note upper curve of the body—hip and shoulder almost together, ribs telescoped inside the hip. Then note the lower line of the body—hips and ribs stretched apart. See the crescent-shaped spinal column through which all nerve sensation is transmitted to the brain. Imagine the tension on millions of nerves protesting to the brain! And the strain on the muscular system caused by the hammock-shaped surface of the bed. This posture is the greatest cause of unrefreshed sleep and the result of the wrong type of bed.



Perfect Relaxation

Note how the coils support the waistline—the body rests in its natural curve lines—the spinal column is held in proper alignment. The bed is correct because, no matter what the position of the sleeper, the tension of the springs carries the body straight, never allowing it to sink beyond the natural curve lines. Springs are so tied that each coil acts independently of the other, insuring perfect-fitting qualites—and complete relaxation.
The mattress has the proper resilient filling and weight.

THE NEW

IN STORES AND HOMES

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS

By Olive Gray

Up-to-datest:

The Parisian walk — or shall we say the "sway Parisienne?" Like the swinging of a slender flower upon a long, pliant stem, is the progress of Milady who affects the latest mode.

To exercise ingenuity in regard to fabrics, as do the Paris makers, who have even gone so far as to make gowns of satin with the wrong side out, thereby presenting a surface novel and effective. This manner of making up materials is especially good in wraps where the lining becomes a finish equal to any which might be set in.

Self materials forming the trimming of hats, particularly those of black or colored velvet, whereon the fabric formed into roses, creates a charming ensemble.

"Fan Shape"

"Fan shape" has become a meaningless term, with the advent of the new breezers. Many of the new fans are anything but "fan shaped" in former acceptation of that expression. They are rounded, square, oblong—everything and anything known to geometrical design, in fact. And the material are everything from gauze to feathers, from real gems to gaudy sparklers, with—of course—a sprinkling of regulation straw fans, hand-painted or otherwise embellished.

Tagged

Yes, tagged! This properly expresses the use of ribbon on many of the new frocks and blouses. Tags of gibbon, pointed at the ends, or rounded, or finished with tiny tassels, form phalanxes of trimming set on in bands, up and down, or around, or edging these modish garments. The ribbons may be either of the same shade or in contrast, a favorite being scarlet and blue on navy, or crimson on white, with a full quota of black for the background of brown, beige or blue.

"Tarnished" a Term Endearing

"Tarnished silver," "tarnished gold," "tanished copper!" These have become terms of endearment in the couturial world, since the craze for cloths and laces of such metallic weave, whose luster has been purposely dimmed, according to the most recent whim of Fashion. Sometimes we call these metallic effects "antique," or "old;" but "tarnished" really has the most authority in modish parlance.

That Lost Waist-line

After long wandering, the waist-line made a vague attempt to find a resting place; but changed its mind and some of the most recent creations in both the one-piece dress and the coat, present a waist-line more undiscoverable than ever. The very obvious blouse, quite concealing the waistline altogether, has added to its unfindaibility. In fact few women now know that they possess a waist-line, the hip line having usurped this one-time geographical zone.

Children's Dresses

Although it did not seem possible, dresses for children have become even more than ever abbreviated, reaching scarcely half way between the shoulder and the knee, in many cases. That there is a sort of dancing daintiness in such frocks, no one will deny.

Aunt Jane Says:

"To refresh the bristles of your floor brush, make a strong solution of baking soda and water and immerse them for several minutes." She declares that the brush will be as good as new, after this bath.

New Over-Blouses

Truly things of beauty are the new over-blouses shown in leading local stores. Many take on the semblance of strange foreign garments by reason of all-over embroidery in mingled colorings; others are banded at hip-line and upon sleeves and collar by luxurious stitchery. Panels float from neck-line to a low belt-line upon other blouses, these intended for wear with those popular little tailleurs, which Fashion refuses to relinquish. Some blouses blend with skirts in general tone, others are in vivid contrast thereto.

Both Colonial and Strapped

The return of the colonial pump is not the sign for bringing forth old shoes. By no means! The new colonials have the pointed tongue, to be sure, but that tongue is tied—by means of a strap extending from each corner to the ankle. Thus we manage to combine in a single style of foot-wear two salient features and two features well liked and becoming to most feet.

Flame geranium flowers trim a turned-up hat of knitted red wool.

Pale shades of violet and amethyst are good for evening wear.

Persian patterns embroidered in vivid colors are seen among newest veils.

Hand embroidery instead of machine work is seen on a smart black coatee.

The normal waistline and short baby sleeve are features of the black lace frock.

Deep pockets are distinctly novel when set on a wrap just above the knee line.

Bands of coral embroidery are effective on a gown of black crepe Marocain.

Much embroidery appears on the basque waist of some frocks, the skirt being plain.

Square ornaments of imitation stones decorate the evening gown of metal fabric.

Ribbon ornaments are used on hats to match the gowns with which they are worn.

Carpet embroidery in stripe effect is considered good as trimming for sreet costumes.

The bateau neckline is still the most favored. Occasionally it is narrowly collared.

As for the cape that is a part of the costume—Paris says they are to be quite short.

The slightly corseted figure has returned with the long skirts and draped silhouette.

Panne velvet with matched Spanish lace makes many fall afternoon and dinner dresses.

Coats are wide through the upper part, but closely drawn about the lower part of the figure.

Duchess Stella De Lanti

HAVE TITLES, ALSO JOBS

[illegible] were depleted by the havoc [illegible] war and my husband's health [illegible] wrecked by his experiences at [illegible] front, we decided to try our [illegible] in California. We started as [illegible] but one day Mme. Elinor [illegible] selected me as a perfect [illegible] type—yes, English, my [illegible]" with a little laugh.

Though Italian of the purest [illegible], from the top of her burnished titian hair to the tip of her patrician foot, the Duchess is [illegible] English type. An Italian with titian hair? Well, you'll have to ask the Duchess about that [illegible]. And I have heard it said that marriage does do strange things to people.

"But we're playing parts. America has been marvelously good to [illegible]."

[illegible] add that America has reason to be proud of Stella, Duchess De Lanti. For she left her title at [illegible]. She is known hereabouts [illegible] "Mrs. Fenwick Oliver" or as "Stella De Lanti" and she may be [illegible] up, swinging on the strap [illegible] evening while you occupy [illegible] the homeward-bound [illegible].

AN IRISH PEER

The Earl of Glandore—you may [illegible] him as "Mayor Talbot [illegible]," the name he wears hereabouts—is an Irish peer not without [illegible] in his own country. For, [illegible] paving contractor before the [illegible] he replaced the picturesque [illegible] decidedly muddy streets of [illegible] with modern asphalt, thereby winning the gratitude of his [illegible] people and the ire of American tourists who save their money [illegible] trip to see the town's quaint[illegible] and are rewarded with as [illegible] as they have at home. "I came over here, partly to go [illegible] business—but found that Los [illegible] could show me a thing or [illegible] about paving," he paid us [illegible] compliment. "So far I [illegible] discovered even a country [illegible] in need of macadam," the Earl [illegible], with a dry little chuckle. [illegible] partly to convalesce from [illegible] received in the campaign [illegible] Palestine, from which experience I yet retain in my head a [illegible], a fragrant of a bomb. [illegible] no streets to be paved, I [illegible] an actor in the films. And [illegible] soon to renounce my title [illegible] out papers of American [illegible]."

[illegible], do you know, I believe that [illegible] just meant what he said, for [illegible] a straightforward way about [illegible] that matches up well with our [illegible] of a business man.

AN ANCIENT TITLE

Then there's Count Henri d'Ab[illegible] d'Arnet—who will have to [illegible] a few of his d's and so-forths [illegible] intends to put himself permanently on an American's pay [illegible]. At present the Count is acting as technical director at the [illegible] studio. His title was bestowed upon one of his ancestors [illegible] 1100 A.D., and his estates [illegible] are among the oldest in [illegible] country.

[illegible] Carillo has been on the [illegible] for some time, which fact [illegible] the flappers in the [illegible]. But when they discover [illegible] is none other than the [illegible] Mario Caracciolo, until recently captain of the King's [illegible]—you know, those nifty [illegible] like the doormen at our [illegible], the grandest sights [illegible]—there will be a run on [illegible] pink stationery; I hesitate to think what will happen to [illegible] fluttering little hearts. I [illegible] him out to one little gurgling wide-eyed doll-baby the [illegible] day and she hasn't yet recovered to her usual state of almost [illegible]. Every day she [illegible] close by Monte [illegible] out in ecstatic admiration. [illegible] Count is Monte's best [illegible] and guest at present—[illegible] when she knew him as Mario Carillo he failed to [illegible] her heart at all.

DECORATIONS AND ALL THAT

[illegible] friend of C—excuse me, [illegible] Carillo's—informed me that [illegible] amiable compatriot during the [illegible] a dozen and a half decorations, all shapes, colors and insignia, take your choice—including the highest honors given by [illegible] French and Montenegrin governments.

[illegible] father, the Duke of Maltio, [illegible] my cousin, the Prince Di'-[illegible], serve in the Italian [illegible] Corps," the Count told [illegible]. "And I, who [illegible] that my new rose-colored [illegible] and my marvelous strand [illegible] near-pearls should subjugate [illegible], was duly impressed. [illegible] and near-pearls mean [illegible] in the Count's life. My [illegible] at present Ambassador [illegible]. Then having laid [illegible] the family [illegible], the Count added, "But I myself wish to be known merely as Mario Carillo."

A laudable desire, very laudable. Duchesses are as common hereabouts as dishwashers and you may mistake a cashier for a Count any day or vice versa. But when I meet a Count who admits frankly that he wants to be just Mr. Somebody, I'm for him. That is, provided he continues to forget he was born with a coronet atop his fuzzy little head and a golden spoon in place of the w.k. reliable nipple.

CAME FOR A LARK

And of course, we must not forget that charming trio, Sir Frank Popham Young and his aristocratic lady, and Lady Sackville West, who have been in pictures here for some months. They came to the prancing pastels as a lark but were so delighted with the work that you couldn't drive them away now. And who wants to? Not I, as I contrast their stately grace with the imitations of our seven-fifty-per extras. I only wish they would draft a few more of their friends to act the correct atmospheric background to our own stars' palatial picture-homes.

The paths of these distinguished foreigners have not been strewn with flowers. No, Los Angeles did not welcome them with open arms and a fanfare of trumpets. Partly because they slipped in incognito, desirous not of publicity, but only of the opportunity to earn their livings. If a Duchess doesn't proclaim her rank to the world and demand that the world do her homeage, the busy, workaday world won't stop in its revolution to find out who is titled and who isn't.

CORONETS AND BULL-PENS

But, once it discovers that a certain hard-working figure is the bearer of an ancient title, haloed with historic romance, that figure instantly attracts prominence in the public eye. And the world begins to copy its hair-dress or its manner. We elevate our own idols. And, though we may—as George Ade says — immediately look around for a brickbat, at any rate the publicity is a great help to the deserving idol and does us no harm.

Yes, it is a quite a considerable distance between the baronial halls of Europe and the mob-lots of the movie extras, between the spacious estates of England's nobility and the "bull-pen," which gentle appellation indicates the long, crowded room in which these extras dress and make up; between wearing the ornate trappings and red ribbons of a count of Italy and selling automobile insurance to owners of Fords.

But these scions of nobility—and scionesses, if that's what you call 'em in the plural—have made the trade and won our respect for their efforts alone. So I suggest that we good, born-on-the-farm Americans extend them the silver-plated badge of fellowship to add to their other and more ornate decorations.

CONFESSIONS OF A NEAR TURK

hotel—I believe it was in Davenport, Iowa. It was a small hotel—about four stories high and had but one elevator. When the bell boy escorted me into the elevator, I waited until I got up to the second floor; then I took my valise away from the boy; put him out of the car; put the elevator operator out after him; shut the door behind them; spread my faithful rug on the elevator floor; took off my clothes and went to sleep. The hotel people almost rang the bell out of joint. About half the police force of the town was on the job before they finally got me out, me protesting all the time that it was my house and I had a right to sleep there.

Another time I went into a telephone booth in a big hotel and took down the receiver. When the girl asked for the number I told her "I want I should talk to my brother." She kept yelling "Number" at me and I kept yelling back that I wanted to talk to my brother. I kept telling her what he looked like: how he was a "beeg, tall man with litta mustache."

Finally they sent three policemen around and dragged me away, me all the while expostulating frantically and demanding to talk to my brother.

JACK JOHNSON'S TRUNK

On a certain occasion I was traveling with Jack Johnson's show and my innocent Turkish nature stood me in good stead—also the big negro.

On account of a lawsuit the sheriff had attached the trunks, and the show couldn't go on without them to the next town for which we headed. I simply picked up the biggest trunk—Jack Johnson's—and walked down to the station with it. When the hotel porters tried to interfere I flourished a big bread knife I always carried. When the sheriff's men came I set up a big jabber about my trunk and my country and my brother; all the time I kept edging away and sliding off toward the train. They never did stop me and I got away with the trunk because nobody could make my simple Turkish self understand why I should not have my trunk, which cost "nine dollars and the half a one."

A TURKISH MYSTIC

I didn't always stick to wrestling.

At one time we got a most unhappy inspiration to play me up as an eastern mystic—a hypnotic, touched with strange mysteries of the Near East.

All we really did was to put on a regulation hypnotist show, with me balanced on the backs of chairs, etc., in my Turk pants.

I don't know how real hypnotists feel about it, if there are any such; but I can testify that it hurts considerable.

We got into a college town where there were a lot of college boys and professors of an inquiring nature. They stuck hat pins through my cheeks, burned me with the lighted ends of cigars and tortured me in various ways.

How did I do it? I just had to stand for it. Of course it hurt like thunder; just try sticking a hatpin through your face. But if we had fallen down on these tests it would have been all off with the tour. I just had to grin and bear it.

BURIED ALIVE

Finally some one suggested that they bury me alive; they said that all Mohammedans had the power to leave their bodies behind in coffins while their souls frisked around outside.

My manager accepted the proposition with alacrity. You can imagine how I felt about it. He was unable to get me enthused.

"It's a great gag, Joe," he said. "We'll have the coffin made pretty large, so you can get air at the head and feet and turn around a little. They demand that we seal it up with asphalt; but we'll have some secret air holes that they don't know about. It won't be so hard—nothing to do but just lie there."

It wasn't my idea of an afternoon of joy and laughter; but I had to go through with it. I thought, when I got in there and they covered me up with the dirt that the manager wasn't in any furious hurry about taking me out, and I got to wondering what was detaining him. I found out afterward that he had eloped with the box office receipts and left me down there.

PRETENDED TO BE DEAD

When they finally dug me out, I pretended to be dead. The "professor" made the usual magic passes over me, but he couldn't bring me to. I just lay there and pretended to be comatose.

"I'm afraid," said the professor, "that we left him there too long." He got just the right shake in his voice. That idea was a knock out. Word ran around the town that they couldn't bring me to and that I was dying, or dead, or something queer. The whole town flocked in at $1 a throw to see me die.

The professor finally sent for a doctor, who was in on the gag, and he said I must be taken to another place where he would operate on me. Accordingly, they bundled up my stiff form and took me in a galloping ambulance to another big hall, where the operation would take place. Of course the whole town followed and we charged them $1 a head to get in again.

OLD HORSE FRIEND

Of course I wasn't always a Turk. Sometimes I varied the stunt by being a Kreek or an Italian.

I found that the American people will pay to see anybody but an American.

If you plaster some rag time English around and pretend to be a boob immigrant they will fall over themselves to give you money.

One time in a big Middle West city, I went up to fashionable carriage that I saw waiting at the curb, and tried to take away one of the horses. I was doing a strong man Turkish act at the time.

I fell on the horse's neck and cried and said it had been my little pony when I was a child in Turkey. The groom slashed at me with a whip; but I got underneath the horse and raised him off his feet and said I was going to carry him away; I wasn't going to have my little playmate horse raised by strangers. As usual the police were called out; none of my stunts were any good unless they wound up at the police station; there was where I found the publicity.

On another occasion I went into the fashionable district of a big middle west city and knocked at the door of a fashionable residence and demanded to see my manager. When they ordered me away I went around the yard calling "Oh manager; oh manager." Then I sat down and cried and cried on their front steps. I kept that up until the familiar sound of the approaching patrol wagon was heard upon the evening breeze.

Say I have been hammered on the head by police billies until I wore out the clubs.

Well, if the real Turks are as tough as I became, it is going to be some war over there.

To Break Glass Evenly

If you have occasion to break glass and desire it to be even, soak a piece of string in turpentine and tie it around the glass where you wish the break to be. Then fill the glass with cold water even with the string, set fire to the string and the glass will snap off evenly.

The "OK-LA" Stay-Wave makes the hair stay waved! Sold at drug stores and at toilet or notion sections of department stores.

Sleeves are the chief feature of the fall dresses.

Fetching little frocks for little girls—cunning new school models which will delight them are created at the Children's Shop, 2308 S. Union. Also made to order—your materials or theirs. Phone 21860.

Much gold and metal lace is used on both hats and frocks.

Why have gray hair? Nature turns hair gray and nature will restore it to its natural color through the manipulation of the nerves of the head and the vertebrae of the spine. This stimulates the nerve centers and the circulation of blood through the scalp. Nothing artificial is used in this treatment, which cures oily, brittle or falling hair, dandruff and baldness. Do not hesitate to call—consultation free and trial treatment 50 cents this week. Miss McLean, scalp specialist, Marie's Beauty Shoppe, 636 Loew's State Bldg. Phone 824033. Open Wednesday evenings.

Large black velvet hats are gaining in favor!

Darling of the Gods Bleach Cream, the instantaneous beautifier, gives your skin that dull, exquisite whiteness and affords a wonderful base for your powder. It does not peel. At Bullock's, the Indian Store, 621 South Hill, and Bessie L. Barber, Suite 311, Loew's State Bldg. Phone 19985.

A wig of gold threads which is used as a boudoir cap is an importation cleverly conceived.

Co-operation of Author is a Vital Need

Direct co-operation between author and producer is one of the most effective agencies toward betterment of motion-picture production. The author of a novel has in many cases made extensive research on the manners, costumes, customs of the characters in his story, and of the architecture, climate and geography prevailing in the country or countries in which his story is laid. In many cases the author has actually experienced and observed such details in person. Thus he is in a position to offer very valuable suggestions and advice to the producers.

A striking instance of such co-operation is contained in a long, detailed memorandum from Stephen French Whitman, author of a new novel, "Sacrifice," to the producers, prepared for them when they were just about to begin production operations on the screen version of that picture. This Paramount picture, which presents Mary Miles Minter in the starring role, supported by a cast of talented players, including M. B. (Lefty) Flynn, George Fawcett, Robert Cain, Casson Ferguson, Bertram Grassby and Noble Johnson, has just begun under the direction of Charles Maigne.

Mr. Whitman, in his memorandum, made many very interesting suggestions, cited references substantiating the facts disclosed, and where other facts more necessary to screen production than to novel writing—detailed descriptions of costumes, architecture, types—might be obtained.

"Regarding the costume and stature of Hamoud, the Arab servant character, played by Bertram Grassby, Mr. Whitman notes:

"Hamoud is a Zanzibar Arab and his costume is quite different from that of the usual (desert) Arab. Pictures of it can be found in 'Zanzibar,' by F. B. Pearce. Frontispiece: The full costume, dagger and turban, but omit the sash hanging diagonally over the shoulder and the orders which were conferred on the subject of this photograph by European governments.

"Please note, however, that Hamoud wears the white skull cap all the while he is in David Verne's house in America and that it is not till he begins his journey into the jungle that he puts on the turban. Also, while he is in America and en route to Africa, he wears soft leather shoes; but when he starts into the jungle he wears sandals on his bare feet. Please note that Hamoud is only very little swarthier than an European. He would naturally wear a very slight moustache and beard; but this, of course, is optional."

A few miles southeast of Syracuse, N. Y., in a cavity whose bottom is 220 feet below the surface of the adjacent upland lies Jamesville Lake, a body of water 500 feet in diameter and about sixty feet in depth. Eastward from the lake extends a gorge through which flows Butternut Creek. One authority says that in former times a river flowed here, and that Jamesville Lake is the pool that was formed under a great waterfall. Steep cliffs rise around it on three sides, and all the features of a dry Niagara are here disclosed in great detail.—[Washington Star.

Hats With Burnt Peacock

LOVELY harbingers of winter have just been received at Robinson's to be on display for the first time Monday.

Black is the color best represented, for its correctness in hats will be undisputed during the coming season. But lovely browns, ranging from beige to the dark, rich wood shades are also in evidence. Panne velvet, silk velvet and hatters' plush are used as the charming basis for trimming of burnt peacock or uncurled ostrich.

Sketched is a Hat of hatters' Plush, with the new high crown and slightly drooping brim. Burnt peacock across the front is the very effective trimming.

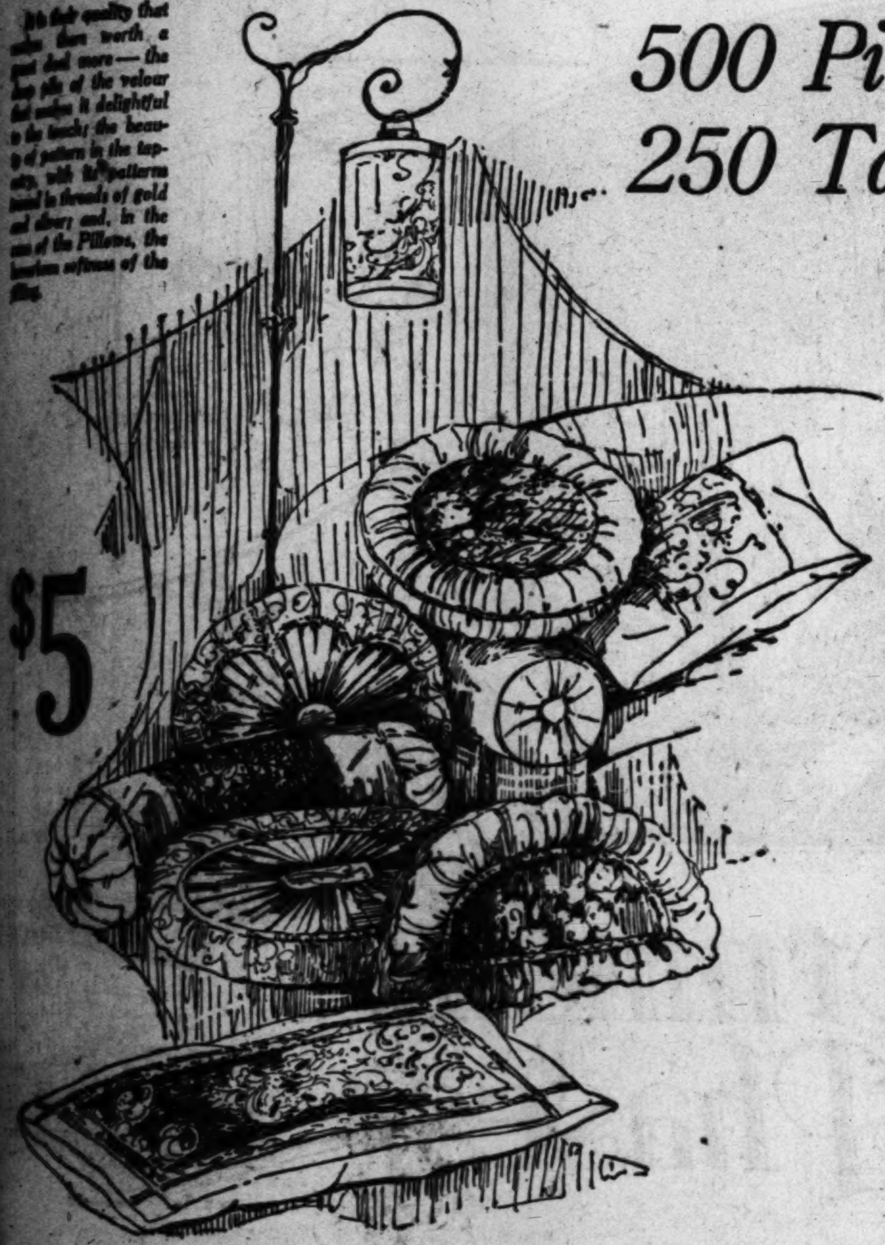
500 Pillows Combining Velour and Tapestry $5
250 Table Scarfs to Harmonize with Them $5

It is their quality that makes them worth a great deal more—the deep pile of the velour that makes it delightful to the touch; the beauty of pattern in the tapestry, with its patterns [illegible] in threads of gold and silver; and, in the case of the Pillows, the luxurious softness of the filling.



The Pillows and Scarfs assume the burden of proof that five dollars has an exceptional purchasing power.

The Styles of Pillows: Floor Pillows in extra size; round with shirred or pleated velour sides and tapestry tops, edged with gold braid; bolsters; long oblong Pillows with tapestry panel; half ovals, something new for the davenport, and many others. Predominant colors: Rose, mulberry, Delft blue, a deeper blue, brown and black.

The Scarfs: They are mostly 18 inches wide and 48, 54 and 60 inches long. Some have plain rectangular lines, with the inset of tapestry running lengthwise; some have broad bands of tapestry at the ends and arranged crosswise through the center; some have curved ends with the tapestry in a very interesting design; eight patterns from which to choose. The scarfs are substantially lined.

The description of one Pillow in detail may give a general impression of the colorings to be found in both the Pillows and Scarfs.

This particular Pillow, selected at random, is an oblong 16x24 inches. The sides are of shirred velour in a rich, warm blue.

The tapestry top has flowers and buds in rose, orchid and gold, with foliage of Copen, gray, orchid and gold—all this upon a black ground.

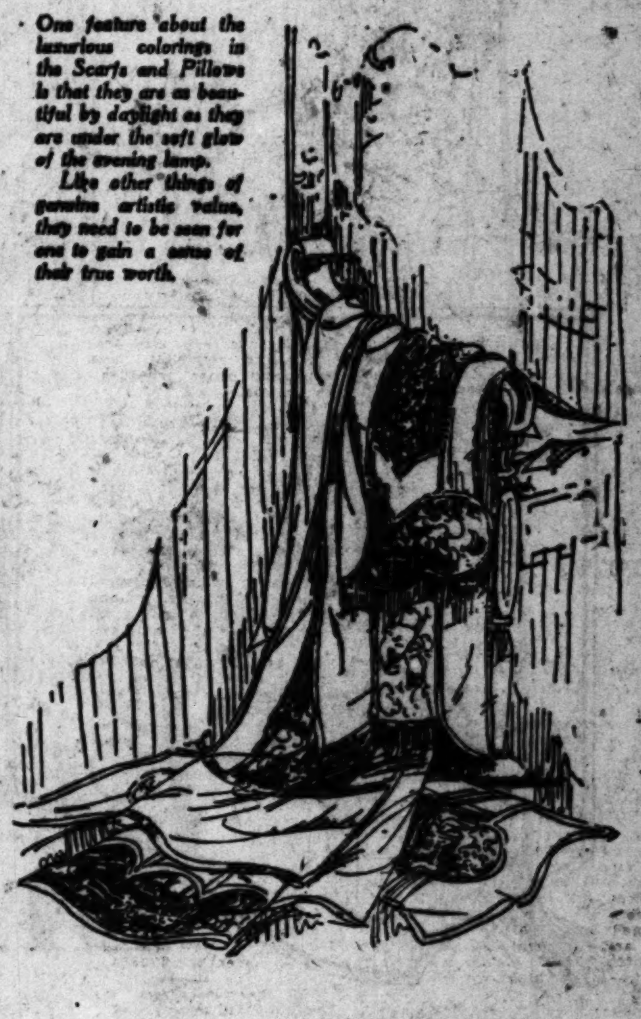
See the Pillows and Scarfs in the windows over Sunday. This will be one of the most remarkable Sales ever held in the Art Needlework Section. These living-room accessories were made specially for Robinson's and specially for this event, with rigid specifications about materials and workmanship of a high order.

For Monday, all these Scarfs and Pillows will be priced at $5.00.

SECOND FLOOR

One feature about the luxurious colorings in the Scarfs and Pillows is that they are as beautiful by daylight as they are under the soft glow of the evening lamp.

Like other things of genuine artistic value, they need to be seen for one to gain a sense of their true worth.



Cheney's Chiffon Velvets Extraordinarily Low $5.85

600 yards of Cheney's Chiffon Velvets will be one of the beautiful displays which are at the same time remarkable sales, at Robinson's on Monday.

Velvet is the acknowledged sovereign of fabrics for the coming season, and no woman who keeps abreast of the mode can afford to overlook this offering.

In the following shades: amaranth, redwood, rose, coral, cherry, lava, sapphire, wine, orchid, gris, lilac, aster, azalea, Labrador, navy, gunmetal, taupe, American Beauty, National, gold, jade, turquoise, brown, marigold, fuchsia, mallard, orange, midnight blue and others.

Cheney's Chiffon Velvet, 41½ inches wide, $5.85 a yard, at Robinson's on Monday.

SECOND FLOOR

New Wool Fabrics For Fall Apparel

LORETTA CLOTH, one of the new soft pile fabrics, is most effective for wraps of every kind; it is heavy enough to fall in graceful lines, yet not so heavy as to be burdensome to its wearer.

In taupes, browns, blues and black. 54 inches wide, $6 a yard.

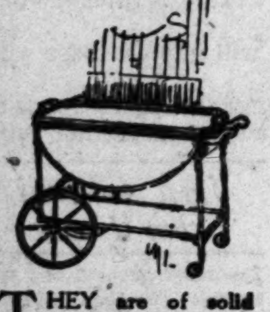
Wool Duvetyn is an elastic term embracing all those finer Wool materials which differ from ordinary Wool fabrics as silk differs from cotton.

The new colors are well represented—as well as blues and blacks. 54 inches wide; prices begin at $5.50 a yard.

A new group of Flaked Scotch Tweeds has been received by Robinson's just in time for presentation to Monday shoppers. In grays, tans and browns; 60 inches wide, $3.50 a yard.

SECOND FLOOR

26 Tea Wagons Underpriced $29.75



THEY are of solid mahogany and walnut in two styles—one as illustrated and another in Queen Anne style, having leaves that are irregularly oval and curved legs. Both styles have removable glass trays and a drawer for silver.

For Monday these Tea Wagons will be offered at a price so low as to be almost unbelievable—$29.75.

for Beauty's Adornment in Her Versatile Phases

Elizabeth Arden's Preparations

Miss Arden's Preparations are handled exclusively by J. W. Robinson Co. in this city.

Miss Arden teaches the art of make-up as it is founded on good sense and good taste; and, most important of all, she teaches the cultivation of a fine skin and a clear complexion, for what is lovelier than a beautiful skin, exquisite in texture and brilliantly clear?

Among the Arden Preparations to be found here, all of which are composed of purest ingredients, are the items appearing in the four columns below:

Venetian Special Astringent

Its use is to firm and tighten the skin, and is made from rare imported herbs. It tones the muscles, gives new life to relaxed flesh and reduces puffiness under the eyes ......$2.25, $4.00 and $22.50.

Arden's Face Powders

All the skin treatment in the world is wasted if the powder is not right. It must not be coarse. A pure, fine powder will enhance the beauty of the skin and prove positively beneficial.

Miss Arden's Face Powders are pure and fine. One of these is Venetian Flower Powder, which comes in six shades; Poudre Marechal Neil, which has a captivating fragrance and Poudre De Lilas. $1.75 and $3.

Venetian Beauty Sachets

Are a great help in freeing the skin of blackheads, bringing them to the surface and making it easy to remove them. The Beauty Sachets are first dipped in hot water. Box of 16 Sachets................$2.75

Arden's Poudre D'Illusion

A day powder made for those who wish quality and exclusiveness. It is "just heavy enough." Scented vaguely and charmingly. The color is a perfect skin color. Per box $3.00

Venetian Lille Lotion

This is a good Liquid Powder which removes blemishes, possesses aseptic qualities and is a perfect protection against sun, wind and freckling. Women in the Southland find it especially beneficial. It gives a beautiful, natural finish to the face, neck and arms for evenings. It does not rub off in the contact and exertion of dancing. Four tints, including Spanish Rachel, $1.50 and $2.50.

Venetian Orange Skin Food

To a dry skin inclined to wrinkle and for thin faces which need fattening, this cream is a positive rejuvenator. It is a deep tissue builder of unusual potency. In five sizes, beginning in price at..........$1.75, $2.75, $4.25 and $8.00.

Venetian Rouge Amoretta

This is a cream rouge that gives a beautifully soft, natural glow to the cheeks. A particularly good rouge for a dry, sensitive skin. Effective in the evening when a bright fresh color is desired. ......Pot, $2.50 and $4.50

Venetian Ardena Skin Tonic

It might be called a skin stimulant from the fact that it brings life, fervor to every skin cell. It is effective for toning, firming and whtening the skin, imparting smoothness and brilliancy to the complexion. It checks enlarged pores. The Ardena Skin Tonic and Venetian Cleansing Cream are a combination much to be preferred to soap and water. Per bottle, 85c, $2.00, $3.75 and $9.

Amoretta Cream

Concocted by a Frenchman, it is a valuable aid to those who have difficulty in retaining powder on the face. It is one of the best foundation creams available ....$.1.00 and $2.00

Venetian Velva Cream

Velva Cream is not a fattening cream, but a delightful refining cream made especially for dry or tender skin requiring gentle nourishing treatment. Four sizes, beginning at........$1.00, $2.00, $3.00 and $6.00.

Venetian Cleansing Cream

A smooth cream that liquifies quickly, taking every particle of dust and foreign matter out of the pores. The fact that it liquifies so quickly prevents any stretching of the skin whatsoever. It is to be applied freely over face, neck and arms. $1.00, $2.00, $3.00 and $6.00.

Venetian Muscle Oil

Venetian Muscle Oil nourishes and restores the virility of the facial muscles. This magic oil feeds and fills out sunken features, softening mature lines mouth and eyes............$1.00, $2.50 and $4.00.

Imported Henna Shampoo

Evan Williams Henna Shampoo is made in England and is one of the most satisfactory shampoos available.

It comes in three grades: Simple Henna Shampoo, for general use, just brightening the hair; Graduated Henna Shampoo, giving auburn tints and chestnut tones to brown hair and Special Tunisian Henna Shampoo, which is put up in five shades: Blond, Light Brown, Brown, Dark Brown and Black. $1.25 a package.

Imported Astringent: Amandine

Amandine, prepared in the Institut de Beaute de Paris, is an almond-perfumed powder, which, when used as a wash, produces a slight suction on every pore, emptying each pore of its contents of foreign substance. It cleanses thoroughly, acts as an astringent and reduces large pores $3.00

Lait Candes From France

The Antephelic or Candes Milk removes freckles, sunburn, chaps, efflorescences, discolorations and so forth.

This imported lotion is one of the best known products which Robinson's carry. It is used as a soothing or stimulating lotion, according to the defects it is intended to cure or to prevent $2.00

Jean Vincent Bully's Toilet Vinaigre

For over one hundred years this dependable Toilet Water has been manufactured in France. The original formula as compounded by Jean Vincent Bully has been carefully followed. "Il previent et dissipe les rouguers du visage et rafraichit la peau." It is also delightful in the bath; is astringent in its properties and is of value in removing sunburn..........$1.25

Heading the Hosiery News With Chiffon and Medium Weight

Silk Stockings at $1.95

—First quality, mind you, full fashioned chiffon and medium weight silk stockings; the chiffon with the garter tops of fine lisle.

—These to be had in shades of gray only.

—The price is so much less than regularly that the quantity will be disposed of quickly.

—The medium weights are in silk to the top, toes and garter tops lined with lisle.

—To be had in black, brown and shades of gray. Sizes 8½ to 10.

—Sale price $1.95. Aisle 8.

Women's Fashioned Silk Stockings, $1.39

—Lustrous, pure thread silk stockings, made with tops, heels, toes and soles of lisle. In black, white and a few colors.

—Broken sizes. Small imperfections have brought their price down for the Month-End. Sizes 8½ to 10½.

Women's Fiber and Silk Stockings, $1

—These are in two-tone combinations in drop stitch effect. At this modest price there are also stockings of Glove Silk, in novelty rib; but in Brown only. Sizes 9 to 10, but not in every style. Some imperfect.

Silk Stockings, $1.00

—Unimportant imperfections make this price possible. The stockings are knitted of pure thread silk, but have lisle tops, heels, toes and soles. Sizes 9 to 10, but not in every style.

Sports Stockings, 69c

—Of Silk and Lisle Mixture, in attractive novelty stripes, in heather mixture with camel gray and periwinkle predominating. A bit imperfect; sizes 8½ to 10.

Women's Onyx Sample Stockings, 49c

—Full fashioned and semi-fashioned Stockings in fine lisle, in both chiffon and medium weights. There are lace-effect stockings in this group; and a few pairs of fiber in drop-stitch effect. There are also cotton stockings in this group; all are fully reinforced. There are black and colors in the assortment, but not in every style or size; sizes in the group ranging from 8½ to 10.

Children's Nazareth Waists, 35c, or 3 for $1

—Soft cotton fabric fashions these well-known waists for children. Well taped, with the necessary buttons and metal pin tubes for supporters. Sizes 2 to 15. Specially priced for the Month-End at 35c each or 3 for $1.00.

Children's ⅞-Length Socks, 29c

—Knitted of a fine quality of mercerized lisle in a novelty rib. Black may be had in sizes 8½ to 10; camel in size 10 only.

Children's ½-Length Silk Socks, 39c

—Pure thread silk socks in black, brown, white and gray. All have turnover cuffs striped pleasingly with colors. Sizes 4 1-2 to 9 1-2 in the assortment, but not in all styles and colors. A bit imperfect.

Children's Stockings, 15c

—Fine-ribbed, mercerized lisle, seamless stockings, reinforced where the wear comes. Black, white and brown, and sizes 5 to 9½, but not in each color. Imperfect.

The Broadway—Aisle Eight.

Women's Silk & Silk-and-Fiber Vests, $1.39

Low Price for the Month-End

—Fine-ribbed garments with a lustrous finish. Bodice style, with ribbon shoulder straps. Natural, pink and orchid in the assortment. Slight imperfections have brought their price down to $1.39 for the Month-End.

Women's Athletic Union Suits, 59c

—Fashioned from cotton fabrics in plain and fancy weaves, in pink and white; to be had in bodice-style, with wide athletic knees. Sizes 36 to 46, but not every size in each fabric—59c, however, is the price of all sizes.

Sample Line Women's Bloomers, 59c

—In the assortment are Bloomers of both plain and mercerized lisle fabrics; also of cotton. The majority have extra-large reinforcements; and are made with elastic at waist and knees. Black, white and pink represented, but not in all sizes and styles. Size range is broken.

Women's Union Suits, 65c

—These were purchased at a special price from a well-known maker. We are thus able to offer them, Monday and Tuesday, at this low price. White, only; but in bodice and regulation style, with cuff knees. All sizes at this price.

Women's Good Cotton Vests, 35c, or 3 for $1

—These are available in both the 1x1 and the Swiss rib weaves; and in bodice and regulation styles; pink and white—35c each, or three Vests for $1.00 during Monday and Tuesday, the Month-End.

—The Broadway—Aisles Six and Eight.

The Month End Offering of

66x80 Part-Wool Blankets, $5.00 Pair

—There is a generous percentage of wool in these blankets. White with borders of pink, rose, blue or helio.

—They are prettily bound with satin ribbon to correspond. A very fine looking blanket at an extremely low price. A limited number to sell Monday and Tuesday while the quantity holds out.

Fine Comforters, $3.95

—Filled with extra quality double carded cotton, covered with a fine figured silkoline, in pink, blue, yellow or rose. Plain borders of semi-silk or mercerized materials to match.

Feather Pillows, $1.10 Each

—Size 21x27. They're filled with good quality curled feathers and are covered with art ticking in pink or blue. The price is lowered to $1.10 for Monday and Tuesday of the Month End.

—The Broadway—Third Floor.

Two Very Remarkable Groups of

New Fall Garments At $18 and $28

Coats, Suits, Dresses

—The September Month End ushers in two unusual groups of garments at the above mentioned prices. —The garments, the very sort that you are looking for at the entrance to the autumn season. In each instance the price is so much lower for the class of garments represented that you will surely be interested in being here.

Coats, Suits, Dresses at $18 and $28

—The Suits are of tricotine, twills, tweeds, velours and mixtures. Some are in shades of gray and brown, others in navy. The velours are in Mohawk, Sorrento and darker shades. At $18 they represent an unusual saving.
—At $28 the suits are of twill, tricotine, duvet de laine, yallama and a few imported tweeds, some even trimmed with fur. There is a choice of navy, Hawaiian blue, marten, deer and Malay; also black. This is a surprisingly low price for splendid suits.

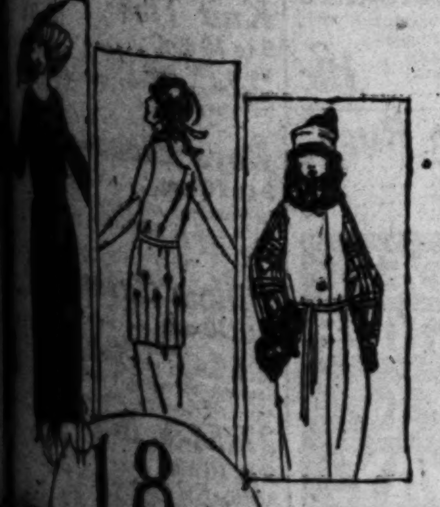
New Fall Coats At $18 and $28

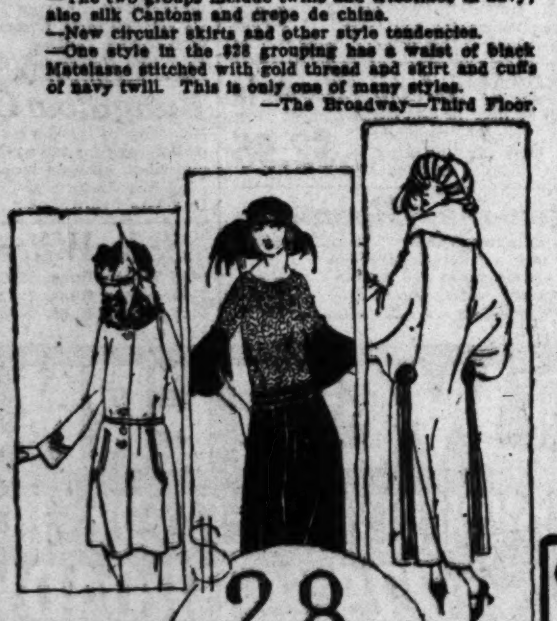
—Here, too, the price is attractive. Winter coats of [illegible], velours, Bolivia. Sports coats of tweeds and [illegible] Camel's hair. These are indeed exceptional at $18.
—At $28 there are coats of navy and black as well as [illegible] blue, Malay and Havana browns. Very much low at $28.

New Wool Dresses Lowered To $18 and $28

—The two groups include twills and tricotines in navy; also silk Cantons and crepe de chine.
—New circular skirts and other style tendencies.
—One style in the $28 grouping has a waist of black Matelasse stitched with gold thread and skirt and cuffs of navy twill. This is only one of many styles.

—The Broadway—Third Floor.





Think of All Silk and Silk Mixed.

Umbrellas $5

—Choice of blue, green, purple and brown, have the fancy ring handles and white ends to match; also white tips.
—The black ones are in Gloria with amber color handle and tips.
—$5 is the Month-End price.

Aisle 8.

"Dorothy Devine" Dresses, $7.95

—The Broadway has just received a large assortment of these well-liked dresses—that are always so beautifully made.
—There are fine dotted Swisses, sheer French voiles with flower designs, in corn, pink, blue, brown and white.
—There are dresses with the modish, low waistlines; long, swaying panels; laces; tucks; ruffles and ribbons.

—The Broadway—Third Floor.

A Most Remarkable Grouping of

New Fall Hats

To Be Offered at the Low Price of $5

—By no means consider them ordinary $5 hats. These are beautiful new models in the smart fall styles — hats that bring much more ordinarily. They've been brought out particularly for the Month End at this price, at just the proper time to answer the question of the new fall hat.
—They're trimmed with feathers, ornaments and metal cloth.
—They're made of Lyons velvet, in the most desired fall shades as well as black and navy. Monday and Tuesday in the Month End—$5 for these.

—Third Floor.

Men, Time for Fall A Selling of New English Cloth

Hats, $2.35

—Newer styles in Men's Cloth Hats. They're made of the finer materials, mixed tweeds with contrasting bands.
—Colorings that are in demand and a full size range. These are priced at very much less for the September Month-End beginning Monday — $2.35. Aisle 8, Main Floor.

A Purchase of Men's Madras Shirts, $2.65

—A very fine grade of madras was used in the making of these good-fitting shirts for men. They have the soft double cuffs. Coat style, sizes 14 to 16.
—Light or dark patterns, striped effects. Colors are clear and prices materially lowered for the September Month End to $2.65.

Soleselle Pajamas, $2.35

—30 dozen with imperfections. The majority of them are soiled a bit. They're cut full and roomy, small, medium and large sizes. Attractively priced at $2.35.

Athletic Union Suits, $1.35

—18 dozen athletic union suits, mercerized oxfords, lustre stripes, solesettes and madras. Size 34 to 44—for the September Month-End $1.35.

Aisle 8.

Several Higher Priced Lines of Fall Suits $22

For Men and Young Men

—A grouping of several lines of higher priced suits—fall and winter models in the September Month End at the extremely low price of $22.
—You'll like the styles, the all-wool cheviots, cassimeres, tweeds and worsteds.
—Single and double-breasted models. The price is low enough to insure a quick disposal. Early selection is advisable.

Fall Overcoats, $24

For Men and Young Men

—Coats that sell for much more regularly. It's timely news, for the calendar says it is overcoat time, even though the thermometer may deny the fact.
—Gray, blue and brown—plain and Raglan sleeves. Satin sleeve lining, some with the satin yokes as well.
—Belted around or plain models. Heavy, medium and light weights in the September Month End at $24.

Rain Coats $7.95

—For men and young men. Rubberized materials. Tan and drab materials. Convertible collars. Belted around. Desirable for auto coats. Lowered in price to $7.95.

—The Broadway—Second Floor.

On The Broadway's Month-End Calendar There Are Scheduled Many Low-Priced Items From the Musical Section

International and Local

Two important shows are running side by side at Los Angeles Museum to October 14. The one is the second international exhibition of water colors, the other is the second exhibition of the California Water Color Society. Our friends from otherwhere have sent in eighty-four pictures, we have forty-four. The eighty-four comprise Group 1 of the three groups of water colors shown a few months ago in the East, all three groups doing duty in various American cities.

Comparisons are sometimes odious, but not always, and on this occasion the members of the California Water Color Society have no need to hang their heads. They hold their own very well, especially when you remember that the sister exhibition contains choice culls from England, France, Chicago, San Francisco, New York, et cetera. There are some magnificent water-color painters in these places and presumably they sent in their very best.

It is good to note that a majority of the exhibitors have used pure water color—that is, comparatively few have had recourse to gouache to bolster the washes, and fewer still have painted the whole picture in gouache. It seems to me, and I am not alone in this opinion, that if a man finds it unduly difficult to handle pure washes he should confine his activities to oils; water-color painting is not for him.

This little article is not going to be a "criticism." Because—and now I have a confession to make—I took no notes during my two visits to the gallery. However, I spent two and a half hours there, and it seems to me that if, after so long a survey, certain pictures won't stick in the memory, they don't deserve to be remembered. With the aid of the catalogue, then, we will consider those that made themselves felt. My method will no doubt raise the ire of some painters, who seem to believe that every picture they paint is worthy of at least 200 words of praise—and not one word of blame. This belief strikes me as being unreasonable, especially when I recall the fact that not one painted in fifty ever gives me one word of thanks for the paragraphs of praise I often bore the public with.

As there are only nineteen exhibitors in the showing of the California Water Color Society, I will mention them by alphabetical roll, first assuring you that every one of them deserves such mention. I can't pursue this plan with the other exhibit, however, because there are over sixty exhibitors, and my space is limited. It may happen, indeed, that I shall have to keep our foreign friends waiting till next week. But their pictures are with us, and you are cordially invited to go out to the museum and study them.

Rowena Meeks Abdy, who lives, I believe, in San Francisco, is a delightful colorist and a most able handler of water-color. All three of her contributions are a joy to the eye, richly resonant—"California Fruit Study," "Japanese Tea Garden, San Francisco," "Interior, Old Mansion, Boston." She ranks among the A-1 painters in this difficult and refractory medium. So does Charles Percy Austin, who is also represented by three—in fact, three were allowed all the Californians, though all did not take advantage of their opportunity, and one clever manipulator of aquarelle, Donna Schuster, is not represented at all. Mr. Austin's "Old Houses, Oraibi," is light and airy in its color scheme, its drawing and shading reinforced by pencilings, but his two other studies are richly and darkly hued, somberly and beautifully poetic in feeling, "After Rainstorm, Navajo Reservation," and "Last Glow, Oraibi." This "Last Glow" is a notable achievement.

A certain graceful lyricism characterizes all three of Dana Bartlett's contributions, which are, of course, landscapes, and one of which is a cleverly handled pastel. Mr. Bartlett has a genuine feeling for the grandiose splendors of the Grand Canyon, yet he somehow makes those grandeurs close and intimate. I am glad to inform you that Carl Oscar Borg, who loves gouache with quite unnecessary ardor, has not used it in his trio of pictures, which are as various as they are crisp and forceful—"A Gate of Tangiers," with a huddled crowd of interesting figures; "The Three Chiefs," distinguished in composition, almost humorous in thought, and "A Stronghold of the Hope," tawny rock architectonics.

Presumably George Townsend Cole uses gouache, though his Arizona subjects look as though they were painted very broadly and simply in oils. The same is true of one of M. DeNeale Morgan's pictures of cypresses, "Dunes, Monterey Coast." Mr. Cole's pictures are wonderfully impressive, and we marvel that this painter is also a consummate miniaturist. He has certainly great technical versatility. An appreciation of Mr. Cole's work appears in the August number of the International Studio, two of the pictures recently shown in New York, where his exhibition made something of a sensation, being reproduced; these are "Cliffs of Moencopie" and "Towers of De Chelly." The frontispiece of the magazine, in color, is also from one of Mr. Cole's pictures.

Val Costello has three sketchy and colorful bits. J. W. Cotton handles his pigments in transparent washes with a sure hand, though I think he shows a tendency to give us too much, the result being some confusion and restlessness. "In My Garden," admirable in other respects, shows this fault to a marked degree. The best of his pictures is "A Market Corner in Bruges"—a really fine piece of painting. Brilliant color, deliciously pure, is noted in all of Henri De Kruff's work, and in "A Peaceful Task," a girl cutting up garden vegetables into a salad (presumably,) we have a large figure study of great beauty and fineness, the girl's face being almost madonna-like in its sweetness of expression. In its play of rich colors this picture is superb. L. C. O. Forbes—a name new to me—gives us a tiny landscape, showing a reaper on a sunset slope, that is full of tenderness and feeling, the hour caught perfectly.

There is a fine simplicity, a perfect adjustment of means to ends, in Bessie Hazen's study of sunlit adobe arches, "In Cuernava, Mexico." A wide expanse of mountain landscape, lightly handled, yet full of detail, is found in Theodore Modra's "The Golden Hour of a Winter Day." Miss Morgan's "Dunes, Monterey Coast," has already been mentioned. "Ending Day" is another admirable picture by her, and this also shows us cypresses, these being in pure wash. Her last picture, "Carmel Point—Where Sea and River Meet," is her best, simple masses and lines in sea, sky and shore, reposeful beauty in the whole picture.

Hanson Puthuff's two water colors are really two pastels—and, indeed, I doubt if Mr. Puthuff ever paints in aquarelle. "Meadow and Hill" gives us too much, we find no point of particular interest, but "Souvenir of San Jose" is an exquisite piece of color, quite worthy, in spite of its small size, to rank with some of this artist's finest oils. Birger Sandzen has carried simplicity and force to their ultimate extreme without loss of form, and his "Arroyo in the Foothills" and "Old Cedars" thrill us with their power. And what superb decorations they are! Marvelous skil in drawing and in manipulating color (in gouache) is evidenced by F. Grayson Sayre in his panoramic "Mountain Haze."

This brings us to V, W, Y. There is no Z. Edouard Vysekal, clever exponent of some of the new trends and tendencies in water-color painting, has a bit of radiant color in "Iris in Westlake," another in "Marching Cypresses," and a delicate bit of sketchy impressionism in "Sister," to my mind, in spite of its slightness, the best of the three. "Sister" is a truly charming thing in feeling as well as in color and suggestiveness. Marion Kavanagh Wachtel gives us one of her very finest landscapes in "Sierra Nevada," snow-capped mountain forms that leave us amazed at the consummate sureness of hand with which they are done.

If Mrs. Wachtel's "Sierra Nevada" is one of her best water colors—as it surely is—then as certainly "Monna Vanna," a portrait study by Max Wieczorek, is one of this artist's best efforts in his own combination of water-color and chalks. The red of the gown is beautiful, the drawing of the figure excellent. Karl Yens's "Pasadena From Poppy Peak"—where is Poppy Peak, by the way? I would like to climb it—is a well drawn bit of panoramic beauty. His "Mystic of the Orient" is an ambitious effort—size has no terrors for Mr. Yens—interesting, if not exactly haunting, something that looks like a gold pencil dangling from the mystic's necklace of amethysts. Another large picture by Mr. Yens is "A Hot Day in August," Laguna Beach citizens (all ladies) reclining on the sands under a huge umbrella. I think I recognize some of these charming sisters. Isn't one Jeanne De Ahna? Isn't another Mrs. Karl Yens? This artist has a talent for subtle character-drawing as well as humor, and it is almost a fearsome thing to sit for him.

Counterfeit Presentments—XIII

As sure as the Rock of Gibraltar!

Doesn't he ever paint poor pictures? It's uncanny to think that anyone who paints "all by hand" wouldn't sometimes make a slip. Oh, No, I don't mean to say his pictures are all perfect, but they're so aggravatingly always well done. One never can find fault with them. They don't thrill me very much, but they do, almost.

You know that much about his paintings, ought to tell you whom I'm speaking of,—and I'll wager 4 to 1 you've guessed by just so much.

No wonder a dozen younger painters try to emulate him. No wonder he's been the guiding star, the master mind, and everything like that to his little group of followers.

He is so unfailingly sure of himself. So sure of his methods. He apparently makes so little effort. Things seem to come his way so readily. He accepts his success so complacently. He gets so much adulation, and it affects him not at all.

One wonders if blows would have the same noneffect. I rather fancy he'd retaliate with a heavy hand, and not permit blows to come at all.

He impresses me as a powerfully built, very still—sort of breathlessly still—personality, who never made any move to bring things his way, but was eternally watching and watching, and somehow drawing them by simply watching with perfect stillness. And I would think that if people babbled or chattered in his presence he'd just look at them without breathing or moving, and they'd go dumb. Speech always froze in me, thoughts sort of quit, the few times I have been confronted with him and felt the necessity of saying something.

His paintings are exquisitely done, but they leave me rather silent. I have nothing to say except that they are very, very well done. I say "very" a few more times, until it faints away.

I've heard he's wonderfully kind. I didn't hear how he was kind. I wish I had asked. I can't imagine what he would do to be called kind.

I'll bet he doesn't paint with his hands, but sits and looks at his canvas very still, and the picture appears.—[Benjamin Blue.

Guy Rose Next Week

A comprehensive exhibition of all the canvases from the brush of Guy Rose that are now in the artist's possession, about sixty-five in all, will be held at the Stendahl galleries, Ambassador Hotel, beginning tomorrow and continuing for one month. This exhibit will include pictures from France and California, the work of many years. It will contain figures, landscapes and marines, and will undoubtedly prove to be one of the most attractive shows of the year.

Mr. Stendahl is getting out an attractive brochure, to contain a brief biographical sketch of Mr. Rose, an appreciation of his work, with reproductions of thirty-four canvases—altogether a most desirable souvenir of one of Southern California's best-known painters.

Seeress Can't Explain Her Psychic Gift

Princess Wah-letka, who headlines the bill at the Hillstreet Theater this week, in an interview talked about her psychic power, by which, it said, she can see into the minds of others, conjure up visions of their past and point their path for the future.

One admits a little skepticism. How could it be otherwise? Many people have made tentative excursions into the mysteries of thought transference—have even been successful in a minor way—so that one cannot but believe that some such power as this does exist. But there is a vast difference between these amateur efforts in the home circle and the scale on which Princess Wah-letka works.

The people whose minds she "reads" are strangers to her; she does not even see them or hear their voices; they are just units in a crowded theater. So that if Wah-letka is genuine she is very clearly possessed of most remarkable psychic powers.

Is Wah-letka genuine? That's what everybody who reads about her will wants to know. The great majority of those who have seen her demonstrations at the Orpheum recently will hold that she is, and to have a personal chat with her you will be doubly assured.

One goes to see her at work prepared to confound and comes away confounded. The intimacy of a personal interview fails materially to shake conviction. Of course, there are things one would like to know, but that must be so in anything which almost passes the understanding. It would be not a little difficult to convince a man entirely ignorant of wireless telegraphy that messages received at Avalon actually came direct from Honolulu. But they do!

The Princess cannot explain how these thought messages come to her any more than the wireless receiving instrument could tell one what causes it to tick out the Morse code.

"What is this force of yours?" was asked.

"I just don't know," she replied. "I wish I did. I've tried hard to find out, but I can't."

"Spiritualism?"

"No, it's not that. I don't believe in spiritualism. They've tried hundreds of times to get me to their seances, but I won't go because I don't believe in it. I believe it's a much bigger power than that."

And there one has to leave it.

Artificial Spooks Are in the Cast

Lila Lee brushed back a stray lock of her blue-black hair and looked slantwise from her dark eyes.

"The idea of asking if I believe in ghosts," she said severely. "It's a question nobody seems able to answer finally."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, in these days you can't positively affirm or deny anything, can you? At least I'm not going to try. I never saw a ghost, however, and like the man who wrote about 'The Purple Cow,' 'I'd rather see than be one.'"

"Well, the ghosts in 'The Ghost Breaker' aren't supposed to be real, are they?"

"No, they're artificial ghosts," she answered smiling. "You see I'm a Marchesa—I suppose that's Spanish for a sort of countess or something, but I'm the Marchesa Maria Theresa; and I own a castle in Spain, a real one. And it is haunted! And it causes me no end of trouble until Warren Jarvis helps me out of the difficulty."

"Who's he?"

"Wallace Reid. He plays the brave American who escapes from a feud only to get into hot water with a lot of ghosts."

"And I suppose a romance develops?"

"How could it help doing so?" asked Miss Lee, with a twinkle in her eye. "And there is, too, thrill and adventure and melodrama, with the castle full of secret panels, passageways, trapdoors and the like. It's quite fascinating, really. And Walter Hiers is so funny—he plays a negro servant, Rusty Snow they call him. Walter didn't like blacking up much, but after he got into it he had a lot of scenes and enjoyed himself, I feel sure."

"Of course, Wally routs the ghosts?"

"Indeed, yes. The only spirit he can't rout is Cupid—and the picture ends with a love scene."

"And so you find your castle in the air as well as the real castle."

"Just so," said Lila.

One Thousand Cases of Appendicitis

All Operated in One Single Hospital

Although it is generally known that appendicitis is a very common disease it will be news to many that in one hospital over one thousand operations for this disease were performed in a single year. This does not include cases in the same hospital where the appendix was removed during other operations.

A Treacherous Disease.

Appendicitis attacks at any moment even persons seemingly in good health. Usually, however, it is preceded by so-called stomach trouble, constipation or similar disturbances. Often when there is a warning feeling of uneasiness in the abdomen, appendicitis can be guarded against in exactly the same manner in which one guards against the spread of throat infection, because that is just what appendicitis is—an infection in the intestines spreading to the appendix. When one has sore throat, one can often prevent further trouble and the development of influenza or grippe, by using an antiseptic wash or gargle to fight the germs and a laxative to carry off the poisons from the body. Just exactly the same procedure is necessary to fight the intestinal germs and guard against appendicitis. But instead of an antiseptic wash for the throat, an INTESTINAL antiseptic is necessary.

Intestinal Antiseptic.

There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows:

It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacili in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It is the most complete system cleanser ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removing foul matter which poisoned the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the alimentary canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much more foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports From Physicians.

"I congratulate you on the good effect I had from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. Prettyman.

"After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

It is good to note that a majority of the exhibitors have used pure water color—that is, comparatively few have had recourse to gouache to bolster the washes, and fewer still have painted the whole picture in gouache. It seems to me, and I am not alone in this opinion, that if a man finds it unduly difficult to handle pure washes he should confine his activities to oils. water-color painting is not for him.

This little article is not going to be a "criticism." Because—and now I have a confession to make—I took no notes during my two visits to the gallery. However, I spent two and a half hours there, and it seems to me that if, after so long a survey, certain pictures won't stick in the memory, they don't deserve to be remembered. With the aid of the catalogue, then, we will consider those that made themselves felt. My method will no doubt raise the ire of some painters, who seem to believe that every picture they paint is worthy of at least 200 words of praise—and not one word of blame. This belief strikes me as being unreasonable, especially when I recall the fact that not one painted in fifty ever gives me one word of thanks for the paragraphs of praise I often bore the public with.

As there are only nineteen exhibitors in the showing of the California Water Color Society, I will mention them by alphabetical roll, first assuring you that every one of them deserves such mention. I can't pursue this plan with the other exhibit, however, because there are over sixty exhibitors, and my space is limited. It may happen, indeed, that I shall have to keep our foreign friends waiting till next week. But their pictures are with us, and you are cordially invited to go out to the museum and study them.

Rowena Meeks Abdy, who lives, I believe, in San Francisco, is a delightful colorist and a most able handler of water-color. All three of her contributions are a joy to the eye, richly resonant—"California Fruit Study," "Japanese Tea Garden, San Francisco," "Interior, Old Mansion, Boston." She ranks among the A-1 painters in this difficult and refractory medium. So does Charles Percy Austin, who is also represented by three—in fact, three were allowed all the Californians, though all did not take advantage of their opportunity, and one clever manipulator of aquarelle, Donna Schuster, is not represented at all. Mr. Austin's "Old Houses, Oraibi," is light and airy in its color scheme, its drawing and shading reinforced by pencilings, but his two other studies are richly and darkly hued, somberly and beautifully poetic in feeling, "After Rainstorm, Navajo Reservation," and "Last Glow, Oraibi." This "Last Glow" is a notable achievement.

A certain graceful lyricism characterizes all three of Dana Bartlett's contributions, which are, of course, landscapes, and one of which is a cleverly handled pastel. Mr. Bartlett has a genuine feeling for the grandiose splendors of the Grand Canyon, yet he somehow makes those grandeurs close and intimate. I am glad to inform you that Carl Oscar Borg, who loves gouache with quite unnecessary ardor, has not used it in his trio of pictures, which are as various as they are crisp and forceful—"A Gate of Tangiers," with a huddled crowd of interesting figures; "The Three Chiefs," distinguished in composition, almost humorous in thought, and "A Stronghold of the Hope," tawny rock architectonics.

Presumably George Townsend Cole uses gouache, though his Arizona subjects look as though they were painted very broadly and simply in oils. The same is true of one of M. DeNeale Morgan's pictures of cypresses, "Dunes, Monterey Coast." Mr. Cole's pictures are wonderfully impressive, and we marvel that this painter is also a consummate miniaturist. He has certainly great technical versatility. An appreciation of Mr. Coles work appears in the August number of the International Studio, two of the pictures recently shown in New York, where his exhibition made something of a sensation, being reproduced; these are "Cliffs of Moencopie" and "Towers of De Chelly." The frontispiece of the magazine, in color, is also from one of Mr. Cole's pictures.

Val Costello has three sketchy and colorful bits. J. W. Cotton handles his pigments in transparent washes with a sure hand, though I think he shows a tendency to give us too much, the result being some confusion and restlessness. "In My Garden," admirable in other respects, shows this fault to a marked degree. The best of his pictures is "A Market Corner in Bruges"—a really fine piece of painting. Brilliant color, deliciously pure, is noted in all of Henri De Kruff's work, and in "A Peaceful Task," a girl cutting up garden vegetables into a salad (presumably,) we have a large figure study of great beauty and fineness, the girl's face being almost madonna-like in its sweetness of expression. In its play of rich colors this picture is superb. L. C. O. Forbes—a name new to me—gives us a tiny landscape, showing a reaper on a sunset slope, that is full of tenderness and feeling, the hour caught perfectly.

There is a fine simplicity, a perfect adjustment of means to ends, in Bessie Hazen's study of sunlit adobe arches, "In Cuernava, Mexico." A wide expanse of mountain landscape, lightly handled, yet full of detail, is found in Theodore Modra's "The Golden Hour of a Winter Day." Miss Morgan's "Dunes, Monterey Coast," has already been mentioned. "Ending Day" is another admirable picture by her, and this also shows us cypresses, these being in pure wash. Her last picture, "Carmel Point—Where Sea and River Meet," is her best, simple masses and lines in sea, sky and shore, reposeful beauty in the whole picture.

Hanson Puthuff's two water colors are really two pastels—and, indeed, I doubt if Mr. Puthuff ever paints in aquarelle. "Meadow and Hill" gives us too much, we find no point of particular interest, but "Souvenir of San Jose" is an exquisite piece of color, quite worthy, in spite of its small size, to rank with some of this artist's finest oils. Birger Sandzen has carried simplicity and force to their ultimate extreme without loss of form, and his "Arroyo in the Foothills" and "Old Cedars" thrill us with their power. And what superb decorations they are! Marvelous skil in drawing and in manipulating color (in gouache) is evidenced by F. Grayson Sayre in his panoramic "Mountain Haze."

This brings us to V. W. Y. There is no Z. Edouard Vysekal, clever exponent of some of the new trends and tendencies in water-color painting, has a bit of radiant color in "Iris in Westlake," another in "Marching Cypresses," and a delicate bit of sketchy impressionism in "Sister," to my mind, in spite of its slightness, the best of the three. "Sister" is a truly charming thing in feeling as well as in color and suggestiveness. Marion Kavanagh Wachtel gives us one of her very finest landscapes in "Sierra Nevada," snow-capped mountain forms that leave us amazed at the consummate sureness of hand with which they are done.

If Mrs. Wachtel's "Sierra Nevada" is one of her best water colors—as it surely is—then as certainly "Monna Vanna," a portrait study by Max Wieczorek, is one of this artist's best efforts in his own combination of water-color and chalks. The red of the gown is beautiful, the drawing of the figure excellent. Karl Yens's "Pasadena From Poppy Peak"—where is Poppy Peak, by the way? I would like to climb it—is a well drawn bit of panoramic beauty. His "Mystic of the Orient" is an ambitious effort—size has no terrors for Mr. Yens—interesting, if not exactly haunting, something that looks like a gold pencil dangling from the mystic's necklace of amethysts. Another large picture by Mr. Yens is "A Hot Day in August," Laguna Beach citizens (all ladies) reclining on the sands under a huge umbrella. I think I recognize some of these charming sisters. Isn't one Jeanne De Ahna? Isn't another Mrs. Karl Yens? This artist has a talent for subtle character-drawing as well as humor, and it is almost a fearsome thing to sit for him.

Counterfeit Presentments—XIII

As sure as the Rock of Gibraltar!

Doesn't he ever paint poor pictures? It's uncanny to think that anyone who paints "all by hand" wouldn't sometimes make a slip. Oh, No, I don't mean to say his pictures are all perfect, but they're so aggravatingly always well done. One never can find fault with them. They don't thrill me very much, but they do, almost.

You know that much about his paintings ought to tell you whom I'm speaking of,—and I'll wager 4 to 1 you've guessed by just so much.

No wonder a dozen younger painters try to emulate him. No wonder he's been the guiding star, the master mind, and everything like that to his little group of followers.

He is so unfailingly sure of himself. So sure of his methods He apparently makes so little effort. Things seem to come his way so readily. He accepts his success so complacently. He gets so much adulation, and it affects him not at all.

One wonders if blows would have the same noneffect. I rather fancy he'd retaliate with a heavy hand, and not permit blows to come at all.

He impresses me as a powerfully built, very still—sort of breathlessly still—personality, who never made any move to bring things his way, but was eternally watching and watching, and somehow drawing them by simply watching with perfect stillness. And I would think that if people babbled or chattered in his presence he'd just look at them without breathing or moving, and they'd go dumb. Speech always froze in me, thoughts sort of quit, the few times I have been confronted with him and felt the necessity of saying something.

His paintings are exquisitely done, but they leave me rather silent. I have nothing to say except that they are very, very well done. I say "very" a few more times, until it faints away.

I've heard he's wonderfully kind. I didn't hear how he was kind. I wish I had asked. I can't imagine what he would do to be called kind.

I'll bet he doesn't paint with his hands, but sits and looks at his canvas very still, and the picture appears.—[Benjamin Blue.

Guy Rose Next Week

A comprehensive exhibition of all the canvases from the brush of Guy Rose that are now in the artist's possession, about sixty-five in all, will be held at the Stendahl galleries, Ambassador Hotel, beginning tomorrow and continuing for one month. This exhibit will include pictures from France and California, the work of many years. It will contain figures, landscapes and marines, and will undoubtedly prove to be one of the most attractive shows of the year.

Mr. Stendahl is getting out an attractive brochure, to contain a brief biographical sketch of Mr. Rose, an appreciation of his work, with reproductions of thirty-four canvases—altogether a most desirable souvenir of one of Southern California's best-known painters.

Seeress Can't Explain Her Psychic Gift

Princess Wah-letka, who headlines the bill at the Hillstreet Theater this week, in an interview talked about her psychic power, by which, it said, she can see into the minds of others, conjure up visions of their past and point their path for the future.

One admits a little skepticism. How could it be otherwise? Many people have made tentative excursions into the mysteries of thought transference—have even been successful in a minor way—so that one cannot but believe that some such power as this does exist. But there is a vast difference between these amateur efforts in the home circle and the scale on which Princess Wah-letka works.

The people whose minds she "reads" are strangers to her; she does not even see them or hear their voices; they are just units in a crowded theater. So that if Wah-letka is genuine she is very clearly possessed of most remarkable psychic powers.

Is Wah-letka genuine? That's what everybody who reads about her will wants to know. The great majority of those who have seen her demonstrations at the Orpheum recently will hold that she is, and to have a personal chat with her you will be doubly assured.

One goes to see her at work prepared to confound and comes away confounded. The intimacy of a personal interview fails materially to shake conviction. Of course, there are things one would like to know, but that must be so in anything which almost passes the understanding. It would be not a little difficult to convince a man entirely ignorant of wireless telegraphy that messages received at Avalon actually came direct from Honolulu. But they do!

The Princess cannot explain how these thought messages come to her any more than the wireless receiving instrument could tell one what causes it to tick out the Morse code.

"What is this force of yours?" was asked.

"I just don't know," she replied. "I wish I did. I've tried hard to find out, but I can't."

"Spiritualism?"

"No, it's not that. I don't believe in spiritualism. They've tried hundreds of times to get me to their seances, but I won't go because I don't believe in it. I believe it's a much bigger power than that."

And there one has to leave it.

Artificial Spooks Are in the Cast

Lila Lee brushed back a stray lock of her blue-black hair and looked slantwise from her dark eyes.

"The idea of asking if I believe in ghosts," she said severely. "It's a question nobody seems able to answer finally."

"How do you mean?"

"Why, in these days you can't positively affirm or deny anything, can you? At least I'm not going to try. I never saw a ghost, however, and like the man who wrote about 'The Purple Cow,' 'I'd rather see than be one.' "

"Well, the ghosts in 'The Ghost Breaker' aren't supposed to be real, are they?"

"No, they're artificial ghosts," she answered smiling. "You see I'm a Marchesa—I suppose that's Spanish for a sort of countess or something, but I'm the Marchesa Maria Theresa; and I own a castle in Spain, a real one. And it is haunted! And it causes me no end of trouble until Warren Jarvis helps me out of the difficulty."

"Who's he?"

"Wallace Reid. He plays the brave American who escapes from a feud only to get into hot water with a lot of ghosts."

"And I suppose a romance develops?"

"How could it help doing so?" asked Miss Lee, with a twinkle in her eye. "And there is, too, thrill and adventure and melodrama, with the castle full of secret panels, passageways, trapdoors and the like. It's quite fascinating, really. And Walter Hiers is so funny—he plays a negro servant, Rusty Snow they call him. Walter didn't like blacking up much, but after he got into it he had a lot of scenes and enjoyed himself, I feel sure."

"Of course, Wally routs the ghosts?"

"Indeed, yes. The only spirit he can't rout is Cupid—and the picture ends with a love scene."

"And so you find your castle in the air as well as the real castle."

"Just so," said Lila.

One Thousand Cases of Appendicitis

All Operated in One Single Hospital

Although it is generally known that appendicitis is a very common disease it will be news to many that in one hospital over one thousand operations for this disease were performed in a single year. This does not include cases in the same hospital where the appendix was removed during other operations.

A Treacherous Disease.

Appendicitis attacks at any moment even persons seemingly in good health. Usually, however, it is preceded by so-called stomach trouble, constipation or similar disturbances. Often when there is a warning feeling of uneasiness in the abdomen, appendicitis can be guarded against in exactly the same manner in which one guards against the spread of throat infection, because that is just what appendicitis is—an infection in the intestines spreading to the appendix. When one has sore throat, one can often prevent further trouble and the development of influenza or grippe, by using an antiseptic wash or gargle to fight the germs and a laxative to carry off the poisons from the body. Just exactly the same procedure is necessary to fight the intestinal germs and guard against appendicitis. But instead of an antiseptic wash for the throat, an INTESTINAL antiseptic is necessary.

Intestinal Antiseptic.

There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows: It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacilli in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It is the most complete system cleanser ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removing foul matter which poisoned the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the alimentary canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much more foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports From Physicians.

"I congratulate you on the good effect I had from Adlerika since I prescribed it." (Signed) Dr. L. Langlois.

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. Prettyman.

"After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Beban Nearly Gets a Baby as a Present

During production of the George Beban feature, “The Sign of the Rose,” which opens at the Miller Theater today, Mr. Beban very nearly had a little Italian baby wished on him. Director Harry Garson was using 300 extra people, mostly Italians, in a large mob scene, and in the crowd was an Italian mother with her 2-month-old child.

The child and the mother were both very badly in need of food, on account of the father being out of work. Mr. Beban happened to notice the critical condition of the pair and took them to the studio cafeteria, where they ate heartily.

The Italian woman was so impressed by Mr. Beban's kindness that she decided the right thing to do would be to let him keep the baby until she or her husband found work, and were able to take care of it. Mr. Beban thanked her very kindly, but insisted that he already had very nearly all he could do to care for the one child he has had for the last five years.

The woman insisted so strongly that he take the child that Beban had to compromise with her by giving her husband work at the studio. The couple were so pleased at this arrangement that they have decided they will have their baby rechristened and change its first two names to George Beban.

ACTOR TO REMAIN

Aldis Bartlett, the young actor who has so successfully portrayed the role of Herod in the Pilgrimage Play at Hollywood, has decided to remain in Los Angeles after the close of the play, when he will appear before many of the clubs in the south reading classic and modern plays. He will appear before the Woman's Club of San Pedro in the near future, when he will read “Debureau,” by Sacha Guitry.

WANTS TO PLAY NICE LADIES

Pola Negri Opposes Doing the Other Kind

Lenore Ulric Will Star in Tully Picture

“Manslaughter” and “Broadway Rose” in Gotham

BY FREDERICK JAMES SMITH

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Fascinating Pola Negri will soon be in Los Angeles. With her maid and her interpreter-secretary, she left Thursday on the Twentieth Century. Yesterday she spent in Chicago, leaving at 8:30 o'clock in the evening over the Santa Fe route.

They are already whispering of the temperamental idiosyncrasies of the lively Pola. She broke any number of interview appointments in New York, declaring “the speed over here—it is too much—I must sleep.” And sleep she did, while appointment after appointment was canceled.

Moreover, on the very edge of doing “Bella Donna” she declares that she wants to do “virtuous ladies” in the future.

“I don't want to play zee bad woman,” she is quoted as saying. “Here in America I will play zee good women. If it is in zee picture zee bad woman I will try to make her zee good woman.”

All of which is very discouraging, for Pola is the most eloquent naughty lady we know.

Way down in our guileless little mind we are wondering how long Pola will be satisfied with her modest salary of $2000 a week. It's considerably more than her Berlin stipend of weekly marks, but when she hears that Dorothy Dalton, for instance, is getting $5000 a week! But, then, perhaps, we shouldn't anticipate events.

NO PRINCE FOR HER

We had luncheon the other day with delicious Mabel Normand at the Ambassador, where she is staying. Mabel is looking far better than she has looked in a long, long time, and she just gurgles over her European vacation.

She doubled up with laughter at the thoughts of marrying the African prince, credited as being engaged to her. No, she isn't going to get married. She will be back in Los Angeles in two weeks to start on her next picture. Director F. Richard Jones is now in town arranging matters for the production.

There are reports here that the piquant Kiki, otherwise Lenore Ulric, may do a big screen production very soon. The coming film will not be “Kiki,” of course, but “The Bird of Paradise,” with Richard Walton Tully, the producer of “Omar, the Tentmaker,” behind it. By the way an advance print of “Omar, the Tentmaker,” shown here privately, seems to indicate a sensational film hit, at least an artistic ten strike.

Thomas Meighan has just started work at the Famous Players' Long Island studios in “Back Home and Broke.” George Ade is coming here to watch the production work, the story being from his pen. George Melford has arrived in town to do “Java Head.” Jacqueline Logan and James Kirkwood are here to play in it, and Leatrice Joy is due in a day or two.

Allan Dwan is in town, but his plans are uncertain. He was to have done “The Spanish Cavalier,” with Rodolph Valentino, but now that Rudie is in the courts over his contract everything is doubtful. Personally we wouldn't be at all surprised if Famous Players tried out some one else in the role that Rodolph would have done.

A new film feature of significance is Cecil B. De Mille's “Manslaughter,” which is nothing more or less than another tilt at the jazzing, thoughtless, licked-on-the-hip younger generation. “Manslaughter” has absorbing qualities through at least half of its course and then, to our way of thinking, it collapses.

Until the bored little spendthrift, Lydia Thorne, a sullen prisoner for killing a motorcycle policeman with her car, reforms behind the bars “Manslaughter” held our interest. But when everyone began

MINSTREL SHOW IS A NEW NOTE

A minstrel show and whatever happens to be new and thrilling at the vaudeville houses—that is the prospect for the week's spoken—or perhaps one should say, “personal”—drama.

The three successes, “Abie's Irish Rose,” “The Rear Car” and “The Humming Bird” continue to be successes, despite the hot weather. Not much to write about any longer, though a good deal to see and hear.

Anatol Friedland is headlining at one variety shop, where Vera Gordon is also holding over. The Indian seeress Wah Letka tops a bill slightly farther up town. Willard Mack is the principal entertainer at still a third house, offering a new sketch of his own, and taking the place of Will King as a special attraction.

Nothing is to be said about such a prospect, except that something of the sort must be expected now and then.

RIGHT FROM THE FRONT

BY EDWIN SHALLERT

I rather hate to begin a paragraph with that old wheeze about distance lending enchantment—but it happens to be apropos of the somewhat aggravating fact that few film revivals have the same chance for popularity that attaches to a new picture. I venture to say that this might even prove true of so promising a production as the new “Tess of the Storm Country,” which Mary Pickford has been starring in, and which is shortly to be exhibited.

I hope not, for from all I can hear there is no resemblance of thought theme or action to the old “Tess.” Mary has given to her feature the character of a Credo of spirituality in the hope that it will bring a new message of good to her public, and the manner in which she has accomplished this vibrates, it is said, with timeliness.

Yet, despite this new idea, I wonder how many people will start in right away making comparisons with the old “Tess.” Hundreds

NEW FEATURES RATHER SCARCE

Four new feature pictures, and only four, open this week. But as the holdover and return list contains some mighty good stuff, perhaps the week will not be so flat as one might imagine from looking at the unadorned facts.

These four new ones are “Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?” “The Ghost Breaker,” “Remembrance” and “The Fast Mail.”

From all reports, one need not worry so much about the title of the first mentioned opus; it is said not to be that sort of a picture at all. “The Ghost Breaker” contains a number of artificial spooks, a love story and Wallace Reid and Lila Lee. “Remembrance” is Rupert Hughes's latest exposition of the humanistic idea in drama. “The Fast Mail” is advertised as “honest melodrama.” If it is, it's good.

Among the films which have been deemed worth a longer run are “The Prisoner of Zenda,” “Manslaughter,” “A Woman of No Importance,” “The Loves of Pharing forty of America's best all-white minstrel stars, will hold the boards at the Mason Operahouse this week for seven nights and two matinees.

MINSTREL SHOW IS A NEW NOTE

Costumes and stage settings are of the most elaborate order, no expense having been spared. The first-part setting shows an old colonial mansion on the banks of the Potomac River, and is called "The White House Serenade."

A special orchestra and a large company of singers, specialty artists, and black-faced comedians of ability make up the aggregation.

Two Toppers at Orpheum

With a two-headline bill announced for tomorrow's matinee, there is every indication that the high standard of Orpheum acts shown at that theater recently will keep up to the mark.

One top-line spot has been given Anatol Friedland, the composer, whose many songs are familiar to nearly every one who sings or listens. With Niel Mack as his musical director, Anatol presents also Lucille Fields, as prima donna; Viola Weller, soubrette; Vera Velmar, violiniste; Lillian Akers, ballet dancer; Louise Carroll and Florence Akers.

The other top-liner is W. C. Field's presentation of "Field's Family Ford. "That it is a laugh, the title indicates; Fields is a comedian of parts and long reputation, and his efforts to make merry with the Henry Ford product have been acclaimed as most humorous even by Lizzie's decided supporters.

Haru Onuki is a Japanese prima donna, and as such will be heard in American songs, notably one by James W. Foley. Dorothea Sadlier, comedienne, brings herself and a good company in W. C. De Mille's futuristic skit, "In 1999." The Ramsdells and Deyo present some clever dance numbers; Slack and Blue do tumbling; Martin and Moore have a surprise, and Vera Gordon and her company remain in "Lullaby" for another week.

"Humming Bird" Soon to Flit

The interest manifested in Maude Fulton's engagement at the Egan Theater has exceeded the most sanguine expectations and the popular little star and her interesting play, "The Humming Bird," will start upon their fourteenth week of uninterrupted success tomorrow evening.

Tracing the rapid rise in popularity of Miss Fulton since the days of "The Brat" discloses how an energetic young woman, once determined to accomplish a thing, can progress to fame. A less energetic writer than Miss Fulton might have been satisfied with the fame and fortune she had gained by the success of here first play. But, although, "The Brat" was heartily indorsed both here and in New York, she kept busy all the time planning her present vehicle, "The Humming Bird," which promises to outshine even "The Brat" as a money maker.

In the cast are Robert Ober, Wilfred Lucas, Grace Travers, Florence Oberle, William T. Rogers, Mia Marvin, Walter Wills, Vernon Tremaine, Jack Gardner and others.

Since Last March

On March 5 "Abie's Irish Rose" started its career at the Morosco Theater. Now, on September 24, thirty weeks later, it is still playing to capacity audiences without having worn out its welcome. In fact, using the box office as a gauge, the Irish-Hebrew comedy remains just as strong in popularity as ever.

This run has brought another national record to the Morosco, for "Abie's Irish Rose" has far outstripped any other stock production ever made in the United States with the one exception of "Civilian Clothes," which ran for thirty-seven weeks here. Meantime, New York is paying $2.75 to see the same show, and the Morosco road company is playing return dates on the Coast to capacity business.

This run is a tribute to the Morosco cast. Bessie Eyton and Gayne Whitman are still the engaging lovers whose defiance of tradition brings the comedy situations in which Otto Lederer and Max Davidson, as the Hebrews, and Harry Garrity, the Irish parent, figure so liberally. Lillian Elliott continues to receive her full quota of laughs while Joseph Eggenton and Arthur Rutledge lend a more serious note as the rabbi and priest.

Prison Drama at Hip

"The Right Way," now at the Hippodrome, tells an exciting story of love and adventure, and the early careers of two young men. Their loves are depicted by the camera with unusual human interest when the men delve in crime, and are sentenced to prison.

Here actual scenes of life behind the walls are realistically shown, adding interest to the main theme. Thomas Mott Osborne, former warden of Sing Sing prison, personally supervised this production.

The vaudeville program will be headlined by a sensational European acrobatic novelty; the Vardel brothers, in "The Thill of a Life Time;" the Piano Accordionist "Adolpho" will be another feature, presenting syncopated melodies; Cooper and Valli; Viggo and Dorothy; Billy Dodge and the Roman Gypsies complete the program.

Water Stuff at Burbank

For the coming week the Hi Jinks Revues musical comedy company at the Burbank Theater has in store a show of aquatic type. In "Water Babies" the organization expects to capture as many laughs as in other popular performances, and perhaps more. The background of the proceedings is the deck of an ocean-going liner.

Star Sees Girls of All Lands on Travels

Mabel Normand

AFTER having played pretty girls from many different climes, Mabel Normand is about to return to the Mack Sennett studios in Edendale with a concrete knowledge of how these really look and act.

Mabel has been a pretty Parisienne on the screen; now she knows what a real Parisienne is, for she has visited Paris.

Mabel has been a daughter of Madrid; now she knows just what a Spanish senorita is, for she has toured Spain and visited all its large cities.

It isn't of record that Mabel was ever maid of the Netherlands, though it is probable she has played the part in the old days of Biograph beginnings in comedy; but anyway Mabel knows what windmills and dikes are like, for she has toured Holland, too.

Italy was also the scene of Mabel's travels, and she created a sensation in England, particularly in London, where she was taken in by actors and other artistic folk, and feted until she had to beg off and plead for leisure and rest.

With these memories to contemplate and with the consciousness of having enjoyed a wonderful rest, Miss Normand, star of "Mickey," "Molly O" and now of "Suzanna," shortly to be released by Associated First National, is expected back at the Sennett lot within a few weeks.

It is said that as soon as she has "rested up from her vacation," Miss Normand will begin work on another five-reel photodrama to be made under the supervision of Mack Sennett, directed by F. Richard Jones, and released and distributed by Associated First National.

Announcement will soon follow concerning the nature of Miss Normand's next story. Whether it will be an original plot developed expressly for her or whether it will be taken from some novel already in existence, is not stated.

WANTS TO PLAY NICE LADIES

to talk like Dr. Frank Crane and Pollyanna, we lost our grip.

"Manslaughter" is De Mille at his best and worst. He gets more sincerity into some of the scenes than we have ever before observed in his work. Yet "Manslaughter," while being a big picture, is not a wholly good one by any manner of means. For six reels or so De Mille hovered on the border of doing something mighty fine.

At least, "Manslaughter" places Leatrice Joy on the histrionic map. Her Lydia Thorne stamps her as one of the very best of our younger actresses—and a player of unusual beauty, scope and variety.

The past week, too, saw the Broadway presentation of Mae Murray's "Broadway Rose" in which she does another virtuous little girl from the country who achieves meteoric success as a dancer, is wooed by a millionaire's weak son and in the end goes back to the cows, chickens and an honest country lover.

"Broadway Rose" is garish and tinselly and yet we predict it will be highly successful everywhere. For it shows New York as New Yorkers and the folks back home love to think it—speedy and wicked and very, very, devilish.

Ince's First National Releases Reach High Peak of Appeal

Seeks Worthy Themes And Actors Worthy of Them

THOMAS H. INCE has long contended—and proven in his picture product—that worthy themes are essential if the acting of his brilliant stars is to be effective and memorable; he believes that the cinema art can [illegible] into the fullest confidence of the American public only if it presents stories that have the authority of great truth behind them and that entertainment is vastly more entertaining when it is backed by the force of a big idea.

"Hail the Woman" will be recalled as such a story and its appeal has been doubled in strength in the later Ince pictures made (some of them now completed) and destined to reach the widest distribution through Associated First National.

"Skin Deep" Is Deep

One of the big pictures of the decade is promised in "Skin Deep," which will soon be revealed to picture patrons in this city through Associated First National. The police and other correctional and protective branches of public service are heartily endorsing the picture because, says Mr. Ince, "It does not glorify crime nor give it the glamor of mystery, hazard and physical bravery but shows criminal life to be what it is—sordid, miserable, hunted and haunted. The elements of reform and moral influence are likewise pleased with the picture because it attempts to show how by the process of a sense of self respect, [illegible] or even hardened criminals may be restored to useful citizenship."

A splendid cast headed by Florence Vidor and Milton Sills, co-stars, will interpret the thrilling story.

Miss Bellamy Is Star

C. Gardner Sullivan, author of "Hail the Woman," has written another original story of thematic value and called "Ten Ton Love." It sets its episodes mainly in a circus and presents a cast headed by Madge Bellamy, who is recognized as being one of the most promising of the younger stars of the screen.

In taking up the R. D. Blackmore novel, "Lorna Doone," which is being made at the Thomas H. Ince studios by Maurice Tourneur, the impulse was again to find a story with a vigorous theme and a plot of unquestioned value. Miss Bellamy was loaned to Mr. Tourneur by Mr. Ince for this elaborate and pretentious production.

Must Have Theme

"Scars of Jealousy," an Ince production, called in the making "The Brotherhood of Hate," handles a mighty theme—that of "man's inhumanity to man," and promises to create a profound impression. Its story is certain to enjoy a splendid interpretation at the hands of a cast headed by Frank Keenan, Marguerite de la Motte and Lloyd Hughes.

Still another worthily themed story produced by Ince is booked for fall release and titled "What a Wife Learned."

"It is not enough to have an interesting or active story," says Mr. Ince. "A great picture must, of course, be interesting and active and it must be well acted, but it will fall short of bigness if it misses the impulse of a mighty, humanizing theme."

Who's a Liar?

[illegible] A. WALTON, State [illegible] of the Anti-Cigarette League of [illegible], is all wrong in declaring that cigarette smoking [illegible] cause of lying, according to members of the "Slippy" [illegible] company. Here are the [illegible] causes for prevarication as outlined by them:

Director Wesley Ruggles—[illegible] men.
[illegible] Moore—Marriage.
[illegible] Oakman—Prohibition.
[illegible] De Grasse—Income tax.
Pat O'Malley—Flappers.
Everybody—Home brew.

THE producer, Thomas H. Ince, whose devotion to the best that pictures can do has won him distinction, fortune and the gratitude of picture patrons. Upper left to right, Florence Vidor, whose popularity is based on firmest foundation of merit and character, and Madge Bellamy, one of the youngest and most promising of stars. Lower, left to right, Lloyd Hughes and Dougas MacLean, who are by all conceded to be in the front rank of motion picture leading men.

Desert Inspires Sennett Singers

Director F. Richard Jones has decided to form a Glee Club from the members of the company which has just completed Ben Turpin's latest laughfest "The Shreik of Araby."

Jones claims that his group of songsters may lack harmony, but this deficiency is more than made up by their voluminous qualities.

While in Arizona filming the desert scenes for the picture, Jones first discovered the singing proclivities of his crew. He was eating his lunch and idly gazing over the burning sands, when he heard a chorus wailing: "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold."

"Very pretty," said the Mack Sennett director. But when he discovered that his entire company was advancing upon him, still singing the song. Jones' opinion was reversed. When they arrived at his side, Kathryn McGuire, the spokeswoman, said: "Please, Mr. Jones, don't do any more scenes today, please wait until the sun goes down—'Till the sands of the desert grow cold.'"

Jones acquiesced, telling his players that he was glad they liked to work at night and that he would remind them of that fact when they returned to the studio.

"The Shreik of Araby" will shortly be released as a special comedy under the First National banner. The fun film will be in feature picture length.

Tribute to Frisco Bay

Property men in Hollywood, home of the picture industry, can create almost any sort of a scene necessary to fit a scenario, but they can't make San Francisco Bay, its Ferries nor duplicate San Francisco cable cars.

As a result Buster Keaton, frozen faced comedian of the screen, made a special trip to that city to "shoot" a few scenes for his comedy, "The Love Nest," which he has now finished for Joseph M. Schenck for First National.

Distinguished Director Leaves for Earned Rest

James Young, one of the screen's most brilliant directors, is leaving shortly for New York after having completed the direction of two of the most notable screen contributions of the year—"The Masquerader" and "Omar the Tentmaker," both of them stellar vehicles for the distinguished stage star, Guy Bates Post, both of them Richard Walton Tully productions (the first he has made in filmland,) both of them declared to be masterpieces of photodramatic art, and both of them First National pictures.

It is probable that on his return he will resume his directorial relations with Mr. Tully who has two more productions in mind for Guy Bates Post and who may ultimately produce "The Bird of Paradise" for First National distribution, it is said.

It has been noted in both "The Masquerader" and "Omar the Tentmaker" that the acting qualities of these pictures are far above average and are revealed by every member of the cast and company, no matter how obscure the player may be. It is the direct contact of players with the acting genius of Director Young that raises the level of photoplay acting.

Thousands in Cast

Sidney Algier, assistant to John M. Stahl, during the filming of "The Danerous Age," Louis B. Mayer's next First National release, estimates conservatively that its beholders will view no less than 50,000 men, women and children in the different scenes. In one episode alone, taken on an eastern racetrack, there were over 40,000 paid admissions. In an elaborate cafe scene 200 fashionably gowned men and women provided the necessary "atmosphere."

Afric's Sunny Star Seeks Place to Shine

A giant negro strolled into the office of the Hope Hampton Studio, where the star was busy filming her new First National picture, "The Light in the Dark," and asked where the casting was done.

"Are you an actor?" asked an assistant director.

"Actor?" cross-questioned the big guy; "why, man—Ah cain play any part in ANY pitcher 'ceptin' de lead in 'Little Lohd Fauntelroy.'"

There being no immediate need for his services, he was asked to leave a card. On the corner of his pasteboard was printed: "I specialize in 'Nubian slaves,' 'Congo Kings' and 'Maori bushmen.'"

Is Big Boy Now

Little Stanley Goethals, a child-favorite of the screen, has foresaken babyhood and become a genuine boy. For 5-year-old Stanley submitted to the ordeal of his first haircut for his appearance in "The Lonely Road," the new Preferred Picture in which Katherine MacDonald is starring. Needless to say that Mother Goethals shed as many tears with each clip of the shears as do the mothers of less distinguished youngsters.

Movie Finger Writes

A photoplay with rhythm is "Omar the Tentmaker."

It should be.

It was made by Guy Bates Post out of magic and musical lines like these:

"The moving finger writes and,
having writ,
Moves on. Nor all your piety, nor wit
Can ever hope to alter half a line
Nor all your tears wash cut a word of it."

"Eternal Flame" Makes Great Success

NORMA TALMADGE in "The Eternal Flame" at the Kinema Theater is establishing herself even more firmly in the esteem of all classes of picture patrons and the consensus of opinion is that "The Eternal Flame" is not only the greatest vehicle she has had in recent cinema history but that it is the biggest and finest picture Frank Lloyd has ever directed or supervised.

Picturesque beyond the power of words to describe; dramatic with the fervor and passion of the times, entertaining with the art of one of the greatest writers civilization has yet produced, Honore de Balzac, and appealing to all classes of theater-goers by virtue of the human interest attaching to the story, "The Eternal Flame" has made a complete conquest of Los Angeles and has fully sustained the standards—and advanced them—of the Kinema Theater.

The patronage given this latest of the Joseph M. Schenck productions is evidence of the public's avidity to support and encourage the highest manifestations of the art of the cinema.

Home From Our Mountains

Richard Barthelmess and his company have returned from the mountains of Virginia, whence they journeyed for the filming of Mr. Barthelmess's next starring production, an adaptation of George Washington Ogden's story, "The Bondboy." Henry King directed the picture. It will be a fall First National release.

No More Motor Trouble

Marshall Neilan offers some new possibilities of the radiophone in his forthcoming First National picture, "Minnie."

In this production, suggested by George Pattullo's story, "Her Man," the wireless telephone is employed not only as a means of carrying the voice but also as a medium of conveying power through the air and running distant automobiles, wind machines, pumps and other machinery.

In the cast are Leatrice Joy, Matt Moore, George Barnum, Helen Lynch, Raymond Griffith, Josephine Crowell and others.

Begins Fourth Week

"Manslaughter", which begins its fourth week today at Grauman's Rialto, is an indictment of the joy spirit of this age.

Cecil B. De Mille, who directed this production, attacks the jazzy generation with heavier artillery than did brother William in "Nice People," a few weeks ago, as "Manslaughter" sounds a somber note of warning to the speed maniacs of today.

The speed-mad young leader of society, Lydia Thorne, driving her racing car in her usuall reckless fashion, crashes into a motorcycle policeman, causing his death, and the conscientious District Attorney, who loves her, sends her to prison for manslaughter. At first she is bitter; then a new light dawns and the she comes out a changed woman, unselfish and eager to help him.

Thomas Meighan gives a straightforward portrayal of the District Attorney, and Leatrice Joy is consistently effective as the girl, while Lois Wilson makes of the maid an interesting character.

—o—

Present Triple Bill

A triple bill will be presented at Grauman's Theater, beginning tomorrow — Wallace Reid in "The Ghost Breaker," Diero, the piano-accordionist, and "A Trip Through Paramount Town."

"The Ghost Breaker" is a big production of the successful play of the same name. With many popular stars headed by Wallace Reid, Lila Lee and Walter Hiers, it promises to duplicate its popularity on the stage.

It is a story which deals with a young American who falls in love with a Spanish princess, and goes to her "haunted" castle to drive the ghosts away. He finds the "ghosts," but not until after many hair-raising adventures.

Wallie Reid has a part full of action and comedy possibilities and Lila Lee as the princess has an opportunity to wear many marvelous gowns. The picture was directed by the man who made Mary Pickford's "Little Lord Fauntleroy," Alfred Green.

—o—

Kinema Holds Feature

Reports of the most laudatory nature concerning Norma Talmadge's latest photoproduction, "The Eternal Flame," have been received at the offices of the Kinema Theater, where this feature is now playing a second week.

Additional interest in this local showing indicates that "The Eternal Flame" is registering well with local film-followers. After "Smilin' Through," it may sound almost too good to be true to say that Norma Talmadge has made an even better production, but eastern, as well as local, critics are unanimous in this opinion.

Further than that, "The Eternal Flame" would see mto prove the supremacy of American art on the screen, even as compared with the most ambitious and spectacular productions of foreign producers. Adapted from Balzac's "La Duchesse de Langeatis," with Norma Talmadge supported by a brilliant cast including Conway Tearle, Rosemary Theby, Irving Cummings, Thomas Ricketts and Adolphe Jean Menjou, and others, the production moves at a swift and interesting pace.

—o—

Drama of Unbeliever

"My Friend the Devil," the new William Fox special picture which is now showing at the Mission Theater in a world premier, has been booked for a second week. The story of the picture is a faithful transcription of George Ohnet's novel, "Dr. Rameau."

The play has to do with the life of a certain man who lost his faith in God; whose egotism blinded him to all reasoning but his own. The drama is portrayed in three distinct parts—the youth, middle age and old age of this man. In his early years he lost his mother. After that he steadfastly refused to believe in God. He became a famous surgeon, fell in love with the daughter of a woman whom he saved, and married her. She did not love him, but carried on an intrigue with a youth whom her husband had befriended.

The blasphemies of the man, his blindness to all virtues and vices in his house, bring about the climax of "My Friend the Devil." This occurs in the third part, when supernatural powers come into the action. Ohnet's novel has been faithfully followed, many of his dramatic punches being preserved with all their vitality.

Thriller at Alhambra

Charles Jones and Eileen Percy in "The Fast Mail," the William Fox thriller having its premiere at the Alhambra Theater this week, end the picture by kissing out on the limb of a tree, thereby arousing the astonishment of the spectator, even though he knows a picture must wind up with a kiss. For earlier in the course of this adaptation of the Lincoln J. Carter melodrama, they have gone through so many perils—especially Jones—that one would imagine they would choose a less perilous place for osculation than high up in a tree.

Jones, in chasing the plot of the story all over the map, rides a horse which leaps over a railroad gate just in time to avoid being pushed over by the fast express; jumps from the fast mail to a speeding automobile, and from one Mississippi steamboat to another, and swings out over a telegraph wire with the heroine clinging to his legs to escape a fire, and altogether has as busy a day as a man can have and still remain intact.

"The Storm" Still Present

"The Storm," the Universal-Jewel attraction which has won widespread commendation, comes to the De Luxe Theater today for an engagement of four days.

An all-star cast, headed by House Peters, makes the screen version of Langdon McCormick's play an artistic triumph. Virginia Valli and Matt Moore play the chief supporting roles. In fact this stellar trio carry the burden of the majority of the scenes.

With the action laid in the Northern Canadian woods, exceptional opportunities were offered for intense dramatic scenes, and Director Reginald Barker took full advantage of each chance to build up the suspense element. The forest fire scene is magnificent and exceeds the thrilling mechanical forest fire given in the stage presentation.

A Crook's Regeneration

A vivid story of a crook's search for freedom, his torment of soul, his fight for happiness and his ultimate redemption after he had vowed vengeance upon his enemy—that is "Flesh and Blood," the Irving Cummings production which will be seen at the Garrick this week.

In this dramatic picture a convict, portrayed by Lon Chaney, escapes from prison and finds refuge in Chinatown. He has been confined for fifteen years, and his one motive is to punish the influential financier who sent him to prison.

Lon Chaney's portrayal of an escaped convict, in the disguise of a helpless cripple, is vivid and compelling. The supporting cast contains the names of some of the most popular screen stars, including Edith Roberts, Jack Mulhall, Ralph Lewis, Noah Beery and De Witt Jennings.

"Signs of the Rose" Reshows

George Beban's photoplay "The Sign of the Rose" played to large crowds during its week's run at the California Theater, and so many people were unable to get in that the management has been besieged by requests for a return engagement. Mr. Beban and his company have left for a world tour with the picture, but by special arrangements with his releasing company, Mr. Miller has been able to secure a special new print of the photodrama and it will be offered at Miller's Theater for one week only, beginning today.

There are probably three great American stage classics that will always live. One is David Warfield's "The Music Master," another is Joseph Jefferson's "Rip Van Winkle" and the third is George Beban's "The Sign of the Rose."

Mr. Beban's portrayal of Pietro, the poor Italian ditch digger is art itself, and in transferring it to the screen he is said to have retained all its delightful humor, its pathos and its deep human touches that make you laugh, cry and thrill, while at the same time the screen has enabled him to inject into it many thrills that could only be spoken of on thestage.

Famed Diva First Artist of Season

America's two most famous song birds, whose successes abroad in the days when success there meant Geraldine Farrar, were both born in New England. Farrar is a native of Massachusetts, and when first sent abroad to study, needed the assistance of the kindly Nordica, then at the height of her career.

Knowing that the famous diva drove each day on the Bois de Boulagne, the small Jerry waited until the carriage came into view, and then jumped on the step, at the same time throwing a locket, containing a picture of Nordica into the astonished singer's lap. This lead to an acquaintainship, which lasted throughout the life of Nordica, and meant untold and kindly help and stimulation to the young aspirant.

Farrar has retained throughout her career, in spite of her extraordinary success which might well have turned the head of another, all the uncanny Yankee shrewdness of her forefathers.

Who else would have had the courage at the very apex of an operatic career, when the only other rival in the hearts of the public, the great Caruso had deported, to bid her public farewell, and devote her time to cultivating the great American public at large from the concert stage?

Her remuneration at the Metropolitan seemed staggering, yet to that organization she was worth it fo ar her every appearance was the signal of a sold out house. In addition, the work was comparatively easy—one new role a year and that of her own choosing, two performances per week and a comfortable living, without the necessity of traveling.

But no matter how brilliant and assured this success was, Farrar realized that at best it was limited, for when or how could she touch that vast public outside of New York?

To reach this farflung audience, she gave up the Metropolitan and declared her intention of devoting her entire time to song recital this season. With her usual foresight she provided everything that would make f— un-equivocal success. Last year when tourin with the Scotti Opera Company she was being coached daily by a well-known teacher who mshe engaged for this particular purpose. Her concert repertoire was brushed up and no day allowed t without minute attention to vocalizing.

Life to Farrar who sings here on October 3, will always wear a youthful aspect, she loves her work, her fight, hter daily climb a little higher in achievement, and her public, which reciprocates this sentiment and has recognized and welcomes her distinctive accomplishments.

PRESS AGENT FOR MOTHERS

some time, I believe," answered the actress. "I'll tell you something. Mothers are writing me that I've helped them with their children, and they want me to keep up the good work. And all the while, what do you think? My own daughter is more blase than I am."

"Boys," she went on, "come to see me often, and tell me they are writing their mothers for the first time in years. One boy came and said he had just sent his mother $500."

Oh, Mrs. Gordon is certainly mother's press-agent!

"Then I entertain the boys in prison in cities where I visit. The warden told me, the next day after I visited Sing Sing prison, that the boys in jail there used more stationery than they had ever used before, writing home."

"They had the mother sickness," he said. "It was the most tragic night of years. Many men didn't sleep all night. 'Humoresque' was shown, and all those murderers and gunmen turned into little children. The warden said he didn't know his boys, they were so much moved."

To Mrs. Gordon, all male human beings are "boys."

The face-card mother of the movies visits hospitals and orphanages in the towns she plays. She was in San Antonio last summer, and went to the home for fallen girls.

"They keep the girls there until their babies are born," she explained. "I found one little 14-year-old mother. 'Oh,' she exclaimed, 'my baby isn't named yet! I shall call her Vera Gordon after you!' I find that a score of these nameless babies have been called after me. I never heard of a regular baby being named for me," she smiled humorously, "but there are flocks of these bad babies named after me! Well, I hope the name does them good."

Mrs. Gordon has many relatives in Russia at present. Her sister and brother are living in her own native town of Ekaterinislov, in the Ukraine, and these, with eleven other relatives, are to be brought to this country by her.

"They are in dire want she explained. "My sister has just lost a son, who died from starvation before her eyes. It is only since January I have been able to hear from them or get word to them.

"Now I send them many packages of food each week, but the boy was already too weakened to survive. The first package they received they wrote me they made a feast. The package contained rice, sugar and condensed milk. I have sent clothes, but these have not reached them. My sister writes me that she never goes out, the reason being that she has literally no clothes. The one garment she wears is made of old sacking. I have a young sister-in-law. She wrote me, the other day, 'I am but 20 years old, but I have lived 100 years. The only thing I live for now is coming to America.'"

HER OWN ROMANCE

Mme. Gordon's own romance is enthralling.

"I met my husband in my native town when I was 17," she said. "He was 17 too and we loved each other dearly. But my parents wouldn't listen. I wept and prayed to be allowed to marry him, but in vain. My uncle was a Rabbi. I went to him and begged him to intercede for me with my parents. He did, and they consented to my marriage. That day I could have kissed every policeman in the street! We were married and I have been very happy.

"My husband says he wouldn't live a day without me, if I died," she smiled with naive fondness. "And I believe him. But for me—I should not die nor commit suicide for him if anything happened to him. I should marry again. Oh yes. I think it is not well for women nor for men to live alone."

Mme. Gordon might never have gone on the stage had not a conflagration come along and almost wiped out her native town. That was when she was 13. She appeared in a benefit, and from that time there was no stopping her. She was a Jewess, however and therefore could not move into the larger Russian cities. But at last a Moscow manager came to see her, and was so taken with her that he swore she was not a Jewess, and so she got into Moscow.

"My husband became my business manager," she explained, "and he has always been that since. We came to America as soon as we could, and I began to work in the Yiddish Theater in New York. I made a success, but nobody could see me for pictures until Frank Borzage came along. I owe him a great deal."

"Do you believe in early marriages?" I asked.

"Yes, I do," she said. "Then young people can get used to each other's ways and grow up together. A woman can marry young, have her children, learn to know life, and then have her career. Why not?"

"Oh, I'm afraid you are responsible with that philosophy, for a great many early marriages," I exclaimed.

"Well," she retorted, "so long as I am responsible for no divorces, I don't care!"

CIRCUS OFFERS

But Shirley Mason May Not Have Accepted

Hollywood film circles are agog today over rumors that a beautiful and talented motion-picture star is about to be attracted from the silver screen to the glamor of a circus life.

Rumors afloat at the studios connect with the report the name of Shirley Mason.

Ringling Brothers circus and Barnum & Bailey show and menagerie combined, it is understood, offered Miss Mason a big financial inducement to join them while in Los Angeles a few weeks ago.

It was learned that the circus owners plan for Miss Mason to do a sword dance on the center platform in the gigantic tent as an additional premier attraction. The move, it is known, is in line with the Ringling policy to obtain the best, big-time vaudeville artists.

But Miss Mason remains silent on her future plans.

REKINDLE ACQUAINTANCE

Bebe Daniels and Lewis Stone, who, with Kathlyn Williams and Harrison Ford are featured in the new William De Mille Paramount picture, "Paths of Glory," are playing together for the first time in ten years. The previous ocurrence took place when Miss Daniels was a child actress. She played "Little Hall" with Mr. Stone at the old Belasco Theater, Los Angeles, in that player's production of the famous old success, "The Squaw Man."

Indian Seeress Headlines

One of the greatest entertainment features of the present theatrical season was the recent appearance of the Princess Wah-letka, the American Indian Seeress, who comes to the Hillstreet Theater this week as the topline attraction.

Wah-letka is a full-blooded Cherokee Indian girl gifted with a remarkable ability to foretell things and to see into the future, which permits her to answer any question put to her. She is internationally famous for the predictions she has made and it is asserted that she has never fallen down yet in her reading of future events. At every performance next week she will answer questions put to her by those in the audience, the only qualification being that no one is to ask her anything if they do not want others to hear the answer.

Another feature of the bill is the appearance of Max Fisher and his dance orchestra. Every one in Los Angeles knows Max Fisher, but not every one has been fortunate to hear this aggregation of musicians interpret popular songs in their appealing manner.

A surprise bit on the bill is the offering of "Song Impressions" by Jean Barrios, a novelty that makes a great hit with the audience. Toney Grey and Company will extract laughs in a comical solution of a dark mystery entitled "Run Down."

Johnny Singer and his Dancing Dolls will present unique entertainment that has proved immensely popular wherever seen. Bob Murphy and . . . combine business with pleasure bringing into the offering a splendid voice and some excellent humor.

The screen program will have for its feature Corinne Griffith in "A Woman's Sacrifice," a drama of the snow country.

Record Not Surpassed

With a record behind it for popularity that has not been surpassed by any other production at the Majestic, "The Rear Car" will begin its eighth week at that theater this afternoon. Even the hot weather recently did not serve to lessen interest in the Edward E. Rose mystery comedy-drama, and capacity audiences have been the invariable rule.

One change has been made in the familiar Wilkes player roster, Hugh Knox being listed to take the place of Forrest Taylor in the role of Kirk Allen. Knox has been a popular member of the Wilkes Alcazar Company in San Francisco, and will be welcomed by many friends and admirers here.

Dudley Ayres, Cliff Thompson, Nana Bryant, Hope Drown and the other players, who, with the exception of Miss Drown, have been in "The Rear Car" since its opening performance, are continuing their portrayals of their various roles to the delight of large Majestic audiences.

Feature Willard Mack

Today's performances of "Poor Papa" mark the farewell of the Will King company at Pantages, and starting with tomorrow's matinee an augmented vaudeville program will take the place of the "musikomedy" that Will King has purveyed each week.

The vaudeville program has Willard Mack as a special added attraction, Mr. Mack having returned last week from a tour of the Pantages circuit with a new dramatic playlet in his inside pocket, written en route between San Francisco and Los Angeles, all ready to embark on another vaudeville cruise. The new playlet is entitled, "Raw Law," and is described as a vital studp of a vital subject. In the cast are Mrs. Mack (Beatrice Banyard,) George Morrell, Clark Marshall and Forest Creighton.

Willard Jarvis's latest musical comedy heads the vaudeville program. Clotilde and Vittoria Gallerini in a program of popular, classic and jazz music on piano, violin, accordeon, cornet and saxophone, will supply the musical number.

Jack Fulton and Peggy Burt keep the audience guessing and giggling with their cross-fire comedy "Stick 'Em Up" in which Miss Burt does a girl burglar set to music and dances. Walter Weems, the southern humorist, holds that title not merely by birth, but by the subject matter of his stories as well. Page and Green, pantomimists, round out the comedy section with silent eccentricities.

The photoplay feature will be Viola Dana's latest picture, "Seeing's Believing," a Metro picture from a scenario by Rex Taylor.

Parisian Novelties

The Birds of Paradise Company at Dalton's Broadway, in their new revue starting today, will introduce a number of Parisian novelty dances and many new song hits.

There have been several additions made to the chorus since last week, and it is now said to be the biggest in the city.

The new comedy is called "Town Gossip." Jack Miller, Al Franks, Ruby Darby, Jack Laughlin, Marjorie Lake, Ted Howland and June Laughlin have been given excellent parts in this production.

The feature picture for the week is "The Poppy," with Norma Talmadge.

Studio Club Girls Frame Clever Act

They're headed for vaudeville, a group of clever girls who live at the Hollywood Studio Club, which is one of the landmarks of Hollywood scenery nowadays.

To the above end, Patsy Ann Epperson has written a characteristic little sketch called "A Hollywood Close-Up," which is part revue and part story, and which has to do with the antics, the troubles and problems of the young ladies of the club. It is full of sparkling lines.

Special musical numbers have been written by Louis F. Gottschalk, well-known composer, with lyrics by Beulah Bains, one of the club members. Harvey Thew contributed a special song. Walter Wills is directing.

The sketch shows a bit of life as it is lived at the studio club, each girl trying in her own particular way to reach success and stardom. The trials of job hunting in pictures, no funds, etc., are also shown. But it's all done in the spirit of happy-go-lucky girlhood, full of eager hope and buoyant spirit.

Settings include an attic bedroom in the studio club, with its raftered ceiling, skylight windows, nondescript furniture and scattered belongings of girlhood.

The act is to be tried out before Orpheum heads and others this week.

Included in the cast are Patsy Ann Epperson, Berenice Vert, Phyllis Connard, Aimee Torrianni, Beulah Bains and Ethel Kay.

Male Dancers Are Scarce, Says Belcher

With the opening of the fall season tomorrow, the Celeste School of Dancing will have launched upon its seventh successful year of training American youth in the art of classic dancing.

As announced sometime ago Belcher is now working toward a ballet that will be entirely American and danced by Americans. Belcher hopes to have this completed and ready for presentation within the next three years.

"Effort to get the American boy to take up dancing has been almost impossible," said Belcher. "The average youth believes ballet dancing is for the fair sex, but that is not so. There is a much larger field for boys in dancing than there is for girls."

"THE COVERED WAGON"

Preparations are being made for James Cruze's Paramount production, "The Covered Wagon," adapted by Jack Cunningham from the book of Emerson Hugh. Much of the picture will be filmed on distant locations, and the educational and historical features, aside from the drama and romance, should make this the film of real value. The cast is now being assembled and production will start next month.

HIGHBROWS AND RUPERT HUGHES

Novelist Swats the European Complex

Says Public is Generally the Best Judge

Help Many or Please Few, is the Choice

BY WILLIAM FOSTER ELLIOT

Personal character is inevitably revealed in any sort of creative work; hence an interview with the creator is apt to be only a verbal rehashing of things which have already been said in paint or notes or celluloid. These men or women seem generally to be dominated by one idea, and while they may talk with exceeding fluency on many subjects this idea will keep coming up as regularly as prohibition at any well-regulated social gathering.

Having seen several of Rupert Hughes's pictures on the screen, I had a more than fair presentiment of what the dominating idea of our talk would be. It is their "human quality" which chiefly distinguishes the Hughes films from many others—their sympathetic handling of ordinary human situations, and their humor. Probably, then, Maj. Hughes would talk chiefly about this human quality in art, with sidelights on highbrows and pleasantly humorous illustrations. It could hardly be otherwise.

It was not otherwise. Maj. Hughes did indeed speak of the human quality art of highbrows. Of the former he spoke knidly; of the latter he said and implied much that was stimulating but not kind.

Maj. Hughes's attitude is quite definite toward that large school of critics who are constantly engaged in asking, "Can anything good come out of America?" Among these he gave H. L. Mencken the post of honor.

"I can't see what good is to be derived from such a state of mind," said he. "Nor can I see any legitimate reason for its existence. Why should it be a noble and artistic thing to write about a Hungarian peasant or artisan, but cheap and inartistic to write about an American carpenter?

"The answer is, I believe, exactly what I have told Mencken personally more than once. It is much easier to damn other people's work than to better it. Also there is the strange fact that, unless a critic pans things pretty consistently, no one thinks he is a good critic. This makes the temptation doubly strong, and naturally the domestic product suffers because of its unromantic origin.

"But these highbrow critics have taken an angle even more strange toward motion pictures. A few years ago it was the fashion for them to condemn unanimously the custard-pie comedy. Then a French critic had courage enough to call Charles Chaplin a great artist. Now all the highbrows write learned treatises on the profundity of slap-stick.

"That's all right, only they are about ten years too late. The public beat them to it. It is my belief that the public generally does beat them to it, liking genuine stuff without knowing why, and not being helped in the least by all these explanatory post mortems.

SITUATION NOT NEW

"The situation isn't new. Shakespeare waited over a century for highbrow recognition. Dryden thought him barbarous, you may remember; Addison left him out of his list of great English poets completely. The public always liked his plays, and would yet if they were not butchered by an attempt to make High Art of them.

"Coming down to the present," Major Hughes continued, "Just what do these critics want of pictures? They praised 'Caligari' extravagantly. They were right; it was a great picture. But its greatness was chiefly because it was only done once. And, anyhow, if we all began doing things like 'Caligari,' would the result be a betterment of anything whatever?

"Speaking of 'Caligari' reminds me of another phase of the highbrow attitude which is even stranger than those I have mentioned. It is their persistent praise—except for the sudden canonization of slapstick—of anything which is deadly serious, full of murders, seductions, drabness and horror.

"If you can do that sort of thing, you can become famous at once. Perhaps no one will read you, but the critics—still, you will be famous. But if you are a humorist you must wait till you're dead, or at least senile. Meanwhile, which does the public like best, Mark Twain or Dostoievsky?

"It narrows down," he went on, "to a proposition which no highbrow will admit has anything to do with the case, but which, nevertheless, I think has a lot to do with it.

"Which is really more worth while—to touch the hearts and lighten the burdens of one's struggling fellow-men, or to angle for the verbose encomiums of a handful of critics who change their viewpoints completely every year or so?

"I can only see one answer."

We talked a bit more on the same subject, and finally he told me a story by way of illustration, which seemed so good that I append it by way of a tail piece.

According to Maj. Hughes, Arnold Bennett, accompanied by one or two other literary men, was visiting the front during the European war. They came one day to a French soldier on outpost duty. He was standing in a sort of well, and under his feet, much scrambled with mud and filth, was the body of the man who had been his companion.

The visitors found him singing to himself, however, to the cheerful accompaniment of notes rapped out on six or eight champagne bottles filled to varying heights with water.

That night, when they had returned to a zone of comparative safety, one of Arnold Bennett's companions said:

"Well, the most heroic thing I've seen today was that soldier playing a tune on his bottles in the midst of the gravest danger and with no companion but a dead man. Don't you agree with me, Mr. Bennett?"

Whereupon Mr. Bennett is reported to have drawled:

"Oh, I don't know . . . By the way, did you notice that several of the beastly bottles were dreadfully out of tune?"

"To the highbrow," concluded Maj. Hughes, "the bottles are always out of tune."

MUSICAL

FITZIU AS SALOME?

MAY PORTRAY SENSATIONAL STRAUSS ROLE HERE

Anna Fitziu may this season be seen here in the role of Salome, already made famous in opera in this city by Tarquini-Tarquini and Mary Garden, if plans of Fortune Gallo, impresario of the San Carlo organization do not go astray. Mr. Gallo has announced the presentation of the Richard Strauss work during his four weeks' engagement in New York, which started last Monday, and if this production is successful he probably will include "Salome" in the repertoire for his tour. Miss Fitziu is scheduled for the role of the snaky princess.

Gallo promises several other new features in his repertoire for the present season, and anything of this sort that he offers will be good news for the opera-goer, because at present his is the only operatic organization in sight.

The Russian Opera Company's visit is said to be definitely off. A co-ordination of the dates in San Francisco and Seattle could not be obtained. Consequently the negotiations and arrangements which have been in progress for the past several weeks, have fallen through.

Musical advices from the East herald the arrival of an opera company from Germany, including in its repertoire such Wagnerian music-dramas as "Tristan and Isolde," "The Mastersingers," "Lohengrin," "Tannhauser" and "The Flying Dutchman," but it is very doubtful if this troupe will get far away from the eastern coast during the present season.

Meanwhile, "Salome" appears as the most sensational offering of the year. It has already been three times given here, twice with Tarquini-Tarquini in the days of the Western Metropolitan, about ten years ago, and once by the Chicago Opera Association, with Mary Garden as the star. This was last season.

Ellis Club Elects

The Ellis Club at its annual meeting elected the following officers and committee men for the year 1922-1923: President, Walter Bordwell; vice-president, E. W. Shank; secretary, Herbert D. Alfonso; treasurer, L. Zinnamon.

The board of directors are: Walter Bordwell, E. S. Shank, George Steckel, Herbert D. Alfonso, L. Zinnamon, O. W. Leonard, H. A. Ford; music committee: George Steckel, chairman, W. M. Webster, G. J. Vieria. Membership committee: H. A. Ford, chairman; Otto G. Wildey, Charles E. Hoover, C. Harsin. House committee: O. W. Leonard, chairman, A. R. Jaqith, R. D. Weaver. Publicity committee. William Dellamore and C. P. Donnell; E. W. Sweeney librarian.

J. B. Poulin and Mrs. M. Hennieon-Robinson were unanimously reappointed to their positions of musical director and accompanist, respectively. Prof. Poulin has been director of the Ellis Club for the past twenty-one years.

Violinist in San Francisco

Morris Stoloff, Los Angeles violinist, left last Tuesday for San Francisco, where he will appear as soloist at the Sunday morning concert of the California Theater this morning. He will present three solos for the Sunday morning concert; Romanza Andalusa by Sarasate; "Ave Maria" by Shubert and "Aus der Heinat" by Smetana. Mr. Stoloff will return in time to begin rehearsals with the Philharmonic Orchestra and to fill the concert engagements which have been booked here for him.

Baritone from New Orleans

Ricardo Montiel, dramatic baritone, has just arrived in Los Angeles from New Orleans, where he has been a member of the New Orleans Grand Opera Company for several seasons. Mr. Montiel who has made three tours of the South, made an unexpected tour of Spain two years ago where he was received with the greatest of enthusiasm. He has appeared in opera and concert in Mexico City, Havana, New York, St. Louis and New Orleans and will appear in recital in Southern California when he will present unusual song programs featuring Italian, French, and Spanish songs in the language of the composers.

Back From Boston

Among the California singers to return to Los Angeles for the coming season is Gladys Wagner, coloratura-soprano, who has spent the past year in Boston, studying with Charles White. Miss Wagner is remembered here as a protege of Constantino with whom she appeared on a tour of two months in Mexico. Her voice, a true coloratura-soprano has a range of three octaves. While in the East Miss Wagner appeared in recital and musicales before several of the clubs of Boston and surrounding cities. She has specialized upon modern songs and in answer to many requests will give a recital here in the near future.

Install Officers

The Los Angeles Music Teachers' Association elected the following officers, who were installed on the 18th inst.: President, Julius V. Seyler; vice-president, Davol Sanders; recording secretary, Gladys T. Littell; corresponding secretary, Emma M. Bartlett; treasurer, Kathryne J. Wilson. Committe Chairman: Membership, Winfred Lucia Fisher; program and press, Maude Fenlon Bollman; hospitality, Edith Lillian Clark; finance, Charles E. Pemberton; auditing, Charles C. Drea.

An interesting bit of musical news concerns the recent establishment by the Woman's Lyric Club of a $50,000 Endowment Fund, to be used exclusively for presenting artists of note to Los Angeles audiences. This fund will be a permanent one, supplied and maintained through personal gifts and through the sale of special endowment memberships in the club, and will be ably administered by an Advisory Board of recognized musical standing.

The Club also wishes to announce that Arthur Middleton, who has been engaged as guest artist for the December 1st club concert aat Philharmonic Auditorium, will make his only Los Angeles appearance at that time.

Lyric Club officers for 1922-23 are as follows: President, Mrs. W. V. Goodfellow; first vice-president, Mrs. Edith Wing-Hughes; second vice-president, Mrs. George Vieira; recordinfl treasurer, Mrs. E. M. Hitchcock; financial secretary, Mrs. C. P. Smith; corresponding secretary, Miss Annis Howell; librarians, Mrs. C. L. Peters; Mrs. Mary Douglas, and Miss Thelma Benson.

Directors are: Mrs. L. B. Girard, Mrs. Electa Flet Ferry, Mrs. Harry MacMullen, and Miss Cornelia Glover. Committee chairmen are: Music, Mrs. L. B. Girard; voice, Mrs. Electa Felt Ferry; printing and press, Mrs. Helen H. Pierce.

Advocates Weight Method

Prof. Jacob Weinstein, Russian piano teacher, who has recently become an addition to the local musical colony, is a graduate of the Warsaw Conservatory, and a student of the famous Russian teacher, Domanewsky. Prof. Weinstein is a serious advocate of the weight method of piano playing. This method was used by Rubinstein, and later by Breithaupt and Steinbonsen. The progress made under this system is said to be much more rapid than others, enabling the pupil to acquire great strength without forcing, perfect technique and clearness and beauty of tone within a comparatively short time.

Film Cadman Song

The famous song, "The Land of the Sky-Blue Water," composed by Charles Wakefield Cadman, is the theme of a motion picture upon which the actual work has begun, is the word received by Mr. Cadman, who will direct and supervise the taking of many of the scenes.

Visits Chicago

Mr. Jerome Uhl, head of the vocal department of the Zoellner Conservatory of Music, lately went to Chicago for a brief visit. The object of this trip was to cancel a contract with the Chicago Grand Opera Company, which he now holds. He returned to Los Angeles on Friday and will at once take up his work in earnest at the conservatory.

To Winter Here

Mme. Ragna Linne, vocal teacher of Chicago, and formerly a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, will spend this season in Los Angeles. She has been soloist with the Chicago, Minneapolis, Cincinnati, Pittsburg and other symphony orchestras, as well as with almost every choral society of note.

Pianist Resumes Classes

Blanche Roger Lott, pianist, has resumed her piano classes at the Clifford Lott studios, 912 West Twentieth street. Mrs. Lott, together with Emil Feruviola and Henri De Busscher, oboist, forming L'Ensemble Modern, are actively engaged in rehearsals for concerts with the recently formed Los Angeles Chamber Music Society. Their first appearance this season will be on October 27, at the Gamut Club.

The Fletcher Method

After a motor trip vacation, Mrs. Palmer T. Reed has reopened her residence studio at 1157½ South Vermont and is planning special classes for progressive lessons to advanced students and also classes in the Fletcher method for children. Mrs. Reed has taught the Fletcher method for many years, both here and in the East.

Extensive Preparations

At the Lily Link Brannan piano studio, Walker Theater Building, preparations are being made for the coming year. Well selected programs for musical matinees and more elaborate programs for the advanced students are being planned. The first of the afternoon musicals was given Saturday by Helen and May Scott, two clever children, who presented a program of piano solos and ensemble numbers.

With Harp and Voice

Julie Kellar, harpist, and Emmet Flodd, tenor, presented a musical program last Thursday evening at their residence studio, 7162 De Longpre avenue, Hollywood, to about twenty-five guests. Studio musicals are given on Thursday evening of each week by these artists.

High School Concert Series

Miss Edna Ames announces a splendid series of concerts for the Hollywood High School this year. Jessie Christian, former prima donna soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, who has substituted for Mme. Galli Curci on many occasions, opens the series on October 31.

John Charles Thomas, celebrated American baritone, who has just had a great success in Europe, is the second number on the course, appearing in November, after opening the Fitzgerald series at the Philharmonic Auditorium.

Thurlow Lieurance, the famous composer, assisted by a flutist and a soprano, gives the third program of the series, and Erwin Nyiregyhazi, Hungarian pianist, closes the series in January. This is the most pretentious series the Hollywood High School has yet offered. All concerts will be given in the afternoon, in the auditorium of the Hollywood High School Building.

Adds Musical Director

Mlle. Yvonne, well-known instructor of the dance, has been fortunate in being able to add to her faculty Miss Albin as musical director. Miss Albin is very well known in the San Francisco Bay region as pianist and accompanist.

Enrolling Pupils

Gloria Bretherton, who has recently completed a successful summer term of vocal lessons, is now enrolling pupils for the fall season. Mrs. Bretherton's studio teas, given monthly during last season, which were so largely attended by music lovers, will again be held in the MacDowell clubrooms on the first Sunday afternoon of each month. Classes in opera appreciation are also being arranged, and will be held at stated intervals with Chev. Tulgenzio conducting.

To Do "Lorna Doone" Score

Sol Cohen, who recently returned from the East, has been commissioned to synchronize the music for the photoplay "Lora Doone," which has just been finished by the Thomas Ince Company. Mr. Cohen's work when he scored the Ince production "Skin Deep" was so well received that he was engaged for this picture. Later Mr. Cohen plans to use some of his own compositions in this work as he completed many this summer.

Growth Arouses Interest

The remarkable musical growth of Los Angeles has occasioned much interest according to John Smallman, baritone, who has just returned from a summer spent with La Forge in New York where he coached and gathered new material for programs, and also with his old teacher Mullenhaur of Boston with whom he studied conducting. He found much new material for the Los Angeles Oratorio Society of which he is conductor. Mr. Smallman thinks that within a few years students will come to Los Angeles to study, as the feeling in the East seems to be that Los Angeles is a splendid field for young singers.

First Optimists' Program

The American Music Optimists believe that compositions of the representative American composers are worthy of the most sincere and earnest co-operative effort. Mrs. Cecil Frankel extends an invitation to every one interested in this club to attend their first program in the Ebell Club on Thursday evening, the 28th inst. Carl Gantvoort, baritone, Davol Sanders, violinist, Joseph Bloot, violo, Robert Staples violinist and President University of Southern California Dr. Rufus von KleinSmid are to be among the artists of the evening.

Back From Convention

Lillian Payne of Payne's Academy has just returned from the eastern convention of the American National Association of masters of dancing and opened the departments of ballroom and stage dancing for both children and adults yesterday.

Dancer is Soloist

Edith Lindsay, a young dancer, who has recently returned from New York, will be the solo artist for the Hollywood Community Chorus' program next Tuesday evening.

Eighth Popular Program

This evening at the First Presbyterian Church will be given the eighth of a series of popular musical programs. These numbers were requested by members of the congregation: Organ, "Hallelujah Chorus" (Handel;) anthem, "Lord, it is Not Life to Live" (Barnes;) organ, "Lullaby" (Brahms;) anthem, "By Babylon's Wave" (Gounod;) organ, "The Lost Chord" (Sullivan;) anthem, "Dreams of Galilee" (Morrison;) organ, "Sunset in a Japanese Garden" (Foster;) solo, "He Shall Feed His Flock;" solo, "Come Unto Me" from "The Messiah" (Handel,) and organ, Grand March from "Aida" (Verdi.)

Sibley G. Pease is the organist and director. The quartet is composed of Jeannette Colwell, Virgie Lee Mattoon, A. Sheldon Balinger and Austin Black.

From Two Years in Arizona

Lillian Adams Liknaitz, pianist and teacher, has returned to Southern California after an absence of two years in Arizona, where last April she represented the Phoenix Musicians' Club at the State Federation of Music Clubs convention held in Tucson, and played two groups of Chopin and Liszt numbers. Mrs. Liknaitz is now living at 745 Aurora Place, Venice, where she is engaged in teaching and arranging programs for the coming season.

Vacations in Mountains

Mrs. Ralph Laughlin has returned from a vacation spent in the mountains and has resumed teaching piano and organ at her studio.

Canadian Visiting

Ethel C. McDonald, late teacher in Havergal Women's College, Winnipeg, Can., and also at Carnegie Hall, New York, has rented the Charles Farwell Edson studio at 2020 Toberman street, and intends to remain here for some time. Miss McDonald, whose musical work is well known in Canada, is a pupil of Dr. Vogt of Toronto.

Presented at Long Beach

The talented young pianist, Pauline Farquahar, artist pupil of Abby De Avirette, was presented in recital Friday evening at Fitzgerald Music Hall, Long Beach. A most exacting program was given by this young artist with understandng, finished tcehnique and temperament. Miss Farquhar's program opened with Beethoven's Sonata, op. 57; a Chopin group followed by Rachmaninoff's "Polka," "On Wings of Song," by Mendelssohn-Liszt and as a final number.

Concert at Trinity

The forthcoming concert to be given next Friday evening at Trinity Auditorium, under the management of Mme. Newcombe Prindell, "Campanella," by Paganini-Liszt, who is presenting six artists of unusual ability, is looked forward to as one of the local musical treats of the season.

Of special interest will be several compositions by Edith Norman, piano soloist and accompanist, to be sung by Louise Dorr, soprano. Miss Norman has but recently returned from Peabody Conservatory, Baltimore, Md., and has had exceptional success and experience in the East.

Other well-known artists included on the program are: Josef Rosenfeld, violinist; Esther Friche Green, organist-accompanist; Helen Newcombe, pianist, and Carl Singer.

AMERICAN ORCHESTRA SYSTEM IS PRAISED

Los Angeles is fortunate in possessing the Philharmonic Orchestra, Walter Henry Rothwell, conductor, which, through the generosity of W. A. Clark, Jr., is allowed the necessary number of rehearsals to perfect the men in their respective duties.

The comments of two foreign musicians upon the musical conditions in this country give an insight into symphony conditions that are quite favorable to the American organizations.

Pierre Monteaux refers to a fact which has considerable bearing on the finish and excellence of the performances of our symphony orchestras. He says: "The Paris Symphony cannot give its audience anything but tried music, except on rare occasions. It cannot afford to spend a lot of time in rehearsal. The result is that Paris does not hear many a great work that comes to Boston, New York, Los Angeles and Detroit," and he refers to the fact that with these American orchestras they may have as many rehearsals as the conductors may demand, as members of the orchestras are on a regular pay roll.

Mengelberg, who recently returned to Amsterdam after a four months' visit to America, expressed himself in enthusiastic terms in regard to the musical advance he found here. In several interviews he stated that he considered that, at the present rate of progress, within a quarter of a century the United States will be first of all countries in music. Like the Amergenerally he is wealthy. Mengelburg drew particular attention to Mr. Eastman, a millionaire of Rochester, and W. A. Clark, Jr., of ican collector of books and pictures, the American connoisseur of music is keen and patriotic, and Los Angeles.

NEW SCHOOL FORMED IN SAN FRANCISCO

Word comes from San Francisco of the founding of a new school of the arts of the theater by the San Francisco Stage Guild under the general direction of Sam Hume and the management of Jessica Colbert, in which Hedwig Reicher, the famous actress, who is well known here, will have a prominent place upon the faculty. The success of her Poetry Theater in Oakland has placed Miss Reicher among the successful director-producers of the West. It is the plan of the guild to present a season of productions at the Plaza Theater from October 16 to December 23.

Other members of the faculty will include Maurice Browne, founder and co-director of the Chicago Little Theater; Ellen Van Volkenburg, director of Puppet theaters and former partner of Tony Sarg; Irving Pichel, stage director; Rudolph Schaeffer, art director; Norman Edwards, costume designer; Maude Scheerer and Everett Glass.

Miss Reicher will make a short tour of Southern California in April, when she has been booked to appear at the Shakespeare Club of Pasadena, in San Diego, Santa Barbara and other cities where she will present readings of the plays, the interpretations of which have made her the most talked of reader in America.

PLAYING .. "MAID .. MARIAN"

Feminine Star in New Fairbanks Picture

Enid Bennett

THE dedication of Grauman's Hollywood Theater will take place on Wednesday night, October 18, with a notable assemblage on hand to view Douglas Fairbanks's great superproduction, "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood," which Sid Grauman has secured for Hollywood as a world premier.

"Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" is the product of something new and revolutionary in the picture industry. It is the film cabinet—not a container for the films, but a body of counsellors which can readily be compared with the cabinet of our Chief Executive.

In this new arrangement the director corresponds to the Secretary of State and the scenario editor can be compared to the Attorney-General, and so on down the line, except, of course, that the film cabinet comprises portfolios that have their own distinctive reasons for being.

Douglas Fairbanks, in filming "Robin Hood," has probably brought this new method to a higher state of perfection than any other picture producer. Emulating President Harding in his campaign pledge to gather around him "the best minds in the country," Mr. Fairbanks selected the following advisers:

Allan Dwan was appointed secretary of state (director.) He was assigned to this important part because in Mr. Fairbanks's opinion he was the best man available, possessing executive ability, tireless energy, congeniality and experience.

Robert Fairbanks, a civil and electrical engineer of national repute, was handed the portfolio of construction and production, which carries with it direction and supervision of all building activities. His knowledge of engineering, coupled with his many years' experience in the making of motion pictures, stamped him as the man fitted to hold this important position.

Arthur Edeson, one of the leading cinematographers of filmland, headed the department of photography. He has an enviable record, having photographed such screen successes as "Bought and Paid For," "Baby Mine," "Cheating Cheaters," "Eyes of Youth," "Soul of Raphael" and "The Three Musketeers."

Mrs. Lotta Woods entered the motion-picture field some years ago, starting with the Fairbanks company as a reader in the scenario department. An experience gained in school and newspaper work soon placed her at the very head of that department, which position she holds today.

Wilfred Buckland, considered the foremost authority on architecture of the twelfth century, and who, when in college, wrote his thesis on the Norman period, is most ably qualified to hold his portfolio, that of art director.

Irvin J. Martin was director of design. He was born thirty-three years ago at Lowell, Mass., and is a graduate of Pratt's Art Institute of New York. His apprenticeship was gained through the New York Scenic studios, where he worked under the direction of Ernest Alberts and George Bridgeman. At the age of 16 years he had completed by himself a Broadway production in its entirety, and he had the distinction of having had a number of his paintings exhibited at the St. Louis Exposition.

NEW FEATURES ARE SCARCE

brance." Goldwyn's first big production for 1922-1923, which opens the new fall season at the California Theater today, two weeks ahead of its national release date.

In "Remembrance" it is promised that Maj. Hughes has given the screen another cross-section of American home life that is filled with the Hughes heart wallop, the Hughes insight into people, their faults and virtues. It has humor, pathos, heart interest, laughs, fights, fun and frolics. He proves that the old saying, "Everybody works but father," is all wrong and has written a story of a typical American business man who pays all the bills while the rest of his family have all the fun.

Claude Gillingwater, character star, portrays the role of "Pop" Grout, designated by the author as the family gold-digger, for he is always digging for a little more of the filthy lucre to appease his extravagant family.

Cullen Landis,

Who bids for stellar honors in "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" at the Symphony Theater.

One of the most notable casts of the season appears with Mr. Gillingwater in this Hughes feature, including such favorites as Patsy Ruth Miller, Cullen Landis, Kate Lester, Richard Tucker, Dana Todd, Esther Ralston, Arthur Trimble, Max Davidson, Nell Craig and Lucille Ricksen.

Officially Praised

"It remained," recently stated the official organ of an association for better pictures, "for an unknown company to produce in competition with the established companies of reputation, one of the best productions of the year, 'Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?' "

The film in question has caused more comment during the year than probably any other motion-picture production. Critics came in many cases to scoff, but remained to praise.

During the summer months when Harold Lloyd's five-feel comedy, "Grandma's Boy," was making records at the Symphony, H. B. Breckwedel, managing director, was engaged in a search for a production to be a fit successor to the Lloyd opus.

In "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" he believes he has found a production that is practically 100 per cent entertainment.

It combines comedy, drama and thrills in a manner excellently balanced. It is the type of production that leaves one with the happy feeling that, after all, the world is a pretty good place.

INTERESTING

Picture Hats and Draped Dresses requisite earrings and other jewelry—noticeably bracelets. And when the earrings and the bracelets match—that is a touch—unique!

"One o'Clock Saturday's"

In Bullock's Jewelry section is such a set—earrings of delicate pearl hoops with black and crystal motif—and enticing combination—and priced at $9.50. A bracelet to match comes at $12.—How wonderfully effective these would be with a large Spanish comb! Bullock's First Floor.

"Bullock's For Furs"

Cabochons of Jet—of Cut Steel—of bone—oh! myriads of them—scintillating ones. For dresses—for hats—for suits—for coats—a cabochon gives that finishing effect be-speaking the "new." Prices range from $1 to $5. Bullock's First Floor.

"One o'Clock Saturday's"

Ernest Williams' hand-tinted photographs of California scenes—they need no description—their fame is so widespread. Magnificent things—and all the more lovable because they depict in all their glory trysting spots dear to the hearts of California lovers. They make a gift supreme. Bullock's Art, Needlework and Gift Store—Hill Street Building.

Bullock's For Gloves"

Parfum—From France—exquisitely French in fragrance, in form of bottle. La Tulipe Noire—the very latest scent—from Jaspy of Paris. In an artistically shaped bottle decorated with velvet tulip leaves—you could not mistake the French impress on such a combination. Bullock's First Floor.

"One o'Clock Saturday's"

It has been said there's nothing sweeter than the rose itself. But surely, had the speaker seen these glorious handmade ones at Bullock's, he would have doubted. For they almost beggar description in their beauty. One is fashioned of silk and velvet in gorgeous autumn oranges, with gold cloth, and ostrich tips—and all enhanced with bits of hand tinting. How wonderful it would be on a background of brown Panne velvet! And the price is surprisingly low—$6.50. Bullock's First Floor.

HOP HEADS AND THEIR HABITS

uses morphine by injecting it into the arm, or leg, usually with a gun, or hypodermic needle.

A "hophead" is one who uses opium, or its derivative, "yen-shee," a much more common and cheaper smoke.

Smoking opium is known as "hitting the hop" or, "lying on the hip." The opium is cooked over a small peanut oil stove, or lamp. It must be cooked by an expert to a proper consistency. He is known among the victims as the "chef." The opium is sticky at first, and is rolled much like gum It must not be burnt or made too dry in the cooking process. The chef turns the pill round and round over the flame, and every now and then takes it from the flame and rolls it again.

When the pill is properly cooked the user sits near the lamp and puts the stem of a long pipe to his lips. The pill is placed in the pipe and held near the flame, which burns it to a frizzle. The smoker then inhales three, four, or five times. He then sails away on a barge of dreams to the land of never-was.

The preparation of the pill, such as cooking, etc., takes about ten minutes. The smoking of the opium requires not over a minute at the most. Great stress is always placed on the proper cooking of the pill, because if the "pill is green" and not correctly cooked, it will cause a disturbing and sickening nausea.

Opium is smoked only by the more favored "dopes," as it is extremely high priced and is becoming rapidly more so.

"MUD" THEY CALL IT

Opium is known as "mud" to the user. It looks a great deal like axle grease. Those who use opium are known among the dream-hunting fraternity as "having a habit." When they are under the influence of the drug, they are spoken of as "having a yen-en."

Opium and hop parties are indulged in more by professional and wealthy people. Many of them look ahead to a "sniffling party" for days at a time. They go to the scene of the affair as nonchalantly as others go to church. As opium is smoked while the smoker is lying down, they stretch out "on the hip" after the pills are cooked, as described above.

There are some well-known smokers in Los Angeles, known by name to many who are acquainted with the night life of the city.

Cocaine, which is called "coke," "C" or "snow," is usually the first dope used by the beginning sniffler. From that he goes to "H," or heroin. This latter is a far more powerful drug. It quite often causes a ribald sort of frenzy to take possession of the user. If they happen to be moody or dreamy, the drug gives magnificent wings to their imagination. To this class of drug user belong the more dangerous characters, who stop at nothing while in the throes of the drug. Yeggs, highwaymen and brutal degenerates of all kinds are often goaded on to unspeakable crimes by heroin.

Opium gives a more soothing, pleasant dream, like being wafted on softest down by girl angels with pink cheeks and golden wings through the blue ether, while the stars dance merrily all around.

PITIFUL VICTIMS

"M" or "morph" is the abbreviation of morphine among the habituated. Morphine is used by those who have passed the easier stages of drugs and who are not satisfied with those less powerful. The morphine user is an object of pity. Their sufferings are intense and terrible when they are unable to obtain the drug. They inject it with a hypodermic needle in the arms or legs. There are many cases where hardly a spot on the body is left that is not purple and festered from the jabbing of the needle. The skin quite often hardens so that the hypodermic needle will break off in an attempted incision. The poor victim will jab at his skin with a large safety pin or other sharp instrument in a mad effort to obtain the alleviating effect of the morphine. After the incision is made in the hard skin the hypodermic needle follows quickly. Then dreams come to the drug-tortured soul.

In spite of the watchful eyes of government officials, and of those of county and State, the drug is still obtained at exorbitant prices that would make a bootlegger look like a man of charity. The seller or "wholesaler" usually meets the buyer in an appointed place, the vestibule of a public building, a street corner, or any place to avoid suspicion.

The drug is wrapped in small packages called "bindles." The dealer stands at the appointed spot. At an opportune moment the buyer passes by and slips him the money, and says "H," "C" or "M," according to the drug desired.

Some time later the buyer stands at an appointed place and the dealer passes him, in the same manner that the buyer passed the dealer a short time before. The drug is then passed to the buyer. And so the traffic continues.

Opium is a narcotic drug prepared from the juice of the opium poppy. The medicinal value of the juice was recognized hundreds of years before Christ. It was not commercialized until about the twelfth or thirteenth century.

It found its way from Asia Minor into India at about that time. The monopoly of its sale became the property of the Great Mogul, and it was regularly sold by him. It penetrated into Persia, where the better grades were flavored with spices and called "theriaka." It was introduced into China by the Arabs soon after. It was used in China for medicinal purposes for about 100 years, until the East India Company saw the commercial value of it for other purposes, as it turned out. About two hundred chests of the drug were sent from India to China in 1773. In less than twenty years thousands of chests were sent to China instead of the 200 yearly.

Opium is the dragon that eats at the heart of China. England, through the East India Company established the use of it there. The government of China fought it for years, until one day it discovered that they were producing more of the raw product than Indian was sending.

INHERITED CURSE

The trained observer can always tell the dope victims. They cannot eat, their skin is leaden, and they have no energy. They often become shriveled masses of walking flesh.

The habit can be handed down. An unborn child can acquire it from its mother. The craving of the mother eats into the forming brain of the child.

There have been many famous drug addicts. Thomas De Quincey, the brilliant English writer of a century ago, and Samuel Taylor Coleridge, the great English poet and philosopher, are at the head of the list in England. There are those who contend that Coleridge was under the influence of a drug when he conceived the idea of "The Ancient Mariner," one of the most fantastic and weirdly beautiful treasures in the English language. The following verse indicates the opium dream:

"Their souls did from their bodies fly,
They fled to bliss or woe,
And every soul it passed me by,
Like the whizz of my cross-bow."

In DeQuincey's "Confessions of an English Opium Eater," he mentions "dreams of terrific grandeur."

The drug addict loses all comprehension of space and time. In the case of men of genius like Coleridge and De Quincey, their dreams must have been such that would have dazzled Shakespeare.

SHERLOCK HOLMES

Sir A. Conan Doyle's famous character, Sherlock Holmes, was addicted to the use of the hypodermic needle. Edgar Allen Poe, at one time in his career, was supposed to have used the drug, as have many writers, artists and other men of great intellectual equipment.

I have seen dope fiends behold the ocean drying up before their eyes. There was one I knew, now long since beyond the use of needle or pill, and the craving of dope forever—who beheld whales flying with the wings of sparrows, at thousands of miles an hour.

While drink benumbs the physical body, a drug like heroin energizes it. It would make a real-estate man sell himself a lot which he did not want. It was the cause of one addict selling 500 head of fine sheep to a gentleman from Iowa on tour in the West.

VAGARIES OF ADDICTS

The gentleman had left the waving corn fields for Los Angeles. He had stopped off in San Francisco, and while there he met a fluent salesman who was going out of the sheep business. He took the Iowa man to the edge of Golden Gate Park, where the sheep nibbled in a field. The Iowa man bought the sheep and gave $100 to bind the bargain. His receipt was given him by the seller, and was signed Jonathon Swift Armour. The seller then took the buyer to Arbuckle's hotel in the Golden Gate City, where he bought him a splendid meal with Iowa money.

When the farmer wished to remove his sheep he had considerable difficulty with the city officials, who took the foolish stand that they should have been consulted before the people's property had been disposed of. One of them even wanted a commission.

It was a gentleman loaded up with heroin who sold the Masonic Temple in Chicago to a passing stranger who had left his plow in the field to hunt for a sucker on State street.

NERVED THE HOBO

A vagrant, loaded with "H" once beat his way on a fast passenger train with me. While the train waited at the station he left the blind baggage and strolled along the platform as nonchalantly as a salesman looking for his trunk—or a customer. He walked up to the conductor of the train and began talking with wild abandon.

The conductor was dazed for a moment, and put his hand to his forehead and staggered backward. Recovering himself, he then put his hand in his pocket and handed the hophead something.

The "hobo" returned to the blind, holding a 50 cent piece in his hand, and raving furiously because passenger conductors were becoming so tight. It is hard to make a hobo believe this story, for in tramp circles it passes understanding. It is the greatest feat of daring in my recollection. And the conductor saw him crawl back on the blind.

There was one man who was an addict, who used to go off on "astronomy" when under the influence. He had studied that subject in his youth.

PASTING STARS IN SKY

He used to tell me confidentially that God had given him the contract to paste the stars to the sky. God, to him, was a man, hundreds of feet tall, whose throne was a red cloud trimmed with white. He used to see him each night and make a report as to his progress. He had an airplane longer than Moneta avenue, in which he carried his stars. There were thousands of them, no larger than baseballs. He would aim carefully at the sky, the star being the first covered with paste and placed in the cannon. It would then whirl through the air, and grow large and larger until it filled the world with a brilliant light. A mighty black void would open in the sky as the star approached. It would then close slowly as the star drew near, glittering beyond any light dreamed of by man, and traveling a thousand miles a second.

The angel, Gabriel, superintended the job, and he used to whirl through the air on a green cloud trimmed with black. The "dope's" eyes used to dance as he told the story, and once, as he talked, he looked up and admired his matchless work.

"I was a thousand years doin' that job," he said, and you're the first one I've ever told." He is still somewhere in the world, bragging like lesser mortals, of work, which if he did it, should speak for itself.

THE TERRIBLE GRIP

Once the habit has been formed it is nearly impossible to break it. Men of strong will and great intellect are weaker than children in the giant arms of the drug. The habit can be and has been broken. The weaker willed become doddering idiots in time. But those of strong mind are battered down like brave-hearted pugilists, and rise, nerve-shattered and shaking like trees in the wind. And still they fight on. And such is the power of an unbeaten mind, that they win at last.

Mankind's accumulated sufferings should make them kind. I know a boy who committed murder under the influence of heroin. The crime was terrible. But the crime of civilization was even more terrible. He was cured at last, and none too gently.

They broke his neck on a gallows.

Soldiers of the broken battalions, with blood running into your eyes. . . . My hand.

This Will Ward Off And Break Up Colds

Just a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin removes the congestion

THE two ailments that people generally regard as of the least importance are in reality the cause of most serious illnesses and of the greatest proportion of deaths. They are constipation and common colds. Many doctors now believe that colds, tonsilitis, a touch of malaria will cause constipation, instead of constipation being their cause. The fact remains that you seldom have a cold without constipation, due to general congestion. The only way to avoid colds is to keep up your vitality. You usually catch cold in the winter if you are run down. Therefore in cold weather exercise more; eat more fatty foods; drink four to six glasses of water a day; keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

You are also less liable to colds if your system is free from the intestinal poisons of constipation, so empty the bowels regularly with a plain vegetable laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

At the first sign of a cold, at the first few warning sneezes, take a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin and the congestion will be gone in a few hours. Don't wait until the cold has a grip on you. Mr. Henry Dean, Jr., of Rochester, N. Y., cured a stubborn cold in just that way, and Mrs. Alice Corbbrey of Haskell, Okla., uses it effectively for all the small ills of her family, such as constipation, biliousness, headaches, dizziness, and to break up fevers and colds.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientifically-balanced compound of Egyptian senna with pleasant-tasting aromatics. It is safe to give to infants, and all children like it. Before you again resort to cold remedies containing narcotics try a teaspoonful of Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist will supply you, and the cost is less than a cent a dose.

Few wom- enough to believe the man who blurts out the bald statement that they are a second Venus or an understudy to Minerva, but there is a delicate way of insinuating these things that is like a whiff of incense and intoxicates one.

The most subtle compliment of all, however, and one that, strangely enough, very few men ever think of paying to a woman, is to affect interest in her views of life and desire to know her real thoughts. It is here that clergymen make their winnings. Other men flatter a woman for her looks, or her viviacity. The parson talks to her about her soul, and the compliment is so unusual that it goes to her head.

Women like bold men, but they hate the man who acts as if he was a good thing that every woman was trying to get. Although many a man loses the sweetheart he is courting because he lacks the courage to ask for what he wants, many another is refused because he looks so certain the girl will jump at him; she can't resist the pleasure of calling him down.

Women like generous men, but they have a contempt for the chump who spends more than he can afford upon them. No man ever really bought a woman's love. Every girl has what she calls candy beaux and theater beaux, but she seldom marries them. The man who curries favor with a woman by gifts should study her tastes. A woman would rather have a bunch of field flowers if it represented some taste of hers, or commemorated some anniversary, then a $10 bunch of American beauties that had no personal significance.

Women like strong men. That is the reason brutes have been adored while good men are henpecked, and trodden upon by their wives. There is something elemental and primitive in every woman's nature that responds to physical strength in man, and while many women marry weaklings, there is always an undercurrent of pity and contempt mixed with their love.

Women also like a masterful man, and really enjoy, although they won't admit it, being bossed. It is so nice and comfortable to have some one who will take all the responsibility and who can be blamed for all the mistakes.

Naturally no hard and fast rules can be laid down concerning women's preference among men. Tastes differ, and there is always some woman to think every man an Adonis in looks, a Solomon in wisdom, and Chesterfield in manner, if he has only energy enough to hunt her up.

Question: What is the difference between an epoch and an era?
A. E. D.

Answer: Epoch and era are usually used synonymously. In hisory either one denotes a fixed point of time, commonly selected on account of some remarkable event by which it has been distinguished, and which is made the beginning or determining point of a particular year from which all other years, whether preceding or ensuing, are computed. Some writers distinguish between the terms epoch and era. According to them, both mark important events, but an era is an epoch which is chronologically dated from; an epoch is not marked in this way. Thus the birth of Christ was both an epoch and an era according to this view.

Q.: How long did it take the Flying Parson who has just been killed to make the trip from New York to San Francisco and return?
C. N. W.

A.: B. W. Maynard covered the entire distance of 5302 miles, in 9 days, 4 hours, 26 minutes, 5 seconds.

Q.: How long does it take to make a cake of ice by submerging the receptacle in brine? W. B.

A.: With good circulation of brine it takes about ten hours, and with slow circulation about twenty-four hours.

Q.: How long does a widow wear mourning now-a-days? W. P.

A.: The widow who intends to leave off her mourning in due time wears a crepe bonnet and long veil a year. After this, black costumes of crepe de chine, lusterless silk, etc., are assumed, with hats and bonnets garnished with black ribbon, black flowers, black chiffon, and dull jet ornaments. Six months later white and lilac touches may suitably relieve the second mourning and after two years have expired colors may be resumed.

Q.: How many steps in the stairway of the Statue of Liberty?
C. E. M.

A.: In the Statue of Liberty the number of steps from the base of the foundation to the top of the torch is 403. The number from the ground to the top of the pedestal is 195.

Q.: What does a small letter c surrounded with a circle mean?
E. J. I.

A.: This is a sign that the photograph or article bearing the mark has been copyrighted.

Q.: Which States lead in the production of lumber? E. P. S.

A.: The Forest Service says that Oregon, Washington and Louisiana lead in the order given.

Q.: Which is England's oldest colony? F. L. N.

A.: Newfoundland is England's first and oldest colony. It has recently been made a Dominion because of the heroism of its soldiers in the war.

Q.: Is it necessary to cut grapes from vines with scissors?
L. A. R.

A.: Grapes should never be pulled from the vine. Such methods injure both fruit and vine. The picker should take hold of the cluster by the stem and cut the stem with a pair of shears and lay the cluster in the tray or basket. Grapes should never be picked when they are wet. Dampness encourages decay, besides spoiling the appearance of the fruit.

Q.: Can War Risk Insurance be disposed of by will? J. P.

A.: War Risk Insurance cannot be willed or assigned. In the event of the death of the beneficiary of a War Risk Insurance policy the benefits will be divided among the next of the soldier's kin according to the law of the State in which he resided.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Warning to France.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I have noticed, while reading this morning's Times a "Warning that Europe must quit Constantinople" given by Maj.-Gen. Charles Townshend.

Is Maj.-Gen. Townshend so blind that he cannot see the past or the present condition of the Ottoman Empire? It was only this week when the Turkish army entered Smyrna; they placed Issadin Pasha as commander of the city.

This he said in his first appearance to the foreign reporters: "You must realize that things have changed and that the times when the victorious Turks used to massacre and destroy everything is past," and twenty-four hours later the burning of Smyrna started. Turks were massacring and looting, and now there are over 200,000 people herded between their ruined homes and the Allied warships at the mercy of Turks, and the guns of warships are their only hope for protection.

The sincerity that Gen. Townshend sees in Turks we fail to see. Wherever the Turks go the spirit of immorality and barbarism follows, and as far as Gen. Townshend's "foreseeing the general uprising of Mohammedan hordes under the green banner of "Holy War." I'd only say this much, which the general himself knows very well, when, in 1916, Turkey threatened the whole world with a Holy War, they failed to bring one on.

Also the general declares that we must "Quit Constantinople." I was expecting the words of "We must not" instead of "We must," for if Turkey comes back to Constantinople she will not be satisfied, because she never knows when she has enough. I will go a little further then the general and say that when that happens we must move out of Europe all together, for the Russo-Angora treaty binds the Moscow government to cooperate with Mustafa Kemal, and this co-operative treaty does not mention when to cease. It means a terrible manace to the Christian nations of the world.

We must start right now and turn back the Turks or get out of their way when it will be too late to do anything else.

The League of Nations Board seated in soft chairs is trying by talk, not by any act, to protect the rights of small nations while there are tens of thousands of Christians being massacred daily. France, instead of paying the interest due on the money she has barrowed from the Christian nations to save her country, is helping a Mohammedan nation to fight the Christians.

As many others, I do feel sorry for the year and a half that I have fought under the French flag, for I can plainly see now that it is not democracy but the business of the world that they are after.

So look out, France. The arms and munitions manufactured and supplied from your country to the Turks may be turned against you.

JAMES K. TERZIAN.

Likes Criticism

LOS ANGELES Sept. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Please allow me to express to you the pleasure and gratification which Grace Kingsley's accurate and sensible film criticism in this morning's paper gives me. It is a most apropos sequence to the interview with Theodore Dresier published in yesterday's edition of The Times. Will Ernest Lubitsch be permitted to give us of his best? Let us hope so.

Why do producers insult our intelligence with presentations such as this rehashment of Balzac's love tragedy? Why couldn't they have been honest enough to acknowledge the photoplay version of Duchesse de Langeais the mere effusion of a scenario hack, which is all it amounts to?

Also imagine lovely, appealing Norma Talmadge as Amazonic, forceful Domini. What a wonderful Hester Prynne, Amy Robsart or Lucy Mannette Miss Talmadge would be! Then—why have we never viewed such well-loved favorites as "School for Scandal" or "Barnaby Rudge" on the screen? The public is not ignorant, whimsical or undependable. A first-class entertainment, an honestly presented, well-loved theme never fails to attract our heartiest approval and most generous patronage.

L. R. DEANE,

Reason vs. Religion

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The sooner religionists quit trying to pretend that religion rests on reason, the better off they will be.

God, the professional apologists say, is just, merciful, intelligent. Why, then, if there is any one religious cult which contains all the truth, did He not exercise his fairness by making it equally available to all men, and His mercy by making religion cause peace instead of strife, and His intelligence by making it possible for His divinely appointed spokesman to state that religion so that it would satisfy the intelligence, instead of play upon the fears of all men?

Religion rests not on reason, but on faith. Religion defies logic. Both Buddhism and Christianity defy reason in their very beginnings—both Jesus and Gautama being credited with births which, if reason counted for anything, would drive every thinking person from both of those religions.

No one accepts the Virgin Birth as an established historical fact. It is a matter of belief. Now belief is something accepted on the authority of another. In this case, that authority is one lone individual, who does not even claim that he conversed with the mother of Jesus on the subject. The partisans of many a personage who held a place of prominence or showed unusual ability in the ancient world claimed that, in a unique sense, that individual had God or a god for his father. Men of weak minds always are willing to believe that any real intellect must have drawn on sources outside those to which ordinary mortals and access. Hence, the first thing required to draw a following was to have the leader, or if he had died meanwhile have his followers advance the claim that he was a son of a god—or even a god. It was just as much a part of the system of procedure in the ancient world to claim kinship to deity for a leader as it is today to begin a political appeal to the mob by saying that the office-seeker is just as stupid as the average voter. Styles in idols have changed, the reason being that we have brought down such a vast array of divine personages from the past that we have declared a kind of truce of gods—so much so that if a man even shows any rays of higher intelligence, there is an immediate desire to trim off his head.

But Christianity, beginning in the days of deities, accepted the style of the time. That the claim of divinity was difficult to establish (the facts being more against it in this case than in any of that period) is shown by the bitter struggle which was required to have the church, once it became an organized world power with everything to lose from critical inspection of its doctrines, put all of its controversial problems on ice, as it were, by stating the most impossible claims in the forms of fundamental articles of belief.

This creed in the fourth century, for instance, did not commit the Christian to any belief in the fact that his religion pledged him to deal justly with his neighbor or to treat him with tolerance or kindness. Jesus, to be sure, had laid much stress on such matters. The men who wrote the creeds wanted to substitute reason for faith, and so they began with those logic-defying words: "I believe." It then went on to make him pledge his belief in every proposition about which there was the most bitter dispute at the time. The fact that it was necessary to formulate a creed and then put the whole weight of an empire behind making people accept it, shows that the creeds were intended to embalm reason, as indeed they very frankly do.

M. M. MORTON.

Attention Mary Smith!

The Times is in receipt of a letter signed "Mary Smith" and inclosing a sum of money, which the writer suggests be used as a nucleus for a soldier-bonus fund. Inasmuch as the collection of such a fund is outside the proper province of a newspaper, The Times holds the money subject to Mrs. Smith's call. If it is not claimed within a reasonable time it will be turned over to the American Legion to be added to the relief fund for disabled veterans of the World War.—[Ed. Times.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT SPEAKS

In "One of Ours" Willa Cather Gives an Authentic Portrait of a Passionate, Imaginative Youth Who Finds Little Beauty in Mid-Western Life

BY LILLIAN C. FORD

ONE OF OURS. By Willa Cather. Alfred A. Knopf, New York.

A new novel by the author of "My Antonia" is a literary event in itself worth chronicling, for Miss Cather is one of the really distinguished novelists of the period.

"One of Ours" tells with passionate insight the story of Claude Wheeler, described by the publishers as "a sort of young Hamlet of the prairies." He is that only in the sense of having been born in a wrong environment. An imaginative, beauty-loving youth who finds little meaning in the mid-Western routine of plowing more land to plant more corn to feed more hogs, so that some more machinery can be purchased.

Had he been assertive enough, sure of his own worth and of his own purpose, he could have continued his college course and worked his way through to some sort of freedom. But he lacked the will to resist and the faith in himself that might have given him that will.

So he takes over the management of his father's Nebraska farm and struggles with hired men and cantankerous mules and muddy roads and bad weather all the time feeling himself not quite competent to meet and conquer these. To him the life of his family was dreary, meaningless, futile. Even his mother, of a delicate complex nature beautifully drawn by Miss Cather, did not quite understand him, though she yearned over him and gave him the love and sympathy he needed. The queer-witted Mahalley, odd old woman as she was, had some quirk in her jangled brain that enabled her to respond to Claude's moods and to understand them.

It is quite natural that such a youth, half poet and artist and wholly the dreamer, should be beguiled by the self-contained, strong-willed Enid and should imagine that in her he would find the understanding soul that would strengthen him and enable him to "carry on."

Disillusionment came quickly and he lost something never to be recovered on that first night of his marriage when she shut him out of their stateroom on the plea of being tired. The picture of the selfish, cold and cruelly preoccupied young woman, whose only ardor is for prohibition and foreign missions, is a memorable portrait, executed with fine repression. Miss Cather, herself so well balanced, withal so human in her sympathies, permits herself the indulgence of actively disliking the cold Enid who is so little appreciative of the finer nature of the man whose name and marriage dower she accepted while withholding herself and her love.

It is the war that eventually frees Claude. He is among the first volunteers and quickly wins his lieutenancy, but is delayed in getting over. The dreadful ravages of the influenza on the transport going over touched him scarcely at all. He was uplifted, exalted, wholly happy in his great

THE TALE OF TRIONA
By W. J. LOCKE

Alexis Triona—a man of strength and weakness, of restless genius and passionate devotion. Olivia Gale—a girl who loved and doubted, lost faith and found it again. The epic of their romance carries you like a wave through the storms of human emotions into the calm of full understanding. The appeal of this story is powerful in its sincerity.

RECENT BOOKS

MYSTERY OF MORMONISM. By Stuart Martin. E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.

Religion is largely a matter of administration, said a sage of old. As America has produced Mormonism and a couple of other growing religions, all within the space of 100 years, we must be the master administrators of the world.

Mr. Martin has written an interesting book, though he is a prejudiced chronicler. Now, no matter what you may think of Joseph Smith, or of Brigham Young, who was the St. Paul of Mormonism, or others of the line of "prophets," the story of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is an inspiring tale of victory through defeat.

In a generation which is supposed to have an open sesame for everything, Mormonism has remained an enigma. It has been attacked time and again; it has undergone a seeming sea change at the dictates of Congress; its tenets to the Gentile understanding seem piffle, yet Mormonism today is a force to be reckoned with the world over, and the rainbow of promise arches on high.

Mr. Martin traces Mormonism from the discovery of the plates of the Book of Mormon in the Hill Cumorah, through the days of persecution in Ohio, Missouri, and at Nauvoo, to the present days of prosperity, with Heber J. Grant in the seat of the mighty, and what was once "Deseret" blossoming as a rose.

He also takes a glance at the future, and though not all of us will agree with him in his conclusions, it may be said that, prejudice apart, Mr. Martin has written what for many days will be the last word on Mormonism from the outlanders' angle.

THE STOCK MARKET. By S. S. Huebner. D. Appleton & Co., New York.

Dr. Huebner is an economist who writes understandable books of practical value to practical people. In the present book on the stock market, he sets forth clearly the purpose and organization of the stock market, the classes and kinds of securities and the way in which speculation affects their value. The difference between listed and unlisted securities is cleverly brought out, as is that between speculative stocks and those safe for conservative investors.

The book is one that the general investing public should find of practical value. Its place as a text book or as a book of supplementary study in college courses is assured, as its author is one of highest authority.

MR. WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE. By Henrietta C. Bartlett. Yale University Press, New Haven, Ct.

The subtitle of this book well explains its purpose. It is as follows: "Original and early editions of his quartos and folios, his source books and those containing contemporary notices."

Miss Bartlett says in the introduction: "The number of books relating to Shakespeare is so large already that it may seem, at first thought, unnecessary to add another. For three centuries he has been approached from every point of view, by every kind of mind, and no one can hope to read all that has been written about him.

"My best excuse for putting one more book about Shakespeare before the public is that it contains, in one volume, full and accurate descriptions of the first editions of a great many books in early English literature connected with him, and gives their present location. It is, in fact, an attempt to bring together, in compact form, all the more important printed sources before 1640, from which we derive our knowledge of the greatest English dramatist, his life and works."

The table of contents is as follows:

Introduction; The Key to Owners; Shakespeare's Works; Spurious Plays Assigned to Shakespeare, and Adaptations of His Works; Source Books; Contemporary Notices; The Index.

MODELS OF SPEECH COMPOSITION. Compiled by James Milton O'Neill. The Century Company, New York.

A collection of ninety-five complete speeches, classified and arranged according to type, and accompanied by brief biographical and historical notes. They are all recognized masterpieces of oratory, brought together into one compact volume for the use of students and as models for public speakers. The compiler is professor of rhetoric and oratory in the University of Wisconsin.

The classification is the usual one, in which are found forensic, deliberative, demonstrative, pulpit and lecture oratory. There are subdivisions under the principal classes.

In the long list of names represented are those of Daniel Webster, Robert Emmet, Edmund Burke, William Pitt, Carl Schurz, Elihu Root, Patrick Henry, Daniel O'Connell, Wendell Philips, Philips Brooks and Henry Ward Beecher.

PROLIFIC DUMAS

The legal dispute in France between the heirs of Auguste Maquet, a historian, and those of Alexandre Dumas, Pere, the novelist, disturbs once more Dumas's exclusive enjoyment of the story of having written works to which other pens are known to have contributed. Although the name Dumas presides in solitary dignity over novels like "Monte Cristo" and "The Three Musketeers," they were actually written in collaboration with Maquet, who, it appears in the proceedings, sold his right to appear as joint author. The incident recalls a publication in 1845 by one De Mircourt bearing the significant title, "Novel Factory, Firm of A. Dumas & Co." But, however much or little truth there may be in the assertions that Dumas turned out more volumes in a year than it was humanly possible for one person to transcribe, and that much of the work on the novels was done by underpaid clerks, it has always to be remembered that in a time of political upheaval Dumas was a political figure, and as such was exposed to attacks not purely of a literary order.—[C. S. Monitor.

Willa Cather

Miss Cather's "My Antonia" was one of the most widely discussed books of its day. Her latest novel, "One of Ours," is reviewed on this page today.

IS CIVILIZATION THREATENED?

Reviewed by M. F. Cummings

THE REVOLT AGAINST CIVILIZATION. By Charles Lothrop Stoddard. Scribner's Sons, New York.

In this work its author offers to his public a plan which, when applied, will, he believes, successfully protect our civilization from the onslaughts of that portion of our own population who, being themselves "unadaptable, inferior and degenerate," find our present social organization irksome, and therefore wish to destroy it.

The purposed rebellion of this aggregation of unfit beings has been primarily instigated by confidence placed alike by fit and unfit in the mistaken social and political philosophies of our own, as well as of past generations, of Americans in particular, which held that training and environment are of capital importance for the proper development of the human animal. Such philosophical teachings have led those who were naturally inferior to vainly imagine that if they had not been debarred by untoward circumstances from a thorough education and early cultural associations and influences they would have developed to an equal stature with the best. This belief has naturally fostered an inimical attitude on the part of the inferior individual toward a society in which poverty debars men from equal opportunity, and incites a desire to alter radically the nature of our civilization.

At this period, however, the late Francis Galton and his followers, of whom our author is a leading light, have come forward with the confident assertion that heredity is of immeasurably greater importance than any other factor and that the race must be improved from within, if at all. Even the most ardent eugenists admit, however, that their case rests upon an as yet unproven assumption, this assumption being that the majority of people are where they are, socially speaking, as the result of their own natural efficiency or inefficiency. Or to put the argument in a different manner, a large majority of those who possess rank, wealth and consequent social equipment and opportunity have a much superior natural endowment to that possessed by the mass of men. That this claim has no scientifically established basis is certain; as certain, indeed as the oft-repeated, but never confirmed, idea that successful and well-placed people are such by reason of their moral unscrupulousness and lack of regard for the rights of their fellows.

It is certain, however, that eugenists of standing now appreciate the weakness of their basic foundation, and are endeavoring to buttress it by the aid of certain newly devised psychological tests, to be applied alternately to gentle and simple and thus establish the true inwardness of the aristocratic theory while confounding the philosophy of democracy upon which our republic is founded. The University of Harvard is the chief center of this laudable endeavor, through a member of its psychology department — Prof. McDougall, recently of London—and his student assistants. It is only fair to add that the tests thus devised are not satisfactory to psychologists in general, any more than those applied by a clever lawyer to Henry Ford were successful in convincing the general public that their subject was not a capable executive or a successful man of affairs.

Mr. Stoddard, however, needs no evidence to convince him that the eugenic theory is absolutely sound, and, therefore, holds that it should be accepted as infallible fact and acted upon at once, that our civilization may be salvaged. He reasons to the effect that heredity being once for all accepted as the direct primary human factor environmental influences will then be considered in reference to heredity and no more pearls cast before swine. "Thus a new creation of policy and action will be set up in every field of human activity, thereby involving a complete revaluation of values. Of course, this would mean politically that an oligarchy should be substituted for our present form of government. The process of "improving the race from within" would then be put in force by surgically as well as legally excluding from parentage all whom the experts should decide to be below standard.

As to methods Mr. Stoddard quotes largely from Popenoe and Johnston, and from the English Witham, who sums up the matter as follows: "Unless we are prepared to vanish with the empires of the past, we must accept the office of deciding who are the fittest to prosper and to have offspring, who are the persons whose moral and intellectual worth make it right that they and"—mark the words—"their descendants, should be placed in a position of pre-eminence in our midst, and which are the families on whose bringing-up the time and money of society can be best bestowed."

Whether those of our people who accept without protest the books of such men as Stoddard and McDougall are too stupid to grasp the meaning of doctrines artfully half-concealed under a mass of verbiage, or whether there really are among our native population those who desire to renounce the philosophy upon which our republic was founded, is an open question.

NEW IRISH LITERARY STAR

When Daniel Corkery wrote his much-praised volume of stories, "The Hounds of Banba," he little thought that these tales of adventure in Irish mountain passes would warm the blood of an old Irishman out in the Wisconsin lake country. The old Irishman is not well known here, but his son established a unique position for himself in American life. He was Charles McCarthy, whose name will forever be associated with the highest in Wisconsin social and legislative progress. Charles McCarthy died a year or two ago, but his father, 87 years old, survived him. One of his friends writes thus:

"I cannot resist writing to let you know how much joy 'The Hounds of Banba,' by Danel Corkery, has given to Mr. McCarthy's old father. He is more than 87 years old, and very feeble—but he sat all day reading with a magnifying glass, after the stories had been read to him. He told me the Ahearns lived just six miles from where he was born and raised, and talked about all the people as though they were his friends and neighbors instead of just characters in a book. There's a story teller who writes with his heart and his head and I hope he will be telling more stories as good as these."

Mr. Corkery's work established him in the front rank of living Irish fiction writers. Shuster, in his "Catholic Spirit in Modern English Literature," says that Corkery is unquestionably the outstanding Catholic master of contemporary Irish narrative, who sums up the spiritual results of the rebellion.

EVENING

It is evening.
The mountains sit as impenetrable as Buddhas.
The light falls upon their foreheads
Leaving their quiet forms and vast robes in darkness.
The sky hangs drooping above their

Like a canopy,
And the immense earth is awed

Only the lowing of the cows and the calls of the herd boys in the meadows
Come faintly to their ears.

ITALIAN VILLAS

"Three hundred photographic illustrations of the finest examples of Italian villas taken by the author, and from angles that show them to the best advantage. LITERARY GOSSIP

The Princeton University Press is preparing the fifth edition of Prof. Edwin Grant Conklin's "Heredity and Environment in the Development of Men." This will be the ninth printing of this important book.

The thousands who know Zane Grey, the author, will now have the chance to know how he lives and gathers his material. Mr. Grey's true account of his own travel and adventures—"Tales of Lonely Trails"—takes the reader, with Zane Grey's personally conducted tour, through the heart of Western America, but more particularly Arizona, where the scenes of some of his most famous novels are laid.

The French scientist, Louis Pasteur, was born nearly 100 years ago and preparations are being made for a great international exposition in his honor at Strasburg, the city in which he began his career. Stokes announces publication this month of Dr. L. Descour's book, "Pasteur and His Work," a readable story, intended for the layman, of Pasteur's life and work.

There are better known authors than Michael Monahan in this country, but few are more warmly appreciated by foreign critics of authority. Thus, Cunninghame Graham writes recently to an American friend: "How good Monahan has been of late. His articles on Sappho and Byron's letters are far better than anything we can do on this side, as far as I know." Mr. Monahan's new book, "An Attic Dreamer," which surveys the writer's literary passions and philosophy of life, is on Mitchell Kennerley's fall list.

The vagaries of the censorship are many and baffling. Walt Whitman is suppressed in Hungary as an anarchist and Communist writer. There being so few translations of Hungarian works in America, the United States takes its revenge by picking on "Mlle. de Maupin," a book slightly older than Whitman's work. France retorts through "Le Gaulois," which discontinues the serial publication of a French translation of Sherwood Anderson's "Winesburg, Ohio," and then caroms by permitting the issue of Joyce's "Ulysses."

"Northwest" is the title of Harold Bindloss's new novel of the Canadian wilderness, which promises to rival his "Man from the Wilds" in popularity. The latter book is already in its fourth printing.

"Chaucer and his England," a study of life and times in England in the fourteenth century, is a recent Dutton publication. The author is G. G. Coulton, a lecturer in English in Cambridge University and author of several volumes dealing with the Middle Ages. The work is illustrated with reproductions of old prints, including the Hoccleve portrait of Chaucer.

The first book by Gertrude Stein in several years will be published this fall by the Four Seas Company. It is called "Geography and Plays," and is introduced by Sherwood Anderson.

The publishers of "Little Women," Little, Brown & Co., have just published a "New Popular Illustrated Edition" of "Little Women," the illustrations consisting of eight full-page colored reproductions of oil paintings by Jessie Wilcox Smith. The edition is printed from new plates in larger type.

Ten volumes in a new series of illustrated World's Manuals have been arranged for by the Oxford University Press American Branch. "Ancient Greece," a study by Stanley Casson, has been followed by "The Expansion of Britain from the Age of the Discoveries," by W. R. Kermack, who attempts, on a small scale, to look from a geographical point of view, at the history of the settlement and growth of the great dominions of the British commonwealth and the foundation and expansion of the Indian Empire. Other early volumes are "The Peoples of Europe," by Herbert John Fleure, "Geographical Environment," by O. J. R. Howarth, and "Agriculture," by John Orr.

"The Population Problem," a study in human evolution, by A. M. Carr-Saunders, is announced by the Oxford University Press American Branch. The author, after an historical chapter, writes of the basis of the population problem—the quantitative aspect and the qualitative aspect, human fecundity, hunting and fishing and primitive agricultural races, the regulation of numbers, the influence of environment, heredity, evolution and tradition, and their relative importance.

Mr. Norman Douglas has returned to the field of travel writing in his latest book, "Alone" (McBride.) It is a record of his wanderings in Italy during the war, which is, however, in no sense a description of war-time scenes. His itinerary included such places as Mentone, Levanto, Siena, Pisa, Viareggio, Rome and many others, and he describes his adventures with the spirit and charm which readers of "Old Calabria" as well as of "South Wind" have learned to expect from him.

"Gods, Ghosts and Goblins," by Bertha Lum, a Lippincott publication, is a beautifully illustrated and decorated volume containing a series of wonderful plates in full color and half-tone representing the charming or grotesque legends of Japan. The author is the foremost exponent of the Japanesque in art.

Prof. John M. Coulter of the University of Chicago, author of such important volumes as "A Text-Book of Botany," "Fundamentals of Plant Breeding," "Plant Studies, etc. (Appleton & Co.) in a recent lecture at Columbia Uni-

ROMANCE ON SEA AND LA

In "Cappy Ricks Retires" We Meet Peter B. K Happiest Vein; "Flowing Gold" by Rex B is a Smashing Story of the Oil Fiel

BY THOMAS F. FORD

CAPPY RICKS RETIRES. By Peter B. Kyne. The Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, New York.

In this, his latest novel, Mr. Kyne has freed himself of the mawkish sentimentality that marked his two recent efforts, "Kindred of the Dust" and "The Pride of Palomar," and returns to that irascible, temperamental, shrewd old pirate of the shipping and lumber business, "Cappy Ricks."

In this story we again meet Matt Peasley, "Cappy's" erstwhile rival and now son-in-law; Skinner, his general manager, a gentleman of extremely thrifty ideas, who, if we are to take "Cappy's" word for it, if he gave three hoots in hell, would at once ask for at least one of them back.

The tale has to do with the shipping game in its gloriously profitable days just prior to our entrance into the World War and of a number of exploits of the Bluestar Navigation Company's fleet after we became involved.

In the creation of Cappy Ricks, Mr. Kyne has given us a real flesh and blood character, and in the present book, he has come very close to repeating this feat in the development of the characters of Capt. Michael Murphy and Chief Engineer Reardon. They are two as doughty sons of Erin as ever swung a belaying pin or drank a "drop av the craythur." They are Irish to the core, displaying with equal clarity the good and bad points of lusty sons of that volatile and unhappy nation.

Deep sea romance and adventure, tinged with high finance, are Mr. Kyne's specialty and when picturing this phase of life we find him in his happiest vein. He has never done better than in "Cappy Ricks Retires." It is a book that will be read with many a chuckle. Cappy [illegible] a philosopher. past joys grow brighter and so even with the films all the dross is in recollections gradually turned to gold.

I feel though that our ofttimes Pollyannaish vision in these matters does not give to the newer pictures their just due, and especially those revivals, which seek to do to a story what could not by any stretch of the imagination have been accomplished technically in beauty and reality, in the day when this same feature was first made.

We hereby chronicle the arrival of two champ vamps. One has already been mentioned in these columns, and the other we determined on during the past week. The first is Nita Naldi, of "Blood and Sand" fame; the other is Barbara La Marr in "The Prisoner of Zenda," and to all intents they should be cordial rivals for chief vamping laurels within the forthcoming months, unless the redoubtable Theda Bara or the vibrant Pola Negri start in to bowl over all the rest of the comers.

Miss La Marr has certainly intrigued the eye in her portrayal of Antoinette de Mauban in Rex Ingram's picture of a chocolate soldier kingdom, and it isn't so much the details of her beauty, as it is the way these blend with her vitalized acting on the screen. Admittedly she has a disappointing profile. That's agreed. But what difference does that make when she coils her body with serpentine grace and flashes upon you her pomegranate lips?

Well — without raving, we're banking rather strongly on the fact that Miss La Marr is going to do things before the coming year passes into oblivion.

Well, well, so Theodore Dreiser has found out that we haven't any art in Hollywood. This is good news from our viewpoint indeed, especially as regards its sponsor. We have never been thoroughly convinced that Mr. Dreiser had anything but a voluble pen and a reportorial style himself, but now we know that at least he has had the art to discover that we are artless.

There is one remark in this diatribe that damns some otherwise rather stimulating statements made by him in his recent interview, and that is when he declares that there never will be any art in Los Angeles. No doubt, of art, such as Mr. Dreiser professes to put into his books, there will be none. We find rather humorous his saying that he wouldn't have his "Jennie Gerhardt" botched up on the screen. For we wonder what producer is foolhardy enough to want to put "Jennie Gerhardt" on celluloid and run the risk of the censor's anathemas for all eternity.

The argument which Mr. Dreiser advances regarding the absence of certain literary luminaries from the picture fold is, of course, rather interesting. In future years we shall perhaps miss their inspiring influence. I wonder? If the screen industry really depended on the writers for its future, Mr. Dreiser's contention would no doubt be partially true. However, most of us have recollections of the fond hopes that were fastened on a certain group of eminent authors which didn't quite fulfill their vernal promise. Perhaps the writers of whom Mr. Dreiser speaks might be more successful, that is, of course, if they had the patience to master the tedious detail of screen technique. We feel however, that the author of "Jennie Gerhardt" is falling into the conventional mode of thought that the screen is a sort of by-product of the other arts, and will never be able to create its own rules of procedure. Our impression is that this notion has been superseded by other and newer ideas about the independence of the cinema.

If Mr. Dreiser bases his judgment of motion-picture making on what he himself writes there probably will not be any art in Hollywood for a long time to come. We don't want it. We've kept it out pretty well so far and we've fared—well, passably. We have—at least, many of us believe we have as many pictures that are worth looking at as Mr. Dreiser has books.

The sort of art he refers to is not a question of esthetics. I doubt somewhat his competency to judge of these. Anyway I question his right to constitute himself a prophet. If the esthetic principle is to appear in motion pictures we don't expect it from the Dreiser quarter. And if it comes from elsewhere I doubt very much whether Mr. Dreiser can stop it. The future alone can say whether we will have been genuinely artistic, and neither Mr. Dreiser nor any other ultra-wise predicter of coming events is going to decide this in advance.

It seemed to me a rather regrettable thing that Alfred Hertz was not tendered a more brilliant ovation when, on the closing of the Hollywood Bowl concerts, he stepped forward on the stage to recive the laurel wreath which was given him by the residents of Hollywood. This was at the final concert of the season and the air was surcharged with enthusiasm over a great accomplishment. In the face of this general thrilled feeling of the audience the rather meager applause which greeted the director, who was the idol of the public during the long series of musical events, was, to say the least, puzzling.

I think that the fault was due to the timing of his appearance before the audience, and while I have no desire to hold a post-mortem on the bowl concerts, I do feel that in justice to those who were not aware of Mr. Herts's achievements during the season, I must say that if so much attention had not been made of every person who sold programs and handed out soda water, the presentation of Mr. Herts would have seemed more like the real climax it should have been. As it was, too many other people were mentioned before. The impression that accrued from this wholesale giving of credit was well expressed by a friend of mine who happened to be from another city when he said: "The only person that they forgot was the janitor, and I'd judge from the surroundings that they don't need one."

In passing, I feel that I myself cannot neglect to add a word of praise to many encomiums that have been bestowed on the one person who perhaps, above all others, was by her energy and determination, responsible for the success of the Hollywood Bowl project. It was one of the finest achievements in our musical history—a crude and glorious masterpiece of faith in the future.

No one person connected with the enterprise had this faith in greater measure, perhaps, than Mrs. J. J. Carter, the secretary of the Community Park and Art Association. Virtually all of the preliminary steps were left to her, and later she had several taxing struggles not only to continue the concerts, but to maintain her ideal of them which was in accordance with the highest standards of music.

Mrs. Carter's work, I trust, will not readily be forgotten. With the permanent establishment of the concerts many others will doubtless lend their share of energy to the furthering of this musical endeavor, and will no doubt claim their share of credit too, but no matter what changes in personnel and management come, if any do, it will be an ungrateful thing indeed to fail to remember the one who, during the first season, had more than anyone else to do with putting the bowl concerts "over the top." She has to her everlasting credit in great part an accomplishment which is perhaps unsurpassed in kind; of bringing to a vast public who had never before heard really good music, the uplifting spell of its beauty.

FRATERNAL AFFAIRS

The regular monthly social night of Victory Lodge, No. 1068, Fraternal Brotherhood, will be held at 8:30 p.m. next Thursday in Alhambra Hall, Fraternal Brotherhood Building. The Santee Players will present a one-act farce and a one-act drama under the direction of Leta M. Santee. Beatrice Abell will offer a whistling solo. Louis Pritchard will offer a specialty number between the acts. There will be music furnished by Imes's five-piece orchestra from 10 to 12 p.m. for those who wish to dance, and a card party in the clubroom for the others.

STATE SOCIETIES

Evening meetings of the State societies, which have been largely suspended during the summer months, will nearly all be resumed in October. There will be five large meetings in Music Art Hall, 233 South Broadway, during the month; Minnesota on the first Friday; Michigan the first Wednesday; Texas the third Monday and Illinois the fourth Friday.

The Nebraskans, under the leadership of Col. R. W. Richardson, will meet in the Music-Art Hall Wednesday, October 11, and on the second Friday of each month thereafter. The Alaska - Yukon Club and the Missouri State Society will both meet in the Disabled Veterans' Hall, 246 South Hill street.

ODD FELLOWS

Reports received here from Detroit indicate that the annual conclave of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, which just closed in that city, had a record-making attendance. The 1923 conclave will be held in Cincinnati.

The monthly dance given by American Lodge Thursday evening was well attended by Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and friends. The initiatory degree will be conferred at the next meeting.

Oasis Lodge of Long Beach will be host to Rebekah Lodge No. 71 on the evening of September 29. Plans for the production of the annual ceremonial in Long Beach are under way. The custom was started by the Oasis Lodge in the first year of its existence, and has been continued ever since then as an individual lodge feature. The following committee has been appointed to arrange details of the ceremonial: G. M. Laird, M. H. Houghton, Harold Kline, and R. H. Patchett.

Orange Grove Encampment patriarchal degree staff held a rehearsal at the last meeting. Friday will be an entertainment night at the encampment meeting.

The new charter for the Sanctorum of Orientals is expected to arrive some time during the next month. The date for the institution of the sanctorum will be set upon the arrival of the charter.

NATIVE SONS OF THE GOLDEN WEST

Eight homeless children were made happy and provided with permanent homes last month through the medium of the homeless children committee of the local organization of Native Sons and Native Daughters. The committee is made up of representatives of all the local chapters of the two organizations, and is headed by Irvin Baxter, chairman, and Mrs. J. A. Adair, secretary. The committee finds homes for all children placed in its care, regardless of race, color or creed.

Los Angeles Parlor of Native Daughters will give a Halloween party at Ramona Hall, 149 South Hill street, on the evening of October 28. All Native Sons and their families are invited to attend.

Thursday will be known as "Biscailuz Night" at the meeting of Los Angeles Parlor, Native Sons, in honor of Undersheriff Eugene Biscailuz, who is a past president of the Parlor. An elaborate entertainment has been prepared, and rfereshments are to be served.

Ramona Parlor initiated another class of candidates Friday evening. A delegation from Pasadena attended the meeting, headed by the officers of the Pasadena parlor, who assisted in the initiation ceremonies.

A delegation of Native Sons called upon Senator Cornelius Cole Sunday and presented him with a set of resolutions of congratulation on behalf of the order.

PRINCIPAL PICTURES HEAD LEAVES TOWN

MICHAEL ROSENBERG HAS DEAL OF IMPORTANCE ON IN NEW YORK

Michael Rosenberg, secretary of the Principal Pictures Corporation, left yesterday for New York to complete one of the biggest production deals of the year. He has practically signed contracts with two of the biggest woman stars in filmdom for a series of three productions each, and while in New York expects to consummate a deal with a prominent director for a series of productions with all-star casts of players.

Rosenberg took with him the recently completed production of "The World's A Stage," Elinor Glyn's romance of Hollywood, starring Dorothy Phillips, supported by Kenneth Harlan, Bruce McRae, Otis Harlan and others, which was directed by Colin Campbell.

While in New York, Rosenberg will confer with Sol and Irving Lesser on a selection of plays and books for his future stars, and also complete arrangements for the European premiere of "The World's A Stage," which will take place in London under the supervision of Mme. Glyn.

Mr. Rosenberg expects to go to London and Paris for a short stay before returning to Los Angeles.

He also expects to complete arrangements for the European premiere of "Chicago Sal," Irving Cummings's first production for Principal Pictures, which is now being staged at the Hollywood Studios, Incorporated, with an all-star cast, including Milton Sills, Alice Lake, Ralph Lewis, Richard Headrick, Ben Hewlitt and Gertrude Claire.

SHOWING PROMISE

Opening on the 11th inst. the new Abbott School of Dancing, located at 1244 Innes avenue, and conducted by Ethel Abbott, who for the past twelve years has been one of the successful dancing instructors in this city, has already shown promise of becoming one of the leading schools of dancing and art. An important feature added to the new school this year is La Verna Terrace, a private school, consisting of regular school work from kindergarten through the eighth grade and a thorough course in singing, dancing and piano instruction by the best teachers available.

Divine Patience

Love ever waits within the sanctuary
While we yet linger in the outer court,
Counting the cost and doubting of the good,
Though we still linger, crying in the night,
Love has not tired of His infinity,
Nor closed the gates of everlasting pearl.
—[Florence A. Gubbins in Christian Science Monitor.

BITS OF VERSE

The Mermaid's Gift

A beautiful mermaid fell in love
With a youth who lived on land,
And they used to meet in the moonlight pale
And spoon on the silver sand.
But there came a night when the mermaid wept,
"I must away," said she.
"To marry a merman king who rules
The dim world under the sea."

"But here is a parting gift," she cried,
"From your green-eyed ocean girl,
A treasure rare from an amber cave
In a grotto built of pearl."
And she left in his hand a snowy shell
Ere she sank to her choral cloister—
He opened it, lo! and found within
A plump and succulent oyster.
—[Minna Irving in New York Herald.

Autumn Song

Again the leaves in terror fly,
The autumn winds go sobbing by;
Again I hear the cricket's cry
Amid the withered sedges.
Alas, it is the olden tale—
Why should earth's beauty be so frail?
List to the dirge upon the gale
Along the tattered hedges.

But who would have it otherwise—
Love naught but smiles and tearless eyes?
To grace one clings because it flies,
And man can never keep it;
In loveliness of bronze or stone,
The fairest that was ever known,
No pathos lies—if it were flown,
Would any bosom weep it?

So as I watch the wild wind fray
The autumn leaves that once were gay
I grieve because so brief their stay,
I view them and grow wistful,
For every hope there is a fear,
For every smile there is a tear;
We learn the lesson year by year,
Each joy but leaves us tristful.
—[Samuel Minturn Pack in Boston Transcript.

Hands of the Wind

The hands of the wind are slim hands,
Exquisite in their grace,
Like hands that taper softly
From frills of filmy lace.

The hands of the wind are skilled hands,
They touch hushed tips of trees,
And waken rigid branches
To elfin melodies.

The hands of the wind are gay hands,
They waft bright butterflies,
Or toss white feathery cloudlets
Across blue summer skies.

The hands of the wind are kind hands,
For when I'm lonely there,
They reach across the garden
And stroke my loosened hair.
—[Violet Alleyn Storey in New York Sun.

O Little House That is to Be

O little house that is to be
Among the sheltering hills,
The tender hopes of all the years
Within thee are fulfilled.
For there before thy open door
The wild flowers sweetly bloom,
And in the bending treetops high
The night winds softly croon.
And once within thy sheltering walls
With all the world shut out,
I'll find a peace to soothe my soul,
A love o'ercoming doubt.
O little house that is to be
I'll seek through all the years,
And bring my treasures to thy door,
Where joy will banish tears.
—[Ruth Tharp in Kansas City Star.

ROMANCE OF OIL FIELDS

could follow the swift events of the next few tumultuous months, no brain could record it. Chaos came. Life in the oil fields became a phantasmagoria of ceaseless action and excitement—a fantastic stereopticon that changed hourly.

"'Burk' was a sleepy town, dozing amid parched wheat fields. The paint was off it, nothing much more exciting than a crop failure had happened there. The main topic of conversation was the weather and, as Mark Twain said, everybody talked about it, but nothing was done. Within sixty days the soporific village became a roaring bedlam; every town lot was leased, derricks rose out of chickens runs, boilers panted in front yards, mobs of strangers surged through the streets and the air grew shrill with their bickerings. From a distance the sky line of the town looked like a thick nest of latticed battlements and at night it blazed like Coney Island."

Calvin Gray, erstwhile colonel in the A.E.F., but court-martialed and sent home through the connivance of a brother officer, determines to rebuild his fortune and incidentally humiliate the author of his Army disgrace. That the author succeeds in making of Gray a weak imitation of J. Rufus Wallingford, minus many of that amiable scamp's good qualities and endowed with others which Wallingford never dreamed of, is sufficient in itself to describe the hero. How he appeared at Dallas, Tex., practically penniless, took the best suite of rooms in the best hotel, played the big business man with many and far-flung enterprises dependent upon his genius for direction, and made his presence felt through the medium of printer's ink, is told with much gusto.

The tale is replete with action and adventure of the purely mechanical sort. Characters are given parts to play and Mr. Beach, much as a movie director would, motivates them through three hundred and seventy odd pages with about the same verisimilitude as does the said movie director.

The one convencing character in the book is Ma Briskaw. This woman, whose life, prior to the discovery of oil on their sun-parched Texas farm, had been one dull, colorless grind of slavery, suddenly lifted into a position where she could have anything her poor, almost pulseless heart craved, had one great boon to ask of the world. She wanted to go to the mountains. Her grilling years of life on the flat Texas plains had not quite smothered the ability to long for something.

If you are looking for an exciting yarn into which has been injected mystery, adventure and romance, this tale will intrigue you and you will follow its winding and tortuous trails of plot and counter-plot to the end, happy that at last the hero has been vindicated and the villain given his just deserts. All this is here. The style of the tale is Rex Beach's best. It may be summed up in the one word that we all know and that most of us find entertaining, jazz.

NEW NOVEL BY WILLA CATHER

adventure. His belief in America's mission was deep and true, but that did not prevent him from drawing ecstatic breaths of the new freedom that came to him. His new associates opened new vistas to Claude; the few contacts he had with a more gracious way of life as the guest of some French people of rich traditions gave him what he had always craved.

So, when the end comes, we feel that Claude was ready, that at last he had tasted life.

No one can read the book without marveling over the way in which Miss Cather has sunk herself in Claude, the way in which she has realized him in the fullest sense. It is her subtlety and insight and understanding that have enabled her to lay bare the soul of an eager, ardent, though self-distrusting young American, who, while neither typical nor ordinary, is an authentic person, fully conceived and faithfully rendered. Her success here is all the more noteworthy since in her other books feminine characters have held the place of interest. In "O Pioneers!" Alexandra is the principal figure, just as Thea is in "The Song of the Lark" and Antonia in "My Antonia."

Although Miss Cather has shown in this powerful novel how deadening to the spirit the flat life of the Nebraska prairies can be, despite the abundance of material prosperity as evidenced by a plenitude of farm buildings and machinery, she has managed to get into those pages descriptive of that life, a sense of its richness and satisfying quality for some natures, like that of Claude's brother Ralph.

The author's attitude toward the war is refreshing by contrast with that of the young cynics and some not so young, who now think it proper to scoff and sneer at the spirit with which we went to war.

In "One of Ours," Miss Cather has given us a highly significant novel, revealing the finest type of American youth, written with all vigor and simplicity and penetrating insight for which the name of Willa Cather has come to stand in American fiction.

AUTUMN AUTOBIOGRAPHIES

Doubleday, Page and Company announce for autumn publication several autobiographical works of interest. Chief of these is "The Life and Letters of Walter H. Page," in two volumes. There are also "All in a Life-time," by Henry Morgenthau, "My Life and Work," by Henry Ford in collaboration with Samuel Crowther, "Confessions of a Book-Lover," by Maurice Francis Egan, which although not a formal autobiography has a charmingly informal autobiographical flavor, "My Experiences at Scotland Yard," by Sir Basil Thompson, and "The Story of a Varied Life," by Dr. W. S. Rainsford, one of the most militant churchmen of the eighties.

THE LOST PHRASE

Treacherous sleep, which comes to give,
Comes soon again to take,
The lustered, unremembered words
Which whisper men awake.

Sleep showed my phrase, then slipped it back
Into the sunken hold
Where the words which none may take in his hands
Glimmer like soft, white gold.—
[Louise Townsend Nicholl.

RECENT DOINGS AMONG AUTHORS

versity declared that the theory of evolution is as old as the memory of man. "Man is a museum of antiquity," he said. "The theory of evolution is the working basis of all biological investigaton today. Mythology is full of it. It is as old as the record of man's thoughts and no man is the author of the idea." Darwin was not, he declared, the discoverer of a new theory, but helped to transfer an old one from the field of speculation to that of actual observation and inference.

A new issue at a reduced price is being brought out by the Duttons of their handsome publication of George Gissing's masterpiece, "The Private Papers of Henry Ryecroft."

"The Sea Gypsies of Malaya," by W. G. White, is a new Lippincott book. The author is the only white man who has lived among the people he describes, a race driven by persecution to seek a precarious safety in fragile barks on the stormy waters of the Indian Ocean. Little has been known about them until now, or of the islands upon which they sometimes land, scattered down the west coast of the Malay peninsula.

A brief work entitled, "Ireland from the Earliest Times to the Present Day," is announced by the Oxford University Press American Branch. The author is Robert Dunlop, lecturer in Irish history in the University of Manchester, who explains that he has no theory to serve and no other concern than to get at the truth. The study begins with Celtic Ireland and ends with the struggle for national independence, 1801-1921.

The Harpers announce "A World Worth While," by W. A. Rogers, the successor of Thomas Nast on Harper's Weekly, head cartoonist on the New York Herald for seventeen years, and friend and contemporary of such men as Abbey, Frost, Reinhart, Pyle and Nast.

He has treasured up conversations with great men who said things to him while he was making their pictures that they would not have said to a reporter. "A World Worth While" presents these "picture interviews" among Mr. Rogers's reminiscences.

THE PROMISED ISLE

Ed Anthony, the sulphitic Foreman of the New York Herald's column The Book Factory, has turned out the following review of Laurids Bruun's "The Promised Isle," (Knopf,) in his plant:

A laugh to a page in this story satiric
Of South Sea adventures. (No mean panegyric.)
It's joyously loony, extravagant, funny—
And what the deuce more do you want for your money?

Mr. Anthony adds:

Publishers, in boosting their wares, sometimes tell the truth. "The Promised Isle," blurbed as funnier than "The Cruise of the Kawa," is.

The largest and by far the strongest of warm-blooded creatures is the whale. A specimen of the estimated weight of sixty tons has been known to tow for a whole day a steamer of 120 horsepower, with the full force of the engines working against it.

FOURSQUARE
By Grace S. Richmond

"That tower of strength which stood foursquare to all the winds that blew."—Tennyson.

As Grace S. Richmond made the profession of medicine human and revealing through her portrayal of "Red Pepper Burns" and that of the ministry in "Red and Black," so now she depicts the trials and triumphs of a great teacher. If you liked "Red Pepper Burns," Mark Fenn will be his new rival in your affections.

Women of Middle Age

THE critical stage of a woman's life usually comes between the years of 45 and 55, and is often beset with annnoying symptoms such as nervousness irritability, melancholia, heat flashes which produce headache and dizziness, and a sense of suffocation. Guard your health carefully, for if this period be passed over safely, many years of perfect health may be enjoyed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It exercises a restorative influence, tones and strengthens the system, and assists nature in the long weeks and months covering this period. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics. Its value is proven by many such letters as these:

Denver, Colo.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I can not tell you the good it has done me. It is good for young and old and I always keep a bottle of it in the house, for I am at that time of life when it calls for it. My husband saw your ad. in the papers and said, 'You have taken everything you can think of, now I want you to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound!' So I let him get it, and I soon felt better. 'I took about six bottles.' I keep house and do all my own work and work out by the day and feel fine now. I tell everyone about the Vegetable Compound, for so many of my friends thought I would not get well."—Mrs. R. J. Linton, 1850 West 33rd Ave., Denver, Colo.

Metropolis, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for eight months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only able to be up part of the time, when I was advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty and do all my housework."—Mrs. Emma Culver, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Ill.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY MYRA NYE

Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the President, is possessed of indomitable courage and pluck, is a remarkable executive of affairs, a business woman first, and a society woman second, and while aristocratic in her bearing, is nevertheless of simple and charming manners that endear her to strangers, and hold fast in affection the friends of past years. This, briefly, was the the impression gained of the President's wife in an interview with Mrs. Frank W. Black, a prominent member of the Friday Morning Club, a former resident of Marion, O., where she was a neighbor of the Hardings.

Mrs. Black has returned recently from an eastern visit, where she included in her itinerary a two days' visit at the White House, there seeing Mrs. Harding a short time before she was taken ill.

"I wish all my friends in Los Angeles could know Mrs. Harding as I do," said Mrs. Black yesterday. "I received so much inspiration from her, not because of her exalted position but because of her own intrinsic worth. She is unselfish, thinking of others constantly, of the President, of the disabled soldiers and of the comfort and welfare of those to whom she is talking.

"She asked me about all the old Marion friends, and at last I said: 'But, Florence, I want to talk about you. Tell me about yourself.' And it was not until then that I gained any adequate impression of the change in the routine of her daily life. I knew beforehand that she herself had not changed."

Mrs. Black spoke of Mrs. Harding's personal appearance, of her graceful carriage and the ability always possessed by her of looking remarkably well in the simplest clothes.

TALKS VIVACIOUSLY

"She talks vivaciously and gestures much with her hands," said Mrs. Black. "Her bright blue eyes sparkle and then shade with seriousness alternately."

The impression of pluck was made by the fact of her repeated evasions in connection of her own frailty, which in midsummer was marked and a cause of grave concern. Mrs. Harding herself referred to it not at all, but related gaily how she stood with the President and shook hands with innumerable callers, and how she rode, by automobile, all the way from Washington to Marion to be present at the Marion centennial. Mrs. Black learned later from Mrs. Sawyer, wife of Mrs. Harding's physician, that there was not one moment of the long ride that Mrs. Harding did not suffer definite pain.

At the Baptist Church, which she attends every Sunday with the President, she always sits on the outside, between the President and any who may come into the pew. This is at her own insistence, to protect the President, the secret service men sitting just back of them.

The first afternoon that Mrs. Black was with Mrs. Harding the latter wore a gown of dove gray crepe de chine with shoes and hose of the same shade. Her hat was also gray, trimmed with orchid. She was without jewelry, except for her wedding ring and a graceful string of beads wonderfully designed, the design being in the manner of their stringing. The Italian semiprecious stones were hand cut of orchid shades and gray. When Mrs. Black remarked how wonderfully they set off her dress Mrs. Harding fingered them fondly. "They were made and designed for me by a friend of mine," she said, "a French soldier who was wounded. Oh, Marie," she added quickly. "It is all so sad and continues to be sad—the after effects of the war, and this dreadful strike. Many nights I lie awake and wonder if sometime an inspiration will come to me to help with the reconstruction of the country and wonder if in the day just passed I have done anything to help with the settlement of these many problems. The days are not long enough and there are not enough of them to do all I want to do for the soldiers and suffering people everywhere.

MINER'S FAMILY RECEIVED

Mrs. Black had seen that very noon, in the President's private office, a miner, his wife and six children. The children had all gone to sleep on the long davenport while waiting for the President. When he came for his daily reception to the public he gave the miner much of his time and allowed his lunch hour to go by. With his friendly handclasp and magnetic smile he met scores of people.

"President Harding has the most musical speaking voice I think I ever heard and when he shakes hands with you he makes you feel that he has come just to see you and yet there may be hundreds present. I sat in his private office while many came and went," added Mrs. Black. "He looks like a king, yet he has the most unaffected manner, just like any man of the people."

"Very often he forgets his lunch," said Mrs. Harding, "and now he is so concerned about the strike." It was the day of the big conference in New York concerning the strike, but the President did not omit his reception to the people.

Her only hour to herself and her only exercise is the daily walk in the garden. It is then that Mrs. Harding selects such flowers as will be fresh to send to the Walter Read Hospital for Disabled Veterans. Very few flowers are arranged in vases in the White House except when there are guests, and then Mrs. Harding herself frequently supervises their arrangement, as she does for the dining-room table. During the last two years the charm of the White House table appointments has gone around the world—so simple they are, and yet so distinguished.

MANAGES OWN HOUSEHOLD

Mrs. Harding manages her own household, ordering the menu for each day by 8 o'clock in the morning, and then outlines the house program for the day, which is posted on a bulletin in the servants' hall.

"With Mrs. Harding there are no details of today left over until tomorrow," said Mrs. Black, and I concurred with some degree of knowledge. It seems that Mrs. Black had told Mrs. Harding of the great activities of club women in Los Angeles and how they are recounted week by week in this department. She was intensely interested and said once that she had read The Times.

"Myra Nye would be so glad to have an exclusive picture of you," said Mrs. Black, and although Mrs. Black did not know it until yesterday, the picture and a personal letter to the editor of this department were mailed from the White House as "from one newspaper woman to another," and in the letter Mrs. Harding added: "I know the newspaper game from first-hand knowledge."

Mrs. Harding asked Mrs. Black to write the name and address where the photograph should be sent. When she saw the name written she exclaimed:

"Oh, what a pretty name—exactly right for a newspaper woman!" And to think I had just planned to change my name—oh, not by marriage! that is done already—but to get another pen name, because I was dissatisfied. Bearing the approval of the First Lady of the Land, "Myra Nye" will continue to hand out copy at the old stand.

Upon the Harding' return from their honeymoon many years ago Mrs. Black informed me the bride went into the office of the Marion Star and co-operated with Mr. Harding almost continuously thereafter. She is a member of the League of American Pen Women, among whom she is known, not for a prolific pen, but for the trenchant manner of the things she has written.

The second afternoon that Mrs. Black was at the White House Mrs. Harding sat at her desk from 1:30 until 6 o'clock answering in longhand as many of her letters as she could.

"I have my secretary, of course," said Mrs. Harding. "She is on her vacation now, but even when she is here I answer a large proportion of my mail myself after Maj. Ballinger has cut the envelopes and removed the contents." Maj. Ballinger is a former Marion newsboy. He went overseas and is now a secret service man for Mrs. Harding, always standing just behind the curtain when she meets callers.

"I get ever so much enjoyment out of my correspondence, it is such a revelation of human nature, and for the most part of noble human nature, and I like to answer in my own words," said the President's wife.

Each day an average of 150 begging letters are received, asking for any sum from 5 cents to $5000. Many are from wives and sweethearts of soldiers. Mrs. Harding lists these very carefully and investigates the claims that are made. For instance, many of them will say that the soldier allotment has not been paid. Then the records are carefully gone over and in each case the complaint is verified or proved false.

Brig.-Gen. Sawyer and Mrs. Sawyer escorted Mrs. Black aboard the Mayflower and told her some of the Marion news—how Gen. Pershing had been "very attentive," as Marion people say, to Miss Daisy Abigail Harding, the sister of the President, who teaches in the public schools in Marion.

They told, too, how in a party of fourteen women on board the yacht only Mrs. Harding and one other were not smoking.

"We'll be just old-fashioned folks and not smoke," said Mrs. Harding to her fumeless friend.

"I was surprised to find the Mayflower so old-fashioned a model," said Mrs. Black. "But in a way it was all the more fascinating. The hangings were of Harding blue taffeta. Everything had been supervised by Mrs. Harding as to furnishings and drapery. She had sent out the twin beds of old ivory given by the King and Queen of Belgium to ex-President and Mrs. Wilson. The silver plates engraved with the royal givers' superscriptions were clear and untarnished. In fact, Mrs. Harding bought no new furniture, even for the White House. With rigid economy she has had brought down from the attic all the old pieces bought by other President's wives. To me they were marvelously beautiful, the finest of the varying periods all refinished and polished," said Mrs. Black.

The same sort of economy was shown when Mrs. Harding bought her first outfit to go to the White House. A very rich newspaper friend of Mr. Harding had begged to be allowed to pay for all her New York purchases to any amount Mrs. Harding wished.

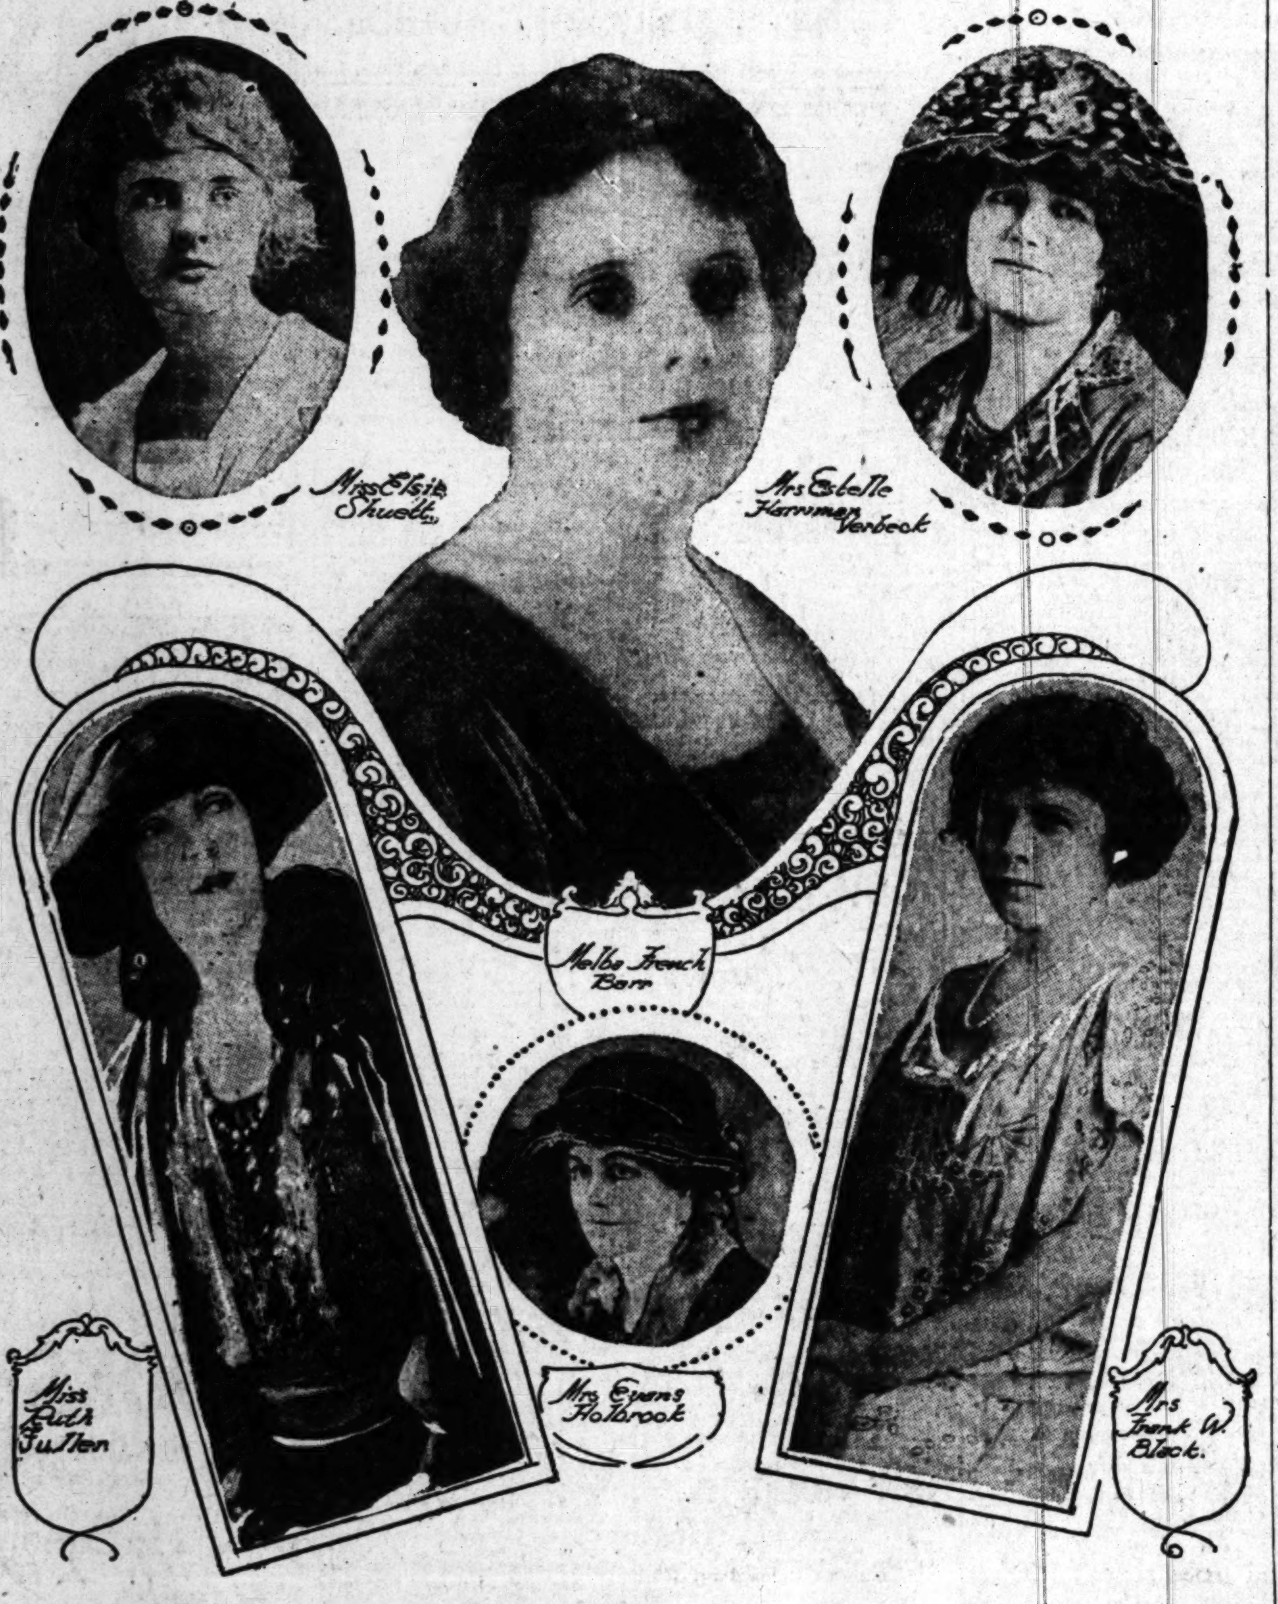
"Please, my dear," said the President-elect to his wife, "buy just as pretty things as we can afford, but do not take a thing as a gift."

"And, of course, I did as he wished me to," said Mrs. Harding. The President said playfully to Mrs. Black: "Now all those pretty clothes hang in the closet and she just wears old dresses when she is with me."

"The dresses in the closet are old, too, more than two years old," Mrs. Black ventured to say. "Besides, if she looks so wonderful in an old gown, why wear new ones?"

And the President's smiling nod and look of admiration seemed to say, "Why, indeed?"

Women Who Figure in Club News



Mrs. Frank W. Black of Friday Morning Club, former neighbor of Mrs. Warren G. Harding at Marion, O. Mrs. Black has just returned from a visit in Washington, where she was a guest at the White House. Miss Elsie Shuett is president of the Girls' Corner Club. Melba French Barr, soprano, will appear before many of the women's clubs in song recital this season. Miss Ruth Fuller, prominent in the Matinee Musical Club. Mrs. Estelle Harriman Verbeck is president of the Southern California Women's Press Club. Mrs. Evans Holbrook of Ann Arbor was honor guest at a luncheon given by a group of Michigan women at the University Club last Monday.

Wa Wan Club

A new feature of the Wa-Wan Club, Mrs. William Mabee president, for the coming season will be the juvenile section, which was organized last week with twenty members. These are young musicians under 15 years of age. The student section now numbers 150, and includes those from 15 years to 25. The entire membership of the club numbers 900.

Anna Precilla Rischer was appointed chairman of resident composers at the board meeting last month and has outlined a plan whereby all those who compose may have their compositions filed and indexed. The club will meet this year at the Gamut Club on South Hope street, and in the musical library there will be kept the compositions of members. The list includes: Gertrude Ross, Cadman Homer Grun, Mrs. Henion Robinson, Ella Duffield, Vernon Spencer, Frank Colby, Sol Cohen, Mrs. Guy Bush, Charles Marsh, head of music at the Redlands University; Marion Ralston of Pasadena, Eleanor Remick Warren and Miss Risher.

The latest achievement of Mrs. Ross is the publication by an eastern magazine of her Cycle of Early Spanish-California songs. There are the first native folk songs of the State to be collected, harmonized and published.

Carlotta Comer Wagner is chairman of the program committee and has announced the first luncheon and program for October 11. Those who will appear include: Miss Rischer, Jessie Lucile Gibbs, soprano; Mrs. Edward Dborak, pianiste; a double quartet, singing compositions of club members, directed by J. P. Poulin; a one-act play, Harry Baxter, flutist, and a musical recitation of Thanatopsis by Conrad Nagel, accompanied by Dr. Frank Nagel.

The guests of honor at luncheon will be Dr. Nagel, Alexander Bevani, and the honorary members of the club.

New appointments by Mrs. Mabee include: Mrs. Carl Johnson, chairman of altruistic section with six assistants; E. H. Wiley, philanthropy; Annis Stockton Howell, student department, with Loraine Nobel as president.

Mrs. Mabee has begun the new year with much zeal and is enthusiastic in her endeavors to help the club to become a strong center of musical interest where those interested in the arts will love to come.

"We hope to get away from the single idea of programs and programs only," she said last week, "and encourage young people to love their own talents and be willing to give of themselves to make others happy. We want to get away from commercializing music," she said. With this end in view it was voted by the executive board to buy tickets for Lyric Club concerts, the Zoellner Quartet and the Philharmonic Orchestra concerts to give to those youthful members who otherwise could not afford to attend.

THE HAMILTON CLUB

Celebrating the anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States at their semi-monthly meeting, September 20, the Hamilton Club meeting in the suite of Mrs. H. V. R. Strong at The Alexandria, Wednesday, listened to illuminating and instructive papers, Mrs. C. A. Allen gave "The Vision of Washington" and Miss Nellie N. Strong spoke of "The Union that led to the Adoption of the Constitution." The latter paper was an outline of the subject as presented in "The Federalist" which is the fundamental text for study of this patriotic club.

Mrs. Strong is president of the club and for several years past the group of women have been studying the Constitution and present political situations as they relate to the old time patriotism of George Washington and Alexander Hamilton.

University Women Organize

Mrs. Frederick B. Close was chosen as president of the group of Michigan women who organized Monday after the luncheon given at the University Club in honor of Mrs. Evans Holbrook of Ann Arbor. Mrs. Louise C. Hill will serve as secretary of the "Michigan group."

Mrs. Holbrook, who is chairman of organization of the alumnae council, spoke eloquently of the need of the Michigan League building at Ann Arbor, and of what has already been accomplished in the million-dollar campaign. Mrs. Archibald Diack of Detroit, a Vassar alumnae, gave interesting details of how Vassar raised its $3,000,000 salary endowment fund.

Philanthropy and Civics Club

The Philanthropy and Civics Club met as usual in the Elks' clubhouse on Thursday for their all-day meeting, and spent the morning in sewing and quilting. Several attractive members of the club are making a most dainty pink and white quilt for which they are to be paid and the money is to go to aid the splendid work of the club. Everyone is hard at work and a great deal is being accomplished. Mrs. Nellie Van Graham, vice-president of the club and presiding officer at present, revealed the true spirit of the club when she said "This club can never die, because we have to keep on with our work!" It cannot help but flourish with a thought like this behind it.

The honor guests at the luncheon were Miss Butler, press chairman for the Co-operative Council of Better Films, who spoke briefly of its work, and Mrs. Edward Rankin Brainard, who asked the aid of the club in "putting over" the ball on Armistice Night for the benefit of disabled soldiers.

The program for the afternoon was an illustrated lecture by Mrs. Rollin P. Lane of the Passion Play at Oberammergau. Before the slides were shown Mrs. Lane artistically established the atmosphere of the play by an introduction describing the surrounding country. Her pictures were very clear and splendid, and altogether it was a rare treat she presented to the club.

Preceding the program, announcement was made postponing the Spanish fete, which was to have been given October 6 at the Bowler residence, on account of the death of Miss Phoebe Ara Bowler, a loved member of the club and a musician of note.

Next Thursday there is to be the monthly luncheon and food sale. The program, which is to be musical, will be furnished by Ruth Bressem Payette, soprano; Miss Jeanette Rogers, flutist, and Myra Belle Vickers, pianist. The hostesses for the afternoon will be Mmes. C. F. Stamps, W. W. Colwell, A. E. Elliott, F. B. Harris, Irene Hamblin, J. A. Harmon, Morris Stoloff and Miss Fannie Schwartz.

Conference of Chairmen

A conference has been arranged by Flora Belle Nelson, district chairman of legislation, for October 3 at 10:30 a.m. in room 616, Junior Orpheum Building, corner of Eighth and Hill streets. There will be a discussion of bills coming before the voters in November, and literature will be given out. Presidents are asked to call the attention of their chairmen to this meeting.

Los Angeles Women's Clubs

There will be a president's council on Tuesday, September 26, at the Highland Park Ebell Club, 151 East Avenue 57, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is to be a presentation of plans of work, and a discussion of measures to be submitted at the November election. A 60-cent luncheon will be served. For reservations phone Mrs. Miller, Garvanza 1649, or Mrs. Ritchie, Garvanza 1967.

Friday Morning Club

Heralding the opening of the club year in Los Angeles, there appeared this week the program of the Friday Morning Club, announcing the activities for the month of October. An outstanding feature is the program of the public affairs committee, with Mrs. Arthur C. Wier as chairman, scheduled for Tuesday, October 10. There is to bea discussion on "Wanted, New Politics," led by C. A. Dykstra, instructor in political science at the Southern Branch of the University of California.

The program for the luncheon on Tuesday, October 17, is in the hands of the literature committee, who have arranged for a discussion of the books of Joseph Hergsheimer. They will be reviewed by Mabel Wing Castle, and the discussion which follows will be led by Anna George De Mille. Joseph Hergsheimer is one of the most vital of modern authors, and his books vibrate with power.

The last luncheon of the month is under the direction of the drama committee, and Eugene O'Neil's play, "Anna Christie," is to be read by Auranie Rouveyrol. Mrs. Rouveyrol is the author of "Thorns of Arcady.' The play, "Anna Christie," is an interesting contrast to the "Hairy Ape," also written by Mr. O'Neil, which has appeared in New York.

The Tuesday luncheons will be held this year in the ladies' dining-room of the Los Angeles City Club, in the Chapman Building, and next door to the Morosco Theater, where the club meetings are to be held.

Tuesday Afternoon Club

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, has announced that the corner stone of the new clubhouse will be laid on charter day, November 14.

The bulletins will be out soon, and there are many splendid programs outlined for the club year. These are under the management of Mrs. Freeman Kelley as chairman of the program committee.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, hairman of the ways and means committee, has many ambitious undertakings planned. There is to be a Fashion show, September 26, at the Glendale Theater, and "Society Circus" some time in November at the Elks' Clubhouse, both benefits for the building fund.

The club is increasing in membership very rapidly, fifteen new members being proposed at the last board meeting, making a total of 700 members.

Council for Better Films

At a meeting of the Co-operative Council for Better Films Tuesday morning in the Ebell Club House, Mrs. P. L. Mix of the Woman's Club of the University of Southern California, who was a State delegate to the General Federation at Chatauqua, N. Y., told of her meeting with Will Hays, director-general of motion-pictures. Mr. Hays told Mrs. Mix that if all the women of the United States were as quick as the California women in sending messages and

How Good is a Guaranteed Watch

A guarantee is one of the most desirable things about a watch, and yet not in any sense a part of the watch. It isn't a gem in the case that you can appraise and negotiate, nor is it part of the movement that you can easily replace.

A guarantee, whether relating to a watch or to any other article of merchandise, is something that abides in the house that gives it—is only as good as that house is reliable—and will live out its term only if that house lives also.

A watch is almost a living being—the most serviceable thing you carry on your person—an intimate, life-long companion. It must be of an enduring beauty and dependable usefulness.

You want that positively guaranteed.

In selecting your watch here you have your preference from many of the world's finest makes, and in a wide variety of styles. Men's wrist watches—men's pocket watches for day and evening wear—ladies' gem-set pendant and bracelet watches—watches for boys and girls.

And you may interpret the solid bronze front of Brock and Company's store as eloquently symbolizing the dependability of Brock and Company's watches.

Visitors Welcome

BEAUTY!

There Is Magic In the Word!

And with a Clean, Clear Skin, free from Wrinkles, Blackheads and Big Pores one has Beauty

For more than 25 years I have made a study of the skin with the very best dermatologists in both this country and Europe, and find the care of the skin very different in the west from the east.

The "Key to Beauty" beauty aids are compounded to prevent the bad effect of Western climate and hard water on the skin and are recommended by leading physicians.

The latest and most effective aid to this complete line of toilet preparation is the Key to Beauty Lava Clay

so scarce has been this marvelous imported Clay, that only the privileged few who have been fortunate enough to have appointments at my salon for treatment (for the past 3 years) have been able to see the wonders performed by this Lava Clay Pack.

Anyone May Now Have This Lava

which is vastly different from the usual mud packs, being a delightful white powder put up in a convenient package and the directions most simple to follow. Men as well as women find a marked improvement after the first Lava Pack.

Key to Beauty toilet preparations are for sale at

Highland Park Ebell Club

[illegible] activities seems to be the fashion these days, and the Highland Park Ebell is to open formally with the annual breakfast on Tuesday, October 3, at 12 o'clock. Mrs. W. W. Slayden, [illegible] president, will act as toastmistress.

The club is rejoicing in the reelection for the fourth consecutive term of Mrs. W. R. Myers, the club's talented president, as chairman of birds and flowers in the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Echo Park Mothers' Club

The Echo Park Mothers' Club opened the year with a delightful luncheon on September 16. A clever little sketch, presented by officers and members of the club, followed. The program for the afternoon included several musical numbers by Miss Beatrice Fenner, pupil of Mrs. B. McNamara of the [illegible] School of Music, using the Braille system of raised notes for the blind; and a talk by Mrs. Kate B. Vaughn on Home Economics. The club hopes to enlarge its work during the year, and is turning its attention to a study of the home as a basis toward helping the community.

Sana Monica Bay Club

The Santa Monica Bay Woman's Club will open its club year October 2 with the annual club luncheon for members only. The programs for the month are exceptionally good, embracing music, drama, travel and civic affairs. The officers of the club for the current year are, Mrs. J. G. Braun, president; Mrs. Charles M. Waters and Mrs. Neil S. Duckles, vice-presidents; Mrs. I. N. Berkeley, recording secretary; Mrs. J. H. Jarvis, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank J. Wagner, federation secretary; Mrs. W. H. Cornett, treasurer, and Mrs. T. C. Lewis, assistant treasurer.

Beverly Hills Woman's Club

The beautiful gardens of Mrs. M. H. Whittier at Alpine Drive and Sunset boulevard lent themselves most wonderfully to the garden fete of the Beverly Hills Woman's Club yesterday. The affair was an artistic as well as financial success, the cleverly arranged booths adding to the enjoyment of the afternoon, as well as dancing and fortune telling.

Mrs. Charles Ray and Mrs. Norman Pabst conducted an auction booth which was the center of interest. Among the many other booths on the lawn were, ice cream, with Mrs. Consigny in charge, postoffice, with Mrs. Edmund Locke, candies, with Mrs J. H. Hill, and lemonade, Mrs. A. R. Williams.

Photoplaywrights

One of the most interesting meetings of the year was held by the Photoplaywrights, last Monday evenig in their clubroom on the eighth floor of the Brack-Shops. A lively discussion upon the merits of the photoplay "Manslaughter" took up a good part of the evening. The story as seen on the screen was written by Mrs. Dorothy Selover and read by Everett Frost. Criticism written by John A. Palz, and the review by Miss Marion Evans.

"Burning Timber," a splendid story by Elmer N. Wells, won the club's stamp of approval. Mr. Wells has won recognition as a writer of magazine stories and in the opinion of many will soon come to be known in the field of dramatic play writers. His work is especially well thought out and cleverly written. "Burning Timber" was read by Mrs. Katherine Little, a dramatic reader of ability and charm. The criticisms written by Mrs. Olivia Minster and George A. Posner, were read by Dorothy Selover and A. Broadhead. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Charlotte C. Hetzel, Mrs. Ida Jones ably acted as secretary pro tem. Mrs. Coral Priaulx, chairman of the membership committee, reported many applications for membership. Anyone interested in story, scenario or continuity writing is welcome to visit or join. Mrs. Priaulx can be reached at 1901 Vista Del Mar, Hollywood, or phone Holly 3456.

The Cosmos Club

Taking an apartment for the winter in the Rex Arms will afford Mrs. Mabel D. Greer, president of the Cosmos Club, added time to devote to her duties as executive head. She has closed her Wilshire Boulevard home. Allan Greer, her son, left recently for an eastern college course, while the daughter will remain with her mother, attending a private day school, in this city.

Mrs. Greer held a meeting of the program committe at her rooms on Thursday. Versatility will be dominant in the plans for the coming year.

On Tuesday at 2 p.m. a meeting of the executive board of officers will be held there also.

Women's Tax Study League

The meeting of the Women's Bond and Tax Study League, which will be held as usual at 2:45 p.m. Monday, at Roosevelt Hall in the Walker Auditorium Building, will be addressed by Wilbur Curtis, a well-known young attorney, connected with Carnahan & Clark. The meeting will probably take the form of a debate, but in any case, Mr. Curtis will be prepared to answer any questions on the $500,000,000 water and power act.

In spite of the heat, growing interest in the study of this act has been attested by the increased attendance at the meeings. All women interested in public measures are invited.

Gertrude Ross, California composer-pianist, and Mme. Anna Sprotte, well-beloved contralto, will open the club season at Ventura with a joint recital before the Ventura County Club League on October 17, when a program of Ross compositions will be featured. These two artists have appeared together for several seasons and the sympathy and understanding between them has made their concerts especially enjoyable.

Woman's City Club

The three soldier bills will receive the attention of the members of the Woman's City Club at the meeting to be held tomorrow in the Walker Theater at 1 p.m. E. V. Rosenkranz, first vice-commander of the State department of the American Legion, will speak favoring the bills and the opposing speakers will be announced tomorrow. The bills are: Soldier bonds, exemption of soldiers from taxation and a bill to permit the use of State funds as loans to aid veterans in acquisition of farms and homes.

American Music Optimists' Club

Formally opening the season for the American Music Optimists' Club, Mme. Anna Sprotte has arranged what promises to be a delightful and attractive program for Thursday, September 28, at 8 p.m. at the Ebell clubhouse on Figueroa street near Eighteenth.

The following well-known artists are to appear: Carl Gantvoort, baritone; David Sanders, violinist; Robert Staples, violinist; Joseph Bloor, viola, with Adelaide Trowbridge and Mr. MacFee, at the piano.

Dr. Rufus Von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, will discuss "Music in Education."

A reception will follow, the members of the board of directors assisting the president, Mrs. Cecil Frankel.

State Parent-Teacher Associations

Berkeley will be the place of meeting for the State board of directors of Parent-Teacher Associations and Congress of Mothers, the date being October 10.

Mrs. Harry J. Ewing, State president, announces that the next national convention will be held in Louisville, Ky., in April or June. Mrs Ewing told also at the last board meeting that ninety-five committees were represented and registered at the P.-T.A. booth at the State fair in Sacramento on P.-T.A. day.

The budget committee has allowed the State extension department, Mrs. J. B. Rose of Pasadena, chairman, $800 for extension work in California. Last year 15,000 members were gained making a total of 56,000.

Annual Bazar of the D.B.E.

At the regular meeting of the board of managers, Daughters of the British Empire in California, held Tuesday at the Broadway Tea Room, all chapters in the State were represented. Mrs. W. C. Pousette presided.

Plans for the annual bazaar were outlined. Mrs. Roderick Scott was appointed chairman of arrangements, with assistants to be chosen later. The ball and bazaar will be held at Hotel Alexandria Saturday, November 18.

Business Woman's Civic Club

Beginning its eleventh year, the Business Woman's Civic Club, of which Dr. Maud Wilde is president, resumed its meetings last week in the Realty Board Building. Tomorrow evening the program will be presented by Miss Estella Campbell, commissioner of public affairs, and will include a talk on "California Veteran Legislation" by Attorney Walter Tuller, member of the bond campaign committee of California. J. A. McNaughton, manager of stockyards development, will give the "Report of Prof. Christie's Survey of the Southwest and Stockyard Development." Telephone reservations to 52304 prior to noon on Mondays for the dinner served in the clubrooms at 6 p.m. preceding the program.

At the last meeting Miss Alice Quill, treasurer of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, made a report of the State convention, at which it was planned to further the vocational and placement bureaus of the clubs for the benefit of business and professional women. Mrs. Clarice MacQuarrie, president of the Business Women's Club of Hollywood, related in an interesting and snappy talk how her club is broadcasting, by means of many thousand letters sent all over the country, the merits of Hollywood and its citizens. The forthcoming booklet to be distributed in the same way by this group of business women will be another civic accomplishment of value to the credit of the club.

U.S.C. Women's Club

"Guest day" is the hospitable name for opening meeting of the University of Southern California Women's Clubs, as announced last week by the president, Mrs. Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, to be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the parlors at the university, when club members will welcome all women interested in university affairs. Mothers of students are expecially invited.

Dr. Von KleinSmid will deliver an address on the general outlook for the university for the coming year, the relation of the club to the university and their part in the $10,000,000 campaign. Mrs. Lena Leonard Fisher will outline the work of the ways and means committee as chairman. Miss Gladys Hill, soprano, will sing a group of songs. A reception will follow the program.

Council of Jewish Women

The members of the Council of Jewish Women attending the annual luncheon to be given at the Ambassador Hotel on October 12 have a rare treat in store for them. While the luncheon is usually an event of more than ordinary interest, this year an added glamor surrounds the occasion by the presentation of a jollification in the Ambassador Theater, immediately after luncheon.

Believing in the old adage, "Laugh and the world laughs with you," Mrs. Minnie Z. Jaffa has written and will personally supervise for the occasion a pantomimic absurdity entitled "Algy and the Five Million." This bit of hilarity will be produced in a Chinese manner and will include such well known persons in the cast of players as Mrs. Benjamin Goldman, Miss Marian Adler, Mrs. S. Elias, Milton Edwards, Martin DeHahn, Mrs. Minnie Z. Jaffa and others.

Mrs. M. C. Sloss of San Francisco, honorary vice-president of the National Council of Jewish Women, will be a guest and speaker at the luncheon.

Burbank Choral Club

The Burbank Choral Club, with its membership of sixty and a very pleasant and growing reputation in musical circles in neighboring cities, has started work for the coming season. This year it will be assisted by a five-piece orchestra, which will add to the pleasure of the programs. The club is now working on six numbers in preparation for the first concert, which will be given in October. Prof. Charles L. Munro is the director of the club.

Slauson Woman's Club

The Slauson Woman's Club will hold its first regular meeting of the year at the clubhouse, September 27, at 10 a.m.

A love shower will be held for Mrs. B. Numbers at that time, followed with a luncheon at noon.

Mrs. Viola Van Order, president, will conduct a business meeting at 2 p.m., followed by a question box on the needs of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Burbank Woman's Club

The Burbank Woman's Club has commenced the work of the new season by adopting plans for a clubhouse as presented by the building committee. The approximate cost of the building as planned will be $20,000, and now that a figure has been settled upon, a ways and means committee will be appointed to look after the business of finance. Hollow tile with plaster exterior and tile roof will be the construction materials. The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 550.

Mrs. J. A. Johnson, elected president just before the summer vacation, presided very efficiently at the first meeting of the season. From now until election the club will feature in every program a lecture and discussion on the various measures which are to come before the voters on November 7. Mrs. Margaret Yale, attorney and member of the legislative committee, directed the discussion at the first meeting.

MONEY IN ODD PLACES

Old-Time Gypsies Have Little Use for Savings Banks

Among their other queer ways, many gypsies have a magpie fashion of hiding money. Some of the younger men and women use savings banks, but the older members of the tribe still prefer to keep their wealth in quaint hiding places. A short time ago it came out in an English police court that a gypsy had lost $5000 from his basket in which his wares were carried. The money, largely in gold, had been kept tucked away under the small articles that its owner offered for sale. Doubtless he thought that no one would dream of looking for it in such a place. On the death of Mary Anne Doe, the gypsy queen, her relations prepared to burn her cart, according to the usual custom. It had been broken up, and was just about to be fired, when sharp eyes detected the gleam of gold between two lengths of board that were nailed together. No fewer than 400 sovereigns were found concealed in this strange hiding hole. Other queer "banks" are the linings of hats and coats, and hollow heels of boots, which are used for hoarding notes. Even the stuffing of the horses' harness has some time been used as a hiding place for gold and paper money.

Queen Among Women's Fall Shoe Styles Is the New

"Crown Sheba"

—IT DOMINATES!

—Perhaps because of the artistry with which it combines the popular cross strap effect with the new Colonial effect in the Crown panel—

—Perhaps because of the air of supremacy created by the fine materials and the consummate finish, the softness and flexibility of the real hand made slipper—

—Perhaps it is because of the neatly rounded toe and the elevated Spanish or Cuban heels, which have such a pleasing appearance with the longer skirts—

—More likely it is the combination of all of these features—

—Crown Sheba comes in many materials, including: black or brown satin, patent leather, patent with black brocade or gray suede, brown kid with brown suede, brown suede (both dark and otter), bronze kid, and silver. Some with Spanish heels, others with Cuban heels.

—Price, $15.00—in bronze red, $16.50—in silver brocade, $17.50.

PERSONAL—"ELITE PRODUCTIONS" wishes to announce the formation of its PERMANENT COMPANY for HIGH-CLASS PHOTOPLAY PRODUCTIONS.

We are desirous of coming in contact with well-educated, refined LADIES and GENTLEMEN, who have PERSONALITY and are SOCIALLY well accredited.

It is intended to make our entire organization and its cast "Exclusive" in every respect. Therefore, we are confining our efforts to such members of the SELECT, who have the ABILITY and AMBITION to become a LIVING FACTOR in the production of "BIGGER and BETTER MOTION PICTURES."

We give consideration ONLY to parties WITHOUT any previous screen experience. However, artistic inclination and the desire to CO-OPERATE to the FULLEST EXTENT, are absolutely essential.

PERSONALITY is the KEYNOTE of your SUCCESS. Your motto must be: "VENI, VIDI, VICI."

SCREEN TESTS are being conducted each week under EXPERT leadership. PROJECTIONS of such tests will be shown two days later.

If TESTS and DIRECTOR'S REPORT prove satisfactory, or if your SPECIFIC artistic leanings indicate that you can unfold your best qualities more successfully and advantageously in other departments of the industry, we are prepared to submit a very fair proposition.

You are assured of every COURTESY and CONSIDERATION in a STUDIO of refinement, with a staff of efficient men of integrity, whose reputation is a credit to them.

A PERSONAL CALL from YOU might prove of interest.

"ELITE PRODUCTIONS," at Brentwood Studios,
4811 Fountain Ave. 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

GET

WHAT YOU PAY FOR IN A USED CAR.

When you purchase a used car be sure that you get not only a motor, frame, paint, tires and the things that make up its physical appearance, but the real value that should go with it, its ability to perform as you expect it to.

That is what you pay for and what you should get in a used car. We will be pleased to have you call and inspect the cars we offer for sale, to assure yourself that you are paying only for what you receive.
